CURE PERIODS: If the home owner has a right to cure under the "Mobile Home Park Act", the landlord or management of a mobile home park cannot terminate a home owner's tenancy without first providing the home owner with a time period to cure the noncompliance. "Cure" refers to a home owner remedying, fixing, or otherwise correcting the situation or problem that caused the tenancy to be terminated pursuant to sections 38-12-202, 38-12-203, or 38-12-204, Colorado Revised Statutes.

COMMENCEMENT OF LEGAL ACTION TO TERMINATE THE TENANCY: After the last day of the notice period, a legal action may be commenced to take possession of the space leased by the home owner. In order to evict a home owner, the landlord or management of the mobile home park must prove:

- The landlord or management complied with the notice requirements of the "Mobile Home Park Act";

- The landlord or management provided the home owner with a statement of reasons for termination of the tenancy; and
- The reasons for termination of the tenancy are true and valid under the “Mobile Home Park Act”.

A home owner must appear in court to defend against an eviction action. If the court rules in favor of the landlord or management of the mobile home park, the home owner will have not less than 48 hours from the time of the ruling to remove the mobile home and to vacate the premises. If a tenancy is being terminated pursuant to section 38-12-203 (1) (f), Colorado Revised Statutes, the home owner shall have not less than 48 hours from the time of the ruling to remove the home and vacate the premises. In all other circumstances, if the home owner wishes to extend such period beyond 48 hours but not more than thirty days from the date of the ruling, the home owner shall prepay to the landlord an amount equal to any total amount declared by the court to be due to the landlord, as well as a pro rata share of rent for each day following the court’s ruling that the mobile home owner will remain on the premises. All prepayments shall be paid by certified check, by cashier’s check, or by wire transfer and shall be paid no later than 48 hours after the court ruling.

38-12-205. Termination prohibited. A tenancy or other estate at will or lease in a mobile home park may not be terminated solely for the purpose of making the home owner’s space in the park available for another mobile home or trailer coach.

38-12-206. Home owner meetings - assembly in common areas. Home owners shall have the right to meet and establish a homeowners’ association. Meetings of home owners or the homeowners’ association relating to mobile home living and affairs in their park common area, community hall, or recreation hall, if such a facility or similar facility exists, shall not be subject to prohibition by the park management if the common area or hall is reserved according to the park rules and such meetings are held at reasonable hours and when the facility is not otherwise in use; except that no such meetings shall be held in the streets or thoroughfares of the mobile home park.

38-12-207. Security deposits - legal process. (1) The owner of a mobile home park or his agents may charge a security deposit not greater than the amount of one month’s rent or two month’s rent for multiwide units.

(2) Legal process, other than eviction, shall be used for the collection of utility charges and incidental service charges other than those provided by the rental agreement.

38-12-208. Remedies. (1) (a) Upon granting judgment for possession by the landlord in a forcible entry and detainer action, the court shall immediately issue a writ of restitution which the landlord shall take to the sheriff. In addition, if a money judgment has been requested in the complaint and if service was accomplished by personal service, the court shall determine and enter judgment for any amounts due to the landlord and shall calculate a pro rata daily rent amount that must be paid for the home to remain in the park. The court may rely upon information provided by the landlord or the landlord's attorney when determining the pro rata daily rent amount to be paid by the home owner. Upon receipt of the writ of restitution, the sheriff shall serve notice in accordance with the requirements of section 13-40-108, C.R.S., to the home owner of the court's decision and entry of judgment.

(b) The notice of judgment shall state that, at a specified time not less than forty-eight hours from the entry of judgment if a tenancy is being terminated pursuant to section 38-12-203 (1) (f) and, in all other instances, not less than forty-eight hours from the entry of judgment, which may be extended to not more than thirty days after the entry of judgment if the home owner has prepaid by certified check, by cashier's check, or by wire transfer no later than forty-eight hours after the court ruling to the landlord an amount equal to any total amount declared by the court to be due to the landlord, as well as a pro rata share of rent for each day following the court's ruling that the mobile home owner will remain on the premises, the sheriff will return to serve a writ of restitution and superintend the peaceful and orderly removal of the mobile home under that order of court. The notice of judgment shall also advise the home owner to prepare the mobile home for removal from the premises by removing the skirting, disconnecting utilities, attaching tires, and otherwise making the mobile home safe and ready for highway travel.

(c) Should the home owner fail to have the mobile home safe and ready for physical removal from the premises or should inclement weather or other unforeseen problems occur at the time specified in the notice of judgment, the landlord and the sheriff may, by written agreement, extend the time for the execution of the writ of restitution to allow time for the landlord to arrange to have the necessary work done or to permit the sheriff's execution of the writ of restitution at a time when weather or other conditions will make removal less hazardous to the mobile home.

(d) If the mobile home is not removed from the landlord's land on behalf of the mobile home owner within the time permitted by the writ of restitution, then the landlord and the sheriff shall have the right to take possession of the mobile home for the purposes of removal and storage. The liability of the landlord and the sheriff in such event shall be limited to gross negligence or willful and wanton disregard of the property rights of the home owner. The responsibility to prevent freezing and to prevent wind and weather damage to the mobile home lies exclusively with those persons who have a property interest in the mobile home; except that the landlord may take appropriate action to prevent freezing, to prevent wind and weather damage, and to prevent damage caused by vandals.

(e) Reasonable removal and storage charges and the costs associated with preventing damage caused by wind, weather, or vandals can be paid by any party in interest. Those charges will run with the mobile home, and whoever ultimately claims the mobile home will owe that sum to the person who paid it.

(2) (a) Prior to the issuance of said writ of restitution, the court shall make a finding of fact based upon evidence or statements of counsel that there is or is not a security agreement on the mobile home being subjected to the writ of restitution. A written statement on the mobile home owner's application for tenancy with the landlord that there is no security agreement on the mobile home shall be prima facie evidence of the nonexistence of such security agreement.

(b) In those cases where the court finds there is a security agreement on the mobile home subject to the writ of restitution and where that holder of the security agreement can be identified with reasonable certainty, then, upon receipt of the writ of restitution, the plaintiff shall promptly inform the holder of such security agreement as to the location of the mobile home, the name of the landlord who obtained the writ of restitution, and the time when the mobile home will be subject to removal by the sheriff and the landlord.

(3) The remedies provided in part 1 of this article and article 40 of title 13, C.R.S., except as inconsistent with this part 2, shall be applicable to this part 2.

38-12-209. Entry fees prohibited - entry fee defined - security deposit - court costs.

(1) The owner of a mobile home park, or the agent of such owner, shall neither pay to nor receive from an owner or a seller of a mobile home an entry fee of any type as a condition of tenancy in a mobile home park.

(2) As used in this section, "entry fee" means any fee paid to or received from an owner of a mobile home park or his agent except for:

(a) Rent;

(b) A security deposit against actual damages to the premises or to secure rental payments, which deposit shall not be greater than the amount allowed under this part 2. Subsequent to July 1, 1979, security deposits will remain the property of the home owner, and they shall be deposited into a separate trust account by the landlord to be administered by the landlord as a private trustee. For the purpose of preserving the corpus, the landlord will not commingle the trust funds with other money, but he is permitted to keep the interest and profits thereon as his compensation for administering the trust account.

(c) Fees charged by any state, county, town, or city governmental agency;

(d) Utilities;

(e) Incidental reasonable charges for services actually performed by the mobile home park owner or his agent and agreed to in writing by the home owner.

(3) The trial judge may award court costs and attorney fees in any court action brought pursuant to any provision of this part 2 to the prevailing party upon finding that the prevailing party undertook the court action and legal representation for a legally sufficient reason and not for a dilatory or unfounded cause.

(4) The management or the resident may bring a civil action for violation of the rental agreement or any provision of this part 2 in the appropriate court of the county in which the park is located. Either party may recover actual damages or, the court may in its discretion award such equitable relief as it deems necessary, including the enjoining of either party from further violations.

38-12-210. Closed parks prohibited. (1) The owner of a mobile home park or his agent shall not require as a condition of tenancy in a mobile home park that the prospective home owner has purchased a mobile home from any particular seller or from any one of a particular group of sellers.

(2) Such owner or agent shall not give any special preference in renting to a prospective home owner who has purchased a mobile home from a particular seller.

(3) A seller of mobile homes shall not require as a condition of sale that a purchaser locate in a particular mobile home park or in any one of a particular group of mobile home parks.

(4) The owner or operator of a mobile home park shall treat all persons equally in renting or leasing available space. Notwithstanding the foregoing, nothing in this subsection (4) shall be construed to preclude owners and operators of mobile home parks from providing housing for older persons as defined in section 24-34-502 (7) (b), C.R.S.

38-12-211. Selling fees prohibited. The owner of a mobile home park or his agent shall not require payment of any type of selling fee or transfer fee by either a home owner in the park wishing to sell his mobile home to another party or by any party wishing to buy a mobile home from a home owner in the park as a condition of tenancy in a mobile home park for the prospective buyer. This section shall in no way prevent the owner of a mobile home park or his agent from applying the normal park standards to prospective buyers before granting or denying tenancy or from charging a reasonable selling fee or transfer fee for services actually performed and agreed to in writing by the home owner. Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the rent charged. The owner of a mobile home shall have the right to place a "for sale" sign on or in his mobile home. The size, placement, and character of such signs shall be subject to reasonable rules and regulations of the mobile home park.

38-12-212.3. Responsibilities of landlord - acts prohibited. (1) (a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, a landlord shall be responsible for and pay the cost of the maintenance and repair of:

(I) Any sewer lines, water lines, utility service lines, or related connections owned and provided by the landlord to the utility pedestal or pad space for a mobile home sited in the park; and

(II) Any accessory buildings or structures, including, but not limited to, sheds and carports, owned by the landlord and provided for the use of the residents; and

(b) Any landlord who fails to maintain or repair the items delineated in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall be responsible for and pay the cost of repairing any damage to a mobile home which results from such failure. The landlord shall ensure that all plumbing lines and connections owned and provided by the landlord to the utility pedestal or pad space for each mobile home in the mobile home park have plumbing that conformed to applicable law in effect at the time the plumbing was installed and that is maintained in good working order and running water and reasonable amounts of water at all times furnished to the utility pedestal or pad space and shall ensure that each pad space is connected to a sewage disposal system approved under applicable law; except that these conditions need not be met if:

(I) A mobile home is individually metered and the tenant occupying the mobile home fails to pay for water services;

(II) The local government in which the mobile home park is situated shuts off water service to a mobile home for any reason;

(III) Weather conditions present a likelihood that water pipes will freeze, water pipes to a mobile home are wrapped in heated pipe tape, and the utility company has shut off electrical service to a mobile home for any reason or the heat tape malfunctions for any reason; or

(IV) Running water is not available for any other reason outside the landlord's control.

(c) The landlord shall give a minimum of two days' notice to a mobile home owner if the water service will be disrupted for planned maintenance. The landlord shall attempt to give a reasonable amount of notice to home owners if water service is to be disrupted for any other reasons unless conditions are such that providing the notice would result in property damage, health, or safety concerns or when conditions otherwise require emergency repair.

(2) No landlord shall require a resident to assume the responsibilities outlined in subsection (1) of this section as a condition of tenancy in the mobile home park.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed as:

(a) Limiting the liability of a resident for the cost of repairing any damage caused by such resident to the landlord's property or other property located in the park; or

(b) Restricting a landlord or his agent or a property manager from requiring a resident to comply with reasonable rules and regulations or terms of the rental agreement and any covenants binding upon the landlord or resident, including covenants running with the land which pertain to the cleanliness of such resident's lot and routine lawn and yard maintenance, exclusive of major landscaping projects.

(2) If a landlord fails to timely remit utility moneys collected from residents as required by subsection (1) of this section, such utility may, after written demand therefor is served upon the landlord, require the landlord to deposit an amount equal to the average daily charge for the usage of such utility service for the preceding twelve months multiplied by the sum of ninety.

A landlord shall not evict or otherwise penalize a home owner for requesting a rental agreement for a fixed period.

(c) A landlord may, in the landlord's discretion, allow a lease for a fixed period of longer than one year. In such circumstances, the requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (4) shall not apply.

PART 3

LOCAL CONTROL OF RENTS PROHIBITED

38-12-301. Control of rents by counties and municipalities prohibited - legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly finds and declares that the imposition of rent control on private residential housing units is a matter of statewide concern; therefore, no county or municipality may enact any ordinance or resolution that would control rent on either private residential property or a private residential housing unit.

(2) For purposes of subsection (1) of this section, an ordinance or resolution that would control rent on either private residential property or a private residential housing unit shall not include:

(a) A voluntary agreement between a county or municipality and a permit applicant or property owner to limit rent on the property or unit or that is otherwise designed to provide affordable housing stock; or

(b) The placement on the title to the unit of a deed restriction that limits rent on the property or unit or that is otherwise designed to provide affordable housing stock pursuant to a voluntary agreement between a county or municipality and a permit applicant or property owner to place the deed restriction on the title.

(3) An agreement authorized pursuant to subsection (2) of this section may specify how long either private residential property or a private residential housing unit is subject to its terms, whether a subsequent property owner is subject to the agreement, and remedies for early termination agreed to by both the permit applicant or property owner and the county or municipality.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, a county or municipality may not deny an application for a development permit as defined in section 29-20-103 (1), C.R.S., because an applicant for such a permit declines to enter into an agreement to limit rent on either private residential property or a private residential housing unit.

(5) This section is not intended to impair the right of any state agency, county, or municipality to manage and control any property in which it has an interest through a housing authority or similar agency.

Source: L. 81: Entire part added, p. 1818, § 1, effective June 23. L. 2010: Entire section amended, (HB 10-1017), ch. 208, p. 906, § 1, effective September 1.

Editor's note: Section 2 of chapter 208, Session Laws of Colorado 2010, provides that the act amending this section applies to agreements entered into before, on, or after September 1, 2010.

ANNOTATION

Statute declaring rent control a matter of statewide importance preempted conflicting home rule town ordinance that mandated affordable housing mitigation. Lot Thirty-Four Venture, L.L.C. v. Town of Telluride, 976 P.2d 303 (Colo. App. 1998), aff'd, 3 P.3d 30 (Colo. 2000).

Ordinance constituted rent control because options it imposes for constructing new employee housing or deed restricting housing are within commonly understood meaning of rent control. Rent control falls within an area of mixed state and local concern. Ordinance clearly conflicts with state prohibition on rent control contained in this section. Accordingly, ordinance invalid and section does not violate home rule amendment to constitution. Town of Telluride v. Lot Thirty-Four Venture, 3 P.3d 30 (Colo. 2000).

2010 amendments to this section apply retroactively and such retroactive application does not violate the constitutional prohibition against retrospective legislation. The general assembly clearly indicated that it intended that the amendments apply to agreements entered into before they took effect, the amendments clarified rather than changed existing law, and the amendments were remedial in nature. Meyerstein v. City of Aspen, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

38-12-302. Definitions. As used in this part 3, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Municipality" means a city or town and, in addition, means a city or town incorporated prior to July 3, 1877, whether or not reorganized, and any city, town, or city and county which has chosen to adopt a home rule charter pursuant to the provisions of article XX of the state constitution.

VICTIMS OF DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

38-12-401. Definitions. As used in this part 4, unless the context otherwise requires:

(2) On or after July 1, 1987, a holder may not deduct from the amount of any instrument subject to this section any service fee or other charge imposed solely by reason of the failure to present the instrument for payment unless there is a valid and enforceable written contract between the holder and the owner of the instrument pursuant to which the holder may impose a charge and the holder regularly imposes such charges and does not regularly reverse or otherwise cancel them.

38-13-107. Bank deposits and funds in financial organizations. (1) Any demand, savings, or matured time deposit with a banking or financial organization, including a deposit that is automatically renewable, and any funds paid toward the purchase of a share, a mutual investment certificate, or any other interest in a banking or financial organization is presumed abandoned unless the owner, within five years, has:

(a) In the case of a deposit, increased or decreased its amount or presented the passbook or other similar evidence of the deposit for the crediting of interest;

(b) Communicated in writing with the banking or financial organization concerning the property;

(c) Otherwise indicated an interest in the property as evidenced by a memorandum or other record on file prepared by an employee of the banking or financial organization;

(d) Owned other property to which paragraph (a), (b), or (c) of this subsection (1) applies and unless the banking or financial organization communicates in writing with the owner with regard to the property that would otherwise be presumed abandoned under this subsection (1) at the address to which communications regarding the other property regularly are sent; or

(I) Communicated in writing with the banking or financial organization; or

(II) Otherwise indicated an interest as evidenced by a memorandum or other record on file prepared by an employee of the banking or financial organization and unless the banking or financial organization communicates in writing with the owner with regard to the property that would otherwise be abandoned under this subsection (1) at the address to which communications regarding the other relationship regularly are sent.

(2) For purposes of subsection (1) of this section, "property" includes interest and dividends.

(3) On or after July 1, 1987, a holder may not impose, with respect to property described in subsection (1) of this section, any service fee or other charge due solely to dormancy or inactivity or cease payment of interest unless:

(a) There is an enforceable written contract between the holder and the owner of the property pursuant to which the holder may impose such fee or charge or cease payment of interest;

(b) For property in excess of two dollars, the holder, no more than three months before the initial imposition of those charges or cessation of interest, has given written notice to the owner of the amount of those fees or charges at the last-known address of the owner stating that those fees or charges will be imposed or that interest will cease, but the notice provided in this section need not be given with respect to fees or charges imposed or interest ceased before July 1, 1987; and

(c) The holder regularly imposes such fees or charges or ceases payment of interest and does not regularly reverse or otherwise cancel them or retroactively credit interest with respect to the property.

(4) Any property described in subsection (1) of this section that is automatically renewable is matured for purposes of subsection (1) of this section upon the expiration of its initial time period, but, in the case of any renewal to which the owner consents at or about the time of renewal by communicating in writing with the banking or financial organization or otherwise indicating consent as evidenced by a memorandum or other record on file prepared by an employee of the organization, the property is matured upon the expiration of the last time period for which consent was given. If, at the time provided for delivery in section 38-13-112, a penalty or forfeiture in the payment of interest would result from the delivery of the property, the time for delivery is extended until the time when no penalty or forfeiture would result.

38-13-107.3. Refunds held by business associations. Except to the extent otherwise ordered by the court or administrative agency, any sum that a business association has been ordered to refund by a court or administrative agency which has remained unclaimed by the owner for more than one year after it became payable in accordance with the final determination or order providing for the refund, whether or not the final determination or order requires any person entitled to a refund to make a claim for it, is presumed abandoned.

38-13-107.5. Stock and other intangible interests in business associations. (1) Except as provided in subsections (2) and (5) of this section, stock or other intangible ownership interest in a business association, the existence of which is evidenced by records available to the association, is presumed abandoned, and, with respect to the interest, the association is the holder if a dividend, distribution, or other sum payable as a result of the interest has remained unclaimed by the owner for five years and the owner within five years has not:

(a) Communicated in writing with the association regarding the interest or a dividend, distribution, or other sum payable as a result of the interest; or

(b) Otherwise communicated with the association regarding the interest or a dividend, distribution, or other sum payable as a result of the interest, as evidenced by a memorandum or other record on file with the association prepared by an employee of the association.

(2) At the expiration of a five-year period following the failure of the owner to claim a dividend, distribution, or other sum payable to the owner as a result of the interest, the interest is not presumed abandoned unless there have been at least five dividends, distributions, or other sums paid during the period, none of which has been claimed by such owner. If five dividends, distributions, or other sums are paid during the five-year period, the period leading to a presumption of abandonment commences on the date payment of the first such unclaimed dividend, distribution, or other sum became due and payable. If five dividends, distributions, or other sums are not paid during the presumptive period, the period continues to run until there have been five dividends, distributions, or other sums that have not been claimed by the owner.

(3) The running of the five-year period of abandonment ceases immediately upon the occurrence of a communication pursuant to subsection (1) of this section. If any future dividend, distribution, or other sum payable to the owner as a result of the interest is subsequently not claimed by such owner, a new period of abandonment commences and relates back to the time a subsequent dividend, distribution, or other sum became due and payable.

(4) At the time an interest is presumed abandoned under this section, any dividend, distribution, or other sum then held for or owing to the owner as a result of the interest, and not previously presumed abandoned, is presumed abandoned.

(5) This article does not apply to:

(a) Any stock or other intangible ownership interest enrolled in a plan that provides for the automatic reinvestment of dividends, distributions, or other sums payable as a result of the interest unless the records available to the administrator of the plan show, with respect to any intangible ownership interest not enrolled in the reinvestment plan, that the owner has not within five years communicated in the manner described in subsection (1) of this section; or

(2) Funds in an individual retirement account or a retirement plan for self-employed individuals or similar account or plan established pursuant to the internal revenue laws of the United States are not payable or distributable within the meaning of subsection (1) of this section unless, under the terms of the account or plan, distribution of all or part of the funds would then be mandatory.

(3) For the purpose of this section, a person who holds property as an agent for a business association is deemed to hold the property in a fiduciary capacity for that business association alone, unless the agreement between him and the business association provides otherwise.

(4) For the purposes of this article, a person who is deemed to hold property in a fiduciary capacity for a business association alone is the holder of the property only insofar as the interest of the business association in the property is concerned, and the business association is the holder of the property insofar as the interest of any other person in the property is concerned.

38-13-109.5. Funds owing under life insurance policies. (1) Funds held or owing under any life or endowment insurance policy or annuity contract that has matured or terminated are presumed abandoned if unclaimed for more than five years after the funds became due and payable as established from the records of the insurance company holding or owing the funds; except that property described in paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of this section is presumed abandoned if unclaimed for more than two years.

(2) If a person other than the insured or annuitant is entitled to the funds and an address of the person is not known to the company or it is not definite and certain from the records of the company who is entitled to the funds, it is presumed that the last-known address of the person entitled to the funds is the same as the last-known address of the insured or annuitant according to the records of the company.

(3) For purposes of this article, a life or endowment insurance policy or annuity contract not matured by actual proof of the death of the insured or annuitant according to the records of the company is matured and the proceeds due and payable if:

(4) For purposes of this article, the application of an automatic premium loan provision or other nonforfeiture provision contained in an insurance policy does not prevent a policy from being matured or terminated under subsection (1) of this section if the insured has died or the insured or the beneficiary of the policy otherwise has become entitled to the proceeds thereof before the depletion of the cash surrender value of a policy by the application of such provisions.

(5) If the laws of this state or the terms of the life insurance policy require the company to give notice to the insured or owner that an automatic premium loan provision or other nonforfeiture provision has been exercised, and the notice given to an insured or owner whose last-known address according to the records of the company is in this state is undeliverable, the company shall make a reasonable search to ascertain the policyholder's correct address to which the notice must be mailed.

(6) Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, if the company learns of the death of the insured or annuitant and the beneficiary has not communicated with the insurer within four months after such death, the company shall take reasonable steps to pay the proceeds to the beneficiary.

(1) (a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2) of this section, a person who is required to file a report under section 38-13-110 shall pay or deliver to the administrator all abandoned property required to be reported at the time such report is filed.

(b) (I) A holder may voluntarily, prior to payment or delivery of said abandoned property, deduct and retain two percent of the value of the property or twenty-five dollars whichever is more per item.

(II) Holders that are banking or financial organizations and holders of dividends, royalties, or other items that are backed by an underlying share, interest, insurance policy, or annuity contract may voluntarily, prior to payment or delivery of said abandoned property, deduct and retain two percent of the value of the property or twenty-five dollars, whichever is more per item; except that, if the abandoned property is a demand, savings, or

(c) A holder may also deduct any sum due and owing from the value of the property prior to delivery.

(2) (a) If the owner establishes the right to receive the abandoned property to the satisfaction of the holder before the property has been delivered or if it appears that for some other reason the presumption of abandonment is erroneous, the holder need not pay or deliver the property to the administrator, and the property will no longer be presumed abandoned. In that case, the holder shall file with the administrator a written explanation of the proof of claim or of the error in the presumption of abandonment.

(b) The provisions of subsection (1) of this section shall apply to any payment or delivery of abandoned property by the public employees' retirement association if such property was included in a report required to be filed by the public employees' retirement association on or before November 1, 1993, or on or before November 1 of any succeeding year.

38-13-113. Custody by state - holder relieved from liability - waiver of rights by owner - reimbursement of holder paying claim - reclaiming for owner - defense of holder - payment of safe deposit box or repository charges. (1) (a) Upon the payment or delivery of property to the administrator, the state assumes custody and responsibility for the safekeeping of the property. A person who pays or delivers property to the administrator in good faith is relieved of all liability to the extent of the value of the property paid or delivered for any claim then existing or which thereafter may arise or be made in respect to the property.

(b) Any person appearing to be an owner of property paid or delivered to the administrator pursuant to this article may notify the administrator on a form prescribed by the administrator that the person waives the right to claim the property. Upon receipt of such notice, the administrator shall transfer the property to the CoverColorado cash fund created in section 10-8-530 (2), C.R.S. After the property is transferred to the fund, the state shall no longer be responsible for the safekeeping of the property and shall be relieved of all liability to the extent of the value of the property for any claim that may arise or be made with respect to the property.

(2) A holder who has paid money to the administrator pursuant to this article may make payment to any person appearing to the holder to be entitled to payment, and, upon filing proof of payment and proof that the payee was entitled thereto, the administrator shall promptly reimburse the holder for the payment without imposing any fee or other charge. If reimbursement is sought for a payment made on a negotiable instrument, including a money order, the holder must be reimbursed under this subsection (2) upon filing proof that the instrument was duly presented and that payment was made to a person who appeared to the holder to be entitled to payment. The holder must be reimbursed for payment made under this subsection (2) even if the payment was made to a person whose claim was barred under section 38-13-122 (1).

(3) A holder who has delivered property other than money to the administrator pursuant to this article may reclaim the property if still in the possession of the administrator, without paying any fee or other charge, upon filing proof that the owner has claimed the property from the holder.

(4) The administrator may accept the holder's affidavit as sufficient proof of the facts that entitle the holder to recover money and property under this section.

(5) If the holder pays or delivers property to the administrator in good faith and thereafter another person claims the property from the holder or another state claims the money or property under its laws relating to escheat or abandoned or unclaimed property, the administrator, upon written notice of the claim, shall defend the holder against the claim and indemnify the holder against any liability on the claim.

(6) For the purposes of this section, "good faith" means that:

(a) Payment or delivery was made in a reasonable attempt to comply with this article;

(b) The person delivering the property was not a fiduciary then in breach of trust in respect to the property and had a reasonable basis for believing, based on the facts then known to him, that the property was abandoned for the purposes of this article; and

(c) There is no showing that the records pursuant to which the delivery was made did not meet reasonable commercial standards of practice in the industry.

(7) Property removed from a safe deposit box or other safekeeping repository is received by the administrator subject to the holder's right under this subsection (7) to be reimbursed for the actual cost of the opening of such repository and subject to any valid lien or contract providing for the holder to be reimbursed for unpaid rent or storage charges. The administrator shall reimburse or pay the holder for such costs out of the proceeds remaining after deducting the administrator's selling cost.

38-13-115. Public sale of abandoned property. (1) Except as provided in subsections (2), (3), and (5) of this section, the administrator, within three years after the receipt of abandoned property, shall sell it to the highest bidder at public sale in whatever city in the state affords in the judgment of the administrator the most favorable market for the property involved. The administrator may decline the highest bid and reoffer the property for sale if in the judgment of the administrator the bid is insufficient. If in the judgment of the administrator the probable cost of sale exceeds the value of the property, it need not be offered for sale. Any sale held under this section must be preceded by a single publication of notice, at least three weeks in advance of sale, in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the property is to be sold.

(2) Securities listed on an established stock exchange must be sold at prices prevailing on the exchange at the time of sale. Other securities may be sold over the counter at prices prevailing at the time of sale or by any other method the administrator considers advisable.

(3) Unless the administrator considers it to be in the best interest of the state to do otherwise, all securities delivered to the administrator shall be held for at least one year before he or she may sell them. On and after July 1, 2004, the administrator shall take all reasonable action to sell the securities delivered to him or her as provided in this section. All proceeds collected from the sale of securities pursuant to this section shall be deposited in the unclaimed property tourism promotion trust fund created in section 38-13-116.7.

(4) The purchaser of property at any sale conducted by the administrator pursuant to this article takes the property free of all claims of the owner or previous holder thereof and of all persons claiming through or under them. The administrator shall execute all documents necessary to complete the transfer of ownership.

(5) The administrator shall retain or loan to the Colorado state veterans center at Homelake or to an alternate state facility selected by the administrator that has appropriate and secure space suitable for public display any military medal or decoration or other military award or citation that is delivered to the administrator pursuant to section 38-13-113 until the owner of the property claims the property in accordance with section 38-13-117 (1) and the administrator allows the claim pursuant to section 38-13-117 (3).

38-13-117. Filing of claim with administrator. (1) A person, excluding another state, this state, or a governmental agency of this state, claiming an interest in any property paid or delivered to the administrator may file with him or her a claim on a form prescribed by the administrator and verified by the claimant. If the value of the property claimed is one hundred dollars or less, the administrator may waive the requirement that the claimant verify the claim. The administrator shall require the claimant to submit his or her social security number or federal employer identification number, whichever is applicable. The social security number or federal employer identification number shall not become part of the public records of the administrator.

(2) The administrator shall consider each claim and give written notice within ninety days after the filing of the claim to the claimant if the claim is denied in whole or in part. The notice may be given by mailing it to the last-known address, if any, stated in the claim as the address to which such notice is to be sent. If no address for notice is stated in the claim, the notice may be mailed to the last-known address, if any, of the claimant as stated in the claim. No notice of denial need be given if the claim fails to state either the last-known address to which such notice is to be sent or the current address of the claimant.

(3) (a) Subject to the provisions of sections 38-13-117.3, 38-13-117.5, and 38-13-117.7, if a claim is allowed, the administrator shall pay over or deliver to the claimant the property or the amount the administrator actually received or the net proceeds if it has been sold by the administrator, together with any additional amount required by section 38-13-114. If the property claimed was interest-bearing to the owner on the date of surrender by the holder, the administrator also shall pay simple interest at a rate of six percent a year or any lesser rate the property earned while in the possession of the holder. Such interest begins to accrue when the property is delivered to the administrator and ceases on the expiration of five years after delivery or the date on which payment is made to the owner. No interest on interest-bearing property is payable for any period before July 1, 1987.

(b) The administrator shall pay or deliver to the public employees' retirement association the amount necessary to purchase service credit pursuant to section 24-51-503, C.R.S., if the owner of an account left inactive or an unclaimed member refund described in section 38-13-108.5 (1) requests restoration of service credit which was forfeited when funds were transferred to the abandoned property fund.

(4) Any holder who pays the owner for property that has been delivered to the state and which, if claimed from the administrator, would be subject to subsection (3) of this section shall add interest as provided in subsection (3) of this section. The added interest must be repaid to the holder by the administrator in the same manner as the principal is repaid.

38-13-117.3. Claims offset for child support. (1) Before paying a claim in an amount exceeding six hundred dollars pursuant to section 38-13-117 (3), the administrator shall offset against the amount of the claim the claimant's obligations to pay current child support, child support debt, retroactive child support, child support arrearages, child support costs, or child support when combined with maintenance. The administrator may enter into a memorandum of understanding with the department of human services to implement this section and section 26-13-118.5, C.R.S.

(2) (a) If a claimant owes current child support, child support debt, retroactive child support, child support arrearages, child support costs, or child support when combined with maintenance, and also owes restitution or fines, fees, costs, or surcharges as described in section 38-13-117.5 or delinquent state taxes, penalties, or interest as described in section 38-13-117.7, or both, the unclaimed property offset against the current child support, child support debt, retroactive child support, child support arrearages, child support costs, or child support when combined with maintenance shall take priority and be applied first.

(b) If a claimant owes both restitution or fines, fees, costs, or surcharges and delinquent state taxes, penalties, or interest, after payment in accordance with paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), if applicable, any remaining unclaimed property shall be applied first toward the payment of the outstanding restitution or fines, fees, costs, or surcharges and processed in accordance with section 38-13-117.5 and then applied to the payment of delinquent state taxes, penalties, or interest and processed in accordance with section 38-13-117.7.

(c) If a claimant owes restitution or fines, fees, costs, or surcharges or delinquent state taxes, penalties, or interest, after payment in accordance with paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), if applicable, any remaining unclaimed property shall be applied toward the payment of the outstanding restitution or fines, fees, costs, or surcharges and processed in accordance with section 38-13-117.5 or toward the delinquent state taxes, penalties, or interest and processed in accordance with section 38-13-117.7, whichever is applicable.

38-13-117.5. Claims offset for judicial restitution, fines, fees, costs, or surcharges.

(1) Before paying a claim in an amount exceeding six hundred dollars pursuant to section 38-13-117 (3), the administrator shall offset against the amount of the claim the claimant's outstanding court fines, fees, costs, or surcharges or restitution. The administrator may enter into a memorandum of understanding with the judicial department to implement this section and sections 16-11-101.6 (6) and 16-18.5-106.7, C.R.S.

(2) If a claimant owes fines, fees, costs, or surcharges or restitution as described in this section and also owes current child support, child support debt, retroactive child support, child support arrearages, child support costs, or child support when combined with maintenance as described in section 38-13-117.3 or delinquent state taxes, penalties, or interest as described in section 38-13-117.7, or both, the unclaimed property offsets shall be applied in accordance with the priority set forth in section 38-13-117.3 (2).

38-13-117.7. Claims offset for state tax delinquencies. (1) Before paying a claim in an amount exceeding six hundred dollars pursuant to section 38-13-117 (3), the administrator shall compare the social security number or federal employer identification number of the claimant with the numbers certified by the department of revenue for the purpose of the unclaimed property offset as provided in section 39-21-121, C.R.S.

(2) If the social security number or federal employer identification number of a claimant appears among the numbers certified by the department of revenue pursuant to section 39-21-121, C.R.S., the administrator shall suspend the payment of the claim until the requirements of section 39-21-121, C.R.S., are met. If, after consulting with the department, the administrator determines that the claimant is obligated to pay the amounts certified under section 39-21-121, C.R.S., the administrator shall withhold from the amount of the unclaimed property paid to the claimant an amount equal to the amount of delinquent state taxes, penalties, or interest. If the amount of the unclaimed property is less than or equal to the amount of delinquent state taxes, penalties, or interest, the administrator shall withhold the entire amount of the unclaimed property. The administrator shall transmit any unclaimed property so withheld to the department for disbursement as directed in section 39-21-121, C.R.S.

(3) If a claimant owes delinquent state taxes, penalties, or interest as described in this section and also owes current child support, child support debt, retroactive child support, child support arrearages, child support costs, or child support when combined with maintenance as described in section 38-13-117.3 or restitution or fines, fees, costs, or surcharges as described in section 38-13-117.5, or both, the unclaimed property offset shall be applied in accordance with the priority set forth in section 38-13-117.3 (2).

38-13-118. Claim of another state to recover property - procedure. (1) At any time after property has been paid or delivered to the administrator under this article, another state may recover the property if:

(a) The property was subjected to custody by this state because the records of the holder did not reflect the last-known address of the apparent owner when the property was presumed abandoned under this article and the other state establishes that the last-known address of the apparent owner or other person entitled to the property was in that state and that, under the laws of that state, the property escheated to or was subject to a claim of abandonment by that state;

(b) The last-known address of the apparent owner or other person entitled to the property, as reflected by the records of the holder, is in the other state and, under the laws of that state, the property has escheated to or become subject to a claim of abandonment by that state;

(c) The records of the holder were erroneous in that they did not accurately reflect the actual owner of the property and the last-known address of the actual owner is in the other state and, under the laws of that state, the property escheated to or was subject to a claim of abandonment by that state;

(d) The property was subjected to custody by this state under section 38-13-104 (1) (f) and, under the laws of the state of domicile of the holder, the property has escheated to or become subject to a claim of abandonment by that state; or

(e) The property is the sum payable on a money order or other similar instrument that was subjected to custody by this state under section 38-13-105 and the instrument was purchased in the other state and, under the laws of that state, the property escheated to or became subject to a claim of abandonment by that state.

(2) The claim of another state to recover escheated or abandoned property must be presented in a form prescribed by the administrator, who shall decide the claim within ninety days after it is presented. The administrator shall allow the claim if he determines that the other state is entitled to the abandoned property under subsection (1) of this section.

(3) The administrator shall require a state, before recovering property under this section, to agree to indemnify this state and its officers and employees against any liability on a claim for the property.

The action must be brought within ninety days after the decision of the administrator or within one hundred eighty days after the filing of the claim if he has failed to act on it. If the aggrieved person establishes the claim in an action against the administrator, he shall be entitled to an award of costs and reasonable attorney fees.

38-13-120. Election to take payment or delivery. (1) The administrator may decline to receive any property reported under this article that the administrator considers to have a value less than the expense of giving notice and of sale. If the administrator elects not to receive custody of the property, the holder shall be notified within one hundred twenty days after filing the report required under section 38-13-110.

(2) A holder, with the written consent of the administrator and upon conditions and terms prescribed by him, may report and deliver property before the property is presumed abandoned. Property delivered under this subsection (2) must be held by the administrator and is not presumed abandoned until such time as it otherwise would be presumed abandoned under this article.

38-13-121. Destruction or disposition of property having insubstantial commercial value - immunity from liability. If the administrator determines after investigation that any property delivered under this article has insubstantial commercial value, the administrator may destroy or otherwise dispose of the property at any time. No action or proceeding may be maintained against the state or any officer or against the holder for or on account of any action taken by the administrator pursuant to this section.

38-13-122. Periods of limitation. (1) The expiration, before or after July 1, 1987, of any period of time specified by contract, statute, or court order, during which a claim for money or property can be made or during which an action or proceeding may be commenced or enforced to obtain payment of a claim for money or to recover property, does not prevent the money or property from being presumed abandoned or affect any duty to file a report or to pay or deliver abandoned property to the administrator as required by this article.

(2) No action or proceeding may be commenced by the administrator with respect to any duty of a holder under this article more than five years after the duty arose.

38-13-123. Requests for reports and examination of records. (1) The administrator may require any person who has not filed a report to file one stating whether or not the person is holding any unclaimed property reportable or deliverable under this article.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (7) of this section, the administrator, at reasonable times and upon reasonable notice, may examine the records of any person to determine whether the person has complied with the provisions of this article. The administrator may conduct the examination even if the person believes he is not in possession of any property reportable or deliverable under this article.

(3) If a person is treated under section 38-13-107 as the holder of the property only insofar as the interest of the business association in the property is concerned, the administrator, pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, may examine the records of the person if the administrator has given the notice required by subsection (2) of this section to both the person and the business association at least ninety days before the examination.

(4) If an examination of the records of a person results in the disclosure of property reportable and deliverable under this article, the administrator may assess the cost of the examination against the holder at the rate of fifty dollars a day for each examiner, but in no case may the charges exceed the value of the property found to be reportable and deliverable. The cost of examination made pursuant to subsection (3) of this section may be imposed only against the banking or financial organization.

(5) On or after July 1, 1987, if a holder fails to maintain records in existence on or after July 1, 1987, that are required by section 38-13-124 and, in addition, if the records of the holder available for the periods subject to this article are insufficient to permit the preparation of a report pursuant to section 38-13-110, then the administrator may require the holder to report and pay such amounts as may reasonably be estimated from any available records.

(6) Repealed.

(7) Any examination under this section of the records of a business association with annual gross receipts of less than five hundred thousand dollars arising from a report filed under this article by such an association shall be conducted by the administrator within three years from the date of filing such report.

38-13-124. Retention of records. (1) Every holder required to file a report under section 38-13-110, as to any property for which it has obtained the last-known address of the owner, shall maintain a record of the name and last-known address of the owner for five years after the property becomes reportable, except to the extent that a shorter time is provided in subsection (2) of this section or by rule of the administrator.

(2) Any banking or financial organization that sells in this state its money orders or other similar written instruments, other than third-party bank checks on which the banking or financial organization is directly liable, or that provides such instruments to others for sale in this state, shall maintain a record of those instruments while they remain outstanding, indicating the state and date of issue for three years after the date the property is reportable.

38-13-126. Interstate agreements and cooperation - joint and reciprocal actions with other states. (1) The administrator may enter into agreements with other states to exchange information needed to enable this or another state to audit or otherwise determine unclaimed property that it or another state may be entitled to subject to a claim of custody. The administrator by rule may require the reporting of information needed to enable compliance with agreements made pursuant to this section and prescribe the form of such reporting.

(2) To avoid conflicts between the administrator's procedures and the procedures of administrators in other jurisdictions that enact unclaimed property legislation, the administrator, so far as is consistent with the purposes, policies, and provisions of this article, before adopting, amending, or repealing rules, shall advise and consult with administrators in other jurisdictions that enact such legislation and take into consideration the rules of administrators in those jurisdictions.

(3) The administrator may join with other states to seek enforcement of this article against any person who is or may be holding property reportable under this article.

(4) At the request of another state, the attorney general of this state may bring an action in the name of the administrator of the other state in any court of competent jurisdiction to enforce the unclaimed property laws of the other state against a holder in this state of property subject to escheat or a claim of abandonment by the other state if the other state has agreed to pay expenses incurred by the attorney general in bringing the action.

(5) The administrator may request that the attorney general of another state or any other person bring an action in the name of the administrator in the other state. This state shall pay all expenses including attorney fees in any action under this subsection (5). Any expenses paid pursuant to this subsection (5) may not be deducted from the amount that is subject to the claim by the owner under this article.

38-13-127. Interest and penalties. (1) A person who fails to pay or deliver property within the time prescribed by this article shall pay to the administrator interest at the annual rate of eighteen percent on the property or value thereof from the date the property should have been paid or delivered.

(2) A person who willfully fails to render any report or perform other duties required under this article shall pay a civil penalty of one hundred dollars for each day the report is withheld or the duty is not performed, but not more than five thousand dollars.

(3) A person who willfully fails to pay or deliver property to the administrator as required under this article shall pay a civil penalty equal to twenty-five percent of the value of the property that should have been paid or delivered.

(4) A person who willfully refuses after written demand by the administrator to pay or deliver property to the administrator as required under this article shall pay a civil penalty, in addition to any other civil penalty provided by this section, of three times the value of any property held by said person.

(5) (a) Any business association with annual gross receipts of less than five hundred thousand dollars that, in good faith compliance, acts within the scope of the duties and responsibilities of this article shall be immune from the penalties and interest of this section for failure to pay or deliver property or to render any report required by this article. For purposes of this article, there shall be a presumption of good faith compliance when such a business association has filed the initial or annual report required by this article and a principal of such business association has attested, as evidenced by such principal's signature on such report, that such business association has made reasonable efforts to determine if such business holds any property presumed abandoned under this article. The presumption of good faith compliance may be rebutted by the administrator upon a showing by a preponderance of evidence that such a business association's actions were knowingly false, deliberately misleading, or made for a malicious purpose.

(b) The administrator shall explain what constitutes good faith compliance with regard to the reporting and payment or delivery requirements of this article in any document, manual, or request distributed by the administrator to such a business association in connection with this article.

(2) Any agreement to pay compensation to recover or assist in the recovery of property reported under section 38-13-110 entered into more than twenty-four months, but less than thirty-six months, after the date payment or delivery is made under section 38-13-112 is enforceable if:

(5) The restrictions on agreements to pay compensation to recover or assist in the recovery of property set forth in this section shall not apply to any agreement to pay compensation to recover or assist in the recovery of property reported under section 38-13-110 if such property has a total value of less than one thousand dollars.

38-14-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the growth and maintenance of museum collections, both public and private, is a matter of general public interest to the citizens of Colorado. Because museums of all kinds depend upon loans of various articles of property to augment their collections and because uncertainty regarding title to and responsibility for loaned property is a hindrance to museums in their efforts to maintain, repair, and dispose of property in their possession, it is the purpose of this article to fairly and reasonably allocate responsibilities and to provide rules for the determination of title and financial responsibilities in certain cases.

(3) "Owner" and "lender" mean the actual owner of loaned property or his duly authorized agent, trustee, conservator, custodian, heir, or fiduciary, whether an individual, association, trust, partnership, corporation, or any similar organization capable of having an interest in property.

(4) "Property" means all tangible objects, animate and inanimate, collected or maintained by a museum for educational, historic, or exhibition purposes.

38-20-102. Lien for care and feeding of pet animals - landlord. (1) (a) Any feeder, veterinarian, or other person to whom pet animals are entrusted for the purpose of feeding, keeping, boarding, or medical care shall have a lien, which shall be superior to all other liens, upon such pet animals for the amount that may be due for such feeding, keeping, boarding, or medical care and for all costs incurred in enforcing such lien.

(b) If the lienholder complies with the provisions of section 38-20-103 and the pet animals referred to in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) are sold, exchanged, or otherwise disposed of to another from the premises of the lienholder by anyone other than the lienholder acting on his or her own behalf, the lien created by this subsection (1) shall continue and attach to the proceeds received or receivable therefrom. This lien shall also be superior to all other liens.

(2) The keeper of any hotel, motel, inn, or boardinghouse or any other person who rents temporary shelter to transient guests shall have a lien upon the personal property of such transient guests found upon the premises for the amount that may be due for lodging and boarding services rendered and for all costs incurred in enforcing such lien, and such liens shall apply to the personal property of transient guests who rent temporary trailer space in any trailer court or auto court in this state. (3) (a) Any person who rents furnished or unfurnished rooms or apartments for the housekeeping purposes of his tenants, as well as the keeper of a trailer court who rents trailer space, shall have a lien upon the tenant's personal property that is then on or in the rental premises. The value of the lien shall be for the amount of unpaid board, lodging, or rent, and for reasonable costs incurred in enforcing the lien, not including attorney fees. The lien shall be upon the household furniture, goods, appliances, and other personal property of the tenant and members of his household then being upon the rental premises, but exclusive of small kitchen appliances, cooking utensils, beds, bedding, necessary wearing apparel, personal or business records and documents, and the personal effects of the tenant and the members of his household.

(c) In the event the tenant has not vacated the premises, the landlord or his agent may enter upon the premises at any reasonable time for the purpose of asserting the lien and, in a reasonable manner and peaceably, the landlord may assert dominion over the personal property covered by the lien. Assertion of the lien provided in this section in a manner which substantially interferes with the tenant's right to reasonably occupy and enjoy the premises is unlawful and shall cause forfeiture of the lien and shall give rise to an action for damages.

II. LIEN OF AGISTOR.

Agistment defined. Agistment is where a person takes in and feeds or depastures horses, cattle, or similar animals upon the lands for reward. Auld v. Travis, 5 Colo. App. 535, 39 P. 357 (1895).

Lien for agistment is purely statutory. Auld v. Travis, 5 Colo. App. 535, 39 P. 357 (1895); Rohrer v. Ross, 53 Colo. 328, 125 P. 489 (1912).

Absent custody of stock, ranchman lacks lien. Ranchman has no lien where he only sold the feed to be consumed by the animals which remained in the custody of their owner; the ranchman had no other custody of the stock then that which flowed from the permission to use his yards for feeding purposes. Tabor v. Salisbury, 3 Colo. App. 335, 33 P. 190 (1893).

Trespass or trover actions maintainable by agistor against wrongdoer. Once an animal is delivered into the agistor's possession and is subject to his control, the agistor's possession is so exclusive that he may maintain an action in trespass or trover against a wrongdoer for any injury to their possession. Agistor is responsible only for ordinary negligence. Auld v. Travis, 5 Colo. App. 535, 39 P. 357 (1895).

Agistor's lien has priority status over the rights and claims of a perfected security interest. La Junta Prod. Credit Ass'n v. Schroder, 800 P.2d 1360 (Colo. App. 1990).

III. LIEN OF LANDLORD.

“Any person who rents furnished or unfurnished rooms” construed. The general words, “any person who rents furnished or unfurnished rooms”, are construed as applicable to persons renting rooms for lodging purposes; they are not intended to include the owners of business houses, who rent their rooms solely for purposes of business. *Morse v. Landlord has lien on furniture for unpaid rent. Where A rented to S a partially furnished room, and S bought of T a small lot of furniture and placed it in the room, then S left the room while in debt for room rent and sold his furniture back to T in payment of a balance owed on purchase price, A has a valid lien on the furniture for the unpaid rent, and T is not entitled to recover such furniture by replevin without first paying to A the amount of his lien. Albers v. Turley, 10 Colo. App. 450, 51 P. 530 (1897).

Innkeeper - bailee must exercise ordinary care of property. Where the status of an innkeeper was that of a bailee holding property upon which he had a lien as security for a sum due, he is bound to ordinary diligence and ordinary care. Murray v. Marshall, 9 Colo. 482, 13 P. 589 (1886).

Tailor entitled to possess garments made by him. A tailor, to whom material was furnished to be made into garments, is a mechanic entitled to hold possession of the garments until the price of labor which he has put on them for their betterment is paid by the employer if he fulfilled his contract. *Hillsburg v. A molders' lien shall be for the amount due for any such work performed or materials furnished, including interest at the rate specified in section 38-22-101 (5), unless otherwise agreed, and for all costs incurred in enforcing such lien, including attorney fees if specified by contract. The amount of such lien shall be determined by the value of any such manufacturing or fabrication work performed and material furnished unless the cost of such work and materials is otherwise specified by contract. A molder may retain possession of a mold until all charges are paid for such lien, unless a claim is made to such mold by the holder of a prior lien or by the holder of a lien of public record.

(2) A molders' lien created pursuant to this section shall be considered a security interest for the purposes of section 18-5-206, C.R.S.

(3) No lien created by this section shall have priority over a lien of public record, including a lien filed pursuant to title 4, C.R.S., regardless of when the financing statement or notice of lien was filed or recorded.

38-20-106.5. Motor vehicle repair garages - restoration of liens. (1) A motor vehicle repair garage which is entitled to a lien under section 38-20-106 for motor vehicle repairs and which has released the motor vehicle upon receipt of payment for such repairs in the form of a check, draft, or order for the payment of money upon any bank, depository, person, firm, or corporation shall be entitled to the restoration of the lien if the check, draft, or order is not honored for full payment or is dishonored upon its presentment and if the maker, issuer, or drawer fails, within twelve days after receiving notice from the motor vehicle repair garage of nonpayment or dishonor, to pay the check, draft, or order. In the event such motor vehicle repair garage has released the motor vehicle upon an open account, the motor vehicle repair garage shall be entitled to restoration of the lien if the total amount as agreed upon by the parties is not paid when due as agreed upon by the parties and if the debtor fails, within twelve days after receiving notice from the motor vehicle repair garage of nonpayment, to pay the amount due. Restoration of such lien shall entitle the motor vehicle repair garage to regain possession of the motor vehicle. In regaining possession, the motor vehicle repair garage may proceed without judicial process if this can be done without breach of the peace or may proceed by action.

(2) "Notice", as used in subsection (1) of this section, means notice given to the person entitled thereto, either in person or in writing. Such notice in writing shall be conclusively presumed to have been given when deposited by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested and postage prepaid, in the United States mail and addressed to such person at his address as it appears on the invoice or such check, draft, or order or, in the case of an open account, as it appears on the account records of the motor vehicle repair garage. Any notice regarding an open account may only be given subsequent to nonpayment.

38-20-107. Commencement of foreclosure action. (1) If any such charges for which a lien is given by section 38-20-102, 38-20-105, 38-20-106, or 38-20-106.2 or for which a lien is restored by section 38-20-106.5 are not paid within thirty days after the same become due and payable, the mechanic, innkeeper, or other person to whom such lien is given may file a foreclosure action in the county or district court of the county or city and county in which the contract or agreement between the lienholder and the owner of the property was signed or entered into, in which the owner resided at the time the contract or agreement was entered into, in which the owner resides at the time the foreclosure action is commenced or in which the work was performed, or, in the case of a lien created pursuant to section 38-20-106.2, in which any work was performed or materials were furnished. In the event that the lienholder does not foreclose the lien by commencing a judicial action within sixty days and if, under section 38-20-106, within ninety days after charges become due and payable, the lien shall terminate. However, such period of limitation may be extended by agreement between the parties for an additional period not to exceed thirty days. (2) If the lienholder sells or otherwise disposes of the property of the owner without substantially complying with this article, the owner is entitled to recover from the lienholder the value of the property, but in no event less than one hundred dollars, and reasonable attorney fees.

(3) Nothing in this article shall require a lienholder to commence a judicial action to foreclose his lien if the property held is abandoned as defined in section 38-20-116.

38-20-109. Lienor may sell - procedure. (1) When the lienor has received a judgment and after giving ten days' prior notice of the time and place of such sale, with a description of the property to be sold, by one publication in some newspaper published in the county wherein he or she resides or, if there is no such newspaper, by posting in three public places within such county and after delivering to the owner of such personal property or, if he or she does not reside in the county, transmitting by mail to him or her at his or her usual place of abode, if known, a copy of such notice, he or she may proceed to sell all such personal property, or so much thereof as may be necessary, at public auction, for cash in hand, at any public place within such county between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. of the day appointed. He or she shall render the residue of the proceeds and of the property unsold to the owner.

(2) Where property upon which the lien is being foreclosed is in danger of serious and immediate decay or waste or is likely to depreciate rapidly in value pending the determination of the issue or where the keeping of it will be attended with great expense, the lienholder, as plaintiff to the action, may apply to the court, upon due notice as the court may direct, for a sale thereof; and, thereupon, the court in its discretion may order the property sold in the manner provided for in said order, and the proceeds of said sale shall be deposited with the clerk of the court to abide the further order of the court. Upon application for such order for sale, the court in its discretion, upon good cause shown, may require the plaintiff to give bond in an amount to be fixed by the court for the payment to the defendant of such amount as the defendant may be entitled to for damages sustained by the defendant in the event of wrongful foreclosure. The bond shall be secured by two or more sureties, by one corporate surety authorized to do business in this state, or by cash bond, to be approved by the court.

38-20-116. Abandoned property - notice of sale - definitions. (1) Property is presumed to be abandoned if the owner has failed to contact the lienholder for a period of not less than thirty days and the lienholder, in good faith, is without knowledge of any evidence indicating that the owner does not intend to abandon the property.

(2) At least fifteen days prior to selling or otherwise disposing of abandoned property, the lienholder shall notify the owner of the proposed manner and date of disposition by transmitting said notice to the owner's last known address by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, signed by the addressee only. The lienholder shall maintain in his records for a period of one year a copy of said notice together with the return receipt signed by the addressee, or, if said notice is returned unclaimed, said notice and the proof of return unclaimed shall be so maintained. If the written notice is returned unclaimed, the lienholder shall publish said notice at least one day in a newspaper in the county in which the property is located or, if no newspaper is published in that county, then a newspaper in some adjoining county.

(2.5) (a) The provisions of this subsection (2.5) shall apply to abandoned motor vehicles at repair shops.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (2.5), unless the context otherwise requires:

(I) "Abandoned motor vehicle" means a motor vehicle:

(A) That has been left at a repair shop by the motor vehicle's owner, the owner's agent, or an operator hired by the owner or owner's agent;

(B) That the repair shop has offered to repair and for which the repair shop has prepared an estimate of repair costs;

(C) That the owner or the owner's agent has refused to authorize repairs to, has refused to remove from the repair shop upon request, or has refused to pay for authorized and completed repairs to the vehicle. If a repair shop is unable, despite good faith efforts, to obtain a response from the owner or the owner's agent regarding the authorization of repairs, payment for authorized and completed repairs, or the removal of a motor vehicle, the owner or owner's agent shall be deemed to have refused to grant authorization, make payment, or remove the motor vehicle five working days following the repair shop's last good faith effort to contact the owner or owner's agent.

(D) That is not the subject of sale negotiations or a sale agreement between the owner or the owner's agent and the repair shop.

(II) "Department" means the department of revenue.

(III) "Division" means the division of motor vehicles in the department.

(IV) "Lienholder" means a person who holds a security interest in a motor vehicle under article 9 of title 4, C.R.S. For purposes of this subsection (2.5) only, "lienholder" shall not refer to the holder of a lien established pursuant to section 38-20-106.

(c) If a repair shop seeks to obtain a certificate of title for an abandoned motor vehicle for purposes of selling such vehicle, a repair shop, or where practicable, its agent, shall:

(I) At least fifteen days after the vehicle becomes an abandoned motor vehicle, establish the retail fair market value of the vehicle either by reference to sources generally accepted within the insurance industry, including price guide books and computerized valuation services, or by seeking a Colorado licensed automobile dealer or certified appraisal;

(II) (A) Have the abandoned motor vehicle inspected and a verification of vehicle identification number completed by a peace officer certified pursuant to section 42-5-206, C.R.S. Such inspection shall not be over one year old when the repair shop or its agent seeks to obtain a certificate of title to the abandoned motor vehicle.

(B) If the verification of the vehicle identification number reveals that the vehicle is stolen, the peace officer completing the verification shall recover and secure the motor vehicle and notify its rightful owner.

(III) Request a Colorado title record search of the vehicle identification number of the abandoned motor vehicle from the division or check the electronic system implemented by the department as required in section 42-4-2103 (3) (c) (III), C.R.S., to obtain correct information relating to any owner and lienholder of the abandoned motor vehicle as represented in the department records. In addition to requesting a Colorado title record search, if the abandoned motor vehicle is an out-of-state vehicle, the repair shop or its agent shall request a title and lien search from the other state.

(IV) Use the information provided through the Colorado title record search or out-of-state title and lien search to notify by certified mail the owner of record, including an out-of-state owner of record, and all lienholders of its possession of the abandoned motor vehicle. The notice shall specify the location of the repair shop and that, unless claimed within thirty calendar days after the date the notice was sent, as determined from the postmark on the notice, the motor vehicle is subject to sale. The repair shop or its agent shall keep the proof of notification on file for three years from the date of mailing.

(V) Purchase a surety bond for twice the retail fair market value of the abandoned motor vehicle as established under subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c);

(VI) Write a statement under penalty of perjury that includes the following information:

(A) That the repair shop or its agent notified the owner and any lienholders of the abandoned motor vehicle as required in subparagraph (IV) of this paragraph (c) and that neither the owner nor any lienholder has attempted to claim the abandoned motor vehicle within the time prescribed in subparagraph (IV) of this paragraph (c);

(B) The business name and address of the repair shop;

(C) The year, make, model, and vehicle identification number of the abandoned motor vehicle;

(D) The date the abandoned motor vehicle was left at the repair shop;

(E) The name of the person who left the abandoned motor vehicle at the repair shop. The repair shop or its agent shall provide a copy of any estimate as defined in section 42-9-102 (1.5), C.R.S., or work order as defined in section 42-9-102 (6), C.R.S. If the parties entered into an oral agreement, the repair shop shall provide the record of such communication as specified in section 42-9-104 (1) (c), C.R.S.

(F) Whether the abandoned motor vehicle is roadworthy as defined in section 42-6-102 (15), C.R.S.; and

(VII) (A) Not less than thirty days after the postmarked date of the notice mailed pursuant to subparagraph (IV) of this paragraph (c), present documentation of the requirements specified in subparagraphs (I) to (VI) of this paragraph (c) to the county motor vehicle office in the county in which the repair shop is located and apply for a certificate of title for the abandoned motor vehicle.

(B) If the retail fair market value of the abandoned motor vehicle is less than two hundred dollars, the sale shall be made only for the purpose of junking, scrapping, or dismantling the motor vehicle, and the purchaser thereof shall not, under any circumstances, be entitled to a certificate of title. The repair shop shall cause to be executed and delivered to the person purchasing the motor vehicle a bill of sale. The bill of sale shall state that the purchaser acquires no right to a certificate of title for such vehicle. The repair shop shall promptly submit together to the department a report of sale and a copy of the bill of sale and shall also deliver a copy of the report of sale to the purchaser of the motor vehicle. Upon receipt of any report of sale with supporting documents on any sale made pursuant to this sub-subparagraph (B), the department shall purge the records for the vehicle as provided in section 42-4-2109 (1) (b) and shall not issue a new certificate of title for the vehicle. Any certificate of title issued in violation of this sub-subparagraph (B) shall be void.

(d) (I) After the repair shop or its agent has obtained a certificate of title for the abandoned motor vehicle as specified in paragraph (c) of this subsection (2.5), the repair shop or its agent shall sell the motor vehicle in a commercially reasonable manner at a public or private sale.

(II) Nothing in this paragraph (d) shall require a repair shop to be a licensed dealer pursuant to article 6 of title 12, C.R.S., for purposes of selling a motor vehicle pursuant to this section.

(e) The department may promulgate rules in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S. or create department-approved forms as may be appropriate to satisfy the requirements of this subsection (2.5).

(3) (a) The following provisions shall apply to molds, as defined in section 38-20-101:

(I) In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, a customer shall have all rights and title to any mold in the possession of a molder that was used to perform work for such customer; except that, if a customer has not claimed possession of a mold within three years following its last prior use, such mold shall be presumed to be abandoned by the customer and all rights and title to such mold shall be transferred to the molder who shall destroy or otherwise dispose of such mold as abandoned property in accordance with this section. For purposes of this subsection (3), "within three years following its last prior use" means any period following the last prior use of the mold and includes periods preceding September 30, 1998.

(II) Any molder who desires to have all rights and title to a mold shall send written notice to the customer's last-known address by registered or certified mail return receipt requested, signed by the addressee only. If the written notice is returned unclaimed, the molder shall publish said notice at least one day in a newspaper of general circulation in the area in which the mold is located. Such written notice shall clearly indicate that the molder intends to terminate the customer's rights and title to the mold described in such notice and shall include a recitation of the customer's rights, as set forth in this section.

(III) If a customer does not respond to the written notice sent pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a) within one hundred twenty days after the date of such notice to claim possession of the mold or does not make other contractual arrangements with the molder for storage of such mold, all rights and title of the customer to such mold shall transfer to the molder. Such molder may then destroy or otherwise dispose of the mold without risk of liability to the customer.

(IV) The molder shall maintain in such molder's records for a period of one year a copy of the notice sent pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), together with the return receipt signed by the addressee, or, if said notice is returned unclaimed, said notice and the proof of return unclaimed shall be so maintained.

(b) Nothing in this subsection (3) shall require a molder to commence a judicial action to foreclose on a molder's lien if such mold is abandoned, as such term is defined in this section, and nothing in this subsection (3) shall be interpreted to eliminate any right of action a molder may have against a customer for unpaid charges, damages, costs, or attorney fees, if provided for by contract.

(2) An agistor's lien shall be effective for the entire period during which the livestock are held by the agistor, and if the livestock referenced in subsection (1) of this section are sold, exchanged, or otherwise disposed of from the premises of the lienor by anyone other than the lienor acting on his or her own behalf or the lienor's agent, the lien created by this section shall continue and shall attach to the proceeds received or receivable from such disposition. To the extent an agistor's lien remains effective, such lien shall be superior to all other liens.

38-20-204. Agistor's lien - filing requirement. An agistor's lien created pursuant to this part 2 shall be filed with the secretary of state or the county clerk where the livestock are located. The filing of an agistor's lien shall constitute notice of the contents and legal effect of the lien.

38-20-205. Foreclosure. (1) (a) If any charges for which a lien has been filed pursuant to section 38-20-204 are not paid not more than thirty days after the date such charges are due, the lienor or the lienor's assignee may file a foreclosure action in the county or district court of the county or city and county in which:

- (I) The contract between the lienor and the owner of the livestock was entered into;
- (II) The owner resided at the time the foreclosure action commenced; or
- (III) The livestock are located.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (1), if the contract between the owner and the lienor provides for continuing payments, such payments may be deemed to be due after the default of any installment or payment, at the option of the lienor.

(2) If a lienor sells or otherwise disposes of an owner's livestock without substantially complying with this article, such owner may recover from the lienor the value of the livestock less the lienor's cost of caring for such livestock, but in no event less than one hundred dollars.

(3) Nothing in this article shall require a lienor to commence a judicial action to foreclose on an agistor's lien if the livestock is abandoned, as defined in section 38-20-207.

(4) With respect to any foreclosure action brought under this article, a copy of the complaint shall be provided to the board before it may be filed with a court. The failure to provide such copy is not jurisdictional but shall be required by a court. The complaint shall show:

(a) That the lienor performed a service for the livestock owner, entitling the lienor to a lien on the owner's livestock pursuant to section 38-20-203;

(b) That the service described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) was performed at the written or verbal request of the owner or owner's agent;

(c) A description of the livestock, including the age, color, sex, markings, scars, brands, earmarks, a statement of the lien's actual value, and, if known, the registration number upon which the lien is claimed. A livestock group of twenty or more may be identified by common and accepted industry practice.

(d) That a notice of demand has been provided to the owner or the owner's agent by certified mail at their last-known address, or if not known, that personal notice was provided pursuant to section 38-20-206 (1) (a);

(e) An itemized list of the fair market value of the charges that are due and unpaid under the lien; and

(f) That a copy of the complaint has been provided to the board.

(5) (a) A court shall examine any complaint filed pursuant to this article without delay. If satisfactory, the court shall order the owner to show cause why the livestock should not be sold pursuant to the procedures in this article, which order shall include the date and time for a hearing. Such hearing shall be held not more than ten working days after the date of the issuance of the order.

(b) The court order set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) shall be served on the owner at least five days before the hearing date and shall inform such owner of:

(I) His or her right to appear and present testimony at the hearing;

(II) The fact that his or her failure to appear at the hearing may result in the entry of a judgment by default for the lien charges described in the complaint, the costs provided in this part 2, attorney's fees, and any other relief to which the plaintiff is entitled.

(6) If either party requests that the hearing date be delayed more than five days, the court, in its discretion and upon good cause shown, may require the requesting party to post bond. The bond amount shall be sufficient to pay the opposing party such amount as he or she may be entitled because of the delay. The bond shall be secured by two or more sureties, one corporate surety authorized to do business in this state, or a cash or property bond, whichever the court may approve.

38-20-206. Sale of livestock - procedure. (1) A lienor who receives a judgment on an agistor's lien may proceed to sell such livestock necessary to satisfy the lien. The sale shall take place not more than forty-five days after entry of judgment at the nearest public livestock market in this state. In addition:

(a) The lienor shall provide notice to the owner at least fifteen days before any sale. The notice shall include the time and place of the sale and a description of the livestock to be sold. Such notice shall be served by:

(I) Publication in one newspaper published in the county of the lienor's residence; or

(II) Posting in three public places within the county of the lienor's residence and delivering a copy to the owner or the owner's agent. If a copy is to be delivered to the owner's agent and such agent does not reside in the county of the lienor's residence, a copy of the notice shall be published in a newspaper published in the county of the agent's residence, or, if no newspaper is published in such county, a copy shall be mailed to such agent's place of residence.

(b) The purchaser shall receive a transfer of the registration papers for the purchased livestock by the public livestock market and the pertinent organization or registry.

(c) The public livestock market shall:

(I) Pay to the agistor from the sale proceeds the reasonable cost of the foreclosure, notice, sale, and the reasonable and necessary charges incurred by the agistor for preserving, maintaining, feeding, boarding, pasturing, caring, and keeping the livestock up to the date of the sale. The reasonable cost of keeping the livestock up to the date of the sale shall not exceed five dollars per head per day.

(II) Forward the remainder of the sale proceeds and render any unsold livestock to the court for distribution to the owner or the owner's agent. If the owner and the owner's agent are not known and there are sale proceeds to be forwarded, such proceeds shall be returned to the board. The board shall deposit such proceeds in its estray fund and make a record of such deposit, identifying the livestock and stating the amount realized from the sale. The board shall pay proceeds from the estray fund to any secured party that has filed a lien against the livestock sold and has submitted a claim for payment to the board. Such payments shall be made only to the extent of the amount owed to the secured party. Such record shall be open to public inspection.

(2) (a) When livestock are in danger of serious and immediate decay or waste, or are likely to rapidly depreciate in value pending foreclosure proceedings, or where the keeping of such livestock will be attended with great expense, the lienor may, upon providing such notice as the court may require, apply to the court for an immediate sale. The court, in its discretion, may order that the livestock be sold and that the sale proceeds be deposited with the clerk of the court pending further order of such court.

(b) Upon receiving an application pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), a court may, upon good cause shown, require the lienor to post bond for such amount as the defendant may be entitled for damages sustained in the event of wrongful foreclosure. Such bond shall be secured by two or more sureties, one corporate surety authorized to do business in this state, or a cash bond, whichever is approved by the court.

(3) The lienor may purchase the livestock and may bid all or any portion of the fair market value of the lien.

(4) When the livestock cannot be sold in one day, the sale may be continued on a day-to-day basis. Upon completion of the sale, the public livestock market shall file a bill of sale with the court that entered judgment of foreclosure. Such bill of sale shall include the amount for which each animal was sold and the name of each purchaser. The court shall record such bill of sale in its docket and shall preserve the original.

(a) The owner or owner's agent has failed to contact the lienor within ten days after service of notice under section 38-20-206;

- (b) The lienor, in good faith, has no reasonable grounds to believe that the owner does not intend to abandon the livestock; and
- (c) The agistor has sent written notice of abandonment pursuant to the publication procedures in this article.
- (2) The board shall care for and dispose of any abandoned livestock pursuant to section 35-44-112, C.R.S.
- (3) After paying all expenses incurred, the board shall pay the agistor for the cost of herding or caring for such livestock, not to exceed the fair market value of the actual cost of such herding or caring or five hundred dollars per head, whichever is less.
- (4) (a) Any surplus funds forwarded to the state board of stock inspection commissioners shall be deposited in the estray fund of said board in the manner described in section 38-20-206.
- (b) If the owner of livestock presumed to be abandoned is found within three years after the date of the sale of such livestock, the net amount received from the sale shall be paid to the owner, less the following amounts, upon said owner proving ownership to the satisfaction of the board:
  - (I) A sum determined by the board by rule for each abandoned animal, to be retained by the state board of stock inspection commissioners;
  - (II) The amount of any judgment awarded the lienor; and
  - (III) Any amounts owed to a secured party that has filed a lien against the livestock presumed to be abandoned and submitted a claim to the board.
- (c) A current livestock inspection certificate shall be prima facie evidence of ownership.

38-21.5-103.	Enforcement of lien.

38-21.5-101. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Default" means the failure to perform in a timely manner any obligation or duty set forth in this article or the rental agreement.

(1.5) "Electronic mail" or "e-mail" means an electronic message or an executable program or computer file that contains an image of a message that is transmitted between two or more computers or electronic terminals. The term includes electronic messages that are transmitted within or between computer networks.

(2) "Last-known address" means that postal address or e-mail address provided by the occupant in the latest rental agreement or in a subsequent written notice of a change of address.

(3) "Occupant" means a person, or his sublessee, successor, or assign, entitled to the use of the storage space at a self-service storage facility under a rental agreement, to the exclusion of others.

(4) "Owner" means the owner, operator, lessor, or sublessor of a self-service storage facility, his agent, or any other person authorized by him to manage the facility or to receive rent from an occupant under a rental agreement.

(5) “Personal property” means movable property not affixed to land and includes, but is not limited to, goods, merchandise, and household items.

(6) “Rental agreement” means any written agreement or lease that establishes or modifies the terms, conditions, rules, or any other provisions concerning the use and occupancy at a self-service storage facility and that contains a notice stating that all articles stored under the terms of such agreement will be sold or otherwise disposed of if no payment has been received for a continuous thirty-day period. The agreement must contain a provision directing the occupant to disclose any lienholders with an interest in property that is or will be stored in the self-service storage facility.

(7) “Self-service storage facility” means any real property designed and used for the purpose of renting or leasing individual storage space to occupants who are to have access to such facility for the purpose of storing and removing personal property. 38-21.5-102. Lien established. Where a rental agreement, as defined in section 38-21.5-101 (6), is entered into between the owner and the occupant, the owner of a self-service storage facility and his or her heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns have a lien upon all personal property located at the self-service storage facility for rent, labor, or other charges, present or future, in relation to the personal property and for expenses necessary for its preservation or expenses reasonably incurred in its sale or other disposition pursuant to this article. The lien attaches as of the date the personal property is brought to the self-service storage facility and continues so long as the owner retains possession and until the default is corrected, or a sale is conducted, or the property is otherwise disposed of to satisfy the lien. Prior to taking enforcement action pursuant to section 38-21.5-103 (1) (b), the owner shall determine if a financing statement concerning the property to be sold or otherwise disposed of has been filed with the secretary of state in accordance with part 5 of article 9 of title 4, C.R.S.

38-21.5-103. Enforcement of lien. (1) An owner’s lien, as provided for a claim that has become due, may be satisfied as follows:

(a) No enforcement action shall be taken by the owner until the occupant has been in default continuously for a period of thirty days.

(b) After the occupant has been in default continuously for thirty days, the owner may begin enforcement action if the occupant has been notified in writing. The owner shall deliver the notice in person or by verified mail or electronic mail to the last-known address of the occupant and shall provide the notice to any lienholder with an interest in the property to be sold or otherwise disposed of, of whom the owner has knowledge through the disclosure provision on the rental agreement, as evidenced by a financing statement filed with the secretary of state, or through the owner's receipt of other written notice of such interest from the lienholder.

(c) The notice shall include:

(I) An itemized statement of the owner's claim showing the sum due at the time of the notice and the date when the sum became due;

(II) A brief and general description of the personal property subject to the lien. Such description shall be reasonably adequate to permit the person notified to identify such property; except that any container including, but not limited to, a trunk, valise, or box that is locked, fastened, sealed, or tied in a manner which deters immediate access to its contents may be described as such without describing its contents.

(III) A notification of denial of access to the personal property, if such denial is permitted under the terms of the rental agreement, which notification shall provide the name, street address, and telephone number of the owner or his designated agent whom the occupant may contact to respond to such notification;

(IV) A demand for payment within a specified time not less than fifteen days after delivery of the notice;

(V) A conspicuous statement that, unless the claim is paid within the time stated in the notice, the personal property will be advertised for sale or other disposition and will be sold or otherwise disposed of at a specified time and place.

(d) If the owner sends notice of a pending sale of property to the occupant's last-known e-mail address and does not receive a response, return receipt, or delivery confirmation from the same e-mail address, the owner must send notice of the sale to the occupant by verified mail to the occupant's last-known postal address before proceeding with the sale.

(e) (I) After the expiration of the time given in the notice, the owner shall advertise the sale of the personal property either by:

(A) Publishing an advertisement of the sale once a week for two consecutive weeks in a periodical that circulates weekly or more frequently in the county where the self-service storage facility is located; or

(B) Advertising the sale in any other commercially reasonable manner. The manner of advertisement is deemed commercially reasonable if at least three independent bidders attend the sale at the time and place advertised.

(II) As used in this paragraph (e), "independent bidder" means a bidder who is not related to and who has no controlling interest in, or common pecuniary interest with, the owner or any other bidder.

(f) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2011, (SB 11-039), ch. 92, p. 272, § 2, effective August 10, 2011.)

(g) (I) Any sale or other disposition of the personal property must be held at the self-service storage facility or at the nearest suitable place to where the personal property is held or stored.

(II) If the property upon which the lien is claimed is a vehicle or watercraft, and rent and other charges related to the property remain unpaid or unsatisfied for sixty days:

(A) The owner may have the property towed from the self-service storage facility by an independent towing carrier holding current and valid operating authority from the Colorado public utilities commission; and

(B) The owner is not liable for the property, or for any damages to the property, once the towing carrier takes possession of the property.

(III) The owner is not liable for identity theft or other harm resulting from the misuse of information contained in documents or electronic storage media:

(A) That are part of the occupant's property sold or otherwise disposed of; and

(B) Of which the owner did not have actual knowledge.

(h) Before any sale or other disposition of personal property pursuant to this section, the occupant may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the lien and the reasonable expenses incurred under this section and thereby redeem the personal property. Upon receipt of such payment, the owner shall return the personal property, and thereafter the owner shall have no liability to any person with respect to such personal property.

(i) A purchaser in good faith of the personal property sold to satisfy a lien as provided in this article takes the property free of any rights of persons against whom the lien was valid and free of any rights of a secured creditor, despite noncompliance by the owner with the requirements of this section.

(j) In the event of a sale under this section, the owner may satisfy his lien from the proceeds of the sale, subject to the rights of any prior lienholder. The lien rights of such prior lienholder are automatically transferred to the proceeds of the sale. If the sale is made in good faith and is conducted in a reasonable manner, the owner shall not be subject to any surcharge for a deficiency in the amount of a prior secured lien but shall hold the balance, if any, for delivery to the occupant, lienholder, or other person in interest. If the occupant, lienholder, or other person in interest does not claim the balance of the proceeds within three years of the date of sale, it shall become the property of the owner without further recourse by the occupant, lienholder, or other person in interest.

(k) Nothing in this section affects the rights and liabilities of the owner or the occupant if:

- (I) The requirements of this article are not satisfied;
- (II) The sale of the personal property is not in conformity with the notice of sale; or
- (III) There is a willful violation of this article.

38-22-101. Liens in favor of whom - when filed - definition of person. (1) Every person who furnishes or supplies laborers, machinery, tools, or equipment in the prosecution of the work, and mechanics, materialmen, contractors, subcontractors, builders, and all persons of every class performing labor upon or furnishing directly to the owner or persons furnishing labor, laborers, or materials to be used in construction, alteration, improvement, addition to, or repair, either in whole or in part, of any building, mill, bridge, ditch, flume, aqueduct, reservoir, tunnel, fence, railroad, wagon road, tramway, or any other structure or improvement upon land, including adjacent curb, gutter, and sidewalk, and also architects, engineers, draftsmen, and artisans who have furnished designs, plans, plats, maps, specifications, drawings, estimates of cost, surveys, or superintendence, or who have rendered other professional or skilled service, or bestowed labor in whole or in part, describing or illustrating, or superintending such structure, or work done or to be done, or any part connected therewith, shall have a lien upon the property upon which they have furnished laborers or supplied machinery, tools, or equipment or rendered service or bestowed labor or for which they have furnished materials or mining or milling machinery or other fixtures, for the value of such laborers, machinery, tools, or equipment supplied, or services rendered or labor done or laborers or materials furnished, whether at the instance of the owner, or of any other person acting by the owner's authority or under the owner, as agent, contractor, or otherwise for the laborers, machinery, tools, or equipment supplied, or work or labor done or services rendered or laborers or materials furnished by each, respectively, whether supplied or done or furnished or rendered at the instance of the owner of the building or other improvement, or the owner's agent; and every contractor, architect, engineer, subcontractor, builder, agent, or other person having charge of the construction, alteration, addition to, or repair, either in whole or in part, of said building or other improvement shall be held to be the agent of the owner for the purposes of this article.

(2) In case of a contract for the work, between the reputed owner and a contractor, the lien shall extend to the entire contract price, and such contract shall operate as a lien in favor of all persons performing labor or services or furnishing laborers or materials under contract, express or implied, with said contractor, to the extent of the whole contract price; and after all such liens are satisfied, then as a lien for any balance of such contract price in favor of the contractor.

(3) All such contracts shall be in writing when the amount to be paid thereunder exceeds five hundred dollars, and shall be subscribed by the parties thereto. The contract, or a memorandum thereof, setting forth the names of all the parties to the contract, a description of the property to be affected thereby, together with a statement of the general character of the work to be done, the estimated total amount to be paid thereunder, together with the times or stages of the work for making payments, shall be filed by the owner or reputed owner, in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county where the property, or the principal portion thereof, is situated before the work is commenced under and in accordance with the terms of the contract. In case such contract, or a memorandum thereof, is not so filed, the labor done and materials furnished by all persons shall be deemed to have been done and furnished at the personal instance of the owner, and such persons shall have a lien for the value thereof.

(4) For the purposes of this article, the value of labor done shall include, but not be limited to, the payments required under any labor contract to any trust established for the provision of any pension, profit-sharing, vacation, health and welfare, prepaid legal services, or apprentice training benefits for the use of the employees of any contractors, and the trustee of any such trust shall have a lien therefor.

(5) All claimants who establish the right to a lien or claim under any of the provisions of this article shall be entitled to receive interest on any such lien or claim at the rate provided for under the terms of any contract or agreement under which the laborers were furnished or the labor or material was supplied or, in the absence of an agreed rate, at the rate of twelve percent per annum.

(6) For purposes of this article, "person" means a natural person, firm, association, corporation, or other legal entity; except that it shall not include a labor organization as defined in section 24-34-401 (6), C.R.S.

Annotator's note. Cases material to this section, decided prior to its earliest source L. 1899, p. 261, § 1, have been included in the annotations to this section.

Purpose of article. The purpose of the mechanics' lien law is to benefit and protect those who supply labor, materials, or services which enhance the value or condition of another's property. Brannan Sand & Gravel v. F.D.I.C., 928 P.2d 1337 (Colo. App. 1996), aff'd, 940 P.2d 393 (Colo. 1997).

The underlying rationale and principle upon which the mechanic's lien is conferred by this article is to preclude unjust enrichment. 3190 Corp. v. Gould, 163 Colo. 356, 431 P.2d 466 (1967); Kobayashi v. Meehleis Steel Co., 28 Colo. App. 327, 472 P.2d 724 (1970); Ridge Erection Co. v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 37 Colo. App. 477, 549 P.2d 408 (1976).

The mechanics' lien laws are designed for the benefit and protection of mechanics and others and should be construed in favor of lien claimants. Barnard v. McKenzie, 4 Colo. 251 (1878); Lindemann v. Belden Consol. Mining & Milling Co., 16 Colo. App. 342, 65 P. 403 (1901); Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb, 19 Colo. App. 265, 74 P. 786 (1903); Sontag v. Abbott, 140 Colo. 351, 344 P.2d 961 (1959); 3190 Corp. v. Gould, 163 Colo. 356, 431 P.2d 466 (1967); Thirteenth St. Corp. v. A-1 Plumbing & Heating Co., 640 P.2d 1130 (Colo. 1982).

The right to a mechanic's lien given by this section is based upon considerations of natural justice, namely that one who has enhanced the value of property by attaching thereto his materials or labor shall have a lien therefor. Farmer's Irrigation Co. v. Kamm, 55 Colo. 440, 135 P. 766 (1913); Bishop v. Moore, 137 Colo. 263, 323 P.2d 897 (1958); 3190 Corp. v. Gould, 163 Colo. 356, 431 P.2d 466 (1967); Kobayashi v. Meehleis Steel Co., 28 Colo. App. 327, 472 P.2d 724 (1970).

This section affords additional security to protect persons whose labor or materials enhance the value of real property. By granting to persons who fall within its provisions an in rem recovery against the land, this section creates an alternative remedy which is broader than an in personam contract action. C & W Elec., Inc. v. Casa Dorado Corp., 34 Colo. App. 117, 523 P.2d 137 (1974).

Applicability of section. This section confines its operation to the establishment of liens. Hayutin v. Gibbons, 139 Colo. 262, 338 P.2d 1032 (1959).

The mechanics' lien law does not purport to create personal liability of a landowner for obligations incurred by a contractor in the performance of his contract, but only authorizes the creation of a lien for improvements upon the land of the owner. Brannan Sand & Gravel Co. v. Santa Fe Land & Imp. Co., 138 Colo. 314, 332 P.2d 892 (1958); Brannan Sand & Gravel v. F.D.I.C., 928 P.2d 1337 (Colo. App. 1996), rev'd on other grounds, 940 P.2d 393 (Colo. 1997).

The provisions of this section do not apply to labor performed or material furnished upon or for public works, for the purpose of fastening a lien upon public property. Western Lumber & Pole Co. v. Golden, 23 Colo. App. 461, 130 P. 1027 (1913); Florman v. Sch. Dist. No. 11, 6 Colo. App. 319, 40 P. 469 (1895).

Under common law, public property not subject to foreclosure. The relation-back provisions of § 38-22-106 (1) do not abrogate the common law to allow a claimant to foreclose a lien after streets had been dedicated and accepted. City of Westminster v. Brannan Sand & Gravel Co., 970 P.2d 393 (Colo. 1997).

Section should be liberally construed in lien claimant's favor. This section should be construed in a most liberal and comprehensive manner in favor of lien claimants, but it cannot be judicially extended so as to be applied to cases which do not fall within its provisions. Chambers v. Nation, 178 Colo. 124, 497 P.2d 5 (1972); Barnard v. McKenzie, 4 Colo. 251 (1878); Rara Avis Gold & Silver Mining Co. v. Bouscher, 9 Colo. 385, 12 P. 433 (1886); Greeley, S.L. & P.R.R. v. Harris, 12 Colo. 226, 20 P. 764 (1888); Williams v. Uncompahgre Canal Co., 13 Colo. 469, 22 P. 806 (1889); Rico Reduction & Mining Co. v. Musgrave, 14 Colo. 79, 23 P. 458 (1890); Empire Land & Canal Co. v. Engley, 18 Colo. 388, 33 P. 153 (1893); Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P.

744 (1897); Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb, 19 Colo. App. 265, 74 P. 786 (1903); Kern v. Guiry Bros. Wall Paper Co., 60 Colo. 286, 153 P. 87 (1915); Consumers' Lumber & Inv. Co. v. Hayutin, 75 Colo. 483, 226 P. 860 (1924); Bushman Constr. Co. v. Air Force Academy Hous., Inc., 327 F.2d 481 (10th Cir. 1964); Ridge Erection Co. v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 37 Colo. App. 477, 549 P.2d 408 (1976); Tighe v. Kenyon, 681 P.2d 547 (Colo. App. 1984); Ragsdale Bros. Roofing v. United Bank, 744 P.2d 750 (Colo. App. 1987); Skillstaff of Colo. v. Centex Real Estate, 973 P.2d 674 (Colo. App. 1998).

Although the mechanic's lien statute is to be liberally construed in favor of lien claimants, it is to be strictly construed in determining whether the right to a lien exists. Richter Plumbing and Heating v. Rademacher, 729 P.2d 1009 (Colo. App. 1986); Brannan Sand & Gravel v. F.D.I.C., 928 P.2d 1337 (Colo. App. 1996), rev'd on other ground, 940 P.2d 393 (Colo. 1997).

Those who wish to claim the benefits of the lien must prove compliance with all statutory requirements necessary to establishing entitlement thereto. Richter Plumbing and Heating v. Rademacher, 729 P.2d 1009 (Colo. 1986).

This section is to be construed liberally in favor of the creation of liens. Amco Elec. Co. v. First Nat'l Bank, 622 P.2d 608 (Colo. App. 1981); Woodcrest Homes, Inc. v. First Nat'l Bank, 15 B.R. 886 (D. Colo. 1981).

Article should be strictly construed to extent that no act required to be done and essential to constitute a lien may be omitted. Williams v. Uncompahgre Canal Co., 13 Colo. 469, 22 P. 806 (1889); Cannon v. Williams, 14 Colo. 21, 23 P. 456 (1890); *Empire Land & Canal Co. v. App. 322, 52 P. 1115 (1898).

Section must be strictly construed in determining the question as to whether the right to a lien exists. Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P. 744 (1897); Lindemann v. Belden Consol. Mining & Milling Co., 16 Colo. App. 342, 65 P. 403 (1901); Fleming v. Prudential Ins. Co., 19 Colo. App. 126, 73 P. 752 (1903).

Where the inquiry relating to whether a person asserting a lien or the work for which he claims it comes within this section or whether the statutory requirements necessary to initiate the lien have been complied with, this section must be strictly construed. Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P. 744 (1897); Lindemann v. Belden Consol. Mining & Milling Co., 16 Colo. App. 342, 65 P. 403

Equitable rules govern mechanic's liens. The statutory proceedings to enforce rights under the mechanic's lien law are in their nature equitable, and equitable rules govern in their administration. Williams v. Uncompahgre Canal Co., 13 Colo. 469, 22 P. 806 (1889).

Remedy is cumulative. The remedy provided by this section is cumulative and, notwithstanding the fact that a claimant has a right to a lien, he may pursue his remedy for a money judgment. Hayutin v. Gibbons, 139 Colo. 262, 338 P.2d 1032 (1959).

Statutory remedy requires strict construction. The remedy by lien is purely statutory and is to be strictly construed. Brannan Sand & Gravel Co. v. Santa Fe Land & Imp. Co., 138 Colo. 314, 332 P.2d 892 (1958).

Substantial compliance. Since this section gives a remedy unknown at common law or in equity, its provisions must be at least substantially complied with, otherwise no lien will attach. Greeley S.L. & P.R.R. v. Harris, 12 Colo. 226, 20 P. 764 (1888).

The remedial requirements of this section must be complied with; full compliance gives a claimant a legal right to enforce. Hanna v. Colo. Sav. Bank, 3 Colo. App. 28, 31 P. 1020 (1892).

Lien claimant may pursue his remedy for a money judgment notwithstanding his right to a lien. Buttermore v. Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., 721 P.2d 701 (Colo. App. 1986).

This section and § 38-22-104 to be construed together. Whether a lien is claimed under this section or § 38-22-104 is immaterial because both sections are to be construed together. Smith v. Stroehle Mach. & Supply Co., 109 Colo. 460, 126 P.2d 341 (1942).

Lien claimant is entitled to interest on valid judgment. Am. Factors Assocs. v. Triangle Heating & Sheet Metal Co., 31 Colo. App. 240, 503 P.2d 163 (1972).

Applicability of subsection (5). Subsection (5) is a special statute which is applicable to a mechanic lien claim only, and not to a claim grounded in the trust lien provision, § 38-22-127. First Com. Corp. v. First Nat'l Bancorporation, Inc., 572 F. Supp. 1430 (D. Colo. 1983).

Subsection (5) prevails over § 5-12-102. Subsection (5), which is applicable to mechanic's lien claims only, prevails over the general interest statute, § 5-12-102. Weather Eng'g & Mfg., Inc. v. Pinon Springs Condominiums, Inc., 192 Colo. 495, 563 P.2d 346 (1977).

Claimant not charged with another's mistake resulting in noncompletion. The claimant is not to be charged with another's mistake in judgment which results in the noncompletion of the project. Seracuse Lawler & Partners, Inc. v. Copper Mt., 654 P.2d 1328 (Colo. App. 1982).

A water well more properly fits within article 24 of title 38 than article 22 of title 38, as article 24 specifically addresses sinking a hole into the earth to obtain a natural resource below it. Article 24 controls, because it has more specific provisions that supplement the general provisions of article 22. Aspen Drilling Co., Inc. v. Hayes, 876 P.2d 86 (Colo. App. 1994).

Statute as basis for jurisdiction. See Boulder Lumber Co. v. Alpine of Nederland, Inc., 626 P.2d 724 (Colo. App. 1981).

Applied in Curtis v. Nunns, 54 Colo. 554, 131 P. 403 (1913); Laverents v. Craig, 74 Colo. 297, 225 P.250 (1923); Protheroe v. Bonser, 94 Colo. 95, 28 P.2d 807 (1933); Kvols v. M.J. Dev., Inc., 43 Colo. App. 92, 603 P.2d 947 (1979); Trustees of Colo. Carpenters & Millwrights Health Benefits Trust Fund v. Pinkard Constr. Co., 199 Colo. 35, 604 P.2d 683 (1979); Climax Molybdenum Co. v. Specialized Installers, Inc., 12 B.R. 546 (D. Colo. 1981); Everitt Lumber Co. v. Prudential Ins. Co. of Am., 660 P.2d 925 (Colo. App. 1983).

II. THE LIEN.

Principle established by subsection (1). In general, subsection (1) establishes the principle that where labor has been performed a lien shall be had for the value of that labor. Ridge Erection Co. v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 37 Colo. App. 477, 549 P.2d 408 (1976).

Subsection (1) provides that every person who supplies material or labor shall have a lien upon the property upon which they have supplied materials or labor. Sperry & Mock, Inc. v. Security Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 37 Colo. App. 357, 549 P.2d 412 (1976).

A mechanic's lien established under this section is based upon the principle that one who has enhanced the value of property by his labor or material is entitled to a superior lien if he follows certain prescribed procedures. Amco Elec. Co. v. First Nat'l Bank, 622 P.2d 608 (Colo. App. 1981).

A "lien" is a claim on property by a person who has added value to that property. In re Regan, 151 P.3d 1281 (Colo. 2007).

Mechanic's lien is statutory creature. A mechanic's or miner's lien is the creature of the statute, and attaches only by virtue of work being done or materials furnished under a contract, express or implied, with the owner of the property upon which the lien is claimed. Davidson v. Jennings, 27 Colo. 187, 60 P. 354 (1900); Tritch v. Norton, 10 Colo. 337, 15 P. 680 (1887); Rico Reduction & Mining Co. v. Musgrave, 14 Colo. 79, 23 P. 458 (1890).

The right to a mechanic's lien has no existence except by virtue of the statute. Florman v. Sch. Dist. No. 11, 6 Colo. App. 319, 40 P. 469 (1895); Sayre-Newton Lumber Co. v. Union Bank, 6 Colo. App. 541, 41 P. 844 (1895); Small v. Foley, 8 Colo. App. 435, 47 P. 64 (1896); Lindemann v. Belden Consol. Mining & Milling Co., 16 Colo. App. 342, 65 P. 403 (1901); Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb, 19 Colo. App. 265, 74 P. 786 (1903); Grimm v. Yates, 58 Colo. 268, 145 P. 696 (1914).

Section is direct lien statute. Armour & Co. v. McPhee & McGinnity Co., 85 Colo. 262, 275 P. 12 (1929).

Direct lien statute expressly authorizes lien arising out of contract, either express or implied. Home Pub. Market Co. v. Fallis, 72 Colo. 48, 209 P. 641 (1922).

When right to lien created. The right to a lien must be created at the time or before material or labor is furnished. It cannot be created afterward. C & W Elec., Inc. v. Casa Dorado Corp., 34 Colo. App. 117, 523 P.2d 137 (1974).

A mechanic's lien is founded on contract with the owner, either directly or indirectly. Johnston v. Bennett, 6 Colo. App. 362, 40 P. 847 (1895); Wilkins v. Abell, 26 Colo. 462, 58 P. 612 (1899); Griffin v. Seymour, 15 Colo. App. 487, 63 P. 809 (1900).

There must be a contract with the owner, either directly or indirectly, before a lien may attach. Thirteenth St. Corp. v. A-1 Plumbing & Heating Co., 640 P.2d 1130 (Colo. 1982).

It is the affirmative contractual relation of the owner of property to the improvement made or work performed upon which the claimant's right to the lien is based. C & W Elec., Inc. v. Casa Dorado Corp., 34 Colo. App. 117, 523 P.2d 137 (1974).

An owner is not subject to a lien under subsection (1) unless the owner or owner's agent has contracted for the architectural services. Seracuse Lawler & Partners, Inc. v. Copper Mt., 654 P.2d 1328 (Colo. App. 1982).

Section contains exhaustive list of lienable work. This section contains an express and exhaustive list of lienable work, and courts are not at liberty to add to it. Woodcrest Homes, Inc. v. First Nat'l Bank, 11 B.R. 342, aff'd in part and rev'd on other grounds, 15 B.R. 886 (D. Colo. 1981).

Labor performed or materials furnished for purposes other than those specified cannot be made the foundation of a lien. Arkansas River Land, Reservoir & Canal Co. v. Nelson, 4 Colo. App. 438, 36 P. 307 (1894).

The provisions of this section do not authorize a lien upon property other than the property upon which services were rendered or for which fixtures were supplied, and only to the extent of the value of the labor, services, and materials rendered upon the property. Schmidt Const. Co. v. Fast, 776 P.2d 1175 (Colo. App. 1989).

Enforcement proceeding of liens deemed statutory. The proceeding to enforce liens of mechanics, laborers, and materialmen is purely statutory. Cornell v. Conine-Eaton Lumber Co., 9 Colo. App. 225, 47 P. 912 (1897).

The procedure established for the perfection and foreclosure of a mechanic's lien is wholly statutory and was unknown at common law or equity. Trustees of Mtg. Trust of Am. v. District Court, 621 P.2d 310 (Colo. 1980).

Section limits mechanic's lien to: (1) The property upon which the labor, services, and material are bestowed or rendered; and (2) the extent of the value of the labor, services, and material rendered upon the property. Brannan Sand & Gravel Co. v. Santa Fe Land & Imp. Co., 138 Colo. 314, 332 P.2d 892 (1958); Bushman Constr. Co. v. Air Force Academy Hous., Inc., 327 F.2d 481 (10th Cir. 1964); Woodcrest Homes, Inc. v. First Nat'l Bank, 11 B.R. 342, aff'd in part and rev'd on other grounds, 15 B.R. 886 (D. Colo. 1981).

Where work intended to benefit development property was not performed upon such property but rather upon adjacent land, foreclosure of lien against development property not allowed. Beeman Bros. v. First Interstate Bank, 784 P.2d 836 (Colo. App. 1989).

Party asserting lien has burden of proving it; he must ascertain that the party with whom he deals holds such a relation to the work being done as will entitle him to claim a lien for the work or material which he furnishes. Davidson v. Jennings, 27 Colo. 187, 60 P. 354 (1900); Tritch v. Norton, 10 Colo. 337, 15 P. 680 (1887); Rico Reduction & Mining Co. v. Musgrave, 14 Colo. 79, 23 P. 458 (1890).

Proof required as basis for lien. In an action to enforce a mechanic's lien, it must be pleaded and affirmatively shown that the labor performed was for one or more of the purposes specified in this section, in order that it may be made the foundation of a lien. Lindemann v. Belden Consol. Mining & Milling Co., 16 Colo. App. 342, 65 P. 403 (1901); Arkansas River, Land, Reservoir & Canal Co. v. Flinn, 3 Colo. App. 381, 33 P. 1006 (1893); Arkansas River, Land, Reservoir & Canal Co. v. Nelson, 4 Colo. App. 438, 36 P. 307 (1894).

Mechanic's lien laws can be sustained only upon the theory that the lien is engrafted upon the interest of the owner because he has consented to the improvement in such a way as to permit a lien, and, in order for a lien to attach, the circumstances must be such as to show consent of the owner or to justify an inference of it. Stewart v. Talbott, 58 Colo. 563, 146 P. 771 (1915); Rico Reduction & Mining Co. v. Musgrave, 14 Colo. 79, 23 P. 458 (1890).

Establishment of claimant as contractual agent required. The lien claimant of a valid lien must establish, by proper proof, that he is the contractual agent, either directly or indirectly, or such owner relative to the making of the improvement or furnishing the material for which the lien is claimed. Stewart v. Talbott, 58 Colo. 563, 146 P. 771 (1915).

Proof that contracting party has unencumbered interest. If a contractor proposes erecting a building, and furnishing materials or putting labor on a lot it behooves him to examine and assure himself of the fact that the person with whom he contemplates making his contract, or for whose benefit he is about to employ means or labor, has such an interest or title unencumbered as will enable him to avail himself of a valid or efficient lien. Tritch v. Norton, 10 Colo. 337, 15 P. 680 (1887).

Ownership of the building, structure, or improvement, and the doing of the work thereon or the rendering services or furnishing material therefor at the instance of such owner or his agent, plus ownership in the same person of the land upon which such structure or improvement is erected or place, are essential, under this section, to the validity of a lien upon such land. Stewart v. Talbott, 58 Colo. 563, 146 P. 771 (1915); Burleigh Bldg. Co. v. Merchant Brick & Bldg. Co., 13 Colo. App. 455, 59 P. 83 (1899).

Establishment that indebtedness exists in claimant's favor required. A prime requisite to the establishment of a valid mechanic's lien is that an indebtedness exist in favor of a claimant for labor or materials, and where labor performed or materials furnished are in breach of a contract and so unsatisfactory as to require that either or both be redone at equal or greater expense to a property owner, they are without value and do not constitute an indebtedness. Bishop v. Moore, 137 Colo. 263, 323 P.2d 897 (1958); Bushman Constr. Co. v. Air Force Academy Hous., Inc., 327 F.2d 481 (10th Cir. 1964).

A prime requisite to the establishment of a valid lien is that an indebtedness exists in favor of the claimant for labor or materials. Sperry & Mock, Inc. v. Security Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 37 Colo. App. 357, 549 P.2d 412 (1976).

Where owner receives nothing of value subcontractor lacks right to lien. Where the owner receives nothing of value, a subcontractor has no right to a mechanic's lien, and this is so although he might not be responsible for the conditions resulting in the defective performance. Bishop v. Moore, 137 Colo. 263, 323 P.2d 897 (1958); Brannan Sand & Gravel Co. v. Santa Fe Land & Imp. Co., 138 Colo. 314, 332 P.2d 892 (1958).

Showing that materials delivered were actually used unnecessary. It is not necessary for the lien claimant to show that the materials delivered were actually used in the building against which the lien is sought because, where the statutory lien conferred is direct in its nature, one asserting an otherwise valid mechanic's lien will not have his lien defeated by the default of another party, even though such other party's default renders worthless the improvements for which the lien is claimed. Kobayashi v. Meehleis Steel Co., 28 Colo. App. 327, 472 P.2d 724 (1970); Ragsdale Bros. Roofing v. United Bank, 744 P.2d 750 (Colo. App. 1987).

Services in planning and superintending work and erection of mill within section. Plaintiff's services in planning and superintending development work and the erection of the mill were labor upon the property within the meaning of this section. Bushman Constr. Co. v. Air Force Academy Hous., Inc., 327 F.2d 481 (10th Cir. 1964).

Repair work and material included in claim for lien. If, during the progress of construction of a building, repairs become necessary to the completed portion, the work and material for repairs may be included in and made a part of the account for construction and for which a mechanic's lien is claimed. Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P. 744 (1897).

Off-site improvements lienable. A mechanic's lien against an entire subdivision is valid when a portion of the materials supplied and labor performed was on land beneath publicly dedicated streets and outside of the formal boundaries of the subdivision property. Woodcrest Homes, Inc. v. First Nat'l Bank, 15 B.R. 886 (D. Colo. 1981).

Contractor's tools and appliances not with section. A contractor's aids, such as his tools and appliances, not intended to go into the structure or to be consumed, but to be taken away when the job is done, are not within this section. Bushman Constr. Co. v. Air Force Academy Hous., Inc., 327 F.2d 481 (10th Cir. 1964).

Rental fees for equipment not basis for lien. Rental fees for equipment provided to a contractor did not serve as a basis for a lien. Bushman Constr. Co. v. Air Force Academy Hous., Inc., 327 F.2d 481 (10th Cir. 1964).

The inquiry of trial court is limited to determining what labor, services, and material were rendered by a plaintiff to the property upon which a lien is claimed. Brannan Sand & Gravel Co. v. Santa Fe Land & Imp. Co., 138 Colo. 314, 332 P.2d 892 (1958).

Plaintiff entitled to lien absent contract. Where the plaintiff furnished materials to contractor for a building, and there was neither a contract nor memorandum, the materials were deemed to have been furnished at the instance of the owner of the building to be improved, and the plaintiff is entitled to lien. Monks v. Searle, 118 Colo. 493, 197 P.2d 158 (1948).

There can be no statutory agent until the owner, either directly or through some contractual agent thereunto authorized, has moved forward in the construction of the improvement. Stewart v. Talbott, 58 Colo. 563, 146 P. 771, 1916C Ann. Cas. 1116 (1915).

Owner's liability fixed by agent. Where the statutory agent of the owner employed the plaintiff to perform services and labor which he did perform, the liability of the owner to the plaintiff, for the purposes of a lien, was fixed, and the owner could not escape its liability upon the sole contention that, in bringing the suit, the plaintiff failed to allege that he was employed a part of the time by the agent, as principal contractor, and the remainder of the time by him, as subcontractor. Kennicott-Patterson Transf. Co. v. Modern Smelting & Ref. Co., 26 Colo. App. 135, 141 P. 144 (1914).

Property owner not bound by unauthorized act. The owner of property cannot be bound nor his property charged with a lien by the unauthorized act of a lessee in having improvements made on the leased property. Fisher v. McPhee & McGinnity Co., 24 Colo. App. 420, 135 P. 132 (1913).

Lessee as statutory agent. A lessee is not by virtue of the relationship alone the statutory agent of the lessor for the making of improvements. Terminal Drilling Co. v. Jones, 84 Colo. 279, 269 P. 894 (1928).

Contract denying lessee's authority to bind lessor's interest valid. A contract expressly denying to a lessee the authority to bind the interest of the lessors with a mechanic's lien is valid. Stewart v. Talbott, 58 Colo. 563, 146 P. 771 (1915).

Lien claim reduced by damages resulting from claimant's breach of contract. Damages suffered by property owners as a result of the general contractor's breach of his contract to build may be used to reduce the lien claim of that contractor even though his claim includes undisputed amounts which are owed to subcontractors where those subcontractors are not parties to the action and have not filed mechanic's liens. Barlow v. Staples, 28 Colo. App. 93, 470 P.2d 909 (1970).

Unpaid fringe benefit contributions are not part of the value of "labor done" for which a lien may be claimed under subsection (1). Ridge Erection Co. v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 37 Colo. App. 477, 549 P.2d 408 (1976).

Later furnishing material and labor does not validate prematurely filed claim. Since there would be no debt until the materials had been furnished or labor performed, the fact that the materials were later furnished and labor was later performed would not validate a lien claim that had been prematurely filed when no debt existed. Sperry & Mock, Inc. v. Security Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 37 Colo. App. 357, 549 P.2d 412 (1976).

Lien statement inadequate under subsection (4). A lien statement which is defective as a matter of law because the name of each person who performed the labor which is the basis for the mechanic's lien does not appear on the lien statement would also be inadequate under the amendatory language of subsection (4). Ridge Erection Co. v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 37 Colo. App. 477, 549 P.2d 408 (1976).

Wall-to-wall carpeting held to be improvement. See Amco Elec. Co. v. First Nat'l Bank, 622 P.2d 608 (Colo. App. 1981).

Architect's preliminary work constitutes the commencement of an improvement or a structure. Seracuse Lawler & Partners, Inc. v. Copper Mt., 654 P.2d 1328 (Colo. App. 1982).

III. PERSONS ENTITLED TO LIENS.

A. In General.

Section contains enumeration of classes of persons entitled to claim. This section contains an express and exhaustive enumeration of those classes of persons entitled to claim a mechanic's lien and those classes of acts for which such a lien may be claimed. Ridge Erection Co. v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 37 Colo. App. 477, 549 P.2d 408 (1976).

Who may acquire liens. Only those persons in whose favor the right to liens is given can acquire them. Sayre-Newton Lumber Co. v. Union Bank, 6 Colo. App. 541, 41 P. 844 (1895); Lindemann v. Belden Consol. Mining & Milling Co., 16 Colo. App. 342, 65 P. 403 (1901); Grimm v. Yates, 58 Colo. 268, 145 P. 696 (1914).

Under the plain language of subsection (1), "person" includes a corporation, without limitation. Nothing in the statute imposes a residency requirement, whether upon individuals or corporations. There is nothing in the context of the mechanic's lien statutes as a whole that indicates a legislative intent to exclude foreign corporations, whether authorized to do business in the state or not, from the class of persons that may claim a lien. Bob Blake Builders, Inc. v. Gramling, 18 P.3d 859 (Colo. App. 2001).

Persons with ownership interest not included in scope of section. Persons with ownership interests in the property to which they attempt to claim a lien are not included within the protection of this section. Damrell v. Creagar, 42 Colo. App. 281, 599 P.2d 262 (1979).

This section does not include those who merely furnish labor for the benefit of the contractor. Kern v. Guiry Bros. Wall Paper Co., 60 Colo. 286, 153 P. 87 (1915); Skillstaff of Colo. v. Centex Real Estate, 973 P.2d 674 (Colo. App. 1998).

Although this section has been amended numerous times since 1915 but the language in subsection (1) has not changed significantly, it is presumed that the general assembly agreed with this interpretation. Skillstaff of Colo. v. Centex Real Estate, 973 P.2d 674 (Colo. App. 1998).

Applying this interpretation, the court did not err in finding this section inapplicable to a temporary personnel agency. Skillstaff of Colo. v. Centex Real Estate, 973 P.2d 674 (Colo. App. 1998).

Trustees have no lien claim for unpaid contributions to employee trusts. Conspicuously absent from the list of classes of persons entitled to claim a mechanic's lien and classes of acts for which such a lien may be claimed is the express grant of a lien claim to trustees for unpaid contributions to employee trusts. Ridge Erection Co. v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 37 Colo. App. 477, 549 P.2d 408 (1976).

Claimants must bring themselves within section's purview. Persons claiming the benefit of this section must bring themselves clearly within its purview, as belonging to some class in whose favor the remedy is allowed, because outside of the terms of this section, no lien can attach. Pitschke v. Pope, 20 Colo. App. 328, 78 P. 1077 (1904); Groth v. Stahl, 3 Colo. App. 8, 30 P. 1051 (1892).

This section is to be construed liberally in favor of lien claimants. However, it is incumbent upon the claimant to prove that he is entitled to the benefits of the section. C & W Elec., Inc. v. Casa Dorado Corp., 34 Colo. 117, 523 P.2d 137 (1974).

Lien failed absent owner's request for work done. Where claimant was employed by defendant to perform labor on modular homes in defendant's factory, claimant's mechanic's lien failed because at the time claimant's labor was performed no owner of real property had requested either directly or indirectly that the work be done. C & W Elec., Inc. v. Casa Dorado Corp., 34 Colo. App. 117, 523 P.2d 137 (1974).

When third-party's lien attaches. When a third-party lien claimant is involved, the vital question is whether the improvement was affixed to the property with the intention that it should become part of the premises. If it was, then the lien may attach to the owner's property. Thirteenth St. Corp. v. A-1 Plumbing & Heating Co., 640 P.2d 1130 (Colo. 1982).

B. Materialmen.

Section gives to materialmen direct lien, regardless of the state of the account between the owner and the contractor. Great W. Sugar Co. v. Gilcrest Lumber Co., 25 Colo. App. 1, 136 P. 553 (1913).

Materialman must prove knowledge of use of material. The materialman must, at the time when he furnishes his material, know that it is to be used in some particular building; in the absence of proof of this character, he has failed to establish his right to maintain a lien. Tabor-Pierce Lumber Co. v. Int'l. Trust Co., 19 Colo. App. 108, 75 P. 150 (1903); Salzer Lumber Co. v. Lindenmeier, 54 Colo. 491, 131 P. 442 (1913); Beco Equip. Co. v. Box, 44 Colo. App. 88, 608 P.2d 850 (1980).

It is necessary to prove that at the time the material was furnished there was a mutual understanding between the materialman and the contractor that the material was furnished to be used in the construction of a particular building or the improvement of certain property; or, at least, that there was such understanding upon the part of the materialman, and, in the absence of such proof, the lien cannot be sustained. Milwaukee Gold Mining Co. v. Tomkins-Cristy Hdwe. Co., 26 Colo. App. 155, 141 P. 527 (1914).

Material must be furnished to be actually used and wrought into the structure to become a part thereof, or to be directly consumed to its betterment, and be of the kind called for in the contract between the owner and contractor, or between the contractor and subcontractor, before a lien will lie therefor; it is unnecessary that the material, in all cases, shall be actually used and wrought into the structure. Farmer's Irrigation Co. v. Kamm, 55 Colo. 440, 135 P. 766 (1913).

In order to give a materialman a lien, material must be furnished to be used in the construction in the sense that it is to be wrought up in the structure so as to become a part of it when completed, or that the material is to be directly consumed in the structure so as to improve it. Farmer's Irrigation Co. v. Kamm, 55 Colo. 440, 135 P. 766 (1913); Small v. Foley, 8 Colo. App. 435, 47 P. 64 (1896).

No lien existed for materials furnished to be used as aids. No lien existed for materials furnished to be used about the construction, as an aid to the contractor in the performance of his work, as his tools and appliances are aids, and which were not intended to go into the structure, or to be directly consumed in its betterment, but were to be taken away when the work was completed, as the tools and appliances are taken away. Farmer's Irrigation Co. v. Kamm, 55 Colo. 440, 135 P. 766 (1913).

It is the duty of the materialman to ascertain whether or not such material is of the kind required by the subcontractor under his contract to put into the structure, for an agent constituted for a particular purpose and under a limited and circumscribed power cannot bind his principal by any act beyond his authority. Farmer's Irrigation Co. v. Kamm, 55 Colo. 440, 135 P. 766 (1913).

Where materialman knows materials to be used elsewhere, lien unenforceable. If the materialman furnished material with knowledge that some of it was to be used in the construction of other buildings, it could not, as against a mortgage, enforce a lien for the material it knew was to be so used, because such material could not be said to have been furnished for the purpose of being used in the construction of the building upon which a lien is claimed. Mortgage

Lien of materialman is independent of contract between the owner and the principal contractor. Lewis v. Martin, 30 Colo. App. 342, 492 P.2d 877 (1971).

Privity of contract obviates necessity of materialmen contacting owner. Privity of contract between owners of the property and materialmen is created by this section wherein the contractor is made the agent of the owner, and obviates the necessity of the materialmen contacting the owner in any manner whatsoever. W.B. Barr Lumber Co. v. Thompson, 131 Colo. 347, 281 P.2d 1016 (1955).

Materialman's right to lien not deprived by contractor's defective work. Defective work done by the general contractor or his employees, which results in damage or a lack of benefit to the owners, does not deprive a materialman of his right to a lien. Lewis v. Martin, 30 Colo. App. 342, 492 P.2d 877 (1971).

Because the rule that where the labor or materials furnished are in breach of the contract and so unsatisfactory as to require that either or both be redone at equal or greater expense, clearly they are without value to the property owner and do not constitute an indebtedness, has no application in dealing with the lien of materialmen for materials supplied for the construction of a building if there has been neither claim nor proof that the materials provided at the request of the general contractor were either defective, unsuitable, or not required for the building, and there is no allegation of any wrongdoing on the part of the materialmen. Lewis v. Martin, 30 Colo. App. 342, 492 P.2d 877 (1971).

Lumber company had no contractual relationship with homeowners who purchased prefabricated kit to construct a log home where lumber company merely wholesaled materials to seller of kits and delivered them at its arrangement. Schneider v. J.W. Metz Lumber Co., 715 P.2d 329 (Colo. 1986).

Lumber company not entitled to mechanics' lien on homeowners' property because log home company which sold prefabricated kits not considered as principal contractor nor considered as agent of lumber company. Schneider v. J.W. Metz Lumber Co., 715 P.2d 329 (Colo. 1986).

C. Subcontractors.

"Subcontractor". Any person who agrees to perform a substantial, specified portion of the work of construction of a given building which is the subject of a general construction contract in accordance with the plans and specifications of such contract is a subcontractor or an owner's statutory agent within the meaning of this article, and this applies even though he does not undertake to incorporate such portion of the projected structure into the building itself. Kobayashi v. Meehleis Steel Co., 28 Colo. App. 327, 472 P.2d 724 (1970).

Where steel products were furnished to one who admittedly was engaged in the construction of significant components of the building, which components, if acceptable, were destined for incorporation into the building structure, the fact that the party constructing the building components was away from the jobsite and in effect a subcontractor is without significance since, as a matter of statutory construction, such a person would be a subcontractor within the meaning of this article. Kobayashi v. Meehleis Steel Co., 28 Colo. App. 327, 472 P.2d 724 (1970).

One contracting to do particular part of work entitled to lien. Where one contracts with the principal contractor to do some particular part of the work and to furnish material and labor for that purpose, he may be entitled to a lien for the value of both. Kern v. Guiry Bros. Wall Paper Co., 60 Colo. 286, 153 P. 87 (1915).

Agency between subcontractor and owner is special. While this section makes the subcontractor the agent of the owner, the agency thus created is a special one and the authority is limited to the procurement of material reasonably sufficient and necessary to go into the structure in accordance with the terms of the contract. Farmer's Irrigation Co. v. Kamm, 55 Colo. 440, 135 P. 766 (1913).

Section gives to subcontractors direct lien, regardless of the state of the account between the owner and the contractor. Great W. Sugar Co. v. Gilcrest Lumber Co., 25 Colo. App. 1, 136 P. 553 (1913).

Conceptions of right to subcontractor's lien. There are two distinct conceptions of the right to a subcontractor's lien recognized by the statutes of the various states: (1) That such liens are allowed by statute through a species of equitable subrogation to the contract between the owner and his contractor; and (2) that such liens are allowed because of the enhanced value of the property caused by the labor and material so contributed to it by the consent of the owner through his contractor, made his agent by this section; the latter is the conception adopted in this state. Great W. Sugar Co. v. Gilcrest Lumber Co., 25 Colo. App. 1, 136 P. 553 (1913).

Protected claimants are those who have a direct relationship with the contractor or one whose acts in purchasing labor and materials are imputed to him. Although subcontractors are not in privity of contract with the owner of the property they are in privity with the general contractor. Western Metal v. Acoustical and Const., 851 P.2d 875 (Colo. 1993).

Amount for which subcontractor is entitled to his statutory lien and action is not always to be measured by the extent of his valid claim against the principal contractor because, where, by the default or neglect of the principal contractor, the subcontractor is obliged to remain idle, and suffers loss in consequence, he may undoubtedly recover of the contractor; but such damages could constitute no valid claim against the owner. Tabor v. Armstrong, 9 Colo. 285, 12 P. 157 (1886).

Subcontractors not paid by contractor entitled to lien. By agreeing to make check payable to both contractor and subcontractor jointly, the project owner ratified the account between the contractor and subcontractor. This is sufficient basis for a personal judgment against the project owner. Buttermore v. Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., 721 P.2d 701 (Colo. App. 1986).

D. Others.

Subsection (1) expressly includes architects and engineers in the class of those eligible for mechanic's liens. Bankers Trust Co. v. El Paso Pre-Cast Co., 192 Colo. 468, 560 P.2d 457 (1977).

An architect who, pursuant to a contract with the owner of real property, prepares plans and specifications for construction of improvements upon that property may assert a mechanic's lien even though the improvements are not subsequently erected. James H. Stewart & Assoc. v. Naredel of Colo., Inc., 39 Colo. App. 552, 571 P.2d 738 (1977).

An owner who directly authorizes another to hire an architect to draft plans for improvements on the owner's property may be subject to an architect's lien. Chambliss/Jenkins Assocs. v. Forster, 650 P.2d 1315 (Colo. App. 1982).

An architect who provides plans for proposed property improvements at a property owner's request, is permitted to file a lien against the owner's property. Seracuse Lawler & Partners, Inc. v. Copper Mt., 654 P.2d 1328 (Colo. App. 1982).

An architect who performs work which constitutes basic services under a contract and at the request of the owner is entitled to impose a mechanics lien for such work. Sheldon v. Platte Valley Sav., 794 P.2d 1083 (Colo. App. 1990).

Initial architects entitled to lien for preparation of original plans. Where architects prepared plans for the construction of a building and thereafter other architects prepared plans which were used, but in which were incorporated fundamental principles, features, and treatment contained in the original plans, the first architects, having rendered their services upon the faith and credit of the real property and building to be erected thereon, were entitled to a lien for their services. Park Lane Props. v. Fisher, 89 Colo. 591, 5 P.2d 577 (1931).

Superintendence of building construction lienable. The superintendence of the construction of a building is work for which this section gives a lien, but going to distant places to hurry up the parties who had contracted to furnish material for the building was not superintending the work of construction, nor is it embraced in any of the classes of service for which a lien is given by this section. Pitschke v. Pope, 20 Colo. App. 328, 78 P. 1077 (1904).

Services performed by attorney for a developer are not lienable items under the mechanics' lien statute. Laurence J. Rich v. First Interstate, 807 P.2d 1199 (Colo. App. 1990).

Engineers who perform professional services have a lien against the property upon which they rendered services if the services are performed at the request of the owner or a person acting under the owner's authority, even though no building or improvement is ever constructed. Such professional services constitute work done on a building, structure, or other improvements. Merrick & Co. v. Estate of Verzuh, 987 P.2d 950 (Colo. App. 1999).

IV. CONTRACTS BETWEEN OWNER AND CONTRACTOR.

Subsections (2) and (3) must be strictly construed, and the claimant must be held to a strict compliance with these provisions before the lien can be held to attach. Mahe v. Shull, 11 Colo. App. 322, 52 P. 1115 (1898).

These provisions cannot be extended by implication so as to embrace within them and render liable a person who was in no sense a party to the contract under which the work was done. Mahe v. Shull, 11 Colo. App. 322, 52 P. 1115 (1898).

Contracts which must be recorded are those entered into between the reputed owner and a contractor, in which certain work is contracted to be done and a certain price is contracted to be paid. Mahe v. Shull, 11 Colo. App. 322, 52 P. 1115 (1898).

Written contract filed to establish lien not required of architect. It is not necessary that an architect, in order to have a lien on property for services rendered in preparing plans, specifications, and estimates for a building, have a written contract filed of record, covering such services. Home Pub. Market Co. v. Fallis, 72 Colo. 48, 209 P. 641 (1922).

Filing of copy of contract shall be complete. The statutory filing of a copy of a building contract or memorandum thereof to protect the owner against certain liens, requires that the substance of the contract, including plans and specifications, if they are made a part thereof, shall be incorporated in the statement that is filed, because this section is imperative and requires that the filing shall not be partial, but complete. Armour & Co. v. McPhee & McGinnity Co., 85 Colo. 262, 275 P. 12 (1929).

Contracts in excess of $500, provided for in subsection (3), refer only to a contract for work to be done or materials furnished in which a "contract price" is to be paid by the owner to the contractor, and not to the contract contained in an ordinary lease in which all payments provided for are to be made by the lessee to the owner. Empire Coal Co. v. Rosa, 26 Colo. App. 230, 142 P. 192 (1914).

Object in requiring filing of contract where contract price exceeds $500. The object in requiring the contract to be filed, where the contract price exceeds $500 under this section, is to protect the owner against liens over and above his contract price and to give general information to all persons who may desire to furnish materials or perform labor on the structure. Armour & Co. v. McPhee & McGinnity Co., 85 Colo. 262, 275 P. 12 (1929).

A purpose of the requirement as to filing the contract or a memorandum is to give notice to a claimant so that he may act intelligently in reference to serving the notice on the owner. Great W. Sugar Co. v. Gilcrest Lumber Co., 25 Colo. App. 1, 136 P. 553 (1913); Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb, 19 Colo. App. 265, 74 P. 786 (1903).

No right to lien exists where contractor fails to perform. Where a contractor fails to perform his contract, no right to a lien, either of the contractor or of the subcontractor, exists. Bishop v. Moore, 137 Colo. 263, 323 P.2d 897 (1958).

Effect of owner's failure to file. Because of the owner's failure to file with the county recorder the contract or a memorandum thereof, all claims for materials furnished and labor done are deemed to have been furnished and done at the instance of the owner and the lien attaches to the full value of such labor and material, irrespective of the state of the account between the owner and the principal contractor. Armour & Co. v. McPhee & McGinnity Co., 85 Colo. 262, 275 P. 12 (1929); Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb, 19 Colo. App. 265, 74 P. 786 (1903).

Status of lien claimant changed for failure to file contract. Where the contract is not filed for record, the lien claimant's status is changed with respect to the time for filing a lien, that is, it becomes a principal contractor and therefore by statute is given three (now four) months from the completion of the work within which to file the lien statement. W.B. Barr Lumber Co. v.

Thompson, 131 Colo. 347, 281 P.2d 1016 (1955).

Lessor's liability not enlarged by failure to record contract. Failure to record a contract between lessee and contractor does not enlarge liability of lessor who was not a party to the contract. Terminal Drilling Co. v. Jones, 84 Colo. 279, 269 P. 894 (1928).

Personal liability imposed for entire amount of contract. This section does not impose a personal liability for the entire amount of a contract involved in a mechanic's lien claim upon a landowner where no privity of contract is shown between him and the lien claimant; the landowner's liability in such case is limited to the value of the labor or materials incorporated in the improvements upon his property. Brannan Sand & Gravel Co. v. Santa Fe Land & Imp. Co., 138 Colo. 314, 332 P.2d 892 (1958).

Subsection (2) does not enlarge the lien rights of the contractor beyond the reasonable value of the materials, labor, and services furnished by it, as provided in this section when construed in its entirety. Rather, if a contract is timely recorded, its price represents the maximum value of all liens that can be asserted. Heating & Plumbing Engineers v. H.J. Wilson, 698 P.2d 1364 (Colo. App. 1984).

Proof required to relieve owner from contractual liability. If the owner of the premises wishes to relieve itself from liability for the labor performed under such contracts, it is necessary that it should show that the contracts were in writing, and that such contracts, or a memorandum thereof, were filed for record, because it is a matter of defense. Kennicott-Patterson Transf. Co. v. Modern Smelting & Ref. Co., 26 Colo. App. 135, 141 P. 144 (1914).

Contractual interest rate applies to lien. The general assembly, by using the clause "any contract or agreement", in subsection (5), has evidenced an intent that the contractual interest rate agreed upon between the claimant and the tenant will apply to a lien against the owner's property. Thirteenth St. Corp. v. A-1 Plumbing & Heating Co., 640 P.2d 1130 (Colo. 1982).

The contract price is the maximum amount which can be encumbered by a mechanics' lien and late charges are not lienable pursuant to this section. Independent Trust v. Stan Miller, Inc., 796 P.2d 483 (Colo. 1990).

38-22-102. Payments - effect. (1) No part of the contract price, by the terms of any such contract, shall be made payable, nor shall the same, or any part thereof, be paid in advance of the commencement of the work, but the contract price, by the terms of the contract, shall be made payable in installments, or upon estimates, at specified times after the commencement of the work, or on the completion of the whole work; but at least the following percentages of the total contract price shall be made payable at least thirty-five days after the final completion of the contract:

(a) Fifteen percent of the first two hundred fifty thousand dollars of the contract price;

(b) Ten percent of the contract price in excess of two hundred fifty thousand dollars up to and including five hundred thousand dollars;

(c) Five percent of the contract price in excess of five hundred thousand dollars up to and including seven hundred fifty thousand dollars;

(d) Two percent of the contract price in excess of seven hundred fifty thousand dollars.

(2) No payment made prior to the time when the same is due, under the terms and conditions of the contract, shall be valid for the purpose of defeating, diminishing, or discharging any lien in favor of any person, except the contractor or other person to or for whom the payment is made, but as to such liens, such payment shall be deemed as if not made and shall be applicable to such liens, notwithstanding that the contractor or other person to or for whom it was paid may thereafter abandon his contract, or be or become indebted to the reputed owner in any amount for damages or otherwise or for nonperformance of his contract or otherwise.

(3) As to all liens, except those of principal contractors, the whole contract price shall be payable in money, and shall not be diminished by any prior or subsequent indebtedness, offset, or counterclaim in favor of the reputed owner and against the principal contractor, and no alteration of such contract shall affect any lien acquired under the provisions of this article. In case such contracts and alterations thereof do not conform substantially to the provisions of this section, the labor done and laborers or materials furnished by all persons other than the principal contractor shall be deemed to have been done and furnished at the personal instance and request of the person who contracted with the principal contractor, they shall have a lien for the value thereof.

(3.5) Any provisions of this section to the contrary notwithstanding, it shall be an affirmative defense in any action to enforce a lien pursuant to this article that the owner or some person acting on the owner's behalf has paid an amount sufficient to satisfy the contractual and legal obligations of the owner, including the initial purchase price or contract amount plus any additions or change orders, to the principal contractor or any subcontractor for the purpose of payment to the subcontractors or suppliers of laborers, materials, or services to the job, when:

(a) The property is an existing single-family dwelling unit;

(b) The property is a residence constructed by the owner or under a contract entered into by the owner prior to its occupancy as the owner's primary residence; or

(c) The property is a single-family, owner-occupied dwelling unit, including a residence constructed and sold for occupancy as a primary residence. This paragraph (c) shall not apply to a developer or builder of multiple residences except for the residence that is occupied as the primary residence of the developer or builder.

(4) Any of the persons mentioned in section 38-22-101, except a principal contractor, at any time may give to the owner, or reputed owner, or to the superintendent of construction, agent, architect, or to the financing institution or other person disbursing construction funds, a written notice that they have performed labor or furnished laborers or materials to or for a principal contractor, or any person acting by authority of the owner or reputed owner, or that they have agreed to and will do so, stating in general terms the kind of labor, laborers, or materials and the name of the person to or for whom the same was or is to be done, or performed, or both, and the estimated or agreed amount in value, as near as may be, of that already done or furnished, or both, and also of the whole agreed to be done or furnished, or both.

(5) Such notice may be given by delivering the same to the owner or reputed owner personally, or by leaving it at his residence or place of business with some person in charge; or by delivering it either to his superintendent of construction, agent, architect, or to the financing institution or other person disbursing construction funds, or by leaving it either at their residence or place of business with some person in charge. No such notice shall be invalid or insufficient by reason of any defect of form, provided it is sufficient to inform the owner or reputed owner of the substantial matters provided for in this section, or to put him upon inquiry as to such matters.

(6) Upon such notice being given, it is the duty of the person who contracted with the principal contractor to withhold from such principal contractor, or from any other person acting under such owner or reputed owner, and to whom, by said notice, the said labor, laborers, or materials, have been furnished or agreed to be furnished, sufficient money due or that may become due to said principal contractor, or other persons, to satisfy such claim and any lien that may be filed therefor for record under this article, including reasonable costs provided for in this article.

(7) The payment of any such lien, which has been acknowledged by such principal contractor, or other person acting under such owner or reputed owner in writing to be correct, or which has been established by judicial determination, shall be taken and allowed as an offset against any moneys which may be due from the owner, or reputed owner to such principal contractor, or the person for whom such work and labor was performed or furnished.

Law reviews. For article, "Property Law", see 32 Dicta 420 (1955). For article, "Mechanics' Liens Relative to Oil and Gas Operations — Part II", see 34 Dicta 373 (1957).

Section relates to manner of making payments. Hayutin v. Gibbons, 139 Colo. 262, 338 P.2d 1032 (1959).

Sections provide contract form between owner and principal contractor. This section and § 38-22-101 provide the form of a contract which may be entered into by the owner and the principal contractor to enable the latter to secure a lien for himself and to enable the former to confine the liabilities to which his property may be subjected to the contract price. Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb, 19 Colo. App. 265, 74 P. 786 (1903).

Parties not prohibited from entering into different contract. This section and § 38-22-101, do not prohibit the parties from entering into another and different contract, and there is no interference with, or abridgment of, their right to contract as they may see fit. Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb, 19 Colo. App. 265, 74 P. 786 (1903).

Agency of principal contractor limited. The agency of a principal contractor, under § 38-22-101 and this section, is a limited agency for the purpose of creating a lien only. Brannan Sand & Gravel Co. v. Santa Fe Land & Imp. Co., 138 Colo. 314, 332 P.2d 892 (1958).

Payment of debt constitutes bar to enforcement of lien. Where the debt for which a lien is claimed has been paid in a manner which is binding upon the party asserting the lien, payment of such debt constitutes a bar to the enforcement of the lien. Am. Irrigation Co. v. Fadenrecht, 30 Colo. App. 28, 489 P.2d 1060 (1971).

For purposes of this section, a lien arises on the date it was perfected rather than the date materials were provided. Wholesale Specialties v. Vill. Homes, 820 P.2d 1170 (Colo. App. 1991).

Regardless of contractor's status as an owner, payment of purchase price or contract amount by homeowner to contractor triggered a complete affirmative defense thereby barring enforcement of plumber's mechanic lien against the homeowner. Koch Plumbing and Heating v. Brown, 835 P.2d 610 (Colo. App. 1992).

Affirmative defense of payment does not require proof of a specific intent on the part of homeowners that the purchase price paid for homes be "for the purpose of payment to the subcontractors and new suppliers". Wholesale Specialties v. Vill. Homes, 820 P.2d 1170 (Colo. App. 1991).

Subsection (3.5) was enacted to protect homeowners from paying for their home twice simply because a general contractor had not paid its subcontractors, and once the homeowner pays the general contractor the full purchase price, the protections in subsection (3.5) immediately apply. Wholesale Specialties v. Vill. Homes, Ltd., 820 P.2d 1170 (Colo. App. 1991); Crissey Fowler Lumber v. FCIB, 8 P.3d 536 (Colo. App. 2000).

Under the plain language of subsection (3.5), where mechanics' liens are recorded prior to full payment by the homeowner, the homeowner cannot assert the defense of full payment because the initial purchase price had not been paid prior to recordation of the liens. Crissey Fowler Lumber v. FCIB, 8 P.3d 536 (Colo. App. 2000).

Because the homeowners had paid their original contractor only part of the purchase price before the liens were recorded, the circumstances did not trigger the intended protection of subsection (3.5) against liens filed after the payment of the full purchase price. Crissey Fowler Lumber v. FCIB, 8 P.3d 536 (Colo. App. 2000).

Applied in Ditto v. Jackson, 3 Colo. App. 281, 33 P. 81 (1893); Aste v. Wilson, 14 Colo. App. 323, 59 P. 846 (1900); Great W. Sugar Co.

v. Gilcrest Lumber Co., 25 Colo. App. 1, 136 P. 553 (1913); First Com. Corp. v. First Nat'l Bancorporation, Inc., 572 F. Supp. 1430 (D. Colo. 1983).

giving personal notice to the owner of claims against the principal contractor is not a mandatory, but it is a permissive, provision. Armour & Co. v. McPhee & McGinnity Co., 85 Colo. 262, 275 P. 12 (1929).

II. NOTICE.

Notice provision of subsection (4) deemed permissive. Subsection (4) which provides for 38-22-103. Attaching of lien - enforcement. (1) The liens granted by this article shall extend to and cover so much of the lands whereon such building, structure, or improvement is made as may be necessary for the convenient use and occupation of such building, structure, or improvement, and the same shall be subject to such liens. In case any such building occupies two or more lots or other subdivisions of land, such several lots or other subdivisions shall be deemed one lot for the purposes of this article, and the same rule shall hold in cases of any other such improvements that are practically indivisible, and shall attach to all machinery and other fixtures used in connection with any such lands, buildings, mills, structures, or improvements.

(2) When the lien is for work done or labor or material furnished for any entire structure, erection, or improvement, such lien shall attach to such building, erection, or improvement for or upon which the work was done, or laborers or materials furnished in preference to any prior lien or encumbrance, or mortgage upon the land upon which the same is erected or put, and any person enforcing such lien may have such building, erection, or improvement sold under execution and the purchaser at any such sale may remove the same within thirty days after such sale.

(3) Any lien provided for by this article shall extend to and embrace any additional or greater interest in any of such property acquired by such owner at any time subsequent to the making of the contract or the commencement of the work upon such structure and before the establishment of such lien by process of law, and shall extend to any assignable, transferable, or conveyable interest of such owner or reputed owner in the land upon which such building, structure, or other improvement is erected or placed.

(4) Whenever any person furnishes any laborers or materials or performs any labor, for the erection, construction, addition to, alteration, or repair of two or more buildings, structures, or other improvements, when they are built and constructed by the same person and under the same contract, it is lawful for the person so furnishing such laborers or materials or performing such labor to divide and apportion the same among the buildings, structures, or other improvements in proportion to the value of the laborers or materials furnished for and the labor performed upon or for each of said buildings, structures, or other improvements and to file with his or her lien claim therefor a statement of the amount so apportioned to each building, structure, or other improvement. This lien claim when so filed may be enforced under the provisions of this article in the same manner as if said laborers or materials had been furnished and labor performed for each of said buildings, structures, or other improvements separately; but if the cost or value of such labor, laborers, or materials cannot be readily and definitely divided and apportioned among the several buildings, structures, or other improvements, then one lien claim may be made, established, and enforced against all such buildings, structures, or other improvements, together with the ground upon which the same may be situated, and in such case for the purposes of this article, all such buildings, structures, and improvements shall be deemed one building, structure, or improvement, and the land on which the same are situated as one tract of land.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Purposes of mechanics' lien laws. Mechanics' lien laws are designed for the benefit and protection of mechanics and materialmen, and should be construed in favor of lien claimants. Darien v. Hudson, 134 Colo. 213, 302 P.2d 519 (1956); Ragsdale Bros. Roofing v. United Bank, 744 P.2d 750 (Colo. App. 1987).

Section applies to construction of new improvements as distinguished from expansion, repair, and remodeling of existing improvements. Lew Hammer, Inc. v. Dash, Inc., 42 Colo. App. 414, 599 P.2d 948 (1979).

Section does not create a lien separate and distinct from § 38-22-101 but merely defines the scope and extent of such liens. F.M. Hall & Co. v. Southwest Props., 747 P.2d 688 (Colo. App. 1987).

Inception of right to lien arises from estoppel. The inception of a right to a lien under this section, coupled with § 38-22-105, arises from estoppel. Stewart v. Talbott, 58 Colo. 563, 146 P. 771 (1915).

Mechanics' lien is prior lien upon improvement. This section and §§ 38-22-105 and 38-22-106 make a mechanic's lien a prior lien upon the improvement, while an existing mortgage remains a prior lien upon the land. Atkinson v. Colo. Title & Trust Co., 59 Colo. 528, 151 P. 457 (1915); Darien v. Hudson, 134 Colo. 213, 302 P.2d 519 (1956); Ragsdale Bros. Roofing v. United Bank, 744 P.2d 750 (Colo. App. 1987).

Mechanics' liens are not entitled to priority under this section over a pre-existing deed of trust expressly intended to secure a loan for construction if: (1) The deed is recorded prior to attachment of the mechanics' liens and (2) the loan proceeds are used for construction purposes. 1st Choice Bank v. Fisher Mech. Contractors, Inc., 15 P.3d 1100 (Colo. App. 2000).

Mechanics' liens are junior and subordinate to an existing deed of trust on the land occupied by the improved building. Darien v. Hudson, 134 Colo. 213, 302 P.2d 519 (1956).

Mechanic's lien filed to secure payment for labor and materials furnished to remodel an existing structure is subordinate to the lien of a trust deed which was in no manner connected with such remodeling, but was recorded more than two years prior thereto and covered the land and all improvements thereon. Stinnett v.

Modern Homes, 142 Colo. 176, 350 P.2d 197 (1960).

Where a deed of trust was given for a loan with the understanding that the loan was to be used for the construction of a building, and the deed of trust, recorded before work on the building was begun, expressly covered the building to be erected the lien of the deed of trust took priority over mechanics' liens to the extent that the loan was actually applied to payment of labor and materials used in the construction of the building. Joralman v. McPhee, 31 Colo. 26, 71 P. 419 (1903).

When lien not held subordinate to deed of trust. Where a portion of money borrowed and secured by a deed of trust is by agreement to be used in improvement of the property, it is unjust to hold that lien claimants furnishing labor and material for such improvements should be relegated to the position of subordinate lien holders. Darien v. Hudson, 134 Colo. 213, 302 P.2d 519 (1956).

Absent language which clearly indicates an intention to waive a mechanics' lien, it will not be supposed that the laborer or materialman intended to relinquish absolutely his statutory right to claim a lien beyond the amount of consideration received. Ragsdale Bros. Roofing v. United Bank, 744 P.2d 750 (Colo. App. 1987).

Mechanics' liens are an exception to the general rule that priorities under the recording statute are established based on the order in which they are recorded. Mechanics' liens are granted priority over the previously recorded interests in specific circumstances. Ragsdale Bros. Roofing v. United Bank, 744 P.2d 750 (Colo. App. 1987).

Applied in Sayre-Newton Lumber Co. v. Union Bank, 6 Colo. App. 541, 41 P. 844 (1895); State Bank v. Plummer, 54 Colo. 144, 129 P. 819 (1912); Terminal Drilling Co. v. Jones, 84 Colo. 279, 269 P. 894 (1928); In re Ben Boldt, Jr., Floral Co., 37 F.2d 499 (10th Cir. 1930); Jones v. Mawson-Peterson Lumber Co., 112 Colo. 493, 150 P.2d 795 (1944); Trustees of Mtg. Trust of Am. v. District Court, 621 P.2d 310 (Colo. 1980); Climax Molybdenum Co. v. Specialized Installers, Inc., 12 B.R. 546 (D. Colo. 1981).

II. ESTATE OR INTEREST SUBJECT TO LIEN.

Section gives lien upon whatever interest owner had when work was begun, and to another or greater interest whenever acquired before the lien is enforced. Home Pub. Mkt. Co. v. Fallis, 72 Colo. 48, 209 P. 641 (1922); Sontag v. Abbott, 140 Colo. 351, 344 P.2d 961 (1959).

Lien which attaches is not limited to estate in fee, but extends to any interest of the person that is transferable, assignable, or conveyable in the real estate at whose instance and upon which a building, structure, or improvement is erected. Horn v. Clark Hdwe. Co., 54 Colo. 522, 131 P. 405, 45 L.R.A. (n.s.) 100 (1913).

Leasehold interest may be subjected to lien. Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P. 744 (1897); Horn v. Clark Hdwe. Co., 54 Colo. 522, 131 P. 405 (1913).

One may be "owner" without legal title. That one who does not have legal title may be the "owner", within the meaning of § 38-22-105, is recognized in subsection (3), which provides that the lien shall extend to any assignable, transferable, or conveyable interest of such owner in the land upon which such building, structure or other improvement shall be erected or placed. Home Pub. Mkt. Co. v. Fallis, 72 Colo. 48, 209 P. 641 (1922); Bankers' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Fleming Bros. Lumber Co., 83 Colo. 335, 264 P. 1087 (1928); Sontag v. Abbott, 140 Colo. 351, 344 P.2d 961 (1959).

Extension of lien to property jointly owned. Whether or not a mechanic's lien may ever be extended to or decreed upon property not embraced in the lien statement, it cannot be extended to and decreed upon such property owned jointly by the owner of the property, included in the statement, and her husband, where no facts were shown to exist which would entitle the lien claimant to a lien upon the husband's interest. Perkins v. Boyd, 16 Colo. App. 266, 65 P. 350 (1901).

Improvement as joint undertaking of lessor and lessee. Where the facts and circumstances disclose that the improvement is the joint undertaking of both the lessor and lessee, the interest in the land of both may be held under the mechanics' lien law for the improvements so made, but in the absence of such proof only the interest of the lessee is liable. Bankers' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Fleming Bros. Lumber Co., 83 Colo. 335, 264 P. 1087 (1928).

When optionee deemed owner of real estate within article's purview. Where the holder of an option to purchase real estate causes building materials to be delivered thereon to thereafter be used in the construction of improvements on the land, and where the option thereafter ripens into fee ownership, the optionee is an owner of real estate within the coverage of this article, and, as such, empowered to impress such a lien upon the real estate to which he directs the delivery of building materials. Sontag v. Abbott, 140 Colo. 351, 344 P.2d 961 (1959).

Liens attach to interest acquired at foreclosure sale. Mechanics' liens attach to the interest acquired by the purchaser at a foreclosure sale through the public trustee's deed. Bankers' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Fleming Bros. Lumber Co., 83 Colo. 335, 264 P. 1087 (1928).

Lien for work done under streets and outside subdivision permitted. A mechanic's lien against an entire subdivision is valid when a portion of the materials supplied and labor performed was on land beneath publicly dedicated streets and outside of the formal boundaries of the subdivision property. Woodcrest Homes, Inc. v. First Nat'l Bank, 15 B.R. 886 (D. Colo. 1981).

III. LIEN ON LAND NECESSARY FOR BUILDING.

Land and building subject to lien. When a vendor requires the construction of a building upon the land contracted to be conveyed, and it is built, the land as well as the building is subject to a lien. Stewart v. Talbott, 58 Colo. 563, 146 P. 771 (1915); Colo. Gold Dredging Co. v. Stearns-Roger Mfg. Co., 60 Colo. 412, 153 P. 765 (1915).

Lien is granted on as much land as is necessary for the use and occupation of the building, that is, all the land which is benefitted and whose value is increased by the improvement. Hess Flume Co. v. La Junta Sub. Land Co., 63 Colo. 236, 166 P. 246 (1917).

Lots need not be contiguous to be lienied together. There is no provision that lots must be contiguous, nor any requirement, except that there must be one contract for all the lots and that the lien must be such as not to be readily and definitely apportioned, because it is the entirety of the contract, not of the lands, that determines the right. Buerger Inv. Co. v. B.F. Salzer Lumber Co., 77 Colo. 401, 237 P. 162 (1925).

Quantity of land necessary for convenient use presumable. Although the lienor is only entitled to the quantity of land necessary for the convenient use and occupancy of the buildings erected, it will be presumed that, in the absence of pleading or proof to the contrary, when the complaint described the land by legal subdivisions and avers that the buildings were erected thereon, the land described is necessary for the convenient use and occupancy of the buildings. Seely v. Neill, 37 Colo. 198, 86 P. 334 (1906).

IV. LIEN ON "ENTIRE STRUCTURE".

Construction of "for any entire structure". The phrase, "for any entire structure", in subsection (2), is not used to designate a completed from an uncompleted building, but to distinguish new structures not before existing, from betterments, repairs, improvements, and the like on previously constructed or existing improvements. Atkinson v. Colo. Title & Trust Co., 59 Colo. 528, 151 P. 457 (1915); Stinnett v. Modern Homes, 142 Colo. 176, 350 P.2d 197 (1960); Powder Mtn. Painting v. Peregrine Joint Venture, 899 P.2d 279 (Colo. App. 1994).

Word "entire", found in subsection (2), is not to be limited to those cases where the lienor may have contracted for or put up the whole structure. Church v. Smithea, 4 Colo. App. 175, 35 P. 267 (1893).

Structure lienable even if never completed. Labor performed and material furnished for an entire structure gives a lien upon such structure, though it is never completed. Atkinson v. Colo. Title & Trust Co., 59 Colo. 528, 151 P. 457 (1915).

Lien on entire structure superior to prior executed deed of trust. The lien of a mechanic for work done in the construction of an entire building on unimproved property is, as to the structure, superior to that of a deed of trust executed prior to the performance of the work. Church v. Smithea, 4 Colo. App. 175, 35 P. 267 (1893).

Lienors' rights where entire structure placed on property subject to prior encumbrance. Where an entire structure is put on the property subject to a prior encumbrance, this section gives the contractor or the lienors, separately or conjointly, the privilege to assert their rights against the newly erected building, and the prior encumbrancer loses nothing to which his security has affixed itself, nor does the lienor get anything beyond that which he may have put on the land. Church v. Smithea, 4 Colo. App. 175, 35 P. 267 (1893).

Enforcement of lien where improvement consists of walls and foundations. In enforcing the lien on an improvement where the improvement consists of basement walls and foundations which cannot be removed and continue to retain any value, this article does not contemplate a course that will destroy the value of the improvement; the only way the improvement can be effectively reached to satisfy the lien against it is to sell the entire property as a whole and pursue some equitable course with the fund realized from the sale which will afford the greatest protection to the rights of all the parties. Atkinson v. Colo. Title & Trust Co., 59 Colo. 528, 151 P. 457 (1915).

Landscaping may constitute expansion of existing improvement. Where landscaping is added to land upon which other improvements have already been erected, the landscaping constitutes the expansion of an existing improvement. Lew Hammer, Inc. v. Dash, Inc., 42 Colo. App. 414, 599 P.2d 948 (1979).

Lien filed against entire project for partial work deemed proper. Where the work is done as a part of an entire project, and could not be readily and definitely divided, it is proper to file a lien against the entire project. Plateau Supply Co. v. Bison Meadows Corp., 31 Colo. App. 205, 500 P.2d 162 (1972).

Allegation or proof of portion of road upon which material used unnecessary. Since subsection (3) gives a lien upon the entire structure for which work or materials are furnished, hence it is unnecessary, in proceedings to enforce a lien for materials furnished in the construction of a railroad, for plaintiffs to allege or prove upon what portion of the road the material was used. Barnes v. Colo. Springs & C.C.D. Ry., 42 Colo. 461, 94 P. 570 (1908).

V. BLANKET LIENS.

The term "blanket lien" is commonly used to refer to "a single lien . . . made, established, and enforced against two or more improvements," although the statute does not specify a name for such liens. Brickman Group, Ltd. v. Compass Bank, 83 P.3d 1167 (Colo. App. 2003), aff'd, 107 P.3d 955 (Colo. 2005).

Claimant has choice of apportionment or blanket lien where former cannot readily be made. Buerger Inv. Co. v. B.F. Salzer Lumber Co., 77 Colo. 401, 237 P. 162 (1925).

Lien extends to multiple buildings where treated as one building. Where several buildings are erected upon a tract of land but are all designated for a united enjoyment or common use, they are to be treated as one building in relation to a mechanic's lien claim; thus, although the lien claimant may have performed work on, or furnished materials for, only one of such buildings, his lien extends to the whole. Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P. 744 (1897).

When sales to different parties covered by single lien. Where material was sold partly to the owner, and partly to the contractor or agent of the owner, but it appeared sufficiently, however, in evidence that it was sold for one purpose on one contract, on one set of buildings, one lien was permitted. Buerger Inv. Co. v. B.F. Salzer Lumber Co., 77 Colo. 401, 237 P. 162 (1925).

When materialman may file claim on different property as one claim. Where material was furnished for the building of three houses and was used indiscriminately in three buildings, and the houses were built crosswise on four platted lots so that each house occupied part of the four lots without any segregation or division of the lots or description of the land on which the different houses were built, the materialman was not required at his peril to subdivide his claim and assign to each house as built the proportion of the debt which it ought in equity to bear, but might file his entire claim on all the houses and lots as one claim. Sprague Inv. Co. v. Mouat Lumber & Inv. Co., 14 Colo. App. 107, 60 P. 179 (1899).

Lien not invalidated by omission of owner's name in statement for lien. The omission of the name of one owner in a statement for a blanket lien does not invalidate the whole lien. Buerger Inv. Co. v. B.F. Salzer Lumber Co., 77 Colo. 401, 237 P. 162 (1925).

A blanket lien that omits property that benefitted from the mechanics' materials and work is valid against the property that is in- cluded in the lien statement. Brickman Group, Ltd. v. Compass Bank, 83 P.3d 1167 (Colo. App. 2003), aff'd, 107 P.3d 955 (Colo. 2005).

Effect of release of part of property covered by blanket lien. The mere release of a part of the property covered by a blanket lien does not effect a release of the remainder. Buerger Inv. Co. v. B.F. Salzer Lumber Co., 77 Colo. 401, 237 P. 162 (1925); Brickman Group, Ltd. v. Compass Bank, 83 P.3d 1167 (Colo. App. 2003), aff'd, 107 P.3d 955 (Colo. 2005).

When amount allowable under lien to be prorated. Where the value of the labor and material can be readily divided and apportioned and the lien is asserted against only a portion of the lienable property, then the amount to be allowed under the lien must be prorated according to the apportionment. Plateau Supply Co. v. Bison Meadows Corp., 31 Colo. App. 205, 500 P.2d 162 (1972).

A trial court's refusal to award pre-sale apportionment of lien, if supported by evidence, must stand. Court did not abuse its discretion in refusing apportionment where trust corporation's request for apportionment was based solely on the relative land holdings of parcel owners and presented no evidence that labor and material provided by lienors could be readily and equitably divided between land owners. Miller, Inc. v. Breckenridge Resort, 779 P.2d 1365 (Colo. App. 1989), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds sub nom. Indep. Trust v. Stan Miller, Inc., 796 P.2d 483 (Colo. 1990).

38-22-104. Lien on mining property. The provisions of this article shall apply to all persons who do work or furnish laborers or materials, or mining, milling, or other machinery or other fixtures, as provided in section 38-22-101, for the working, preservation, prospecting, or development of any mine, lode, or mining claim or deposit yielding metals or minerals of any kind, or for the working, preservation, or development of any such mine, lode, or deposit, in search of any such metals or minerals; and to all persons who do work upon or furnish laborers or materials, mining, milling, and other machinery or other fixtures, as provided in section 38-22-101, upon, in, or for any shaft, tunnel, mill, or tunnel site, incline, adit, drift, or any draining or other improvement of or upon any such mine, lode, deposit, or tunnel site; and to every miner or other person who does work upon or furnishes any laborers, coal, power, provisions, timber, powder, rope, nails, candles, fuse, caps, rails, spikes, or iron, or other materials whatever, as provided in section 38-22-101, upon any mine, lode, deposit, mill, or tunnel site. But when two or more lodes, mines, or deposits owned or claimed by the same person are worked through a common shaft, tunnel, incline, adit, drift, or other excavation, then all the mines, mining claims, lodes, deposits, and tunnel and mill sites so owned and worked or developed, for the purpose of this article shall be deemed one mine. This section is not applicable to the owner of any mine, lode, mining claim, deposit, mill, or tunnel where the work or labor has been performed for or the laborers or materials furnished to a lessee.

VI. LIEN ON FIXTURES.

Fixtures of leasehold estate lienable. A leasehold estate may be the subject of a lien, and logically, it must follow that whatever is a fixture of that estate can be subjected to the same lien. Horn v. Clark Hdwe. Co., 54 Colo. 522, 131 P. 405 (1913).

Article need not be fastened to freehold. It is not now considered as absolutely necessary that an article be actually fastened to the freehold in order to make it a part thereof. Dawson v. Scruggs-Vandervoort Barney Realty Co., 84 Colo. 152, 268 P. 584 (1928).

All-important questions concerning lien of fixtures are the intention of the person who brings the fixture upon the land, the use to which it is to be applied, and its fitness for that use. Dawson v. Scruggs-Vandervoort Barney Realty Co., 84 Colo. 152, 268 P. 584 (1928).

Installation of electric lighting and wiring system lienable. The installation of a complete new electric lighting and wiring system in a hotel building constituted one entire improvement and entitled plaintiff to a lien by virtue of the provisions of this section. Longton v. Husung, 91 Colo. 501, 16 P.2d 423 (1932).

Refrigerator plant connected to building subject to lien. A refrigerating plant, connected to a building by brine pipes and brackets, is part of the freehold, and one furnishing new brine pipes is entitled to a mechanic's lien thereon. Dawson v. Scruggs-Vandervoort Barney Realty Co., 84 Colo. 152, 268 P. 584 (1928).

- II. Persons Entitled to Lien.
- III. Labor or Materials Furnished Lessees.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "Mechanics' Liens Relative to Oil and Gas Operations", see 34 Dicta 207 (1957).

Purpose of section is to broaden and not to restrict the scope of this article. Chain O'Mines v. Lewison, 100 Colo. 186, 66 P.2d 802 (1937).

Provisions of section are governed by the same rules that apply to a lien upon other property. Wilkins v. Abell, 26 Colo. 462, 58 P. 612 (1899); Milwaukee Gold Mining Co. v. Tomkins-Cristy Hdwe. Co., 26 Colo. App. 155, 141 P. 527 (1914).

Services rendered must be at owner's instance. The services rendered, for which a lien is provided thereby, must be such as were rendered at the instance of the owner, or some one of the enumerated persons acting for him. Wilkins v. Abell, 26 Colo. 462, 58 P. 612 (1899).

Work for which lien on mine is given is that which is performed in the development and conservation of the mine and the results of which become incorporated with the mine so as to constitute a part of its value. Barnard v. McKenzie, 4 Colo. 251 (1878); Int'l. Trust Co. v. Lowe, 66 Colo. 131, 180 P. 579 (1919); Climax Molybdenum Co. v. Specialized Installers, Inc., 12 B.R. 546 (D. Colo. 1981).

Planning and superintending development work upon the mines and in planning and supervising the erection of the mill and machinery are services for which a lien on a mine are given. Rara Avis Gold & Silver Mining Co. v. Bouscher, 9 Colo. 385, 12 P. 433 (1886).

Dredge for operation of placer is improvement of the land within the meaning of this section. Colo. Gold Dredging Co. v. Stearns-Roger Mfg. Co., 60 Colo. 412, 153 P. 765 (1915); Tiger Placers Co. v. Fisher, 98 Colo. 221, 54 P.2d 891 (1936).

No lien permitted where lienable and nonlienable items confused. Where proper services are so confused with nonlienable items that the value thereof cannot be ascertained, no lien can be allowed. Empire Coal Co. v. Rosa, 26 Colo. App. 230, 142 P. 192 (1914).

Extraction work done for mine not lienable. Work done in the extraction of coal, from a coal mine, does not give a lien. Empire Coal Co. v. Rosa, 26 Colo. 230, 142 P. 192 (1899).

Words "deposit yielding metals or minerals" include gold bearing sands or gravels, which are commonly known as placers. Colo. Gold Dredging Co. v. Stearns-Roger Mfg. Co., 60 Colo. 412, 153 P. 765 (1915).

Applied in Folsom v. Cragen, 11 Colo. 205, 17 P. 515 (1887); Davidson v. Jennings, 27 Colo. 187, 60 P. 354 (1900); Schweizer v. Mansfield, 14 Colo. II. PERSONS ENTITLED TO LIEN.

Right to lien is given only to those who work or furnish material for the working, preservation, or development of the property, or who should do work or furnish materials upon any shaft, tunnel, incline, adit, drift, or draining of a mine, lode, or deposit. Lindemann v. Belden Consol. Mining & Milling Co., 16 Colo. App. 342, 65 P. 403 (1901); Chain O'Mines v. Lewison, 100 Colo. 186, 66 P.2d 802 (1937).

No mention is made of architects, engineers, or of any professional service at all as is the case in § 38-22-101; if, therefore, under its terms, anyone could acquire a lien for professional services, it must be clearly of that character of service which could be properly denominated work actually done for the working, preservation, or development of the property. Lindemann v. Belden Consol. Mining & Milling Co., 16 Colo. App. 342, 65 P. 403 (1901).

Professional mining expert and geologist not entitled to mechanic's lien on a mine for work done in exploring, examining, and considering a mine with reference to its mineral character and capacity to produce valuable and precious metals, and with reference to the quantity of ore in such mine and its value, and for making a report thereon, done under a contract with the owner. Lindemann v. Belden Consol. Mining & Milling Co., 16 Colo. App. 342, 65 P. 403 (1901).

Disbursing agent and accountant not entitled to lien. Rara Avis Gold & Silver Mining Co. v. Bouscher, 9 Colo. 385, 12 P. 433 (1886).

When general manager of mining company not entitled to lien for salary. Where the general manager of a mining company serving at a salary, under employment for a term of years, took an active part in the framing and issue of a series of bonds, secured by mortgage of the company's properties, he is not entitled to a lien for his salary, as against the bondholder. Int'l. Trust Co. v. Lowe, 66 Colo. 131, 180 P. 579 (1919).

Those performing work for mine's development entitled to lien. Those, who under contract with the purchaser of a mining claim, perform work for its development, or for discharging the annual assessment required by an act of congress in case of an unpatented claim, are, under this section, entitled to a lien for the value of their labor. Pike v. Empfield, 21 Colo. App. 161, 120 P. 1054 (1912).

Mining engineer entitled to lien for professional service about mine. A mining engineer is entitled to a lien for surveys, superintendence, or other professional services about the mine under § 38-22-101. Int'l. Trust Co. v. Lowe, 66 Colo. 131, 180 P. 579 (1919).

III. LABOR OR MATERIALS FURNISHED LESSEES.

No lien attaches to mine owner's interest for material furnished lessee. A mechanic's lien will not attach to the interest of the owner of a mine, for work done or material furnished a lessee in working or developing the mine, where the work is done or material furnished at the instance of, or under contract with, one whose only interest is that of lessee. Wilkins v. Abell, 26 Colo. 462, 58 P. 612 (1899); Williams v. Eldora-Enterprise Gold Mining Co., 35 Colo. 127, 83 P. 780 (1905); Milwaukee Gold Mining Co. v. Tomkins-Cristy Hdwe. Co., 26 Colo. App. 155, 141 P. 527 (1914); Empire Coal Co. v. Rosa, 26 Colo. App. 230, 142 P. 192 (1914).

Proof required to establish lien for lessees' miners. Miners who work for lessees may not have a lien on the property of the lessor simply because they were hired by the lessee and worked on the property, because there must be some showing to the point that the owner of the realty was in some manner obligated, either because he was a privy and party to the contract of employment or because in some other way than by the lease, he authorized the lessee to contract or because the agreement by its terms gave the lessee authority. Little Valeria Mining & Milling Co. v. Ingersoll, 14 Colo. App. 240, 59 P. 970 (1900); Empire Coal Co. v. Rosa, 26 Colo. App. 230, 142 P. 192 (1914).

38-22-105. Property subject to lien - notice. (1) Any building, mill, manufactory, bridge, ditch, flume, aqueduct, reservoir, tunnel, fence, railroad, wagon road, tramway, and every structure or other improvement mentioned in this article, constructed, altered, added to, removed to, or repaired, either in whole or in part, upon or in any land with the knowledge of the owner or reputed owner of such land, or of any person having or claiming an interest therein, otherwise than under a bona fide prior recorded mortgage, deed of trust, or other encumbrance, or prior lien shall be held to have been erected, constructed, altered, removed, repaired, or done at the instance and request of such owner or person, including landlord or vendor, who by lease or contract has authorized such improvements, but so far only as to subject his interest to a lien therefor as provided in this section.

(2) Such interest so owned or claimed shall be subject to any lien given by the provisions of this article, unless such owner or person within five days after obtaining notice of the erection, construction, alteration, removal, addition, repair, or other improvement, gives notice that his or her interests shall not be subject to any lien for the same by serving a written or printed notice to that effect, personally, upon all persons performing labor or furnishing laborers, materials, machinery, or other fixtures therefor, or within five days after such owner or person has obtained notice of the erection, construction, alteration, removal, addition, repair, or other improvement, or notice of the intended erection, construction, alteration, removal, addition, repair, or other improvement gives such notice by posting and keeping posted a written or printed notice in some conspicuous place upon said land or upon the building or other improvements situate thereon.

(3) This section shall not apply to coowners of unincorporated canals, ditches, flumes, aqueducts, and reservoirs nor to the enforcement of article 23 of this title. The provisions of this section shall not be construed to apply to any owner or person claiming any interest in such property, the interest of whom is subject to a lien pursuant to the provisions of section 38-22-101.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For note, "Uranium Mining Lease", see 27 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 425 (1955). For article, "Mechanics' Liens Relative to Oil and Gas Operations — Part II", see 34 Dicta 373 (1957). For comment on Lierz v. Cook (cited below), see 30 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 220 (1958).

Section has no application to improvements made pursuant to contract, direct or indirect, with the owner of the land. Williams v. Uncompahgre Canal Co., 13 Colo. 469, 22 P. 806 (1889); Miller v. Davis, 26 Colo. App. 483, 145 P. 714 (1914); Stapp v. Carb-Ice Corp., 122 Colo. 526, 224 P. 2d 935 (1950).

Section gives lien for improvements not authorized by any contract between the owner and the person at whose instance they are being constructed, when by his seeming acquiescence through silence, it would be inequitable to relieve his property from a lien for such improvements. Fisher v. McPhee & McGinnity Co., 24 Colo. App. 420, 135 P. 132 (1913); Grimm v. Yates, 58 Colo. 268, 145 P. 696 (1914).

A mechanics' lien may attach to property pursuant to this section, though the owner did not contract for the architectural services. Seracuse Lawler & Partners, Inc. v. Copper Mt., 654 P.2d 1328 (Colo. App. 1982).

Equitable ownership sufficient to come within section. It is not necessary that the owner shall have the legal title in order to come within the provisions of this section; equitable ownership is sufficient. Bankers' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Fleming Bros. Lumber Co., 83 Colo. 335, 264 P. 1087 (1928).

One joint tenant may create lien on his own interest in land in favor of a mechanic. Rico Reduction & Mining Co. v. Musgrave, 14 Colo. 79, 23 P. 458 (1890).

Lien claimants not required to investigate tenant's authority. This section does not impose a duty upon lien claimants to investigate the authority of the tenant to contract for improvements. Thirteenth St. Corp. v. A-1 Plumbing & Heating Co., 640 P.2d 1130 (Colo. 1982).

Architect who does not participate in activities enumerated in this section is not authorized to file a lien pursuant to this section. Chambliss/Jenkins Assocs. v. Forster, 650 P.2d 1315 (Colo. App. 1982).

Claimant not charged with another's mistake resulting in noncompletion. The claimant is not to be charged with another's mistake in judgment which results in the noncompletion of the project. Seracuse Lawler & Partners, Inc. v. Copper Mt., 654 P.2d 1328 (Colo. App. 1982).

Colorado's mechanics' lien statute does not impose any personal liability upon a landowner for work done on the property. Personal liability is permitted only if a contract is proved on which a party may recover regardless of the lien statute. DCB Const. v. Central City Devel. Co., 940 P.2d 958 (Colo. App. 1996), aff'd on other grounds, 965 P.2d 115 (Colo. 1998).

Applied in O'Byrne v. Stirn, 106 Colo. 167, 103 P.2d 13 (1940); Samett v. Whelan, 147 Colo. 41, 362 P.2d 559 (1961); Denver Decorators, Inc. v. Twin Teepee Lodge, Inc., 163 Colo. 343, 431 P.2d 8 (1967).

II. IMPROVEMENTS MADE WITH KNOWLEDGE OF OWNER.

Purpose of knowledge provision of subsection (1) is to provide a lien for improvements when by the owner's seeming acquiescence through silence it would be inequitable to relieve his property from a lien for such improvements. A-1 Plumbing & Heating Co. v. Thirteenth St. Corp., 44 Colo. App. 13, 616 P.2d 141 (1980), aff'd in part and rev'd on other grounds, 640 P.2d 1130 (Colo. 1982).

"Knowledge" means notice. "Knowledge", as it is used in subsection (1), is virtually synonymous with notice. Thirteenth St. Corp. v. A-1 Plumbing & Heating Co., 640 P.2d 1130 (Colo. 1982).

Landlord need not have actual knowledge of possible lien. Section requires only that landlord have notice that materials or labor are being furnished to provide improvements to his property; he need not have actual knowledge that his interests will be subjected to mechanics' liens. A-1 Plumbing & Heating Co. v. Thirteenth St. Corp., 44 Colo. App. 13, 616 P.2d 141 (1980) aff'd in part and rev'd on other grounds, 640 P.2d 1130 (Colo. 1982).

Owner's knowingly permitting improvement fastens lien. This section fastens the lien on the owner's land by his knowingly permitting the property to be improved. Johnson v. Stover, 71 Colo. 445, 207 P. 595 (1922).

III. NOTICE BY OWNER.

Purpose of the posting provision of subsection (2) is to protect suppliers or laborers who enter upon a job site without knowledge of the owner's nonliability. Uni-Build Corp. v. Colo. Sem., 650 P.2d 1300 (Colo. App. 1982).

Burden of giving notice is on owner. The burden of notifying the lien claimant that the owner's interest will not be subject to a mechanic's lien is on the owner. Thirteenth St. Corp. v. A-1 Plumbing & Heating Co., 640 P.2d 1130 (Colo. 1982).

Section provides for actual or constructive notice at owner's option. Stewart v. Talbott, 58 Colo. 563, 146 P. 771 (1915).

Section does not expressly or impliedly exclude other actual notice which may be given. Stewart v. Talbott, 58 Colo. 563, 146 P. 771 (1915).

Once received, notice effective for entire period of construction. Once a person receives notice, whether it be by personal service or by posting, the notice is effective as to that person for the entire period of construction. Uni-Build Corp. v. Colo. Sem., 650 P.2d 1300 (Colo. App. 1982).

Owner's notice not inconsistent with recording statute. That an owner can give notice that his interest is not to be subjected to a lien is not at all inconsistent with the recording statute, article 35 of this title, under whose provisions the same notice can be given in another way; the two statutes can and should be read together and both permitted to stand. Stewart v. Talbott, 58 Colo. 563, 146 P. 771 (1915).

Vendor may relieve premises of lien by posting notice. The vendor of a mining claim may, by posting the proper notice, relieve the premises of any lien on behalf of those who perform development work under contract with the purchaser. Pike v. Empfield, 21 Colo. App. 161, 120 P. 1054 (1912).

Purchaser at foreclosure sale required to give notice. The purchaser at a foreclosure sale becomes the owner, within the meaning of this section, and when it failed to give the statutory notice after it obtained notice of the improvement, its interest is subject to a mechanic's lien. Bankers' Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Fleming Bros. Lumber Co., 83 Colo. 335, 264 P. 1087 (1928).

Purchaser as vendor's agent may be required to post notice. If the contract of sale provides that the purchaser shall post and maintain the notice, he is thereby made the agent of the vendor for this purpose, and his neglect to post the notice is the neglect of the vendor so that the premises are chargeable with the lien. Pike v. Empfield, 21 Colo. App. 161, 120 P. 1054 (1912).

Owner of property leased for oil-well drilling not within section. Where a lease of property authorizes the drilling of an oil well thereon, the owner of the land is not within subsection (2), requiring the giving of notice to prevent liens attaching to his estate occasioned by drilling operations. Terminal Drilling Co. v. Jones, 84 Colo. 279, 269 P. 894 (1928).

Owner not required to post notice where lessee authorized to make improvements. Where a lessee in possession is authorized by the terms of his lease to make alterations or improvements to the leasehold and the same is done by the lien claimant solely at the request of the lessee, no lien will be sustained upon the property of the lessor, and no notice of nonliability need be posted by the property owner. Lierz v. Cook, 136 Colo. 221, 315 P.2d 535 (1957).

Prior lienor not required to give notice. A vendor having a lien for balance due on purchase price is a prior lienor within the meaning of this section, and thus is not required to give notice to a lumber company furnishing materials to the vendee. Baughman v. Foster Lumber Co., 108 Colo. 37, 113 P.2d 423 (1941).

Effect of failure of tenant in common to give required notice. The effect of the failure of a tenant in common to give the notice required by this section is to make a lien for materials furnished prior to a sale of the land superior to her portion of an incumbrance given to secure the purchase price. Seely v. Neill, 37 Colo. 198, 86 P. 334 (1906).

Where estate not chargeable by landowner's failure to give notice. Where work done is such as is authorized by agreement between the landowner and the person at whose instance such work is performed, and is not such as entitles those performing it to a lien, the estate of the landowner does not become chargeable by his failure to give the notice required by this subsection (2). Grimm v. Yates, 58 Colo. 268, 145 P. 696 (1914).

Posting of nonliability notice insufficient to preclude liability under theory of unjust enrichment. F.M. Hall & Co. v. Southwest Props., 747 P.2d 688 (Colo. App. 1987).

Section does not preclude posting of nonliability notice before notice of intended construction is received. F.M. Hall & Co. v. Southwest Props., 747 P.2d 688 (Colo. App. 1987).

Filing a notice of nonliability under Colorado's lien statute, thereby preventing a lien from attaching to an owner's interest in property, does not foreclose a direct claim against a landowner under some contractual theory of liability. DCB Const. v. Central City Devl. Co., 940 P.2d 958 (Colo. App. 1996), aff'd on other grounds, 965 P.2d 115 (Colo. 1998).

IV. PLEADING AND PRACTICE.

Section furnishes rule of evidence, by which, in the first instance, the failure of an owner with knowledge to give the notice therein specified raises the presumption that the owner consented that his property be subjected to a lien; to overcome this presumption that the owner consented that his property be subject to a lien, the owner must go forward with evidence to show that he could not reasonably give the notice, or that he had already effectually given actual notice or such constructive notice as would be given by recording a lease with a provision that the lessor's interest should not be subject to a lien. Stewart v. Talbott, 58 Colo. 563, 146 P. 771 (1915).

Subsection (3) constitutes affirmative defense which, in order to be availed of, must be pleaded by defendant. Clark Hdwe. Co. v. Centennial Tunnel Mining Co., 22 Colo. App. 174, 123 P. 322 (1912).

Facts bringing case within section must be specifically alleged. Where the party seeking enforcement of a lien relies upon the failure of the landowner to give the notice required by this section, his complaint must specifically allege facts which bring the case within the terms of this section. Empire Coal Co. v. Rosa, 26 Colo. App. 230, 142 P. 192 (1914).

Allegations and proof required to enforce lien. One seeking to enforce a lien under this section for improvements made, with the knowledge of the owner, must both allege and prove such knowledge and, further must allege and prove that the materials for which the lien is claimed were furnished to be used in the particular improvement in question. Milwaukee Gold Mining Co. v. Tomkins-Cristy Hdwe. Co., 26 Colo. App. 155, 141 P. 527 (1914).

When allegation or proof of owner's failure to give notice unnecessary. Where it was alleged that an improvement was made with the owner's knowledge, it is not necessary to further allege or prove that the owner did not give the notice of nonliability provided for in this section. Fisher v. McPhee & McGinnity Co., 24 Colo. App. 420, 135 P. 132 (1913).

Architect's preliminary work constitutes the commencement of an improvement or a structure. Seracuse Lawler & Partners, Inc. v. Copper Mt., 654 P.2d 1328 (Colo. App. 1982).

38-22-105.5. Notice of lien law. (1) Upon issuing a building permit for the improvement, restoration, remodeling, or repair of or the construction of improvements or additions to residential property, the agency or other authority issuing the permit shall send a written notice, as set forth in subsection (2) of this section, by first-class mail addressed to the property for which the permit was issued.

(2) The notice shall be in at least ten-point bold-faced type, if printed, or in capital letters, if typewritten, shall identify the contractor by name and address, and shall state substantially as follows:

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO OWNERS: UNDER COLORADO LAW, SUPPLIERS, SUBCONTRACTORS, OR OTHER PERSONS FURNISHING LABORERS OR PROVIDING LABOR OR MATERIALS FOR WORK ON YOUR RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY MAY HAVE A RIGHT TO COLLECT THEIR MONEY FROM YOU BY FILING A LIEN AGAINST YOUR PROPERTY. A LIEN CAN BE FILED AGAINST YOUR RESIDENCE WHEN A SUPPLIER, SUBCONTRACTOR, OR OTHER PERSON IS NOT PAID BY YOUR CONTRACTOR FOR SUCH LABORERS, LABOR, OR MATERIALS. HOWEVER, IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE COLORADO GENERAL MECHANICS' LIEN LAW, SECTIONS 38-22-102 (3.5) AND 38-22-113 (4), COLORADO REVISED STATUTES, YOU HAVE AN AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE IN ANY ACTION TO ENFORCE A LIEN IF YOU OR SOME PERSON ACTING ON YOUR BEHALF HAS PAID YOUR CONTRACTOR AND SATISFIED YOUR LEGAL OBLIGATIONS.

YOU MAY ALSO WANT TO DISCUSS WITH YOUR CONTRACTOR, YOUR ATTORNEY, OR YOUR LENDER POSSIBLE PRECAUTIONS, INCLUDING THE USE OF LIEN WAIVERS OR REQUIRING THAT EVERY CHECK ISSUED BY YOU OR ON YOUR BEHALF IS MADE PAYABLE TO THE CONTRACTOR, THE SUBCONTRACTOR, AND THE SUPPLIER FOR AVOIDING DOUBLE PAYMENTS IF YOUR PROPERTY DOES NOT SATISFY THE REQUIREMENTS OF SECTIONS 38-22-102 (3.5) AND 38-22-113 (4), COLORADO REVISED STATUTES.

YOU SHOULD TAKE WHATEVER STEPS NECESSARY TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY.

(3) The notice prescribed by this section shall not be required when a building permit is issued for new residential construction or for residential property containing more than four living units.

(4) As used in this section:

(a) "New residential construction" means the construction or addition of living units on real property that was previously unimproved or was used for nonresidential purposes.

(b) "Residential property" means any real property, including improvements, containing living units used for human habitation.

(5) To offset the cost of issuing the notice required by this section, the appropriate authority may raise the fee for a building permit by one dollar.

(6) The failure of the agency or other authority which issues building permits to provide the notice required by this section shall not be an affirmative defense to any lien claimed pursuant to the provisions of this article; nor shall the agency or any employee of the agency incur liability as a result of such failure.

(7) The agency or other authority which issues building permits may deliver the notice required by this section personally to the owner of the property, in lieu of mailing the notice as provided by subsection (1) of this section.

38-22-106. Priority of lien - attachments. (1) All liens established by virtue of this article shall relate back to the time of the commencement of work under the contract between the owner and the first contractor, or, if said contract is not in writing, then such liens shall relate back to and take effect as of the time of the commencement of the work upon the structure or improvement, and shall have priority over any lien or encumbrance subsequently intervening, or which may have been created prior thereto but which was not then recorded and of which the lienor, under this article, did not have actual notice. Nothing contained in this section, however, shall be construed as impairing any valid encumbrance upon any such land duly made and recorded prior to the signing of such contract or the commencement of work upon such improvements or structure.

(2) No attachment, garnishment, or levy under an execution upon any money due or to become due to a contractor from the owner or reputed owner of any such property subject to any such lien shall be valid as against such lien of a subcontractor or materialmen, and no such attachment, garnishment, or levy upon any money due to a subcontractor or materialmen of the second class, as provided in section 38-22-108 (1) (b), from the contractor shall be valid as against any lien of a laborer employed by the day or piece, who does not furnish any material as classified in this article.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

For note, "Real Property Relative Priority of Liens — Federal Tax Lien Priority: A Judicial Frankenstein", see 34 Dicta 186 (1957). For article, "One Year Review of Property", see 37 Dicta 89 (1960).

Lien for paving of streets may not relate back prior to dedication and acceptance of streets by city. Section does not abrogate common law rule that public property not subject to foreclosure. City of Westminster v. Brannan Sand & Gravel Co., 970 P.2d 393 (Colo. 1997).

Mechanics' lien laws are designed for the benefit and protection of mechanics and materialmen and should be construed in favor of lien claimants. Darien v. Hudson, 134 Colo. 213, 302 P.2d 519 (1956).

Lien on building and improvements is given preference over any prior lien or encumbrance upon the land on which it is erected. Darien v. Hudson, 134 Colo. 213, 302 P.2d 519 (1956); Kennicott-Patterson Transf. Co. v. Modern Smelting & Ref. Co., 26 Colo. App. 135, 141 P. 144 (1914).

Liens or encumbrances subject to recording act. This section subjects every lien or encumbrance to the effect of the recording act, except such of which the mechanic lienors had actual notice as of the date of the commencement of the work, and they are rendered non-effective as against such lienors and are subordinate to their rights. Credit Fin. Corp. v. Hale & Perry, Inc., 66 F.2d 357 (10th Cir. 1933).

Rule of caveat emptor applies against mechanic as well as in the case of a vendee. Tritch v. Norton, 10 Colo. 337, 15 P. 680 (1887).

Contractor must ascertain interest of other contracting party. If a contractor proposes to erect a building or to put labor or materials on a piece of ground, it behooves him to assure himself of the fact that the person with whom he contemplates making his contract, or for whose benefit he is about to employ means or labor, has such an interest or title unincumbered as will enable him to avail himself of a valid lien. Tritch v. Norton, 10 Colo. 337, 15 P. 680 (1887).

Effect of garnishment. This section does not say that a garnishment of money due a contractor shall be invalid as against the claim of a subcontractor, but only as against the lien of a subcontractor, and when a subcontractor's lien is perfected, a garnishment made while the lien was still inchoate would become invalid by reason of the relation back of the perfected lien; but, if there should never be a perfected lien, the garnishment would be effectual. Schradskey v. Dunklee, 9 Colo. App. 394, 48 P. 666 (1897).

Applied in Small v. Foley, 8 Colo. App. 435, 47 P. 64 (1896); Chicago Lumber Co. v. Dillon, 13 Colo. App. 196, 56 P. 989 (1899); State Bank v. Plummer, 54 Colo. 144, 129 P. 819 (1912); Park Lane Props. v. Fisher, 89 Colo. 591, 5 P.2d 577 (1931); 3190 Corp. v. Gould, 163 Colo. 356, 431 P.2d 466 (1967); Lew Hammer, Inc. v. Dash, Inc., 42 Colo. App. 414, 599 P.2d 948 (1979); Trustees of Mtg. Trust of Am. v. District Court, 621 P.2d 310 (Colo. 1980); Boulder Lumber Co. v. Alpine of Nederland, Inc., 626 P.2d 724 (Colo. App. 1981).

II. TIME WHEN LIEN ATTACHES.

When lien begins. The lien of the mechanic or materialman begins with the commencement of the work or furnishing of the material under an express or implied contract with the employer and attaches upon whatever estate the latter may have at the commencement of such work or the furnishing of such materials. Tritch v. Norton, 10 Colo. 337, 15 P. 680 (1887); Chain O'Mines v. Lewison, 100 Colo. 186, 66 P.2d 802 (1937); Sontag v. Abbott, 140 Colo. 351, 344 P.2d 961 (1959).

Lien relates to date first item furnished. Where it is fairly inferable from the evidence that supplies furnished for the operation of a mine, at different times during a series of months, were furnished under a single contract, the transaction will be regarded as a single one, and the lien allowed therefor will relate to the date of the first item furnished. Int'l. Trust Co. v. Clark Hdwe. Co., 66 Colo. 210, 180 P. 300

Architect's lien relates back to time of commencement of his work on his plans and drawings for the proposed building and is not limited to the time of commencement of actual work on a structure. Sontag v. Abbott, 140 Colo. 351, 344 P.2d 961 (1959).

The services of an architectural firm and an engineering firm in preparing preliminary plans and drawings for a project and in performing engineering work, respectively, constituted "commencement of the work upon the structure or improvement" under subsection (1). Bankers Trust Co. v. El Paso Pre-Cast Co., 192 Colo. 468, 560 P.2d 457 (1977); Weather Eng'g & Mfg., Inc. v. Pinon Springs Condominiums, Inc., 192 Colo. 495, 563 P.2d 346 (1977).

Mechanics' lien not avoided under federal bankruptcy code section which allows the trustee to avoid a lien not perfected or enforceable on the date the petition is filed since, under this section, a mechanics' lien, once perfected, relates back to time of commencement of work. In re Cantrup, 38 Bankr. 148 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1984).

Mechanics' lien relates back to the commencement of the work which in this case was the date on which the subcontractor received notice that it won the contract and began performance. General Growth Dev. v. A & P Steel, Inc., 678 F. Supp. 243 (D. Colo. 1988).

Failure to perfect lien relates back. As a perfected lien has relation backward and holds the land from the time of the commencement of the work, so a failure to perfect the lien also relates back; and, if there is finally no lien, there was none from the beginning. Schradskey v. Dunklee, 9 Colo. App. 394, 48 P. 666 (1897).

Statute presupposes the existence of either a written or oral communication between the first contractor and the owner or lessee in order for a lien to attach. Printz Servs. Corp. v. Main Elect., Ltd., 949 P.2d 77 (Colo. App. 1997).

Whether one is "first contractor" depends on time contract entered. Whether one is a "first contractor" does not depend upon whether the contract is in writing, but rather, at what time the contract, either express or implied, is entered into with the owner. Bankers Trust Co. v. El Paso Pre-Cast Co., 192 Colo. 468, 560 P.2d 457 (1977).

III. PRIORITY OF LIENS.

Priority provisions strictly construed. Priority relates to perfection of the lien, not to the remedial portions of the mechanics' lien statute, and therefore, the statute's provisions governing priority should be strictly construed. Powder Mtn. Painting v. Peregrine Joint Venture, 899 P.2d 279 (Colo. App. 1994).

This section makes subsequent mortgages junior to valid prior mechanics' liens. Howard v. Fisher, 86 Colo. 493, 283 P. 1042 (1929).

Mechanics' liens subordinate to prior deed of trust on land. Mechanics' liens are junior and subordinate to an existing deed of trust on the land occupied by the building. Darien v. Hudson, 134 Colo. 213, 302 P.2d 519 (1956).

A deed or mortgage, recorded before a contract to perform labor was made, or work commenced thereunder, would take precedence over a mechanic's lien. Folsom v. Cragen, 11 Colo. 205, 17 P. 515 (1887); Tritch v. Norton, 10 Colo. 337, 15 P. 680 (1887).

Mechanics' liens subordinate to prior deed of trust on land and future building. Where a deed of trust was given for a loan with the understanding that the loan was to be used for the construction of a building, and the deed of trust expressly covered the building to be erected, and where it was recorded before work on the building was begun, the lien of the deed of trust took priority over mechanics' liens to the extent that the money advanced under the deed was actually applied to payment of labor and materials used in the construction of the building. Joralmon v. McPhee, 31 Colo. 26, 71 P. 419 (1903).

Purchase money lien is not entitled to preference over those asserted by mechanics' lien claimants. Sontag v. Abbott, 140 Colo. 351, 344 P.2d 961 (1959).

Priority of federal tax liens. United States v. Vorreiter, 134 Colo. 543, 307 P.2d 475, rev'd, 355 U.S. 15, 78 S. Ct. 19, 2 L. Ed. 2d 23 (1957).

Purchaser's title paramount to later encumbrances upon property. The title of a purchaser at a sale foreclosing a mechanic's lien is paramount to all encumbrances upon the property after the commencement of the building. Cornell v. Conine-Eaton Lumber Co., 9 Colo. App. 225, 47 P. 912 (1897).

Plaintiff must prove encumbrance is inferior to lien. Where the complaint alleged that an encumbrance was subject to and inferior to the rights and lien of plaintiff, it was necessary for plaintiff to prove that the encumbrance was inferior to its lien. Kennicott-Patterson Transf. Co. v. Modern Smelting & Ref. Co., 26 Colo. App. 135, 141 P. 144 (1914).

"Actual notice" defined. "Actual notice", as used in subsection (1), is such notice as is positively proved to have been given to a party directly and personally, or such as the party is presumed to have received personally because the evidence within the party's knowledge was sufficient to put the party upon inquiry. Powder Mtn. Painting v. Peregrine Joint Venture, 899 P.2d 279 (Colo. App. 1994).

38-22-107. Lien attaches to water rights and franchises. Such liens likewise shall attach to rights of water and rights-of-way that may pertain in any manner to any kind of property specified in this article and to which such liens attach. In the case of corporations such liens shall attach to all the franchises and charter privileges that may pertain in any manner to said specified property.

38-22-108. Rank of liens. (1) Every person given a lien by this article whose contract, either express or implied, is with the owner or reputed owner or owner's agent or other representative, is a principal contractor and all others are subcontractors; and in every case in which different liens are claimed against the same property, the rank of each lien, or class of liens, as between the different lien claimants, shall be declared and ordered to be satisfied in the decree or judgment in the following order named:

(a) The liens of all those who were laborers or mechanics working by the day or piece, but without furnishing material therefor, either as principal or subcontractors;

(b) The liens of all other subcontractors and of all materialmen whose claims are either entirely or principally for laborers, materials, machinery, or other fixtures, furnished either as principal contractors or subcontractors;

(c) The liens of all other principal contractors and all moneys realized in any actions for the satisfaction of liens against the same improvements or structures shall be paid out in the order above designated.

ANNOTATION

Materialmen includes a company furnishing steel to be used in the erection of a building. Atkinson v. Colo. Title & Trust Co., 59 Colo. 528, 151 P. 457 (1915).

Materialman furnishing materials directly to owner treated as principal contractor. A materialman furnishing materials directly to the owner is treated as a principal contractor under this article. First Nat'l Bank v. Sam McClure & Son, 163 Colo. 473, 431 P.2d 460 (1967).

Applied in Bankers Trust Co. v. El Paso Pre-Cast Co., 192 Colo. 468, 560 P.2d 457 (1977); Weather Eng'g & Mfg., Inc. v. Pinon Springs Condominiums, Inc., 192 Colo. 495, 563 P.2d 346 (1977).

38-22-109. Lien statement. (1) Any person wishing to use the provisions of this article shall file for record, in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein the property, or the principal part thereof, to be affected by the lien is situated, a statement containing:

(a) The name of the owner or reputed owner of such property, or in case such name is not known to him, a statement to that effect;

(b) The name of the person claiming the lien, the name of the person who furnished the laborers or materials or performed the labor for which the lien is claimed, and the name of the contractor when the lien is claimed by a subcontractor or by the assignee of a subcontractor, or, in case the name of such contractor is not known to a lien claimant, a statement to that effect;

(c) A description of the property to be charged with the lien, sufficient to identify the same; and

(d) A statement of the amount due or owing such claimant.

(2) Such statement shall be signed and sworn to by the party, or by one of the parties, claiming such lien, or by some other person in his or their behalf, to the best knowledge, information, and belief of the affiant; and the signature of any such affiant to any such verification shall be a sufficient signing of the statement.

(3) In order to preserve any lien for work performed or laborers or materials furnished, there must be a notice of intent to file a lien statement served upon the owner or reputed owner of the property or the owner's agent and the principal or prime contractor or his or her agent at least ten days before the time of filing the lien statement with the county clerk and recorder. Such notice of intent shall be served by personal service or by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed to the last known address of such persons, and an affidavit of such service or mailing at least ten days before filing of the lien statement with the county clerk and recorder shall be filed for record with said statement and shall constitute proof of such service.

(4) All such lien statements claimed for labor and work by the day or piece, but without furnishing laborers or materials therefor, must be filed for record after the last labor for which the lien claimed has been performed and at any time before the expiration of two months next after the completion of the building, structure, or other improvement.

(5) Except as provided in subsections (10) and (11) of this section, the lien statements of all other lien claimants must be filed for record at any time before the expiration of four months after the day on which the last labor is performed or the last laborers or materials are furnished by such lien claimant.

(6) New or amended statements may be filed within the periods provided in this section for the purpose of curing any mistake or for the purpose of more fully complying with the provisions of this article.

(7) No trivial imperfection in or omission from the said work or in the construction of any building, improvement, or structure, or of the alteration, addition to, or repair thereof, shall be deemed a lack of completion, nor shall such imperfection or omission prevent the filing of any lien statement or filing of or giving notice, nor postpone the running of any time limit within which any lien statement shall be filed for record or served upon the owner or reputed owner of the property or such owner's agent and the principal or prime contractor or his or her agent, or within which any notice shall be given. For the purposes of this section, abandonment of all labor, work, services, and furnishing of laborers or materials under any unfinished contract or upon any unfinished building, improvement, or structure, or the alteration, addition to, or repair thereof, shall be deemed equivalent to a completion thereof. For the purposes of this section, "abandonment" means discontinuance of all labor, work, services, and furnishing of laborers or materials for a three-month period.

(8) Subject to the prior termination of the lien under the provisions of section 38-22-110, no lien claimed by virtue of this article shall hold the property, or remain effective longer than one year from the filing of such lien, unless within thirty days after each annual anniversary of the filing of said lien statement there is filed in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein the property is located an affidavit by the person or one of the persons claiming the lien, or by some person in his behalf, stating that the improvements on said property have not been completed.

(9) Upon the filing of the notice required and the commencement of an action, within the time and in the manner required by said section 38-22-110, no annual affidavit need be filed thereafter.

(10) Within the applicable time period provided in subsections (4) and (5) of this section and subject to the provisions of section 38-22-125, any lien claimant granted a lien pursuant to section 38-22-101 may file with the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the real property is situated a notice stating the legal description or address or such other description as will identify the real property; the name of the person with whom he has contracted; and the claimant's name, address, and telephone number. One such notice may be filed upon more than one property, and, in the case of a subdivision, one notice may describe only the part thereof upon which the claimant has or will obtain a lien pursuant to section 38-22-101. The filing of said notice shall serve as notice that said person may thereafter file a lien statement and shall extend the time for filing of the mechanic's lien statement to four months after completion of the structure or other improvement or six months after the date of filing of said notice, whichever occurs first. Unless sooner terminated as provided in subsection (11) of this section, the notice provided for in this subsection (10) shall automatically terminate six months after the date said notice is filed. In the event that said structure or other improvements have not been completed prior to the termination of said notice, a claimant, prior to said termination date, may file a new or amended notice which shall remain effective for an additional period of six months after the date of filing or four months after the date of completion of said structure or other improvements, whichever occurs first.

(11) Upon termination of agreement to provide labor, laborers, or materials, the owner, or someone in such owner's behalf, may demand from the person filing said notice a termination of said notice, which termination shall identify the properties upon which labor has not been performed or to which laborers or materials have not been furnished and as to which said notice is terminated. Upon the filing of said termination in the office of the county clerk and recorder in the county wherein said property is situated, such notice no longer constitutes notice as provided in subsection (10) of this section as to the property described in said termination.

(12) The notices provided for in subsections (10) and (11) of this section shall be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein the real property is located.

Law. 2297 (1982). For article, "The Mechanics' Lien Trust Fund Statute — Theft or Not Theft", see 16 Colo. Law. 1968 (1987).

Construction lenders not deprived of due process. This article does not deprive construction lenders of property without due process of law, even though lien statements are filed ex parte, without prior hearing, and contain conclusory allegations of entitlement to a lien, and the lien may be extended indefinitely by filing an affidavit stating that the improvement has not been completed. Bankers Trust Co. v. El Paso Pre-Cast Co., 192 Colo. 468, 560 P.2d 457 (1977).

To require the full panoply of due process protections before filing a lien statement would impair the notice function of the lien statements. Bankers Trust Co. v. El Paso Pre-Cast Co., 192 Colo. 468, 560 P.2d 457 (1977).

Purpose of this section is to assure that the owner is given notice of liens filed by persons with whom he has not dealt directly. First Nat'l Bank v. Sam McClure & Son, 163 Colo. 473, 431 P.2d 460 (1967); Tighe v. Kenyon, 681 P.2d 547 (Colo. App. 1984).

Where the charges at issue are in the nature of taxes, the lien is already perfected. Pursuant to § 32-1-1001 (1)(j)(I), a district's fees constitute a perpetual lien on and against the property served; therefore, it was unnecessary for a special district to serve a notice of intent to file a lien statement because the district's lien was perpetual and perfected. Skyland Metro. Dist. v. Mtn. W. Enter., LLC, 184 P.3d 106 (Colo. App. 2007).

Materialman furnishing materials directly to owner treated as principal contractor. A materialman furnishing materials directly to the owner is treated as a principal contractor under the mechanics' lien statutes. First Nat'l Bank v. Sam McClure & Son, 163 Colo. 473, 431 P.2d 460 (1967).

Filing of lien notice in county where land located. The party who claims a lien shall file his notice in every county wherein the land or property is located, on which the lien is claimed to cover. Arkansas River, Land, Reservoir & Canal Co. v. Flinn, 3 Colo. App. 381, 33 P. 1006 (1893).

Claimant's status changes where contract not filed as required. Where the contract is not filed for record as required by this section, the lien claimant's status is changed with respect to the time for filing a lien, that is, it becomes a principal contractor and therefore by subsection (5) is given three (now four) months from the completion of the work within which to file the lien statement. W.B. Barr Lumber Co. v. Thompson, 131 Colo. 347, 281 P.2d 1016 (1955).

Indebtedness must exist in favor of claimant. A prime requisite to the establishment of a valid lien is that an indebtedness exists in favor of the claimant for labor or materials. Sperry & Mock, Inc. v. Security Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 37 Colo. App. 357, 549 P.2d 412 (1976).

II. CONTENTS OF LIEN STATEMENT.

A. In General.

Statement of completion time not required.

The statement is not required to state the time of the completion of the work, and a recital of the time of such completion in the statement is not binding on the lienor; he may show by other evidence that the work was completed at a later date. Burleigh Bldg. Co. v. Merchant Brick & Bldg. Co., 13 Colo. App. 455, 59 P. 83 (1899).

Showing of dates material furnished permissible. Lienor may show when either the first or the last material was furnished. Mouat Lumber & Inv. Co. v. Freeman, 7 Colo. App. 152, 42 P. 1040 (1895).

Statement not avoided by misstatement of unrequired material. A statement which contains everything required will not be avoided because it contains a statement or a misstatement of something not required and not material. Bitter v. Mouat Lumber & Inv. Co., 10 Colo. App. 307, 51 P. 519 (1897), aff'd, 27 Colo. 120, 59 P. 403 (1899).

A statement in part for articles not the subject of lien will not vitiate the claim if it was not wilfully false, and the court will permit the claimant by proof to make the necessary segregation, throw out the value of such articles, and declare a lien for the remainder. Lowell Hdwe. Co. v. May, 59 Colo. 475, 149 P. 831 (1915); Barnes v. Colo. Springs & C.C.D. Ry., 42 Colo. 461, 94 P. 570 (1908).

Nondeceptive mistakes overlooked. Mistakes that do not tend to deceive parties interested may be overlooked. Cannon v. Williams, 14 Colo. 21, 23 P. 456 (1890); Wigham Excavating v. Colo. Fed. S & L, 796 P.2d 23 (Colo. App. 1990).

When an account embraced in a lien statement includes items which cannot be made the subject of the lien claimed, it will not defeat the right thereto for the value of those items which are properly chargeable as a lien. Rice v. Rhone, 49 Colo. 41, 111 P. 585 (1910).

The requirement of subsection (1)(a) that a subcontractor on filing a lien statement shall give the name of the contractor to whom material was sold or work performed is for the benefit of the owner, and where a party named in the statement as the contractor was in fact the agent of the owner of the property and purchased the material as such agent, the owner could not be misled. Bitter v. Mouat Lumber & Inv. Co., 10 Colo. App. 307, 51 P. 519 (1897), aff'd, 27 Colo. 120, 59 P. 403 (1899).

Proof of identification not precluded by prior misidentification. That a claimant identified itself as a subcontractor in the lien statement does not preclude it from pleading and proving facts showing it to be a principal contractor. First Nat'l Bank v. Sam McClure & Son, 163 Colo. 473, 431 P.2d 460 (1967).

B. Name of Owner or Reputed Owner.

Failure to name the true owner does not void the lien statement. Campbell v. Graham, 144 Colo. 532, 357 P.2d 366, 94 A.L.R.2d 1165 (1960).

Lien statement is not void because it fails to name the actual owners of the property. McIntire & Quiros of Colo., Inc. v. Westinghouse Credit Corp., 40 Colo. App. 398, 576 P.2d 1026 (1978).

"Reputed owner" is defined as one who has to all appearances the title to, and possession of, the property. Moore Elec. Co. v. Ambassador Bldr. Corp., 653 P.2d 90 (Colo. App. 1982).

"Reputed" construed. The word "reputed", referred to in subsection (1)(a), has a much weaker sense than its derivation would appear to warrant, importing merely a supposition or opinion derived or made up from outward appearances, and often unsupported by fact, and the term "reputed owner" is frequently employed in this sense. Lowell Hdwe. Co. v. May, 59 Colo. 475, 149 P. 831 (1915).

If name of owner is not known, it need not be given and an affidavit to that effect is sufficient, and where the name of the reputed owner is given, no such affidavit is required. Lowell Hdwe. Co. v. May, 59 Colo. 475, 149 P. 831 (1915).

It is sufficient to designate a particular person in the conjunctive as owner and reputed owner, or in the alternative as owner or reputed owner where a statement of the name of the owner or reputed owner is required. Lowell Hdwe. Co. v. May, 59 Colo. 475, 149 P. 831 (1915).

Owner at date lien filed deemed person charged. The owner at the date the lien is filed is the owner who is to be named as the person charged. Rice v. Carmichael, 4 Colo. App. 84, 34 P. 1010 (1893); Sprague Inv. Co. v. Mouat Lumber & Inv. Co., 14 Colo. App. 107, 60 P. 179. (1899).

Lien claimant only chargeable with knowledge of property ownership. A lien claimant can only be charged with knowledge of the ownership of property as apparent upon the public records. Bitter v. Mouat Lumber & Inv. Co., 10 Colo. App. 307, 51 P. 519 (1897), aff'd, 27 Colo. 120, 59 P. 403 (1899).

Statement incorrectly designating owner defective against subsequent lienors. Statement designating owner of an equitable title instead of the owner of the legal title is defective and invalid as against subsequent encumbrancers and lienors although good as against the equitable owner. Sprague Inv. Co. v. Mouat Lumber & Inv. Co., 14 Colo. App. 107, 60 P. 179 (1899).

C. Name of Claimant.

Name of each person performing labor must be set out. There can be no substantial compliance with the requirements of subsection (1)(b) unless the name of each person who performed the labor which is the basis for a mechanic's lien appears on the lien statement. Ridge Erection Co. v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 37 Colo. App. 477, 549 P.2d 408 (1976).

It was not necessary for contractor to name in the statement of lien each subcontractor hired to perform the contract or to list the amounts owed to those subcontractors individually in order to fulfill the requirements of this section where the contractor dealt directly with the developer and thus was the "person" who furnished the labor. FCC Constr., Inc. v. Casino Creek Holdings, 916 P.2d 1196 (Colo. App. 1996).

Where contracts were made with person who held an interest which was part of the "labor done" claimable under § 38-22-101(1), the person has standing to claim a lien under this section and the names of the persons who actually performed the labor were not required. Tighe v. Kenyon, 681 P.2d 547 (Colo. App. 1984).

A verification and second signature is only required when the notice of lien form is signed on behalf of the claimant by another, and is not required when the lien claimant personally signs the form. Sheldon v. Platte Valley Sav., 794 P.2d 1083 (Colo. App. 1990).

D. Description of Property.

Object of a description of the land is to give notice to creditors of, and purchasers from the owners of the property, hence, it is permissible in determining the sufficiency of a description, to consider the interest of the parties to the suit and the rights to be affected. Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P. 744 (1897).

Property must be mentioned in statement for lien to attach. No lien can attach to property other than that mentioned in the lien statement. First Nat'l Bank v. Sam McClure & Son, 163 Colo. 473, 431 P.2d 460 (1967).

Property descriptions in lien statements are adequate so long as they are "sufficient to identify" the property. McIntire & Quiros of Colo., Inc. v. Westinghouse Credit Corp., 40 Colo. App. 398, 576 P.2d 1026 (1978).

Sufficient identification is constituted by description which distinguishes the property sought to be charged from every other piece of property and a notice which gives the numbers of the lots, block, and addition, regardless of the fact that there is no mention of the city, county, or state in which the property is located. Sayre-Newton Lumber Co. v. Park, 4 Colo. App. 482, 36 P. 445 (1894); Pacific Lumber Co. v. Watters, 74 Colo. 147, 219 P. 782 (1923).

Description enabling party familiar with locality to identify premises sufficient. If there is enough in the description to enable a party familiar with the locality to identify the premises intended to be described with reasonable certainty to the exclusion of others, it is sufficient. Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P. 744 (1897).

Description of property by metes and bounds sufficient. A legal description of property by metes and bounds in a lien statement serves the function of accurate identification of the property. McIntire & Quiros of Colo., Inc. v. Westinghouse Credit Corp., 40 Colo. App. 398, 576 P.2d 1026 (1978).

Effect of variance in description. A variance between the description set forth in the lien statement and the actual description is of no consequence where the street address was given. Campbell v. Graham, 144 Colo. 532, 357 P.2d 366, 94 A.L.R.2d 1165 (1960).

Courts reluctant to set aside claim for looseness of description. Courts are reluctant to set aside a claim of mechanic's lien for looseness of description, and it is not necessary that the description shall be either full or precise. Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P. 744 (1897).

Lien should not fail because claimant described too large a tract of land, if the land properly subject to the lien was embraced in the tract described, especially where it does not appear that any innocent party has been misled and prejudiced thereby. Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P. 744 (1897).

E. Amount of Indebtedness.

Purpose of subsection (1)(d) is to have the statement inform any interested party to the actual condition of the account and the amount for which a lien is claimed. Harris v. Harris, 9 Colo. App. 211, 47 P. 841 (1897).

Merely stating balance due is not substantial compliance with this section. Cannon v. Williams, 14 Colo. 21, 23 P. 456 (1890).

Discrepancy by mistake in claim would not affect standing lien. In the enforcement of a mechanics' lien a small discrepancy between the statement in the lien claim and the evidence as to the amount due, which was purely the result of mistake and did not mislead or injure anyone, would not affect the standing of the lien. Chicago Lumber Co. v. Newcomb, 19 Colo. App. 265, 74 P. 786 (1903).

Contents of lien statement including numerous claims. A lien statement which includes a number of assigned claims should set forth each separate indebtedness with credits thereon, but an omission to mention credits is equivalent to a statement that the claim is not entitled to one, and it need not show credit for amounts paid after assignment except as against the gross amount claimed. Small v. Foley, 8 Colo. App. 435, 47 P. 64 (1896).

A lien statement filed by one who is claiming as the assignee of numerous claims must show the balance due with respect to each separate claim; a lien statement which merely states the aggregate amount of indebtedness is defective and insufficient. Ridge Erection Co. v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 37 Colo. App. 477, 549 P.2d 408 (1976).

Statement of claims which fails to show balance is defective. A statement filed by one claiming to be the assignee of numerous demands which sets forth the aggregate amount of indebtedness, but does not show the balance due with respect to each separate claim, was held defective and insufficient. Hanna v. Colo. Sav. Bank, 3 Colo. App. 28, 31 P. 1020 (1892).

A lien statement filed by assignees which contained only the aggregate amount claimed as due and owing to the assignees was inadequate and ineffectual to assert a lien. Ridge Erection Co. v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 37 Colo. App. 477, 549 P.2d 408 (1976).

F. Verification.

Filing of an unverified statement is void and of no effect. Rice v. Carmichael, 4 Colo. App. 84, 34 P. 1010 (1893).

Absence of statement in verification deemed not fatal. The fact that in a verification there is no statement that the affidavit was made in behalf of the claimant is not fatal to its validity. Consumers' Lumber & Inv. Co. v. Hayutin, 75 Colo. 483, 226 P. 860 (1924).

Verification held in substantial compliance with subsection (2). The verification of a claimant to his lien statement that "he has read the same and is familiar with the contents thereof, and that the same is true, as he verily believes, and that the amount therein stated as due is due", and one to the effect that the statement "is true and that the amount of indebtedness therein stated as due is due and unpaid", are in substantial compliance with the requirement of subsection (2). Gutshall v. Kornaley, 38 Colo. 195, 88 P. 158 (1906).

G. Service of Notice.

Statutory notice required to perfect valid lien. The 1975 amendment to subsection (3) demonstrates a clear legislative intent to require statutory notice in order to perfect a valid lien. Daniel v. M.J. Dev., Inc., 43 Colo. App. 92, 603 P.2d 947 (1979); Moore Elec. Co. v. Ambassador Bldr. Corp., 653 P.2d 90 (Colo. App. 1982).

Service of notice under this section is effected when the notice is delivered in person or, in the alternative, when notice is properly addressed, registered, and mailed. No requirement exists that a mailed notice must be received in order to be effective. 6S Corp. v. Martinez, 831 P.2d 509 (Colo. App. 1992).

Service of notice essential for jurisdiction.

The service of the statutory notice is essential to give the court jurisdiction to charge the property. Sayre-Newton Lumber Co. v. Park, 4 Colo. App. 482, 36 P. 445 (1894).

Party improving leased premises not required to make service. Party improving leased premises for the tenant was not a subcontractor, and was not required to serve a copy of the statement. Fisher v. McPhee & McGinnity Co., 24 Colo. App. 420, 135 P. 132 (1913).

Averment of service and filing in complaint with separate causes of actions unnecessary.

Where several causes of action are declared upon in one complaint in favor of one and the same plaintiff, whether the liens are possessed by him as assignee, or in his own right, and where, after the assignment, he has served the written notice and filed the statement required by this section, and whether he has included therein all of said claims owned by him, and for which he has brought suit, it is not necessary to aver in each separate cause of action arising out of said liens that he served the written notice and filed the statement; but it is sufficient if, either at the beginning or the end of the complaint relating to said causes of action, there is a general statement or averment of the service of the notice and filing of the statement. Rialto Mining & Milling Co. v. Lowell, 23 Colo. 253, 47 P. 263 (1896).

Notice served upon purchaser deemed notice to vendor. Under a contract of sale of real estate that requires the purchaser to make certain improvements, the purchaser is the agent of the vendor for the purpose of making the improvements, so that a notice of an intention to file a mechanic's lien for labor and materials furnished in making the improvements, served upon the purchaser, was notice to the vendor. Colo. Iron Works v. Taylor, 12 Colo. App. 451, 55 P. 942 (1899), appeal dismissed, 27 Colo. 310, 61 P. 233 (1900).

Service of corporation upon cashier and bookkeeper held sufficient. The defendant being a foreign corporation, service of the statement of the lien required by this section upon its cashier and bookkeeper, at the factory in the town where the building was erected, was held sufficient. Great W. Sugar Co. v. Gilcrest Lumber Co., 25 Colo. App. 24, 136 P. 562 (1913).

Service upon agent's owner sufficient. Service upon the agent of the owner of the premises in charge of the erection of the building held sufficient. Curtis v. McCarthy, 53 Colo. 284, 125 P. 109 (1912).

Service upon clerk of superintendent of company insufficient. Service upon a clerk of the superintendent of the defendant company, the owner, was not such service as this section prescribes. Union Pac. Ry. v. Davidson, 21 Colo. 93, 39 P. 1095 (1895).

Lien claimant has burden of proving his right to lien under this section and this burden includes the requirement of giving statutory notice. Daniel v. M.J. Dev., Inc., 43 Colo. App. 92, 603 P.2d 947 (1979).

Defense of lack of notice. The owners' failure to raise in their pleadings the defense of lack of notice is not material, and they need not establish prejudice resulting from a lack of notice. Daniel v. M.J. Dev., Inc., 43 Colo. App. 92, 603 P.2d 947 (1979).

Failure to record an affidavit of service of notice of intent upon the principal contractor invalidates the lien. Everitt Lumber Co. v. Prudential Ins. Co. of Am., 660 P.2d 925 (Colo. App. 1983).

H. Time of Filing.

Claimants not required to wait for property's completion. This section does not require that the lien claimants wait until the property is completed, because that time might never arrive. State Bank v. Plummer, 54 Colo. 144, 129 P. 819 (1912).

Lien filed from time changes in work completed. Where after a building is turned over to the owner by the contractor it is insisted by the owner that certain parts of the work are not according to contract and changes are made to make the work comply with the contract, the changes are a part of the construction and the time within which a mechanic's lien must be filed would date from the time the changes were completed. Stidger v. McPhee, 15 Colo. App. 252, 62 P. 332 (1900).

Unnecessary addition to smelter does not extend filing period. The addition to a smelter, after it is put in operation, of conveniences which are not a necessary part of the plant, and without which it can be operated, e.g., trackage facilities for handling ore, buckets and screw conveyors, or a refinery, does not extend the period within which the lien statement must be filed. Mine & Smelter Supply Co. v. Kuenzel Process Smelter Co., 56 Colo. 326, 138 P. 31 (1914).

It is necessary that seasonable filing of lien statements be shown and, unless the evidence shows that the liens were filed within the time required, they are too late. John F. Rice Lumber Co. v. Chipeta Mining, Milling & Smelting Co., 77 Colo. 133, 234 P. 1066 (1925).

Plaintiff must prove statement filed within statutory period. The burden is on the plaintiff to prove that he filed his lien statement within the prescribed statutory period. Stiger v. McPhee, 15 Colo. App. 252, 62 P. 332 (1900); Foley v. Coon, 41 Colo. 432, 93 P. 13 (1907); First Nat'l Bank v. Sam McClure & Son, 163 Colo. 473, 431 P.2d 460 (1967).

"Blanket lien" subject to filing within time limits. Hill Development Corp. v. Cordova, 714 P.2d 927 (Colo. App. 1986).

Time for filing statements commences upon laborers' completion of work. As to laborers working directly for the owner of the property, time for filing lien statements does not commence to run until the completion of the work on which they are engaged. Tiger Placers Co. v. Fisher, 98 Colo. 221, 54 P.2d 891 (1936).

Principal contractor has four months to file lien statement. One who furnishes materials to the owner is a principal contractor, and has three (now four) months after completion of the building within which to file his lien statement. Park Lane Props. v. Fisher, 89 Colo. 591, 5 P.2d 577 (1931); Mortgage Brokerage Co. v. Barr Lumber Co., 91 Colo. 445, 16 P.2d 32 (1932).

Where the contract to furnish material for the construction of a house is between the lien claimant and the owner, the claimant is, in virtue of section 38-22-108 (1)(b), a principal contractor and has three (now four) months after the completion of the building in which to file his lien statement. Platte Valley Lumber Co. v. Courtright, 70 Colo. 57, 197 P. 235 (1921).

A mechanics' lien secures in rem recovery against property, and generally, a party claiming for labor and materials must perfect its lien by filing within four months "after the day on which the last labor was performed or the last material furnished by such lien claimant". Richter Plumbing and Heating v. Rademacher, 729 P.2d 1009 (Colo. App. 1986).

Subcontractor deemed principal contractor for filing time of statement. A subcontractor under a building contract which is not filed for record, is a principal contractor with respect to the time for filing a lien statement. Western Elaterite Roofing Co. v. Fisher, 85 Colo. 5, 273 P. 19 (1928).

Prematurely filed claim. Since there would be no debt until the materials had been furnished or labor performed, the fact that the materials were later furnished and labor was later performed would not validate a lien claim that had been prematurely filed when no debt existed. Sperry & Mock, Inc. v. Security Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 37 Colo. App. 357, 549 P.2d 412 (1976).

Liens held partially valid. Although mechanics' lien claims for the entire cost of a job were filed more than three months after some of the work had been performed, where there was a time lag of over three months during which plaintiff furnished neither material nor labor and plaintiff subsequently furnished labor and material, the statutorily designated period had not commenced at the time of the filing of the lien claim statements, and the liens were valid and enforceable to the extent of the value of the material furnished and labor performed prior to the filing thereof. Sperry & Mock, Inc. v. Security Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 37 Colo. App. 357, 549 P.2d 412 (1976).

It is the date of mailing of the notice, not of its receipt, which establishes the commencement of the 10-day waiting period under subsection (3) before the lien statement itself may be recorded. Weyerhaeuser Co. v. Colo. Quality Research, Inc., 778 P.2d 290 (Colo. App. 1989).

Notice of intent and related affidavit of service must be served upon the owner not less than ten days before the lien statement is filed with the county clerk and recorder, but a copy of the lien may be served on the owner at the same time as the notice of intent without affecting the perfection of the lien. Manguso v. Am. Sav. and Loan Ass'n, 782 P.2d 866 (Colo. App. 1989); United Floor Co. v. Eigel, 807 P.2d 1209 (Colo. App. 1990).

A mechanics' lien statement with accompanying affidavit of service is perfected if it has actually been filed not less than 10 days following proper service of notice of intent to file that lien statement. United Floor Co. v. Eigel, 807 P.2d 1209 (Colo. App. 1990).

III. COMPLETION OF WORK OR CONTRACT.

A. In General.

"Completion" construed. In the absence of any statutory qualifications or definition of the term "completion", it should be construed to mean actual completion, dating from the time when the last work was done. Lichty v. Houston Lumber Co., 39 Colo. 53, 88 P. 846 (1907).

Work completed when essential parts of job completed. Where in a mechanic's lien case involving repairs to a roof, labor of laying the roofing material was completed May 6, but mopping of the seams, which was an essential part of the work, was not done until July 5, following, it was held, under the attending circumstances, that for the purposes of a mechanic's lien, the work was completed on the latter date. Western Elaterite Roofing Co. v. Fisher, 85 Colo. 5, 273 P. 19 (1928).

B. Abandonment of Work.

Section creates a conclusive presumption of completion on proof of 30 days (now 90 days) cessation (now abandonment) from labor. First Nat'l Bank v. Sam McClure & Son, 163 Colo. 473, 431 P.2d 460 (1967).

Labor performed in furtherance of completion not abandonment from labor. Whenever any labor, whatever its character, is performed on a building (or improvement) in furtherance of its completion, there is no cessation (now abandonment) from labor. First Nat'l Bank v. Sam McClure & Son, 163 Colo. 473, 431 P.2d 460 (1967).

Affirmative showing of no abandonment not required. Cases do not require an affirmative showing on the part of the lien claimant that there was no cessation (now abandonment) from labor of 30 days (now 90 days) or more. First Nat'l Bank v. Sam McClure & Son, 163 Colo. 473, 431 P.2d 460 (1967).

Abandonment provisions in subsection (7) are applicable in situations where: (1) Work is abandoned pursuant to an unfinished contract for work on a building, improvement, or structure; or (2) the entire project is abandoned and the building, improvement, or structure goes unfinished. Abandonment occurs at the end of the three-month period, not at the beginning. Merrick & Co. v. Estate of Verzuh, 987 P.2d 950 (Colo. App. 1999).

Burden is upon owner to take advantage of statutory presumption. If the owner wishes to take advantage of this statutory presumption in order to be relieved of liability, the burden is upon him to come forward with sufficient evidence to justify raising the presumption. First Nat'l Bank v. Sam McClure & Son, 163 Colo. 473, 431 P.2d 460 (1967).

Trial court determines abandonment of work. In an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien, whether or not certain work was done during a period when it was alleged there was a cessation (now abandonment) of work for 30 days (now 90 days), is a question to be determined by the trial court. Farmers' Life Ins. Co. v. Connor, 82 Colo. 81, 257 P. 260 (1927).

Engineering services contract constituted work on a building or improvement and, consequently, subsection (7) would extend the filing period if the engineering firm had abandoned work on the project before its completion. Because the trial court found a genuine issue of material fact as to whether the firm had abandoned its contract before completion, summary judgment should not have been entered. Merrick & Co. v. Estate of Verzuh, 987 P.2d 950 (Colo. App. 1999).

C. Trivial Imperfections or Omissions.

Subsection (7) applies to all lien claimants. Kehn v. Spring Creek Vill. I, 38 Colo. App. 550, 563 P.2d 969 (1977).

Subsection (7) applies when project completed. It only comes into play when a project is deemed completed. Kehn v. Spring Creek Vill. I, 38 Colo. App. 550, 563 P.2d 969 (1977).

Extension of filing time by trivial alterations prohibited. It is not competent for mechanics by trivial work and trivial alterations to extend the time within which the lien may be filed. Burleigh Bldg. Co. v. Merchant Brick & Bldg. Co., 13 Colo. App. 455, 59 P. 83 (1899).

A lien claimant may not extend the filing period by doing work related to a trivial imperfection in or omission from work or construction performed on a project deemed completed. Richter Plumbing and Heating v. Rademacher, 729 P.2d 1009 (Colo. 1986).

However, all repairs and shakedown work following the construction of a house need not precede completion. Richter Plumbing and Heating v. Rademacher, 729 P.2d 1009 (Colo. 1986).

Determination of completion date is within the province of the trier of fact and will not be overturned on appeal where the evidence supports its finding. Richter Plumbing and Heating v. Rademacher, 729 P.2d 1009 (Colo. 1986).

All repairs need not precede completion. All repairs and "fixing of bugs" following the construction of a house need not precede "completion". Kaibab Lumber Co. v. Osburne, 171 Colo. 49, 464 P.2d 294 (1970).

Incomplete mantel and fireplace not trivial imperfection. The lack of completion of a mantel and fireplace is not a trivial imperfection or omission from the work. Lichty v. Houston Lumber Co., 39 Colo. 53, 88 P. 846 (1907).

Insignificant plumber's labor months after completion of plumbing trivial. Labor performed by a plumber, of the value of $6.75, months after he had practically completed the plumbing in a building, is "trivial" under this subsection (7). Boise-Payette Lumber Co. v. Longwedel, 88 Colo. 233, 295 P. 791 (1930).

Where the contract was not completed and the architect was performing tasks at the request of the owner pursuant to a contract which had not been terminated, the concept of "triviality" of the work has no applicability. Sheldon v. Platte Valley Sav., 794 P.2d 1083 (Colo. App. 1990).

38-22-110. Action commenced within six months. No lien claimed by virtue of this article, as against the owner of the property or as against one primarily liable for the debt upon which the lien is based or as against anyone who is neither the owner of the property nor one primarily liable for such debt, shall hold the property longer than six months after the last work or labor is performed, or laborers or materials are furnished, or after the completion of the building, structure, or other improvement, or the completion of the alteration, addition to, or repair thereof, as prescribed in section 38-22-109, unless an action has been commenced within that time to enforce the same, and unless also a notice stating that such action has been commenced is filed for record within that time in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county in which said property is situate. Where two or more liens are claimed of record against the same property, the commencement of any action and the filing of the notice of the commencement of such action within that time by any one or more of such lien claimants in which action all the lien claimants as appear of record are made parties, either plaintiff or defendant shall be sufficient.

II. SIX MONTHS LIMITATION.

Time when suit should be brought procedural matter. The time when a suit should be brought is a matter of procedure and within the control of the general assembly so long as reasonable time was provided. Chicago Lumber Co. v. Dillon, 13 Colo. App. 196, 56 P. 989 (1899); Orman v. Crystal River Ry., 5 Colo. App. 493, 39 P. 434 (1895).

Applicability of section. This statute of limitations applies to the joinder of additional parties by amendment. McIntire & Quiros of Colo., Inc. v. Westinghouse Credit Corp., 40 Colo. App. 398, 576 P.2d 1026 (1978); Trustees of Mtg. Trust of Am. v. District Court, 621 P.2d 310 (Colo. 1980).

Materialman may begin his suit at any time within six months after the last material furnished by him or within six months after the completion of the building. Pacific Lumber Co. v. Lieberman, 76 Colo. 332, 231 P. 673 (1924); Meurer, Serafini & Meurer, Inc. v. Skiland Corp., 38 Colo. App. 61, 551 P.2d 1089 (1976).

Right to enforce lien is lost by the failure to commence suit within the time limited. Orman v. Crystal River Ry., 5 Colo. App. 493, 39 P. 434 (1895); Johnston v. Bennett, 6 Colo. App. 362, 40 P. 847 (1895).

A mechanics' lien is extinguished upon the claimant's failure to initiate an action within the statutory six-month period. Where there is no notice of commencement of the action filed, there can be no cloud upon the plaintiffs' title. Schlosky v. Mobile Premix Concrete, Inc., 656 P.2d 1321 (Colo. App. 1982).

Strict limitation makes titles more safe and marketable. Strictly limiting the time during which property is encumbered renders titles to real property and to interests and estates therein more safe, secure and marketable. King v. W.R. Hall Transp. & Storage Co., 641 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1982).

Only one claimant required to begin action within limitation period. This section and § 38-22-111 read together require only that one of the lien claimants begins the action within six months of the completion of the work, and that the filing of such action by one lien claimant is sufficient to meet the six-month time limitation as to all lien claimants, as appear of record, who are made parties either plaintiff or defendant within the six-month limitation period. Bulow v. Ward Terry & Co., 155 Colo. 560, 396 P.2d 232 (1964).

Intervention order relates back to filing date of motion. Order of intervention properly relates back to date of filing of motion to intervene in a mechanic's lien foreclosure action. Franklin Contract Sales Co. v. First Nat'l Bank, 200 Colo. 370, 615 P.2d 684 (1980).

Trial court lacks jurisdiction over intervention granted after limitation expired. Intervention by a mechanic's lien claimant in a pending foreclosure action sought and granted after expiration of the six-month period prescribed by this section does not vest the trial court with jurisdiction to decree foreclosure of that lien and to assign it priority over a deed of trust recorded after the work for which such lien was asserted, had commenced. Cox v. Bankers Trust Co., 39 Colo. App. 303, 570 P.2d 6 (1977).

Late joinder not allowed. Joinder of one lien claimant after the statutory period in an action initiated by another claimant within the time limit is not allowed under this section, nor is tardy joinder of an additional defendant allowed in an action timely brought. King v. W.R. Hall Transp. & Storage Co., 641 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1982).

Six-month period may not be tolled. The mechanics' lien statute contains no specific provisions allowing the six-month period to be tolled. King v. W.R. Hall Transp. & Storage Co., 641 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1982).

Strict application of the six-month limit is based on the principle that extending the lifetime of a perfected lien would vest a lien creditor with greater rights than were granted by the statutory provision creating the right. King v. W.R. Hall Transp. & Storage Co., 641 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1982).

Six-month period may be tolled. 11 U.S.C. § 108 in the federal bankruptcy code tolls the running of the period until 30 days after relief from stay is granted or the underlying bankruptcy case is terminated. In re Cantrup, 38 Bankr. 148 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1984); In re Nash Phillips/Copus, Inc., 78 Bankr. 798 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. 1987).

Where complaint amended after statutory period. Complaint against the owner and principal contractor within the statutory six-month period, followed by an amendment joining a mortgage company and a plumbing and heating company after the expiration of the statutory period, is not sufficient to satisfy the requirements of this section and preserve the enforceability of the claims of both the original plaintiff company and the plumbing and heating company against the mortgage company. Rogers Concrete, Inc. v. Jude Contractors, 38 Colo. App. 26, 550 P.2d 892 (1976).

III. NOTICE OF LIS PENDENS.

Purpose of lis pendens is to give notice to those interested in the property in question that a suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien is on file. Only one such notice is necessary. Bulow v.

Ward Terry & Co., 155 Colo. 560, 396 P.2d 232 (1964).

The purpose of recording the lis pendens notice is to give notice of the pendency of an action to persons who may subsequently acquire or seek to acquire rights in the property. King v. W.R. Hall Transp. & Storage Co., 641 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1982).

Filing of one lis pendens is sufficient notice to subsequent purchasers of pending litigation against property. Abrams v. Colo. Seal and Stripe, Inc., 702 P.2d 765 (Colo. App. 1985).

Notice of lis pendens prerequisite to establishment of lien right. A notice of lis pendens is a prerequisite to the establishment of a lien right as against the owner of property or one primarily liable for the debt upon which the lien is based and, where no such lis pendens is filed, it is error to hold that no such notice is necessary as against the owner of the property involved. Kalamath Inv. Co. v. Asphalt Paving Co., 153 Colo. 109, 384 P.2d 938 (1963).

Bonding pursuant to § 38-22-131 does not excuse failure to record a notice of lis pendens. Weize Co., LLC v. Colo. Reg'l Constr., 251 P.3d 489 (Colo. App. 2010).

Failure to file notice not fatal to claimant's lien. Failure to file notice of lis pendens by one of several lien claimants is not fatal to the lien of the nonfiling claimant when the notice that has been filed discloses the existence and nature of the claim of the nonfiling claimant. Amco Elec. Co. v. First Nat'l Bank, 622 P.2d 608 (Colo. App. 1981).

Notice sufficient even though proprietorship incorrectly identified. Where a proprietorship is incorrectly identified as a corporation in the caption of the lis pendens, but the error is remedied by amendment and the defendants are not prejudiced thereby, the notice is sufficient under this section. Fasso v. Straten, 640 P.2d 272 (Colo. App. 1982).

38-22-111. Joinder of parties - consolidation of actions. (1) Any number of persons claiming liens against the same property and not contesting the claims of each other may join as plaintiffs in the same action, and when separate actions are commenced, the court may consolidate them upon motion of any party in interest or upon its own motion.

(2) Upon such procedure for consolidation, one case shall be selected with which the other cases shall be incorporated, and all the parties to such other cases shall be made parties plaintiff or defendant as the court may designate in said case so selected. All persons having claims for liens, the statements of which have been filed as provided in this article, shall be made parties to the action.

(3) Those claiming liens who fail or refuse to become parties plaintiff, or for any reason have not been made such parties, shall be made parties defendant. Any party claiming a lien, not made a party to such action, at any time within the period provided in section 38-22-109, may be allowed to intervene by motion, upon cause shown, and may be made a party defendant on the order of the court, which shall fix by such order the time for such intervenor to plead or otherwise proceed. The pleadings and other proceedings of such intervenor thus made a party shall be the same as though he had been an original party. Any defendant who claims a lien, in answering, shall set forth by cross complaint his claim and lien. Likewise such defendant may set forth in said answer defensive matter to any claim or lien of any plaintiff or codefendant or otherwise deny such claim or lien. The owner of the property to which such lien has attached, and all other parties claiming of record any right, title, interest, or equity therein, whose title or interests are to be charged with or affected by such lien, shall be made parties to the action.

ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Necessary Parties.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Court's jurisdiction to consolidate actions resolved in Rule 21, C.A.R. proceeding. Contention that district court had no power under subsection (1) to consolidate one action which was pending with another action which had been dismissed with prejudice, and thus, was proceeding without in personam jurisdiction, is a proper matter to be resolved in a Rule 21, C.A.R. proceeding for a writ of mandamus. Columbia Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. District Court, 186 Colo. 212, 526 P.2d 661 (1974).

Co. v. Centennial Tunnel Mining Co., 22 Colo. App. 174, 123 P. 322 (1912); McClung v. Griffith, 127 Colo. 315, 255 P.2d 973 (1953); Nat'l Union Fire Ins. Co. v. Denver Brick & Pipe Co., 162 Colo. 519, 427 P.2d 861 (1967); Rogers Concrete, Inc. v. Jude Contractors, 38 Colo. App. 26, 550 P.2d 892 (1976); Trustees of Mtg. Trust of Am. v. District Court, 621 P.2d 310 (Colo. 1980).

II. NECESSARY PARTIES.

Action must be against all persons against whom priority of lien is claimed. Johnston v. Bennett, 6 Colo. App. 362, 40 P. 847 (1895).

Contractor and lien claimants are parties to action. The mechanics' lien act clearly contemplates that the contractor and all claimants of liens shall be made parties to an action brought to enforce a lien, and that all shall have their rights adjudicated in one action and protected and enforced in one judgment. Union Pac. Ry. v. Davidson, 21 Colo. 93, 39 P. 1095 (1895); Nat'l Union Fire Ins. Co. v. Denver Brick & Pipe Co., 162 Colo. 519, 427 P.2d 861 (1967).

In an action by a materialman or subcontractor to foreclose his lien, the original contractor must be made a party. State Bank v. Plummer, 54 Colo. 144, 129 P. 819 (1912).

The mechanics' lien law contemplates that all lien claimants be made parties to an action to foreclose. Franklin Contract Sales Co. v. First Nat'l Bank, 200 Colo. 370, 615 P.2d 684 (1980).

"Owner" defined. The "owner", referred to in subsection (3), is the person upon whose interest in the property the lien is claimed and sought to be established. Horn v. Clark Hdwe. Co., 54 Colo. 522, 131 P. 405 (1913).

Owner made party if mortgagee joined. If a mortgagee is joined, the owner must also be made a party. State Bank v. Plummer, 54 Colo. 144, 129 P. 819 (1912).

Section places other claimants in category with owner. This section places other claimants of record in the same category as the owner. Hawkins v. Grisham, 69 Colo. 156, 170 P. 187 (1918); San Juan Hdwe. Co. v. Carrothers, 7 Colo. App. 413, 43 P. 1053 (1896).

Lessee as "owner". Where the liens asserted and sought to be established by claimants are limited to the interest of the lessee, he is the "owner" of the property, as contemplated by subsection (3). Horn v. Clark Hdwe. Co., 54 Colo. 522, 131 P. 405 (1913).

Holder of note secured by deed of trust not "owner". The holder of a promissory note secured by a deed of trust is not the "owner" of the land within the meaning of subsection (3). Cornell v. Conine-Eaton Lumber Co., 9 Colo. App. 225, 47 P. 912 (1897).

Subsequent or junior encumbrances deemed indispensable parties. Subsequent or junior encumbrancers, of record at the time an action is brought to enforce a mechanic's lien, are indispensable parties in order to establish the validity of the lien against the property. Hawkins v. Grisham, 69 Colo. 156, 170 P. 187 (1918).

A mortgagee of record, whose lien is junior to that of mechanics, being interested in objecting to invalid lien claims, is a necessary party to a suit to foreclose mechanic's liens on the property. Howard v. Fisher, 86 Colo. 493, 283 P. 1042 (1929).

Purchaser pendente lite is proper party. A purchaser pendente lite of property involved in a mechanic's lien suit is a proper party. Howard v. Fisher, 86 Colo. 493, 283 P. 1042 (1929).

Only one claimant required to begin action within limitation period. Section 38-22-110 and this section, read together, require only that one of the lien claimants begins the action within six months of the completion of the work, and that the filing of such action by one lien claimant is sufficient to meet the six-month time limitation as to all lien claimants, as appear of record, who are made parties either plaintiff or defendant within the six-month limitation period. Bulow v. Ward Terry & Co., 155 Colo. 560, 396 P.2d 232 (1964).

Parties other than owner and claimants not required for lien's enforcement. This section requires no parties to a suit for the enforcement to a mechanic's lien, except the owner and persons having claims for liens; any number of lien claimants may join as plaintiffs, and those who are not made parties plaintiff may be made parties defendant, but persons claiming interests of some other kind in the property involved need not be made defendants. Branham v. Nye, 9 Colo. App. 19, 47 P. 402 (1896).

Holder of note not indispensable party to an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien against the property. Cornell v. Conine-Eaton Lumber Co., 9 Colo. App. 225, 47 P. 912 (1897).

Beneficiary in deed of trust not necessary party. The beneficiary in a deed of trust is not a necessary party to the foreclosure of a mechanic's lien on the premises conveyed by the deed of trust, but where such foreclosure is had without making such beneficiary a party, his interest is not bound thereby, and he may attack the validity of such lien and foreclosure in a subsequent action. Fleming v. Prudential Ins. Co., 19 Colo. App. 126, 73 P. 752 (1903).

Mortgagee not obligated to intervene. The holder of a mortgage or trust deed on property is under no obligation to intervene in an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien involving the mortgaged premises. Stark Lumber Co. v. Keystone Inv. Co., 92 Colo. 259, 20 P.2d 306 (1933).

38-22-112. Allegations of complaint. It is sufficient to allege in the complaint in relation to any party claiming a lien whom it is desired to make a defendant, that such party claims a lien under this article upon the property described; and in case of the intervention of parties, or of the making of new parties, or of the consolidation of actions, so that the issues are in any manner changed or increased, any party to the action shall be allowed to amend his pleadings, or file new pleadings, as the nature of the case may require.

ANNOTATION

Complaint must contain every fact necessary in the creation of a lien. Mouat Lumber & Inv. Co. v. Freeman, 7 Colo. App. 152, 42 P. 1040 (1895); Arkansas River Land, Reservoir & Canal Co. v. Nelson, 4 Colo. App. 438, 36 P. 307 (1894).

In order to entitle a plaintiff to maintain a suit in the nature of a bill in equity to foreclose a mechanic's lien, he must in his complaint allege everything essential to the existence and establishment of his claim, and by allegations — both specific and general — bring himself literally within the terms of this article. Arkansas River, Land, Reservoir & Canal Co. v. Flinn, 3 Colo. App. 381, 33 P. 1006 (1893).

Allegations put in issue must be proved at the trial, whether appearing in the lien statement or not. Mouat Lumber & Inv. Co. v. Freeman, 7 Colo. App. 152, 42 P. 1040 (1895).

In an action to enforce a mechanic's lien against the vendor for labor and materials furnished in making improvements under a contract of sale that required the purchaser to make improvements to a certain value, it was not necessary to allege or prove that the purchaser had not exceeded that amount in making the improvements; if the owner of the property sought to escape liability on the ground that his agent had exceeded the limits of his powers in making the contract for the improvements, it was his duty to aver and prove it. Colo. Iron Works v. Taylor, 12 Colo. App. 451, 55 P. 942 (1899), appeal dismissed, 27 Colo. 310, 61 P. 233 (1900).

Applied in Hall v. Cudahy, 46 Colo. 324, 104 P. 415 (1909); Clark Hdwe. Co. v. Centennial Tunnel Mining Co., 22 Colo. App. 174, 123 P. 322 (1912).

38-22-113. Hearing - judgment - summons - defense. (1) The court, whenever the issues in such case are made up, shall advance such cause to the head of the docket for trial and may proceed to hear and determine said liens and claims or may refer the same to a magistrate to ascertain and report upon said liens and claims and the amounts justly due thereon.

(2) Judgments shall be rendered according to the rights of the parties. The various rights of all the lien claimants and other parties to any such action shall be determined and incorporated in one judgment or decree. Each party who establishes his claim under this article shall have judgment against the party personally liable to him for the full amount of his claim so established, and shall have a lien established and determined in said decree upon the property to which his lien has attached to the extent stated in this section.

(3) Proceedings to foreclose and enforce mechanics' liens under this article are actions in rem, and service by publication may be obtained against any defendant therein in a manner as provided by law, and personal judgment against the principal contractor or other person personally liable for the debt for which the lien is claimed shall not be requisite to a decree of foreclosure in favor of a subcontractor or materialman.

(4) In such proceedings, it shall be an affirmative defense that the owner or some person acting on the owner's behalf has paid an amount sufficient to satisfy the contractual and legal obligations of the owner, including the initial purchase price or contract amount plus any additions or change orders, to the principal contractor or any subcontractor for the purpose of payment to the subcontractors or suppliers of laborers or materials or services to the job, when:

(a) The property is an existing single-family dwelling unit;

(b) The property is a residence constructed by the owner or under a contract entered into by the owner prior to its occupancy as his primary residence; or

(c) The property is a single-family, owner-occupied dwelling unit, including a residence constructed and sold for occupancy as a primary residence. This paragraph (c) shall not apply to a developer or builder of multiple residences except for the residence that is occupied as the primary residence of the developer or builder.

ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Judgments.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Foreclosure action addresses equity. An action to foreclose a mechanic's lien is addressed to the equity side of a court. Am. Irrigation Co. v. Fadenrecht, 30 Colo. App. 28, 489 P.2d 1060 (1971).

Right to a materialman's lien is based upon considerations of natural justice, and it is predicated upon the equitable considerations that one who has enhanced the value of property by attaching thereto or having incorporated therein his material shall have a lien therefor. Jackson v. A.B.Z. Lumber Co., 155 Colo. 33, 392 P.2d 288 (1964).

Article contemplates speedy determination of claims, to the end that mechanics' lienors will not have to wait indefinitely for their money, or for experiments in legal procedure. Howard v. Fisher, 86 Colo. 493, 283 P. 1042 (1929); Tiger Placers Co. v. Fisher, 98 Colo. 221, 54 P.2d 891 (1936).

No prejudice resulted from claimant's failure to serve copy of answer. In a mechanic's lien foreclosure action where a defendant lien claimant failed to serve a copy of its answer and counterclaim on defendant owners, and ample time existed before trial for responsive pleadings thereto, no prejudice to the substantial rights of any litigant to the action, including the right to a speedy disposition of causes of this nature, can occur by permitting service of such answer and counterclaim on the owner defendants. Gould & Preisner, Inc. v. District Court, 149 Colo. 484, 369 P.2d 554 (1962).

II. JUDGMENTS.

Personal judgment rendered for amount due. In an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien, a personal judgment may be rendered for the amount due, notwithstanding no right to a lien exists. Finch v. Turner, 21 Colo. 287, 40 P. 565 (1895); Cannon v. Williams, 14 Colo. 21, 23 P. 456 (1890).

Saving clause in decree held valid. Saving clause in a decree providing that certain trust deed holders should not be affected by its terms, is valid. Stark Lumber Co. v. Keystone Inv. Co., 92 Colo. 259, 20 P.2d 306 (1933).

Decree awarding lien fails in part. A decree awarding a lien, in part for things not the subject of a lien, fails only to the extent to which the allowance is improper. Horn v. Clark Hdwe. Co., 54 Colo. 522, 131 P. 405 (1913).

38-22-114. Disposition of proceeds - execution. (1) The court shall cause said property to be sold in satisfaction of said liens and costs of suit as in case of foreclosure of mortgages; and any party in whose favor a judgment for a lien is rendered, may cause the property to be sold within the time and in the manner provided for sales of real estate on executions issued out of any court of record, and there shall be the same rights of redemption as are provided for in the case of sales of real estate on executions. And if the proceeds of such sale, after the payment of costs, are not sufficient to satisfy the whole amount of such liens included in the decree of sale, then such proceeds shall be apportioned according to the rights of the several parties. In case the proceeds of sale amount to more than the sum of said liens and all costs, then the remainder shall be paid over to the owner of said property; and each party whose claim is not fully satisfied in the manner provided in this section shall have execution for the balance unsatisfied against the party personally liable, as in other cases.

(2) In the first instance without a previous sale of said property to which such liens have attached, an execution may issue in behalf of any such lien claimant for the full amount of his claim against the party personally liable, and he may thereafter enforce such lien for any balance of such judgment remaining unsatisfied. A transcript of the docket of said judgment and decree may be filed with the county clerk and recorder of the county where such property is situated or in any other county, and thereupon said judgment and decree shall become a lien upon the real property in such county of each party so personally liable in favor of any such lien claimant holding any such judgment against any such party so personally liable, as in other cases of recording transcripts of judgment.

ANNOTATION

Assignee of lien claimant has redemption right. Where the proceeds from the sale of land were sufficient to satisfy only a part of a lien claimant's judgment, and thereafter claimant filed with the clerk and recorder a transcript of his judgment, his assignee was a senior lienor and such assignee had the right to redeem. Twogood v. Ocsay, 97 Colo. 300, 49 P.2d 437 (1935).

When allocation of proceeds of foreclosure sale proper. The allocation of the proceeds of a foreclosure sale is proper where the mortgage of the bank provides for the appointment of the receiver and the payment of his costs and expenses lies within the sound discretion of the trial court. Plateau Supply Co. v. Bison Meadows Corp., 31 Colo. App. 205, 500 P.2d 162 (1972).

Applicability of exception to time period under § 38-39-102. The "agricultural real estate" exception to the otherwise applicable 75-day period under § 38-39-102 applies only to foreclosures under mortgages and deeds of trust and is not applicable to sales upon foreclosure of mechanics' liens or upon sale under execution. Kimtruss Corp. v. Westland Manor Nursing Home N., Inc., 39 Colo. App. 542, 568 P.2d 105 (1977).

How execution sale may be set aside. An execution sale may be set aside either on motion in the court which issued the process or in an independent action in a court possessing equitable jurisdiction. Tekai Corp. v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co., 39 Colo. App. 528, 571 P.2d 321 (1977).

Inadequacy of price alone is not a sufficient ground upon which to set aside a judicial sale. Tekai Corp. v. Transamerica Title Ins. Co., 39 Colo. App. 528, 571 P.2d 321 (1977).

Applied in Bassick Mining Co. v. Schoolfield, 10 Colo. 46, 14 P. 65 (1887); Fitch v. Stallings, 5 Colo. App. 106, 38 P. 393 (1894); Howard v. Fisher, 86 Colo. 493, 283 P. 1042 (1929).

38-22-115. Parties to action. Principal contractors and all other persons personally liable for the debt for which the lien is claimed shall be made parties to actions to enforce liens under this article, and service of summons shall be made either personally or by publication in the same manner and with like effect as is provided by law in cases of attachment and other proceedings in rem.

ANNOTATION

Principal contractor is a necessary and indispensable party to an action for the foreclosure of mechanics' liens. Estey v. Hallack & Howard Lumber Co., 4 Colo. App. 165, 34 P. 1113 (1893); Union Pac. Ry. v. Davidson, 21 Colo. 93, 39 P. 1095 (1895).

When principal contractor deemed unnecessary party. When the contract amount is greater than $500 and the contract is not recorded, the principal contractor is a proper, but not a necessary party, and the action is sufficient without him. Bulow v. Ward Terry & Co., 155 Colo. 560, 396 P.2d 232 (1964).

Where several original contractors exist, only one necessary as defendant. In an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien for material furnished a subcontractor, where there are several original contractors, it is not necessary to make more than one of them a defendant; but, if the owners of the property wish the other joint contractors to be made defendant the court may, in its discretion, have them brought in, if they are within its jurisdiction. Barnes v. Colo. Springs & C.C.D. Ry., 42 Colo. 461, 94 P. 570 (1908).

Applied in Decker v. Myles, 4 Colo. 558 (1879); Nat'l Union Fire Ins. Co. v. Denver Brick & Pipe Co., 162 Colo. 519, 427 P.2d 861 (1967).

38-22-117. Assignment of lien - failure to support lien. Any party claiming a lien may assign in writing his claim and lien to any other claimant or other person who shall thereupon have all the rights and remedies of the assignor for the purpose of filing and for the enforcement of any such lien by action under this article, and the assignment shall be a sufficient consideration as to all other parties for the purpose of such action. Such assignment may be made before or after the filing of the statement of lien. Any such claimant, whether as assignee or otherwise, may include all the liens he may possess against the same property in any such statement, and when more than one such claim is included in one such statement, one verification thereto shall be sufficient. Any person may file separate statements of two or more claims. If, on the trial of a cause under the provisions of this article, the proceedings will not support a lien, the plaintiff and all lien claimants entitled thereto may proceed to judgment as in an action on contract, and executions may issue as provided in such cases, and said judgment shall have all the rights of a judgment in a personal action.

ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Assignment.
- III. Right to Personal Judgment.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "One Year Review of Contracts", see 36 Dicta 19 (1959).

Section construed. The only legitimate construction to be given this section is one which will permit the enforcement of the evident legislative intent, which is to enable a plaintiff to recover whenever he is entitled to maintain his action against a defendant, but when there is no privity whatever between a plaintiff and defendant, and no contract established between them, a plaintiff cannot recover. Brannan Sand & Gravel Co. v. Santa Fe Land & Imp. Co., 138 Colo. 314, 332 P.2d 892 (1958).

Applied in Hart, etc., Corp. v. Mullen, 4 Colo. 512 (1878); Small v. Foley, 8 Colo. App. 435, 47 P. 64 (1896); Sprague Inv. Co. v. Mouat Lumber & Inv. Co., 14 Colo. App. 107, 60 P. 179 (1899); Trustees of Carpenters & Millwrights Health Benefit Trust Fund v. Angel-Haus Condominium, Ltd., 36 Colo. App. 133, 535 P.2d 259 (1975); Jordan v. Lone Pines, Ltd., 41 Colo. App. 152, 580 P.2d 1273 (1978).

II. ASSIGNMENT.

Assignment vests enforcement right in assignee. An assignment carries with it the lien and vests in the assignee the right to enforce it. Perkins v. Boyd, 16 Colo. App. 266, 65 P. 350 (1901); Howard v. Fisher, 86 Colo. 493, 283 P. 1042 (1929).

Contract prohibits assignee's enforcement of claim. Where, on default of the principal contractor, the surety on his bond took assignments of lien claims, it could not enforce such claims against the property, the contract providing that the building should be turned over to the owner free from liens. Howard v. Fisher, 86 Colo. 493, 283 P. 1042 (1929).

Assignee deemed real party in interest. The assignee in an action to foreclose is the real party in interest. Howard v. Fisher, 86 Colo. 493, 283 P. 1042 (1929).

Burden of pleading and proving valid assignment is upon those who assert it. Howard v. Fisher, 86 Colo. 493, 283 P. 1042 (1929).

III. RIGHT TO PERSONAL JUDGMENT.

Intent of article. This article does not purport to create personal liability of a landowner for obligations incurred by a contractor in the performance of his contract, but only authorizes the creation of a lien for improvements upon the land of the owner. Brannan Sand & Gravel Co. v. Santa Fe Land & Imp. Co., 138 Colo. 314, 332 P.2d 892 (1958).

Privity of contract required. In absence of privity of contract, lien claimants may not secure personal judgment against the owners. Daniel v. M.J. Dev., Inc., 43 Colo. App. 92, 603 P.2d 947 (1979).

Right to personal judgment for sum due uncontroverted. This section places the right to a personal judgment for the sum due beyond possible controversy, though the lien itself fails. Cannon v. Williams, 14 Colo. 21, 23 P. 456 (1890); Saint Kevin Mining Co. v. Isaacs, 18 Colo. 400, 32 P. 822 (1893).

Even where no lien is allowed, the plaintiff is entitled to personal judgment for the value of materials furnished at request of the defendant. Clark Hdwe. Co. v. Centennial Tunnel Mining Co., 22 Colo. App. 174, 123 P. 322 (1912).

A personal judgment for the amount found to be due may be rendered in an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien, notwithstanding an abandonment of the claim for a lien. Saint Kevin Mining Co. v. Isaacs, 18 Colo. 400, 32 P. 822 (1893).

38-22-118. Satisfaction of lien - failure to release. The claimant of any such lien, the statement of which has been filed, on the payment of the amount thereof, together with the costs of filing and recording such lien, and the acknowledgment of satisfaction, and accrued costs of suit in case a suit has been brought thereon, at the request of any person interested in the property charged therewith, shall enter or cause to be entered an acknowledgment of satisfaction of the same of record, and if he neglects or refuses to do so within ten days after the written request of any person so interested, he shall forfeit and pay to such person the sum of ten dollars per day for every day of such neglect or refusal, to be recovered in the same manner as other debts. A valid tender of payment, refused by any such claimant, shall be equivalent to a payment for the purpose of this section. Any such statement may be satisfied of record in the same manner as mortgages.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Discharge of Security Transactions", see 26 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 115 (1954).

38-22-119. Agreement to waive - effect. (1) No agreement to waive, abandon, or refrain from enforcing any lien provided for by this article shall be binding except as between the parties to such contract. The provisions of this article shall receive a liberal construction in all cases.

(2) An agreement to waive lien rights shall contain a statement, by the person waiving lien rights, providing in substance that all debts owed to any third party by the person waiving the lien rights and relating to the goods or services covered by the waiver of lien rights have been paid or will be timely paid.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Assemblage, Design and Construction for Real Estate Developments", see 11 Colo. Law. 2297 (1982).

That this article shall be liberally construed means that it is to be construed according to equitable principles. Buerger Inv. Co. v. Salzer Lumber Co., 77 Colo. 401, 237 P. 162 (1925).

Mechanic's lien may be waived by the express agreement of a party in whose favor it exists. Bishop v. Moore, 137 Colo. 263, 323 P.2d 897 (1958).

A waiver of any lien established pursuant to this article is effective only if the party in whose favor the lien exists expressly agrees to such a waiver. General Growth Development v. A & P Steel, Inc., 678 F. Supp. 243 (D. Colo. 1988).

Doubt in language resolved against waiver. Where the terms of a contract, or the evidence offered in support of an alleged waiver of the right to claim a lien are ambiguous, the doubt must be resolved against the waiver. Bishop v. Moore, 137 Colo. 263, 323 P.2d 897 (1958).

Clauses of contracts, purporting to prohibit the contractor from asserting a statutory right of lien, should be strictly construed; if language used is of doubtful import, it should be construed in favor of the lien. Aste v. Wilson, 14 Colo. App. 323, 59 P. 846 (1900).

Lien waiver enforceable if consideration or estoppel is shown. The right to a mechanic's lien can be waived in this state; however, if the waiver is to be enforceable, consideration for lien waivers or an estoppel is required. Woodcrest Homes, Inc. v. First Nat'l Bank, 11 B.R. 342, aff'd in part and rev'd on other grounds, 15 B.R. 886 (D. Colo. 1981).

Consideration sufficient to support waiver. The voluntary agreement of a lender to continue financing a financially troubled joint venture is adequate consideration to support lien waivers executed by a joint venturer who had supplied materials. Woodcrest Homes, Inc. v. First Nat'l Bank, 11 B.R. 342, aff'd in part and rev'd on other grounds, 15 B.R. 886 (D. Colo. 1981).

Estoppel sufficient to support waiver. Where a subcontractor advised an owner in writing that he had been paid in full and the owner proceeded to disburse funds to the contractor in reliance upon the representation, the waiver is enforceable without finding specific consideration. Woodcrest Homes, Inc. v. First Nat'l Bank, 11 B.R. 342, aff'd in part and rev'd on other grounds, 15 B.R. 886 (D. Colo. 1981).

When owner unable to assert invalidity of waiver provision. Where there is an entire failure to file with the county recorder such a contract as is provided for in § 38-22-101, the owner is not in a position to assert the invalidity of the waiver provision of this section. Armour & Co. v. McPhee & McGinnity Co., 85 Colo. 262, 275 P. 12 (1929).

ANNOTATION

Attachment of lien based upon several contracts. Where the work done and material furnished, for which a mechanics' lien is claimed, tended to the accomplishment of one purpose, as the construction of a smelting plant, and was practically continuous, the lien will attach from the commencement of the work even though the work was done and material furnished under two or more contracts between the same parties, and it is necessary for the lien claimant to take steps for asserting his lien at the completion of each contract. Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P. 744 (1897).

Continuity of work not destroyed by short interruptions. Where there was no abandonment of the intention to prosecute the work, the fact that there were interruptions of short periods of time in the construction of a building does not destroy the continuity of the work and prevent the attaching of the lien from the commencement of the building. Cary Hdwe. Co. v. McCarty, 10 Colo. App. 200, 50 P. 744 (1897).

Applied in Smith v. Stroehle Mach. & Supply Co., 109 Colo. 460, 126 P.2d 341 (1942).

38-22-123. Payment to avoid invalid. No payment made by any owner to any contractor for the purpose of avoiding any anticipated lien of any subcontractor shall be valid; and if any person files either of said statements for a lien for a larger sum than is due or to become due, in fact, or in probability, as the case may be, with intent to cheat or defraud any other person, and that fact appears in any proceeding under this article, such person shall forfeit all rights to such lien under this article.

"Cheat or defraud" standard encompasses "knowledge". The "cheat or defraud" standard as to the lien claimant's state of mind in this section encompasses the "knowledge" standard in § 38-22-128. If a person intends to cheat or defraud someone regarding the amount of a mechanic's lien, he would necessarily have to have had knowledge that the amount was in error. Concrete Contractors v. E.B. Roberts Constr. Co., 664 P.2d 722 (Colo. App. 1982), aff'd, 704 P.2d 859 (Colo. 1985).

38-22-124. Other remedies not barred. No remedy given in this article shall be construed as preventing any person from enforcing any other remedy which he otherwise would have had, except as otherwise provided in this article. In case of two or more owners, contractors, or subcontractors interested in the same contract, the rule of procedure shall be the same as in the case of one such.

Bona fide purchaser. No lien, excepting those claimed by laborers or mechanics as defined in section 38-22-108 (1) (a), filed for record more than two months after completion of the building, improvement, or structure shall encumber the interest of any bona fide purchaser for value of real property, the principal improvement upon which is a single- or double-family dwelling, unless said purchaser at the time of conveyance has actual knowledge that the amounts due and secured by such lien have not been paid, or unless such lien statement has been recorded prior to conveyance, or unless a notice as provided in section 38-22-109 (10) has been filed within one month subsequent to completion or prior to conveyance, whichever is later; except that nothing in this section shall extend the time for recording lien statements as provided in section 38-22-109 (4), (5), and (10). For the purposes of this section, the dwelling shall be deemed complete upon conveyance and occupancy if not completed before. The lien for items of labor, work, or material which shall thereafter be furnished shall be effective and may be claimed within the time thereafter as provided in section 38-22-109 (4), (5), and (10), and their priority shall not be affected by this section.

Perfection of lien against bona fide purchaser. In "deemed completed" situations such as that at issue here, a claimant may perfect a lien as against the interest of a bona fide purchaser only: (1) If a lien statement is filed either before or within two months after the date of conveyance and occupancy; (2) if a § 38-22-109 (10) notice is filed within one month after that time; or (3) if it can be shown that the bona fide purchaser had, at the time of conveyance, actual knowledge of nonpayment. Richter Plumbing and Heating v. Rademacher, 729 P.2d 1009 (Colo. App. 1986).

38-22-126. Disburser - notice - duty of owner and disburser. (1) For the purposes of this section, the word "disburser" means any lender who has agreed to make any loan to the owner or contractor, the proceeds of which are to be disbursed from time to time as work upon a structure or other improvement progresses, or any part of which is to be withheld until all or any part of such work is completed; or, any person who receives funds from any lender, contractor, or owner to be disbursed from time to time as work upon a structure or other improvement progresses, or any part of which is to be withheld until all or any part of such work is completed; or, any owner who has agreed to pay any sum to any contractor from time to time as work upon a structure or other improvement progresses, or any part of which is to be withheld until all or any part of such work is completed.

(2) It is the duty of the disburser, prior to the first disbursement, to see that there has been recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county where the land to be improved is situated, a notice stating the name and address of the owner, the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of the principal contractor, if any, and the disburser, and the legal description of the land and its address, if any. One notice may include as many parcels as desired, providing that all the information is stated as to each parcel. Such notice shall be indexed by the county clerk and recorder under the name of the owner and each principal contractor as grantors and according to address.

(3) It is the duty of any person upon ordering or contracting for any labor, services, machinery, tools, equipment, laborers, or materials to be used as provided in section 38-22-101, upon demand of the person from whom he or she is so ordering or with whom he or she is so contracting, to furnish to such person a statement of the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of the owner or reputed owner of the land to be improved, the principal contractor, if any, and the disburser, if any, as defined in subsection (1) of this section, together with a legal description or the address, if any, of the land to be improved.

(4) Any lien claimant who is entitled to a lien under this article may give notice to the disburser stating the property by address or legal description, or by such other description as will identify the real property; the claimant's name, address, and telephone number; the person with whom he has contracted; and a general statement of his contract.

(5) Such notice shall be in writing and shall be served upon the disburser by certified mail or by delivering the same personally to such disburser, or by leaving a copy at his residence or at his place of business with some person in charge.

(6) Upon such notice being received by the disburser, it is the duty of the disburser, before disbursing any funds to the person designated in said notice with whom said claimant has contracted, to ascertain the amount due to the claimant on any disbursement date, and to pay such amount directly to the claimant out of any undisbursed funds available for and due to said person designated in said notice on such date; except that any amounts actually paid by the disburser to others for labor, services, machinery, tools, equipment, and laborers or materials performed, supplied, or furnished for such structure or improvement that are chargeable to said person designated in said notice shall not be deemed available for said person designated in said notice; and further except that if the amount claimed by said claimant is disputed by said person designated in said notice, the disburser may impound such amount until the amount due is settled by agreement or final judicial determination.

(7) If the disburser fails to comply with subsection (6) of this section and the said claimant suffers loss by reason of said failure the disburser shall be liable to said claimant for the amount which the disburser should have paid claimant to the extent of claimant's loss.

Presumption of receipt. Return receipt for certified mail raises presumption of receipt by addressee. Johnson-Voiland-Archuleta, Inc. v. Roark & Assocs., 43 Colo. App. 370, 608 P.2d 818 (1979).

Under the rules of statutory construction, the phrase in subsection (6) "available for and due to" refers to the construction loan proceeds in full, and not merely to those funds paid to the general contractor upon completion of a project. Subsection (6) plainly states that the disburser should pay the claimed amount directly to the claimant out of any undisbursed funds available for and due to the general contractor. Crissey Fowler Lumber v. FCIB, 8 P.3d 531 (Colo. App. 2000).

38-22-127. Moneys for lien claims made trust funds - disbursements - penalty.

(1) All funds disbursed to any contractor or subcontractor under any building, construction, or remodeling contract or on any construction project shall be held in trust for the payment of the subcontractors, laborer or material suppliers, or laborers who have furnished laborers, materials, services, or labor, who have a lien, or may have a lien, against the property, or who claim, or may claim, against a principal and surety under the provisions of this article and for which such disbursement was made.

(2) This section shall not be construed so as to require any such contractor or subcontractor to hold in trust any funds which have been disbursed to him or her for any subcontractor, laborer or material supplier, or laborer who claims a lien against the property or claims against a principal and surety who has furnished a bond under the provisions of this article if such contractor or subcontractor has a good faith belief that such lien or claim is not valid or if such contractor or subcontractor, in good faith, claims a setoff, to the extent of such setoff.

(3) If the contractor or subcontractor has furnished a performance or payment bond or if the owner of the property has executed a written release to the contractor or subcontractor, he need not furnish any such bond or hold such payments or disbursements as trust funds, and the provisions of this section shall not apply.

(4) Every contractor or subcontractor shall maintain separate records of account for each project or contract, but nothing contained in this section shall be construed as requiring a contractor or subcontractor to deposit trust funds from a single project in a separate bank account solely for that project so long as trust funds are not expended in a manner prohibited by this section.

(5) Any person who violates the provisions of subsections (1) and (2) of this section commits theft, as defined in section 18-4-401, C.R.S.

Prosecution not imprisonment for civil debt. Because the intent to defraud, necessary to § 18-4-401, must be proven in order to convict an accused, a prosecution for violation of this section does not conflict with the constitutional prohibition of imprisonment for civil debt in § 12 of art. II, Colo. Const. People v. Piskula, 197 Colo. 148, 595 P.2d 219 (1979).

Collie*, 682 P.2d 1208 (Colo. App. 1983); In re Regan, 151 P.3d 1281 (Colo. 2007); Syfrett v. Pullen, 209 P.3d 1167 (Colo. App. 2008).

Trade vendors are permitted to waive rights enacted for their benefit and protection. A construction subcontract agreement that unambiguously waived all rights of trade vendors to make claims under this section is not void as against public policy nor is the waiver an unenforceable exculpatory clause. In re Vill. Homes of Colo., Inc., 405 B.R. 479 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2009).

There is no express statutory prohibition of a waiver of this section. The fact that § 38-22-119 refers to lien waivers, and limits the effect of such waivers to the parties to the agreement, neither authorizes nor prohibits waivers of mechanics' liens. In fact, it recognizes their validity as between the contracting parties. Section 38-22-119 does not give rise to an implication that statutory authorization is required in order to waive rights under this section. In re Vill. Homes of Colo., Inc., 405 B.R. 479 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2009).

Section is not in itself criminal statute; it merely defines conduct that will be considered theft under § 18-4-401. Any violation of this section must be charged and prosecuted as a violation of the theft statute. People v. Brand, 43 Colo. App. 347, 608 P.2d 817 (1979); People v. Collie, 682 P.2d 1208 (Colo. App. 1983).

Each of the essential elements of theft as set forth in § 18-4-401 must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt to support a conviction even where theft is sought to be proven by showing a violation of this section. *People v. In the context of theft of construction project trust funds, the "knowingly using" element of mental culpability in § 18-4-401 (1) (b) does not require a conscious objective to deprive another person of the use or benefit of the construction trust funds, but instead requires the offender to be aware that his manner of using the trust funds is practically certain to result in depriving another person of the use or benefit of the funds. People v. Anderson, 773 P.2d 542 (Colo. 1989); In re Helmke, 398 B.R. 38 (Bankr.

Packard*, 754 P.2d 780 (Colo. App. 1988).

Once trust funds are identified as having been disbursed to a contractor or subcontractor on a particular project, the burden to account for proper disposition of the funds under subsection (1) rests squarely on the contractor or subcontractor. The inability to meet that burden constitutes a breach of fiduciary duty. *Stetson Ridge Assocs., Ltd. v. Priority of interests under this section. An unsecured supplier claiming an interest under this section, which imposes a trust fund for materialmen and laborers, takes priority over a prior perfected security interest in all present and future accounts receivable and proceeds of accounts. First Com. Corp. v. First Nat'l Bancorporation, Inc., 572 F. Supp. 1430 (D. Colo. 1983).

Contractor who received advances from clients but failed to retain them for payment of subcontractors and materialman could be convicted of theft, as set forth in § 18-4-401, though contractor was allegedly ignorant of this section's requirement that such funds be held in trust. However, the prosecution must prove all elements of § 18-4-401 to obtain conviction. People v. Mendro, 731 P.2d 704 (Colo. 1987).

Definition of "disburser" in § 38-22-126 was not intended by the legislature to apply to this section. Flooring Design Assocs. v. Novick, 923 P.2d 216 (Colo. App. 1995).

A trust fund claimant is not required to have a properly perfected lien or still be able to perfect a lien to seek access to money held in trust under this section. By its plain language, this section allows subcontractors, laborers, and material suppliers to assert claims directly against contractors if they have a lien or may have a lien, which means they have added value to a property or may have added value to a property. In re Regan, 151 P.3d 1281 (Colo. 2007); In re Regan, 477 F.3d 1209 (10th Cir. 2007); In re Barnes, 377 B.R. 289 (Bankr. The section protects subcontractors, laborers, and material suppliers who add value to property but are unable to recover money owed to them through the lien claim process. In re Regan, 151 P.3d 1281 (Colo. 2007).

The procedural requirements for perfecting a lien contained in §§ 38-22-109 and 38-22-110 do not apply to claims against money held in trust under this section. In re Regan, 151 P.3d

An owner of a project or a general contractor has standing to sue under subsection (1) to contest the dischargeability of a subcontractor-debtor under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4). Stetson Ridge Assocs., Ltd. v. Tri-C Constr., 325 B.R. 598 (D. Colo. 2005).

General contractor that paid subcontractor to release its lien on property had standing to sue contractor for contractor's failure to pay subcontractor and to establish that debt was not dischargeable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4). Allowing general contractor recourse under this section merely subrogates it to the rights of the subcontractor whom it paid when the contractor failed to do so. Subcontractor is among the identified class for whom funds shall be held in trust under subsection (1)(a). In re Brennan, 449 B.R. 114 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2011).

Property owner had standing to sue contractor for contractor's failure to make payments to subcontractors, laborers, and material suppliers. Material supplier's lien on property owner's house amounted to an injury in fact, and the property owner of a construction project, as well as the subcontractors, material suppliers, and laborers, has a legally protected interest to enforce the trust created under subsection (1). Syfrett v. Pullen, 209 P.3d 1167 (Colo. App. 2008).

As beneficiaries, property owners are able to enforce this section against a contractor separate from the lien claim laws. In re Regan, 151 P.3d 1281 (Colo. 2007); Syfrett v. Pullen, 209 P.3d 1167 (Colo. App. 2008).

Property owner does not have the right to retain damages awarded against contractor. Instead, property owner is entitled to a judgment imposing a constructive trust on the funds that should have been paid to subcontractors, material suppliers, and laborers. Syfrett v. Pullen, 209 P.3d 1167 (Colo. App. 2008).

Claims under this section are not assignable on a contingency fee basis for collection purposes. In re Thomas, 387 B.R. 808 (D. Colo. 2008).

Although a claim for breach of trust under this section is assignable, even on a contingency payment basis, the right to the penalty of treble damages and the incorporated civil theft remedies under §§ 18-4-401 and 18-4-405 are not assignable. People v. Adams, 243 P.3d 256 (Colo. 2010) (disagreeing with In re Thomas cited above).

A lien release bond is not equivalent to payment or performance bonds. Because only payment or performance bonds are included in subsection (3), it must be presumed that the legislature intended to exclude lien release bonds from the exemption. Accordingly, defendant's lien release bonds did not support an exemption from the trust fund statute. Weize Co., LLC v. Colo. Reg'l Constr., 251 P.3d 489 (Colo. App. 2010).

Trial court construed statute too narrowly in determining that loans by contractor's manager to contractor did not fall within its provisions because loans were not construction loans but rather general purpose "survival loans" for company. Statutory language encompasses all funds disbursed on a construction project and does not limit the source of funds disbursed to construction loans. Any modifications to ameliorate statute's effect lies with the legislature. AC Excavating, Inc. v. Yale, ___ P.3d ___ (Colo. App. 2010).

38-22-128. Excessive amounts claimed. Any person who files a lien under this article for an amount greater than is due without a reasonable possibility that said amount claimed is due and with the knowledge that said amount claimed is greater than that amount then due, and that fact is shown in any proceeding under this article, shall forfeit all rights to such lien plus such person shall be liable to the person against whom the lien was filed in an amount equal to the costs and all attorney's fees.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Substantial Completion as it Relates to the Colorado Mechanic's Lien Act", see 26 Colo. Law. 45 (February 1997).

"Knowledge" standard encompassed within "cheat or defraud". The "cheat or defraud" standard as to the lien claimant's state of mind in § 38-22-123 encompasses the "knowledge" standard in this section. If a person intends to cheat or defraud someone regarding the amount of a mechanic's lien, he would necessarily have to have had knowledge that the amount was in error. Concrete Contractors v. E.B. Roberts Constr. Co., 664 P.2d 722 (Colo. App. 1982), aff'd, 704 P.2d 859 (Colo. 1985).

Reasonableness of award of attorney fees. Where lawsuits were directly attributable to the contractor's giving notice or filing a lien statement claim for an excessive amount, the trial court did not err in awarding all of the attorney fees incurred incident to the excessive claim. Heating & Plumbing Engineers v. H.J. Wilson, 698 P.2d 1364 (Colo. App. 1984).

Where nonlienable items can be separated from the lienable items at trial and no showing or allegations were made stating that the lien was knowingly and intentionally excessive, the lien will remain valid as to the lienable items. Manguso v. Am. Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 782 P.2d 866 (Colo. App. 1989).

Inclusion of accrued interest in lien statement does not render the lien void as excessive. Because lien claimants are entitled to receive interest under § 38-22-101 (5), accrued interest can be an "amount due" under this section. Honnen Equip. Co. v. Never Summer Backhoe Serv., Inc., 261 P.3d 507 (Colo. App. 2011).

Section 38-22-123 is facially irreconcilable with this section, but because this section was enacted later, it controls. Wigham Excavating v. Colo. Fed. S & L, 796 P.2d 23 (Colo. App. 1990).

Where fraudulently inflated construction charges were included in lien statement, forfeiture of lien rights was required as a matter of law. Wigham Excavating v. Colo. Fed. S & L, 796 P.2d 23 (Colo. App. 1990).

An officer of a corporation who has signed a lien in an official capacity is not personally liable for costs and attorney fees. The corporation has an independent legal identity and is considered to be the "person who files a lien". JW Constr. Co. v. Elliott, 253 P.3d 1265 (Colo. App. 2011).

Even though the intent of this section is to punish and deter those who would abuse the lien statute, section's intent is not to be unjust. Party entitled to attorney fees under this section is entitled only to those fees expended in bringing or defending an excessive lien claim, not the fees expended in bringing or defending against other claims unrelated to the lien claim in a multiple-claim suit. Moreover, although this section mandates an award of all attorney fees for successfully defending against an excessive lien, the amount awarded must be reasonable. LSV, Inc. v. Pinnacle Creek, LLC, 996 P.2d 188 (Colo. App. 1999).

38-22-129. Principal contractor may provide bond prior to commencement of work. (1) Except as provided in subsection (4) of this section, the provisions of section 38-22-101 (1) shall not apply if, at the commencement of any work upon any construction project for the improvement of real property as described in section 38-22-101 (1), a performance bond and a labor and materials payment bond, each in an amount equal to one hundred fifty percent of the contract price, are executed by the principal contractor and one or more corporate sureties authorized and qualified to do business in this state, for the protection of all contractors, subcontractors, materialmen, and laborers supplying labor, laborers, or material in the prosecution of the work on such construction project for the use of each contractor, subcontractor, materialman, or laborer.

(2) All subcontractors, materialmen, mechanics, and others who would otherwise be entitled to a lien under the provisions of section 38-22-101 (1) shall have a right of action directly against the principal contractor and his surety for the full amount due. Such action shall be brought within six months after completion of the last work on such project.

(3) In order to be effective, a notice of such bond shall be filed with the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein such project is situate prior to the commencement of any work on the project and shall be indexed according to both the street address and the legal description of the property to be improved. The principal contractor shall post a notice on the property that notice of such bond has been filed with the county clerk and recorder and shall make available copies of the bond to every contractor, subcontractor, materialman, mechanic, or laborer upon request.

(4) If any claimant files for record a lien statement or other notice, pursuant to section 38-22-109, such lien shall be deemed released upon the filing for record of a notice executed by both the principal and all sureties acknowledging the existence of the bond furnished for such project and that said lien claimant is entitled to claim the benefits of said bond. Such acknowledgment shall be executed by the principal and sureties upon demand of the owners or any person filing a lien statement. Said notice may be delivered personally to the surety or its agent and the principal or his agent or may be mailed by certified or registered mail. If the principal and all sureties on any such bonds fail or refuse to execute and record such acknowledgment within thirty days after written demand is made upon them, all lien claimants shall be entitled to enforce their lien claims in the same manner as if no bond had been filed as provided in subsection (1) of this section.

(5) In the event that any corporate surety on any bond filed pursuant to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section becomes subject to an order for relief under the federal bankruptcy code of 1978, title 11 of the United States Code, is the subject of any state or federal corporate reorganization proceedings, makes any assignment for the benefit of creditors, or otherwise is unable to meet its financial obligations as they become due, the provisions of this section shall not apply, and any lien claimant shall be entitled to enforce such lien claim in the same manner as if no bond had been filed as provided in subsection (1) of this section.

38-22-130. Payment of claims by surety. (1) Subcontractors, materialmen, mechanics, and others who have claims aggregating two thousand dollars or less each on construction projects for the improvement of real property as described in section 38-22-101 (1) for which a bond was executed pursuant to section 38-22-129 shall serve upon the principal contractor and his surety an affidavit, supported by all reasonably available documentary evidence, that a claimant has furnished labor or materials used or performed in the prosecution of the work on such project, that he has been unpaid therefor, and the amount of such claim. If after forty-five days such affidavit remains uncontroverted, such surety shall pay to such claimant forthwith the full value of his claim.

(2) Such bond or undertaking plus costs allowed to date shall be in an amount equal to one and one-half times the amount of the lien plus costs allowed to date and shall be approved by a judge of the district court with which such bond or undertaking is filed.

(3) The bond or undertaking shall be conditioned that, if the lien claimant shall be finally adjudged to be entitled to recover upon the claim upon which his lien is based, the principal or his sureties shall pay to such claimant the amount of his judgment, together with any interest, costs, and other sums which such claimant would be entitled to recover upon the foreclosure of the lien.

"Commercial real estate" does not include single-family or multi-family residential units including condominiums, townhouses, or homes in a subdivision when such real estate is sold, leased, or otherwise conveyed on a unit-by-unit basis even though the units may be part of a larger building or parcel of real property containing more than four residential units.

38-22.5-103. Brokers' lien for compensation for services - requirements. (1) A real estate broker shall have a lien on commercial real estate, in the amount of the compensation as set forth in the agreement, if:

(a) Such real estate is listed with the real estate broker under terms of an agreement or is the subject of an agreement; and

(b) The real estate broker has provided licensed services that resulted in the procuring of a person or entity who has leased any interest in the commercial real estate in accordance with the agreement.

(2) The general assembly intends that nothing in this section is subject to a prospective waiver by either party without consideration acceptable to the parties to the waiver.

(3) Notwithstanding subsection (1) of this section, commercial real estate is not subject to a real estate brokers' lien to enforce the payment of a renewal commission if the property is conveyed to a bona fide purchaser before the recording of a notice of lien pursuant to section 38-22.5-104.

38-22.5-104. Notice of intent - lien notice - service - contents - filing. (1) The real estate broker shall serve a notice of intent to record a notice of lien upon the owner at least thirty days before recording the notice of lien with the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the commercial real estate is located. Such notice of intent shall be served by personal service or by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed to the last-known address of the owner or the owner's agent, at least thirty days before recording of the notice of lien with the county clerk and recorder. If the notice of intent is served upon the owner's agent, a copy of the notice shall also be served upon the owner of record by personal service or by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed to the owner's last-known address, at least thirty days before recording of the notice of lien with the county clerk and recorder.

The mediator's recommended resolution is not binding unless the parties so agree in writing. The parties shall jointly appoint an acceptable mediator and shall share equally in the cost of the mediation. Mediation shall commence when a written notice requesting mediation is delivered by one party to the other at the party's last-known address, and, unless otherwise agreed, the mediation shall terminate if the entire dispute is not resolved within thirty days thereafter. This section does not impair the ability of a real estate broker to record a notice of lien if a resolution is not agreed upon by both parties.

38-22.5-106. When lien attaches - effect of payment by installments - affirmative defense. (1) The lien created by section 38-22.5-103 attaches to an interest in commercial real estate when all of the following conditions are met:

(a) The real estate broker either:

(I) Procures a person or entity who leases the property in accordance with the agreement; or

(II) Has otherwise earned a fee or commission in accordance with the agreement;

(b) The real estate broker serves a notice of intent to record a notice of lien upon the owner or owner's agent as provided in section 38-22.5-104;

(c) The real estate broker makes a good faith attempt to obtain settlement through mediation as provided in section 38-22.5-105; and

(d) At least thirty days after serving the owner with notice of intent to record a notice of lien, but not more than ninety days after the tenant takes possession of the leased property or ninety days after the compensation is due under the agreement, whichever is later, the real estate broker records a notice of the lien in the office of the clerk and recorder of the county in which the commercial real estate is located.

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph (d) of subsection (1) of this section:

(a) If payment is due in installments and a portion of the payment is due after the leasing of any interest in commercial real estate, a claim for a lien for only that portion may be recorded within ninety days after the tenant takes possession of the leased property or ninety days after the compensation is due under the agreement, whichever is later; and

(b) The lien shall be effective as a lien against the commercial real estate only to the extent moneys are still owed to the real estate broker by the owner. Any claims for a lien for future installment payments shall only be recorded within ninety days after those installment payments become due in accordance with the agreement.

(3) The lien attaches for purposes of this section when the claim for lien is recorded, and shall not relate back to the date of the agreement.

(4) Notwithstanding any provision of this article to the contrary, it shall be an affirmative defense in an action to foreclose a lien pursuant to this article that the owner has paid any compensation owed to the listing broker in an amount sufficient to satisfy the contractual and legal obligations of the owner, including compensation to the tenant's broker.

Conditions on validity of lien - subsequent service of notice to owner - action commenced within six months. (1) No lien claimed by virtue of this article shall hold the property longer than ten days after the recording of the notice of lien under section 38-22.5-104 unless the real estate broker provides a copy of the notice of lien to the owner or owner's agent by personal service or by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed to the last-known address of such person, within ten days after recording the notice of lien.

(2) No lien claimed by virtue of this article shall hold the property longer than six months after the recording of the notice of lien under section 38-22.5-104 unless an action to foreclose the lien has been commenced within that time and unless also a notice stating that such action has been commenced is filed for record within that time in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the property is situated. Where two or more liens under this article are claimed of record against the same property, the commencement of any action and the filing of the notice of the commencement of such action within that time by any one or more of such lien claimants in which action all the lien claimants as appear of record are made parties, either plaintiff or defendant, shall be sufficient.

enforceable in accordance with this article and other applicable law, the real estate broker shall acknowledge satisfaction or release of such lien in writing within ten days after receiving written demand from the owner and shall record a written release or satisfaction of the lien in the office of the clerk and recorder of the county in which the property is located.

Such bond or assurance shall be in an amount equal to one and one-half times the amount of the lien plus costs allowed to date and is subject to approval by a judge of the district court with which such bond or assurance is filed.

(2) The bond or assurance shall be conditioned that, if the lien claimant is finally adjudged to be entitled to recover on the claim upon which the lien is based, the principal or surety shall pay to such claimant the amount of the judgment, including any interest, costs, or other sums to which the claimant would be entitled upon foreclosure of the lien.

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of this article or section 38-35-110, upon the filing of a bond or undertaking as provided in this section, the lien against the property, and any notice of lis pendens relating to such lien or notice of the commencement of any action relating to such lien, shall be immediately discharged and released in full; the real property described in such bond or undertaking shall be forever released from the lien, from any notice of lis pendens or notice of the commencement of any action relating to such lien, and from any action brought to foreclose the lien; the bond or undertaking shall be substituted; and no notice of lis pendens or notice of the commencement of any action relating to such lien or any action for the enforcement or foreclosure thereof shall thereafter be recorded against the property. The clerk of the district court with which the bond or undertaking has been filed shall issue a certificate of release, which shall be recorded in the office of the clerk and recorder of the county in which the original real estate brokers' lien was filed, and the certificate of release shall show that the property has been forever released from the lien, from any notice of lis pendens relating to such lien, from any notice of the commencement of any action relating to such lien, and from any action brought to foreclose such lien.

38-24-101. Property subject to lien. Every person, firm, or corporation, whether as contractor, subcontractor, materialman, or laborer, who performs labor upon or furnishes machinery, material, fuel, explosives, power, or supplies for sinking, repairing, altering, or operating any gas well, oil well, or other well or for constructing, repairing, or operating any oil derrick, oil tank, oil pipeline or water pipeline, pump or pumping station, transportation or communication line, or gasoline plant and refinery by virtue of a contract, express or implied, with the owner or lessee of any interest in real estate or with the trustee, agent, or receiver of any such owner, part owner, or lessee shall have a lien to secure the payment thereof upon the properties mentioned belonging to the party contracting with the lien claimants, and upon the machinery, materials, and supplies so furnished, and upon any well upon and in which such machinery, materials, and supplies have been placed and used, and upon all other wells, buildings, and appurtenances, and the interest, leasehold, or otherwise, of such owner, part owner, or lessee in the lot or land upon which said improvements are located, or to which they may be removed, to the extent of the right, title, and interest of the owner, part owner, or lessee, at the time the work was commenced or machinery, materials, and supplies were begun to be furnished by the lien claimant or by the contractor under the original contract; and such lien shall extend to any subsequently acquired interest of any such owner, part owner, or lessee.

For article, "Oil and Gas Financing Under the Uniform Commercial Code as Enacted in Colorado", see 43 Den. L.J. 129 (1966).

Section is constitutional. See Terminal Drilling Co. v. Jones, 84 Colo. 279, 269 P. 894 (1928).

Section severely restricts classes of personalty which may be impressed with lien it confers, and the restriction lies not only against the types of personalty, but also against the classes of persons who may assert their liens against personal property. Nation v. Chambers, 29 Colo. App. 413, 486 P.2d 460 (1971), aff'd, 178 Colo. 124, 497 P.2d 5 (1972).

"Properties" construed. The statutory term "properties", as used in this section, does not include additional unspecified items acquired by the debtor from third parties, which items have not become integral parts of the well. Gearhart-Owen Indus., Inc. v. Panhandle Prod. Co., 624 P.2d 355 (Colo. App. 1980).

Prior lien subordinate to property encumbered with purchase money lien. If the property comes into the hands of the purchaser already encumbered with a purchase money lien, a prior mechanic's lien remains subordinate to the purchase money mortgage, and it cannot displace the security interest which is the subject matter of the purchase money agreement.

Chambers v. Nation, 178 Colo. 124, 497 P.2d 5 (1972).

Laborer not entitled to lien upon machinery and equipment. One who only performed labor is not entitled to a lien upon machinery and equipment treated as personal property and as segregated from the oil well itself. Poudre River Oil Corp. v. Carey, 83 Colo. 419, 266 P. 201 (1928).

Under this section, those who provide consulting or engineering services relating to an oil or gas well are not necessarily entitled to a mechanic's lien superior to all other liens on the subject property. AEC Indus., LLC v. Survivor Oil, Inc., 7 P.2d 1052 (Colo. App. 1999).

Structural equipment essential to oil well within section. In view of the fact that a derrick and drilling rig with their stationary parts, were essential to the sinking of the well, and would also have been useful in its operation should it have proven productive, such equipment is a portion of the structure or improvement and of the oil well itself, for the purposes of this section. Terminal Drilling Co. v. Jones, 84 Colo. 279, 269 P. 894 (1928).

Lien does not attach to detached personality not supplied by the lien claimant. Gearhart-Owen Indus., Inc. v. Panhandle Prod. Co., 624 P.2d 355 (Colo. App. 1980).

Proceeds of oil and gas sales not lienable. Since the proceeds of the sale of oil and gas are not listed in this section as property within the scope of the lien, they cannot be attached under a mechanic's lien on oil and gas wells. Chambers v. Nation, 178 Colo. 124, 497 P.2d 5 (1972).

38-24-102. Other property subject to lien. Every person, firm, or corporation who performs labor or furnishes machinery, material, fuel, explosives, or supplies to a contractor or subcontractor shall have a lien upon the properties and premises mentioned in section 38-24-101 to the same extent and in the same manner as the original contractor for the amount due for such machinery, material, fuel, explosives, or supplies furnished or labor performed. All liens created by virtue of this article in any particular case shall be of equal rank and validity, except liens for labor which shall be preferred.

38-24-103. Security interest invalid - when. No chattel mortgage or security interest shall be valid as against any person, firm, or corporation entitled to a lien under the provisions of this article; but no mortgage, lien, or other encumbrance existing and recorded as provided by law at the time of the inception of the lien provided for in this article shall be affected thereby.

Source: L. 29: p. 436, § 3. CSA: C. 101, § 53. CRS 53: § 86-5-3. C.R.S. 1963: § 86-5-3.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Mechanics' Liens Relative to Oil and Gas Operations — Part II", see 34 Dicta 373 (1957). For article, "Oil and Gas Financing Under the Uniform Commercial Code as Enacted in Colorado", see 43 Den. L. J. 129 (1966).

Purpose of section. This section is intended to invalidate only those chattel mortgages which were in existence, but which were unrecorded at the time of the inception of the mechanic's lien, and where a purchase money security interest on personalty comes into existence after the inception of the mechanic's lien, the recording or lack of recording of the purchase money security document is immaterial as to a mechanic's lien claimant whose rights were created and defined at a previous time. Nation v. Chambers, 29 Colo. App. 413, 486 P.2d 460 (1971), aff'd, 178 Colo. 124, 497 P.2d 5 (1972).

This section and § 38-24-101 must be construed together. This section must be read and construed together with the provisions of § 38-24-101, and since, under § 38-24-101 a lien claimant is not entitled to a prior lien on property which is the subject of a purchase money security interest, a chattel mortgage on such property is not rendered invalid by the operation of this section. Chambers v. Nation, 178 Colo. 124, 497 P.2d 5 (1972).

38-24-104. Lien statement - when filed. (1) Every person wishing to avail himself of the benefits of this article must file with the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the property or premises mentioned in this article are situated, and within six months after the machinery, materials, fuel, explosives, or supplies have been furnished or the labor performed, a statement containing:

- (a) A just and true account of the amount due him after allowing all credits;
- (b) A description of the property to be charged with such lien sufficient for its proper identification; and
- (c) A verification by affidavit.

(2) No error in the account shall effect the validity of the lien by the inclusion of items erroneously taken in, if such items can be identified. An open running account shall constitute a single contract, and in such case the lien shall relate back to the first item of material furnished or labor performed, as the case may be, and the six-month filing period shall begin to run for the whole account from the date of the last item.

Action commenced within six months. Every person, firm, or corporation filing a statement as provided in section 38-24-104 and claiming a lien under this article shall commence suit thereon in the district court of the county in which the statement is filed not later than six months after the date of such filing, and the lien shall remain in force until the final determination of such suit. 38-24-106. Perfecting of lien on removed property - when. Whenever any person removes any property subject to a lien under this article out of the county in which the statement has been filed, the lien claimant may file, within thirty days after receiving notice of such removal, with the county clerk and recorder of the county to which such property has been removed, an inventory of said property so removed, showing the amount due and unpaid thereon, which inventory shall be filed in the lien records of such county. Such filing shall operate as a notice of the existence of the lien, and it shall thereupon attach to and extend to the leasehold and other premises, properties, and appurtenances with which said property so removed has been put in use or to which it has attached if it is of the kind and character enumerated in section 38-24-101. If said leasehold, premises, properties, and appurtenances belong to some party other than the party originally contracting with the lien claimant, the lien shall be limited to the property and chattels so removed. The benefits of this section as regards removal shall apply even though such removal is to another locality in the same county.

38-24-108. Penalty for removing property. Any person who removes or causes to be removed any property covered by the lien provided for in this article from the place where such property was located when such lien was filed, without the written consent of the lien claimant, is guilty of theft of such property and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished accordingly.

ANNOTATION

A water well more properly fits within article 24 of title 38 than article 22 of title 38, as article 24 specifically addresses sinking a hole into the earth to obtain a natural resource below

it. Article 24 controls, because it has more specific provisions that supplement the general provisions of article 22. Aspen Drilling Co., Inc. v. Hayes, 876 P.2d 86 (Colo. App. 1994).

38-24.5-102. Who may have lien - amount. (1) Every harvester shall have a lien upon the grain and other crops harvested for and on account of harvesting. A lien on grain or other crops shall be charged for at the prevailing price for a particular locality in which such grain or other crop is harvested after notice has been given and a lien has been filed within the time provided under section 38-24.5-103.

(2) If the prevailing price for harvesting is disputed by the harvester or the owner, the matter may be submitted to arbitration under the provisions of rule 109 of the Colorado rules of civil procedure.

How lien obtained - lien statement. (1) Every person intending to avail himself or herself of the benefits of this article shall serve on the owner by certified or registered mail, return receipt requested, or by personal service, within ten days after completing the harvesting, a notice that, within twenty days, a lien, as specified in section 38-24.5-102, shall be claimed, and, within said twenty days, such person shall file in the same locations for farm products and crops as provided in section 4-9-501, C.R.S., a statement containing a just and true account of the amount due him or her for such harvesting, after allowing all just credits and offsets, and containing a correct description of the grain or other crops to be charged with such lien, the price agreed upon for such harvesting, the name of the person, firm, or corporation for whom such harvesting was performed, a legal description of the lands upon which said grain or other crops were raised, a description of the legal subdivision of land upon which said grain or other crops are stored and, if said grain or other crops are stored in a storage facility, the locality of the storage facility, which statement of facts shall be verified by affidavit of the person claiming such lien or his or her duly authorized agent or attorney having knowledge of the facts, and a copy of the notice of intent to file a lien and an affidavit of service or mailing thereof. Any immaterial error or mistake in the account or description of the grain or other crops or of the property upon which it was raised shall not invalidate such lien.

(2) If the grain or other crops so harvested will be hauled directly to the storage facility or to a purchaser, the person claiming the lien pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall also serve written notice upon the owner of such storage facility or other private purchaser of his intent to claim and file a lien upon said grain or other crops for harvesting pursuant to section 38-24.5-102 within the time frames set forth in this section.

38-24.5-105. (2) A person seeking to perfect a lien under this article shall comply with article 9.5 of title 4, C.R.S., and section 1324 of the federal "Food Security Act of 1985", in order to perfect a lien under this article.

38-25.5-102. Certificate of taxes due. (1) (a) As soon as practical but in no event later than thirty days after receipt of a written request from a taxpayer or authorized person, the treasurer of a public entity shall certify in writing as of the date of the certificate the full amount of the taxes identified in the request known to be due from the taxpayer. If there is a delinquency in the payment of taxes of an unknown amount, the public entity shall, if practical, provide a good faith estimate of the amount of the taxes due and indicate on the certificate that the figure provided is an estimate. A fee of ten dollars shall be collected for each specifically identified tax included in a certificate issued by a public entity in response to a request.

(b) Notwithstanding the amount of the fee specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), if the public entity collecting the fee is a state agency, the executive director of the state agency, by rule or as otherwise provided by law, may reduce the amount of the fee if necessary pursuant to section 24-75-402 (3), C.R.S., to reduce the uncommitted reserves of the fund to which all or any portion of the fee is credited. After the uncommitted reserves of the fund are sufficiently reduced, the executive director of the state agency, by rule or as otherwise provided by law, may increase the amount of the fee as provided in section 24-75-402 (4), C.R.S.

(2) Except as provided in subsection (3) of this section and notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary:

(a) When signed by the treasurer of a public entity, a certificate of taxes due shall be conclusive evidence for all purposes and against all persons, including the public entity, that, at the time of certification, the property of the taxpayer was free and clear of all such identified taxes due and any tax liens arising therefrom or was subject to each such identified tax due and any tax lien arising therefrom in a stated or estimated amount; and

(b) If more than one certificate of taxes due is issued by the treasurer of the same public entity with respect to the same taxpayer and the later certificate sets forth an amount of taxes due for a particular tax which is:

(I) In excess of the amount set forth in the earlier certificate, the earlier certificate shall be conclusive evidence of the amount of taxes due and any tax liens arising therefrom as of the date of that earlier certificate. The later certificate shall be evidence of the amount of taxes due and any tax liens arising therefrom as of the date of the later certificate, but any tax lien arising therefrom shall only be effective for the amount of taxes which became due after the date of the earlier certificate.

(II) Less than the amount set forth in the earlier certificate, the later certificate shall be conclusive evidence of the amount of taxes due and any tax liens arising therefrom as of the date of the later certificate;

(c) Any tax lien arising from taxes becoming due after the date of the latest certificate of taxes due shall not be affected by this section.

(3) (a) This subsection (3) shall apply only to taxes identified in and due as of the date of a certificate of taxes due. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, if a public entity completes an audit or investigation subsequent to the date of such certificate which reveals a tax liability for the identified taxes due as of the date of a certificate previously issued in excess of the amount certified in the certificate, then the public entity shall retain whatever rights and remedies for collection of such tax liability as otherwise provided by state or local law; except that:

(I) In the event of a foreclosure initiated by a lender which results in a sale of assets subject to any tax lien to a purchaser other than the lender, such tax lien shall remain a lien on such assets but not on the proceeds to the lender of the foreclosure sale, and neither the lender nor the purchaser shall have any personal liability for the tax liability underlying the tax lien;

(II) In the event of a foreclosure initiated by a lender which results in a sale of assets subject to any tax lien to the lender or in the event of a transfer of assets subject to any tax lien to a lender in lieu of foreclosure, such tax lien shall remain a lien on such assets, but the lender shall not have any personal liability for the tax liability underlying the tax lien;

(III) In the event the circumstances described in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a) occur and the lender subsequently sells such assets to a purchaser, such tax lien shall remain a lien on such assets but not on the proceeds to the lender of the sale, and neither the lender nor the purchaser shall have any personal liability for the tax liability underlying the tax lien; and

(IV) In the event the circumstances described in subparagraph (I) or subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (a) occur and the purchaser transfers such assets to a subsequent purchaser, such tax lien shall remain a lien on such assets but not on the proceeds of sale, and neither the subsequent purchaser nor any subsequent purchaser thereafter shall have any personal liability for the tax liability underlying the tax lien.

(b) In order to qualify for the protections provided by this subsection (3), a lender or transferor shall comply with the following requirements:

(I) Upon receipt of a written request from a public entity, the lender or transferor shall promptly provide to the public entity a description of any assets of the taxpayer subject to a tax lien which have been transferred and the name and address of the transferee of such assets. The lender or transferor shall maintain records relating to such asset transfers for a minimum of four years; and

(II) Prior to a foreclosure sale or transfer of taxpayer assets which may be subject to a tax lien, the lender or transferor shall request or cause to be requested from the appropriate public entity a certificate of taxes due. Such request shall be accompanied by or shall include a statement of intent. Such certificate of taxes due shall have been issued no more than six months prior to the date of the foreclosure sale or transfer of assets.

38-25.5-103. Copies of returns and filings - summary statement - fees. (1) As soon as practical but in no event later than thirty days after receipt of a written request from a taxpayer or authorized person, the treasurer of a public entity shall provide, as to taxes of the public entity which are specifically identified in the request, either copies of returns and filings by the taxpayer which are in the possession or custody of the public entity or a summary statement of tax payments made by the taxpayer to the public entity. A request made under the provisions of this section shall be limited to the current year and the previous three years. A request made by an authorized person shall be limited to the extent set forth in the written authorization of the authorized person.

(2) A request made pursuant to this section may be either in the form of a request for copies of tax returns and filings or in the form of a request for a summary statement but may not contain both types of requests. If the specified form of the request cannot be readily complied with by the treasurer, the treasurer shall so notify the requesting party and may comply with the request by furnishing the information in the alternative form.

(3) (a) A fee of ten dollars shall be collected for each specifically identified tax included in such summary statement issued by a public entity. A fee of one dollar and twenty-five cents shall be collected for each page of tax returns and filings of a taxpayer copied and delivered by a public entity.

(b) Notwithstanding the amount of any fee specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), if the public entity collecting the fee is a state agency, the executive director of the state agency by rule or as otherwise provided by law may reduce the amount of one or more of the fees if necessary pursuant to section 24-75-402 (3), C.R.S., to reduce the uncommitted reserves of the fund to which all or any portion of one or more of the fees is credited. After the uncommitted reserves of the fund are sufficiently reduced, the executive director of the state agency by rule or as otherwise provided by law may increase the amount of one or more of the fees as provided in section 24-75-402 (4), C.R.S.

The department shall honor any request made by a lending institution that is an authorized person to the extent set forth in the written authorization. Groceries and supplies lienable. Groceries and supplies furnished subcontractor, who also conducted a boarding house which was necessary for his men, is a proper charge under the provisions of this section, but a lien will not lie for such provisions as are consumed by men not employed on the contract work. Olson v. Model Land & Irrigation Co., 75 Colo. 221, 225 P. 259 (1924).

Proof required of lien claimant. It is the duty of a lien claimant to show what proportion of supplies furnished a subcontractor are used on the contract work. Olson v. Model Land & Irrigation Co., 75 Colo. 221, 225 P. 259 (1924).

38-26-104. Contractor furnished copy - undisputed accounts - condition. Whenever any verified account mentioned in section 38-26-103 is placed in the hands of any railroad, reservoir, or irrigating canal company, or its agent, it is the duty of such company to furnish the contractor with a copy of such verified account so that if there is any disagreement between the debtor and creditor as to the amount due the same may be amicably adjusted. If the contractor or subcontractor, if he is the debtor, does not give, within ten days after the receipt of such amount, the same railroad, reservoir, or irrigating canal company, or its agent, written notice that the claim is disputed, he shall be considered as assenting to its payment and the railroad, reservoir, or irrigating canal company, or its agent, shall be justified in paying the same when due and charging the same to the contractor. The person to whom any such debt is due and who delivers a verified account thereof as provided may recover the amount thereof in an action at law to the extent of any balance due by the railroad, reservoir, or irrigating canal company to the contractor at or after the time of delivering the verified account. Nothing in this section or in section 38-26-103 shall interfere with the right of action upon bonds provided for in section 38-26-102 or against the railroad, reservoir, or irrigating canal company for the full amount of any such debt in case of a failure of the company to take a bond.

38-26-105. Public works contractor's bond - conditions. (1) Subject to the provisions of subsection (2) of this section, any person, company, firm, or corporation entering into a contract for more than fifty thousand dollars with any county, municipality, or school district for the construction of any public building or the prosecution or completion of any public works or for repairs upon any public building or public works shall be required before commencing work to execute, in addition to all bonds that may be required of it, a penal bond with good and sufficient surety to be approved by the board or boards of county commissioners of the county or counties, the governing body or bodies of the municipality or municipalities, or the district school board or boards, conditioned that such contractor shall at all times promptly make payments of all amounts lawfully due to all persons supplying or furnishing such person or such person's subcontractors with labor, laborers, materials, rental machinery, tools, or equipment used or performed in the prosecution of the work provided for in such contract and that such contractor will indemnify and save harmless the county, municipality, or school district to the extent of any payments in connection with the carrying out of any such contract which the county or counties, municipality or municipalities, and school district or school districts may be required to make under the law. Subcontractors, materialmen, mechanics, suppliers of rental equipment, and others may have a right of action for amounts lawfully due them from the contractor or subcontractor directly against the principal and surety of such bond. Such action for laborers, materials, rental machinery, tools, or equipment furnished or labor rendered shall be brought within six months after the completion of the work and not afterwards.

(2) Notwithstanding the monetary qualification provided in subsection (1) of this section, the state, or the governing body of any county, municipality, school district, or other political subdivision determining it to be in the best interest of this state, or any county, municipality, school district, or other political subdivision may require the execution of a penal bond for any contract of fifty thousand dollars or less.

- II. Six-month Limitation for Commencement of Suit.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "Contractual Rights of Persons Not Parties to the Contract in Colorado", see 3 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 175 (1931). For article, "Labor and Material Claims on State Public Works Projects", see 24 Colo. Law. 2165 (1995).

Statutory remedy is in lieu of mechanic's lien statute. Flaugh v. Empire Clay Prods., Inc., 157 Colo. 409, 402 P.2d 932 (1965).

Remedy is designed to protect those who supply labor and materials for public buildings. Flaugh v. Empire Clay Prods., Inc., 157 Colo. 409, 402 P.2d 932 (1965).

Effect of section. For purposes of giving effect to this section, the actions of subcontractors in purchasing materials and labor are imputed to the principal contractor; however, no such relationship can be extended beyond the statutory remedy. Flaugh v. Empire Clay Prods., Inc., 157 Colo. 409, 402 P.2d 932 (1965).

Both principal and surety not required parties. Although this section allows both the principal and surety to be sued, it would be too narrow a construction to say it requires both to be made parties. Fountain Sand & Gravel Co. v. Chilton Constr. Co., 40 Colo. App. 363, 578 P.2d 664 (1978).

Test for recovery. Under this section requiring contractors with cities to give bond to secure the payment of bills for labor and materials, recovery may be had for hay and auto truck repairs under a bond covering a grading and paving contract, the test being not whether the labor and materials entered into the work, but whether they were necessary for doing what the contractor had to do. Stryker v. Tolliver & Kinney Mercantile Co., 77 Colo. 347, 236 P. 993 (1925).

Fringe benefits recoverable under section. Fringe benefits, including vacation benefits, retirement pension benefits, health insurance payments, unemployment insurance payments, and apprenticeship and industry advancement funds, are recoverable as "amounts lawfully due" under subsection (1). Trustees of Colo. Carpenters & Millwrights Health Benefit Trust Fund v. Pinkard Constr. Co., 604 P.2d 683 (Colo. 1979).

Attorney's fees. Section 38-26-106 and this section, which require execution of a payment and performance bond, do not expressly allow for the attorney's fees, and the general rule is that, absent express statutory authority or an enforceable contract provision, attorney's fees are not recoverable. Cement Asbestos Prods. Co. v. Hartford Accident & Indem. Co., 592 F.2d 1144 (10th Cir. 1979).

Trustees and union negotiating trust have standing. Trustees of a fringe benefit trust and a union which negotiated a collective bargaining agreement which included a fringe benefit trust on behalf of its members both have standing to bring actions to recover payments due the respective trust funds. Trustees of Colo. Carpenters & Millwrights Health Benefit Trust Fund v. Pinkard Constr. Co., 604 P.2d 683 (Colo. 1979).

Section does not apply to equipment. Neither this section nor § 38-26-106 covers equipment, whether rented or purchased. CPS Distrib., Inc. v. Federal Ins. Co., 685 P.2d 783 (Colo. App. 1984).

Subsection (1) does not apply to breach of contract damages. As a general rule, such damages, including lost profits, are not recoverable under public works bond statutes. Lenon v. St. Paul Mercury Ins. Co., 136 F.3d 1365 (10th Cir. 1998).

A subdivision agreement calling for the construction of certain public improvements prior to the annexation of a subdivision or the issuance of certificates of occupancy for structures built in the subdivision does not constitute a contract for the construction of public improvements pursuant to this section. Brannan Sand & Gravel v. F.D.I.C., 928 P.2d 1337 (Colo. App. 1996), rev'd on other grounds, 940 P.2d 393 (Colo. 1997).

Applied in Newt Olson Lumber Co. v. Sch. Dist. No. 8, 83 Colo. 272, 263 P. 723 (1928); Sch. Dist. No. 28 v. Denver Pressed Brick Co., 91 Colo. 288, 144 P.2d 487 (1932); Cont'l Cas. Co. v. Rio Grande Fuel Co., 108 Colo. 472, 119 P.2d 618 (1941); Lovell Clay Prods. Co. v. Statewide Supply Co., 41 Colo. App. 166, 580 P.2d 1278 (1978).

II. SIX-MONTH LIMITATION FOR COMMENCEMENT OF SUIT.

Legislative intent. The legislative intent is to provide for prompt and speedy settlement of disputes involving laborers and materialmen on public buildings. Gen. Elec. Co. v. Webco Constr. Co., 164 Colo. 232, 433 P.2d 760 (1967).

"Completion" construed. "Completion", as used in subsection (1), means substantial completion. Hensel Phelps Constr. Co. v. Gen. Signal Corp., 460 F.2d 109 (10th Cir. 1972).

What constitutes substantial completion must, of course, ultimately rest on the facts of each case, but as a general proposition, work which is an integral part of a continuing effort to finish a project in conformance with contract specifications, especially when performed reasonably soon after actual construction ceases, is not insubstantial. Hensel Phelps Constr. Co. v. Gen. Signal Corp., 460 F.2d 109 (10th Cir. 1972).

Applicability of six-month limitation. The six-month limitation for commencement of suit contained in subsection (1) is applicable to actions against surety bonds posted by public works contractors under the provisions of § 38-26-106; and the limitation is not restricted to the types of public bodies specifically mentioned in this section but includes hospital districts. United States Fid. & Guar. Co. v. Empire Clay Prods., Inc., 28 Colo. App. 26, 470 P.2d 878 (1970); Hensel Phelps Constr. Co. v. Gen. Signal Corp., 460 F.2d 109 (10th Cir. 1972).

Limitation period does not begin at time of abandonment. Under this section the six-month period, within which an action may be brought by a subcontractor for a balance due, begins at the time of the completion of the work, and not at the time of the abandonment of work by the principal contractor. Allen v. Well, 75 Colo. 608, 227 P. 833 (1924).

Failure to meet statutory requirements does not deprive subcontractor of common-law claims. Failure of a subcontractor or materialman to meet the statutory requirements of this section and §§ 38-26-106 and 38-26-107, e.g., time limitations within which a claim must be filed, does not deprive it of its common-law claims against the principal contractor and the principal contractor's surety. Montezuma Plumbing & Heating, Inc. v. Hous. Auth., 651 P.2d 426 (Colo. App. 1982).

The specific statute of limitations provision in this section controls over the general civil action provision in § 13-80-101. The provisions in this section specifically apply to the construction project that is the subject of the plaintiff's action while the provision in § 13-80-101 is a general and broad provision that encompasses all common law actions. Pat's Constr. Serv., Inc. v. Ins. Co. of the W., 141 P.3d 885 (Colo. App. 2005).

Longer period of limitation permitted. Although this section prescribes a six-month limitation on actions on a labor and material bond, neither this section nor § 38-26-106 prohibit the parties from establishing a longer period of limitation in the bond. Montezuma Plumbing & Heating, Inc. v. Hous. Auth., 651 P.2d 426 (Colo. App. 1982).

38-26-106. Contractor executes bond. (1) A contractor who is awarded a contract for more than fifty thousand dollars for the construction, erection, repair, maintenance, or improvement of any building, road, bridge, viaduct, tunnel, excavation, or other public works for any county, city and county, municipality, school district, or other political subdivision of the state, and a contractor who is awarded a contract for more than one hundred thousand dollars for the construction, erection, repair, maintenance, or improvement of any building, road, bridge, viaduct, tunnel, excavation, or other public works for this state, before entering upon the performance of any such work included in the contract, shall duly execute, deliver to, and file with the board, officer, body, or person by whom the contract was awarded a good and sufficient bond or other acceptable surety approved by the contracting board, officer, body, or person, in a penal sum not less than one-half of the total amount payable under the terms of the contract; except that, for a public works contract having a total value of five hundred million dollars or more, a bond or other acceptable surety, including but not limited to a letter of credit, may be issued in a penal sum not less than one-half of the maximum amount payable under the terms of the contract in any calendar year in which the contract is performed. The contracting board, office, body, or person shall ensure that the contract requires that a bond or other acceptable surety, including but not limited to a letter of credit, be filed and current for the duration of the contract.

(2) A bond or other acceptable surety shall be duly executed by a qualified corporate surety or other qualified financial institution, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the contract, and, in addition, shall provide that, if the contractor or his or her subcontractor fails to duly pay for any labor, materials, team hire, sustenance, provisions, provender, or other supplies used or consumed by such contractor or his or her subcontractor in performance of the work contracted to be done or fails to pay any person who supplies laborers, rental machinery, tools, or equipment, all amounts due as the result of the use of such laborers, machinery, tools, or equipment, in the prosecution of the work, the surety or other qualified financial institution will pay the same in an amount not exceeding the sum specified in the bond or other acceptable surety together with interest at the rate of eight percent per annum. Unless a bond or other acceptable surety is executed, delivered, and filed, no claim in favor of the contractor arising under the contract shall be audited, allowed, or paid. A certified or cashier's check or a bank money order made payable to the treasurer of the state of Colorado or to the treasurer or other officer designated by the governing body of the contracting local government may be accepted in lieu of a bond or other acceptable surety.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Labor and Material Claims on State Public Works Projects", see 24 Colo. Law. 2165 (1995).

Section is to be liberally construed. CPS Distrib., Inc. v. Federal Ins. Co., 685 P.2d 783 (Colo. App. 1984).

Indifference in ascertaining existence of bond equivalent to negligence. Under this section the bond required of contractors on public works is in the interest of those furnishing material and labor therefor, and where a materialman, furnishing material for a public school building, fails to ascertain that no contractor's bond has been given, his indifference is equivalent to negligence, and precludes a recovery from the school district. Sch. Dist. No. 28 v. Denver Pressed Brick Co., 91 Colo. 288, 14 P.2d 487 (1932).

Advancement or loan connected with work not payment. An advancement or loan by a principal contractor to a subcontractor, which is used in connection with the work, is not a payment which will affect the liability of, or relieve the surety on the subcontractor's bond, and this is equally true if sums advanced are payments rather than advancements or loans. Federal Sur. Co. v. White, 88 Colo. 238, 295 P. 281 (1930).

Where a subcontractor "steps into the shoes" of a principal contractor, so far as the work to be performed under the original contract is concerned, the surety on the subcontractor's bond is bound by the terms and conditions of the original contract where he is fully apprised thereof and of the relations and obligations of the parties thereunder. Federal Sur. Co. v. White, 88 Colo. 238, 295 P. 281 (1930).

Judgment against surety may include interest. Judgment against the surety on a contractor's bond may include interest from the time of default, even though this may make the judgment exceed the penalty named in the bond. Federal Sur. Co. v. White, 88 Colo. 238, 295 P. 281 (1930).

To release compensated surety from liability, by an alteration or departure from the contract, it must have been prejudiced thereby. Empire State Sur. Co. v. Lindenmeier, 54 Colo. 497, 131 P. 437(1913); Nat'l Sur. Co. v. Queen City Land Mtg. Co., 63 Colo. 105, 164 P. 722 (1917); Federal Sur. Co. v. White, 88 Colo. 238, 295 P. 281 (1930).

Surety company not required party. The surety company which wrote the bond to the contracting agency was not required to be made a party since it had no contingent liability on the materialman's withholding claim because the contracting body had enough withheld funds to pay the claim sued upon. South-Way Constr. Co. v. Adams City Serv., 169 Colo. 513, 458 P.2d 250 (1969).

Six-month statute of limitation applicable. Although this section does not contain a statute of limitations, the six-month statute of limitations contained in § 38-26-105 is applicable to actions on a bond posted pursuant to this section. Hensel Phelps Constr. Co. v. Gen. Signal Corp., 460 F. 2d 109 (10th Cir. 1972); Fountain Sand & Gravel Co. v. Chilton Constr. Co., 40 Colo. App. 363, 578 P.2d 664 (1978).

Action filed pursuant to § 38-26-107. Section 38-26-107 (3) permits qualified claimants, within 90 days of the date for final settlement of claims, regardless of the date of completion, to file actions against sureties who have posted performance bonds pursuant to this section. Rocky Mt. Ass'n of Credit Mgt. v. Marshall, 44 Colo. App. 467, 615 P.2d 68 (1980).

While the six-month limitations provision of § 38-26-105 is applicable to actions on a performance bond, § 38-26-107 (3) contains no bonding provisions and establishes a new remedy for suppliers. Rocky Mt. Ass'n of Credit Mgt. v. Marshall, 44 Colo. App. 467, 615 P.2d 68 (1980).

Longer period of limitation permitted for actions on bond. Although § 38-26-105 prescribes a six-month limitation on actions on a labor and material bond, neither § 38-26-105 nor this section prohibit the parties from establishing a longer period of limitation in the bond. Montezuma Plumbing & Heating, Inc. v. Hous. Auth., 651 P.2d 426 (Colo. App. 1982).

Failure to meet statutory requirements does not deprive subcontractor of common-law claims. Failure of a subcontractor or materialman to meet the statutory requirements of this section and §§ 38-26-105 and 38-26-107, e.g., time limitations within which a claim must be filed, does not deprive it of its common-law claims against the principal contractor and the principal contractor's surety. Montezuma Plumbing & Heating, Inc. v. Hous. Auth., 651 P.2d 426 (Colo. App. 1982).

Attorney's fees not recoverable. Section 38-26-105 and this section, which require execution of a payment and performance bond, do not expressly allow for the attorney's fees, and the general rule is that, absent express statutory authority or an enforceable contract provision, attorney's fees are not recoverable. Cement Asbestos Prods. Co. v. Hartford Accident & Indem. Co., 592 F.2d 1144 (10th Cir. 1979).

Prior to amendment in 1985, the costs of rental equipment were not covered by a payment and performance bond issued on a public works contract and even though the bonding statute has been amended to allow claims for the use of rented equipment, the extent of a surety's obligation on a public works bond is determined according to the terms of the statutes in effect at the time the bond was written. Colo. Crane & Hauling v. McKee, Inc., 761 P. 2d 792 (Colo. App. 1988) (decided under law in effect prior to 1985 amendment).

Interest award under this section was not error since although subcontractor requested contract rate of interest in its complaint, its memorandum brief in support of a motion for summary judgment did request the interest rate under this section and presentation of the issue in this manner, in effect, constituted an amendment to the complaint. SaBell's, Inc. v. City of Golden, 832 P.2d 974 (Colo. App. 1991), cert. denied, 846 P.2d 189 (Colo. 1993).

Right to the interest rate set forth in the statute is not waived if the contract rate is requested in the complaint, when the statutory interest rate is requested in the memorandum brief in support of a motion for summary judgment, constituting an amendment to the complaint. SaBell's, Inc. v. City of Golden, 832 P.2d 974 (Colo. App. 1991), cert. denied, 846 P.2d 189 (Colo. 1993).

Where city's retainage was sufficient to pay all claims, the surety for a public project is not even a necessary party to litigation over a subcontractor's claim. Instead, the city serves as a stakeholder and pays out the funds in conformity with the court's order, and it necessarily follows that the surety is not liable for interest on the retainage. SaBell's, Inc. v. City of Golden, 832 P.2d 974 (Colo. App. 1991), cert. denied, 846 P.2d 189 (Colo. 1993).

Surety not liable for interest on retainage when the municipality has not withheld sufficient funds to pay all claims. SaBell's, Inc. v. City of Golden, 832 P.2d 974 (Colo. App. 1991), cert. denied, 846 P.2d 189 (Colo. 1993).

A subdivision agreement calling for the construction of certain public improvements prior to the annexation of a subdivision or the issuance of certificates of occupancy for structures built in the subdivision does not constitute a contract for the construction of public improvements pursuant to this section. Brannan Sand & Gravel v. F.D.I.C., 928 P.2d 1337 (Colo. App. 1996), rev'd on other grounds, 940 P.2d 393 (Colo. 1997).

Surety's obligation to pay interest to subcontractor was governed by this section and not the contract rate between surety and contractor where subcontractor was not party to that contract. SaBell's, Inc. v. City of Golden, 832 P.2d 974 (Colo. App. 1991), cert. denied, 846 P.2d 189 (Colo. 1993).

Applied in General Elec. Co. v. Webco Constr. Co., 164 Colo. 232, 433 P.2d 760 (1967); Fulton v. Coppco, Inc., 407 F.2d 611 (10th Cir. 1969); Trustees of Colo. Carpenters & Millwrights Health Benefit Trust Fund v. Pinkard Constr. Co., 39 Colo. App. 564, 574 P.2d 506 (1977).

38-26-107. Supplier may file statement - notice - withholding funds. (1) Any person, as defined in section 2-4-401 (8), C.R.S., that has furnished labor, materials, sustenance, or other supplies used or consumed by a contractor or his or her subcontractor in or about the performance of the work contracted to be done or that supplies laborers, rental machinery, tools, or equipment to the extent used in the prosecution of the work whose claim therefor has not been paid by the contractor or the subcontractor may, at any time up to and including the time of final settlement for the work contracted to be done, file with the board, officer, person, or other contracting body by whom the contract was awarded a verified statement of the amount due and unpaid on account of the claim. If the amount of the contract awarded to the contractor exceeds fifty thousand dollars, the board, officer, person, or other contracting body by whom the contract was awarded shall, no later than ten days before the final settlement is made, publish a notice of the final settlement at least twice in a newspaper of general circulation in any county where the work was contracted for or performed or in an electronic medium approved by the executive director of the department of personnel. It is unlawful for any person to divide a public works contract into two or more separate contracts for the sole purpose of evading or attempting to evade the requirements of this subsection (1).

(2) Upon the filing of any such claim, such board, officer, person, or other body awarding the contract shall withhold from all payments to said contractor sufficient funds to insure the payment of said claims until the same have been paid or such claims as filed have been withdrawn, such payment or withdrawal to be evidenced by filing with the person or contracting body by whom the contract was awarded a receipt in full or an order for withdrawal in writing and signed by the person filing such claim or his duly authorized agents or assigns. Such funds shall not be withheld longer than ninety days following the date fixed for final settlement as published unless an action is commenced within that time to enforce such unpaid claim and a notice of lis pendens is filed with the person or contracting body by whom the contract was awarded.

(3) At the expiration of the ninety-day period, the person or other body awarding the contract shall pay to the contractor such moneys and funds as are not the subject of suit and lis pendens notices and shall retain thereafter, subject to the final outcome thereof, only sufficient funds to insure the payment of judgments that may result from the suit. Failure on the part of a claimant to comply with the provisions of sections 38-26-101, 38-26-106, and this section shall relieve the board, officer, body, or person by whom such contract was awarded from any liability for making payment to the contractor. At any time within ninety days following the date fixed for final settlement as published, any person, copartnership, association of persons, company, or corporation, or its assigns, whose claims have not been paid by any such contractor or subcontractor may commence an action to recover the same, individually or collectively, against the surety or other qualified financial institution on the bond or other acceptable surety specified and required in section 38-26-106.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Contractual Rights of Persons Not Parties to the Contract in Colorado", see 3 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 175 (1931). For article, "Labor and Material Claims on State Public Works Projects", see 24 Colo. Law. 2165 (1995).

Constitutional. Limiting the lien rights created by this section to one in privity of contract with the owner or general contractor acting on behalf of the owner does not violate the equal protection clause of the Colorado Constitution. Such a limitation protects the public entity, its contractor, and the surety on the public works project from unforeseeable claims. Western Metal v. Acoustical and Const., 851 P.2d 875 (Colo. 1993).

Policy. The clear policy underlying Colorado law is that laborers and suppliers of materials in construction projects are to be paid. First Com. Corp. v. First Nat'l Bancorporation, Inc., 572 F. Supp. 1430 (D. Colo. 1983).

This article is designed to protect all persons who supply labor or material for public works projects and is the public works counterpart of the mechanic's lien statute. Heinrichsdorff v. Raat, 655 P.2d 860 (Colo. App. 1982).

Section stands in lieu of the mechanic's lien statute, and is designed to protect those who supply labor and materials for public works. South-Way Constr. Co. v. Adams City Serv., 169 Colo. 513, 458 P.2d 250 (1969); Weld Colo. Bank v. E & E Constr., Inc., 653 P.2d 758 (Colo. App. 1982). See also Flaugh v. Empire Clay Prods., Inc., 157 Colo. 409, 402 P.2d 932 (1965).

Section applies only to what the public entity must do and to its liability if it fails to comply; it does not provide defense to contractor who is otherwise liable. White Const. Co., Inc. v. Sauter Const. Co., 731 P.2d 784 (Colo. App. 1986).

Effect of section. For purposes of giving effect to this section, the actions of the subcontractors in purchasing materials and labor are imputed to the principal contractor; however, no such relationship can be extended beyond the statutory remedy. Flaugh v. Empire Clay Prods., Inc., 157 Colo. 409, 402 P.2d 932 (1965).

This section provides suppliers to public works projects with a remedy independent of the remedies afforded under §§ 38-26-105 and 38-26-106. Crane & Hauling v. McKee, Inc., 761 P.2d 792 (Colo. App. 1988).

Section provides alternate methods of relief, and specifically requires the governmental agency to withhold funds to insure payment of claims by materialmen provided proper and timely notice is given. South-Way Constr. Co. v. Adams City Serv., 169 Colo. 513, 458 P.2d 250 (1969).

Section permits actions against § 38-26-106 sureties. Subsection (3) permits qualified claimants, within 90 days of the date for final settlement of claims, regardless of the date of completion, to file actions against sureties who have posted performance bonds pursuant to section 38-26-106. Rocky Mt. Ass'n of Credit Mgt. v. Marshall, 44 Colo. App. 467, 615 P.2d 68 (1980).

Without regard to six-month limitation. This section contains no requirement that the date for final settlement must be within a six-month period subsequent to the completion of the work as is the case under § 38-26-105. The final settlement date, whenever it might occur, is the critical date for purposes of subsection (3). Rocky Mt. Ass'n of Credit Mgt. v. Marshall, 44 Colo. App. 467, 615 P.2d 68 (1980).

To the extent that §§ 38-26-105 and 38-26-107 (3) are irreconcilable, § 38-26-107 (3), adopted subsequent to § 38-26-105 and containing specific time requirements, must control. Rocky Mt. Ass'n of Credit Mgt. v. Marshall, 44 Colo. App. 467, 615 P.2d 68 (1980).

Section provides additional remedy. While the six-month limitations provision of § 38-26-105 is applicable to actions on a performance bond, subsection (3) of this section contains no bonding provisions and establishes a new remedy for suppliers. Rocky Mt. Ass'n of Credit Mgt. v. Marshall, 44 Colo. App. 467, 615 P.2d 68 (1980).

Surety company not required party. The surety company which wrote the bond to the contracting agency was not required to be made a party since it had no contingent liability on the materialman's withholding claim because the contracting body had enough withheld funds to pay the claim sued upon. South-Way Constr. Co. v. Adams City Serv., 169 Colo. 513, 458 P.2d 250 (1969).

Claimant may recover only for such work and materials as were specifically necessary for the doing of what the contractor had to do in the construction of the public work. South-Way Constr. Co. v. Adams City Serv., 169 Colo. 513, 458 P.2d 250 (1969).

Provision is permissive. The provision of subsection (3) that persons having claims against contractors may commence an action to recover the same against the surety on the contractor's bond within the specified time is, in this respect, permissive, and not mandatory. Continental Cas. Co. v. Rio Grande Fuel Co., 108 Colo. 472, 119 P.2d 618 (1941).

Filing of claims by laborers and materialmen not mandatory. The filing of claims by laborers and materialmen for services and material furnished is not mandatory, the only penalty for failure to file such claims being to release the body awarding the contract from all liability; also, such failure does not operate to discharge the surety on the bond of the contractor, given to secure performance of the contract, from liability thereunder. Continental Cas. Co. v. Rio Grande Fuel Co., 108 Colo. 472, 119 P.2d 618 (1941).

Failure to meet statutory requirements does not deprive contractor of common-law claims. Failure of a subcontractor or materialman to meet the statutory requirements of this section and §§ 38-26-105 and 38-26-106, e.g., time limitations within which a claim must be filed, does not deprive it of its common-law claims against the principal contractor and the principal contractor's surety. Montezuma Plumbing & Heating, Inc. v. Hous. Auth., 651 P.2d 426 (Colo. App. 1982).

Protected claimants are those who have a direct relationship with the contractor or one whose acts in purchasing labor and materials are imputed to him. Although subcontractors are not in privity of contract with the owner of the property they are in privity with the general contractor. Western Metal v. Acoustical and Const., 851 P.2d 875 (Colo. 1993).

38-26-108. Substitution of bond allowed. (1) Whenever a verified statement of a claim has been filed in accordance with section 38-26-107, the contractor holding the contract against which such statement has been filed, or other person who has an interest in the payments being withheld, by the contracting body that awarded the contract may, at any time, file with the clerk of the district court of the county where the contract is being performed or of the county where the office in which the verified statement of claim is located an ex parte motion for approval of a substitute corporate surety bond or any other undertaking that may be acceptable to a judge of such district court.

(2) A corporate surety bond or undertaking filed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall be in an amount equal to one and one-half times the amount of the claim plus costs allowed by the court up to the date of such filing and shall have been approved by an order of a judge of the district court in which such bond or undertaking is filed. The order shall state that:

- (a) The corporate surety bond or undertaking is approved;
- (b) The verified statement of claim is discharged;
- (c) The corporate surety bond or undertaking shall be substituted for the moneys withheld pursuant to the verified statement of claim; and
- (d) The contracting body that awarded the contract shall release the moneys being withheld pursuant to the verified statement of claim on the same terms and conditions as if the verified statement of claim had been released by the claimant.

(3) A corporate surety bond or undertaking filed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall be conditioned that, if the claimant is finally adjudged to be entitled to recover upon the claim upon which the claimant's verified statement of a claim is based, the surety issuing the bond or undertaking or the principal thereunder, shall pay to such claimant the amount of the judgment issued upon such claim, together with any interest, costs, and other amounts awarded by the judgment.

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 38-26-107, upon the issuance of an order from a judge of the district court approving a bond or undertaking filed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the clerk of such district court shall issue a certificate of release, which shall be served on the board, officer, person, or other contracting body by whom the contract was awarded by certified mail, return receipt requested, or by personal delivery. The certificate of release shall show that such claim against the contract has been discharged and released in full and the corporate surety bond or undertaking has been substituted. After the certificate of release is filed, payments to the contractor by the contracting body by whom the contract was awarded shall resume in accordance with the terms of the contract, and any funds previously withheld as a result of the filing of the verified statement shall be released to the contractor pursuant to the terms of the contract or, if not specified in the contract, within thirty days after the receipt of the certificate of release by the board, officer, person, or other contracting body by whom the contract was awarded.

(5) When a corporate surety bond or undertaking is substituted for a claim as provided in this section, the claimant who filed the verified statement of a claim pursuant to section 38-26-107 (1) may bring an action against such bond or undertaking. Such action shall be commenced within the time allowed for the commencement of an action set forth in section 38-26-107 (3).

(6) In the event that no action is commenced upon the corporate surety bond or undertaking within the time period called for by section 38-26-107, the corporate surety bond or undertaking shall be discharged and shall be returned to the contractor.

38-26-109. Moneys for verified claims made - trust funds - disbursements - penalty. (1) All funds disbursed to any contractor or subcontractor under any contract or project subject to the provisions of this article shall be held in trust for the payment of any person that has furnished labor, materials, sustenance, or other supplies used or consumed by the contractor in or about the performance of the work contracted to be done or that supplies laborers, rental machinery, tools, or equipment to the extent used in the prosecution of the work where the person has:

- (a) Filed or may file a verified statement of a claim arising from the project; or
- (b) Asserted or may assert a claim against a principal or surety under the provisions of this article and for whom or which such disbursement was made.

(2) The requirements of this section shall not be construed so as to require a contractor or subcontractor to hold in trust any funds that have been disbursed to him or her for any person that has furnished labor, materials, sustenance, or other supplies used or consumed by the contractor or his or her subcontractor in the performance of the work contracted to be done; supplied laborers, rental machinery, tools, or equipment to the extent used in the prosecution of the work; filed or may file a verified statement of a claim arising from the project; or asserted or may assert a claim against a principal or surety that has furnished a bond under the provisions of this article if:

(a) The contractor or subcontractor has a good faith belief that the verified statement of a claim or bond claim is not valid; or

(b) The contractor or subcontractor, in good faith, claims a setoff, to the extent of such setoff.

(3) Each contractor or subcontractor shall maintain separate records of account of each project or account; except that nothing in this section shall be construed to require a contractor or subcontractor to deposit trust funds from a single project in a separate bank account solely for that project as long as the trust funds are not disbursed in a manner that conflicts with the requirements of this section.

(4) Any person who violates the provisions of subsections (1) and (2) of this section commits theft within the meaning of section 18-4-401, C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Person who controlled the financial decisions of subcontractor is personally liable for violation of the statute. In re Dorland, 374 B.R. 765 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2007).

When a matter is pursued as a civil matter, the requisite burden of proof under this statute is the preponderance of the evidence standard, rather than the higher criminal burden of proof. In re Dorland, 374 B.R. 765 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2007).

Plaintiff met its burden of proof demonstrating that defendant failed to pay three of the material and equipment suppliers in a sum certain. Thus, defendant failed to (1) account for the trust funds and (2) demonstrate that the funds were properly applied on the project. In re Dorland, 374 B.R. 765 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2007).

Defendant violated this statute, a technical trust imposed under the law. Consequently, a fiduciary relationship was demonstrated for purposes of 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4). Moreover, the testimony and evidence at trial demonstrated that a defalcation was committed by defendant in the course of the fiduciary relationship. In re Dorland, 374 B.R. 765 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2007).

Plaintiff did not prove all the components of “theft” by a preponderance of the evidence. Although there was a violation of this statute resulting in an award of actual damages, there was no proof, evidence, or finding of conduct necessary to show criminal conduct or criminal liability under applicable Colorado case law. Thus, there was no justification for assessing the criminal penalty of treble damages, attorney fees, and costs. In re Dorland, 374 B.R. 765 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2007).

The judgment owed by defendant is non-dischargeable under 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(4). In re Dorland, 374 B.R. 765 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2007).

38-26-110. Excessive amounts claimed. (1) Any person who files a verified statement of a claim or asserts a claim against a principal or surety that has furnished a bond under this article for an amount greater than the amount due without a reasonable possibility that the amount claimed is due and with the knowledge that the amount claimed is greater than the amount due, and that fact is demonstrated in any proceedings under this article, shall forfeit all rights to the amount claimed and shall be liable to the following in an amount equal to all costs and all attorney fees reasonably incurred in bonding over, contesting, or otherwise responding in any way to the excessive verified statement of claim or excessive bond claim:

- (a) The person to whom or which a disbursement would be made but for the verified statement of a claim or bond claim; or
- (b) The principal and surety on the bond.

Lien for hospital care. Every hospital duly licensed by the department of public health and environment, pursuant to part 1 of article 3 of title 25, C.R.S., which furnishes services to any person injured as the result of the negligence or other wrongful acts of another person and not covered by the provisions of the “Workers’ Compensation Act of Colorado” shall, subject to the provisions of this article, have a lien for all reasonable and necessary charges for hospital care upon the net amount payable to such injured person, his heirs, assigns, or legal representatives out of the total amount of any recovery or sum had or collected, or to be collected, whether by judgment, settlement, or compromise, by such person, his heirs, or legal representatives as damages on account of such injuries. The lien of attorneys and counselors at law created by section 12-5-119, C.R.S., shall have precedence over and be senior to the lien created under this section. Statute does not prohibit an assignment of a hospital’s right to file a lien nor does it state that only a duly licensed hospital may create the lien. Trevino v. HHL Fin. Servs., Inc., 928 P.2d 766 (Colo. App. 1996), aff’d on other grounds, 945 P.2d 1345 (Colo. 1997).

38-27-102. Notice of lien. Such lien shall take effect if, prior to any such judgment, settlement, or compromise, a written notice of lien containing the name and address of the injured person, the date of the accident, the name and location of the hospital, and the name of the person alleged to be liable to the injured person for the injuries received is filed by the hospital in the office of the secretary of state. Hospital liens properly recorded with the division of insurance prior to July 1, 1994, shall be valid and enforceable without filing with the office of the secretary of state. Within ten days after such filing, the hospital shall mail by certified mail, return receipt requested, a copy of said notice to such injured person at the last address provided to the hospital by such person, to his or her attorney, if known, to the persons alleged to be liable to such injured person for the injuries sustained, if known, and to the insurance carriers, if known, which have insured such persons alleged to be liable against such liability. If an action for damages on account of such injuries or death is pending, the requirements of notice contained in this section shall be satisfied by the filing of the said notice of lien in the pending action, with copies thereof to the attorneys of record for the parties thereto.

ANNOTATION

Making a hospital lien that was perfected by filing in personal injury litigation applicable to PIP benefits provided by the same carrier is not a denial of due process. *Rose Medical Center v. This section establishes two separate and distinct but equal methods by which a hospital may perfect a lien against proceeds payable to an injured party. Rose Medical Center v. State Farm, 903 P.2d 15 (Colo. App. 1994) (decided under version of statute in effect prior to 1994 amendment).

Where liability coverage and PIP coverage is provided by same carrier, presumably under the same policy, notice given in compliance with this section for the liability coverage was also effective for PIP coverage. When an insurance carrier receives adequate notice of a claim under one policy or coverage, it has notice as to all coverages when the information contained in the notice is sufficient for both. Rose Medical Center v. State Farm, 903 P.2d 15 (Colo. App. 1994) (decided under version of statute in effect prior to 1994 amendment).

38-27-103. Enforcement of lien and limitation of action. Any person, private or corporate, who pays over any money to any such injured person, his attorney, heirs, assigns, or legal representatives against whom there is a lien as provided in this article of which he has received notice as provided in this article is liable to the hospital having such lien for the amount thereof not exceeding the net amount paid to such injured person, his heirs, assigns, or legal representatives. Any action under this section shall be commenced within one year after the date of such payment, and the court shall allow a reasonable attorney's fee for the collection and enforcement of such lien.

ANNOTATION

38-27-104. Hospital to furnish itemized statement. Upon receipt of a written request mailed by certified mail, return receipt requested, from any person notified of such lien in accordance with the provisions of section 38-27-102, such hospital shall, within ten days after receipt of such request, furnish such person with an itemized statement of all charges for which the lien is claimed. If such injured person has not been discharged from said hospital at the time such request is received, then the hospital shall recite that hospitalization or medical treatments are continuing and shall furnish the said itemized statement within ten days after such person has been discharged from said hospital. In addition to being furnished the said itemized statement, the person, private or corporate, against whom the lien is asserted shall also be permitted to examine the financial records of the said hospital in reference to the services furnished for which the hospital is asserting a lien.

Partition by tenants in common and joint tenants same. There is no difference in a partition action as to property held by tenants in common and property held by joint tenants. Merth v. Hobart, 129 Colo. 546, 272 P.2d 273 (1954).

Partition not imposable by marriage partner following divorce. Partition action may not be imposed by one of the marriage partners upon the other following divorce. Harrod v. Harrod, 34 Colo. App. 172, 526 P.2d 666 (1974).

Partition of marital property after the entry of the final dissolution decree is permissible, but the partition order must not conflict with explicit provisions of the decree. In such cases, the trial court is not required to treat the partition as a disposition of marital property but instead may consider the parties' equitable arguments and enter orders to partition the leaseholds equitably to promote the ends of justice. Wilson v. Prentiss, 140 P.3d 288 (Colo. App. 2006).

The court's function in a partition action is not to create new interests in property owned by tenants in common, but is merely to sever their unity of possession. Keith v. El-Kareh, 729 P.2d 377 (Colo. App. 1986).

Court cannot issue order directing sale of property under partition statute on grounds of "waste" or through its equitable powers where the two parties hold separate concurrent estates and have no interest in common. Federal Deposit Ins. Corp. v. Mars, 821 P.2d 826 (Colo. App. 1991).

This section does not abrogate the common law rule that a life estate interest cannot be partitioned from a successive, non-concurrent remainder interest in the same property. Therefore, as a matter of law, a mother could not partition her life estate in a three-room addition to her daughter's property from the daughter's remainder interest in the addition. *Beach v. Obvious intent of the joinder requirement in this section is that all persons having interests in the real property be represented in the partition action so that they may protect their interests and be bound by the results. Fry & Co. v. District Court, 653 P.2d 1135 (Colo. 1982).

When estate beneficiaries are not indispensable parties. Estate beneficiaries are not indispensable parties to a partition action commenced by the personal representative, where the personal representative is acting on behalf of all the estate beneficiaries to segregate their collective interests in the real property to be partitioned, so that he can perform his statutory duty to settle and distribute the estate expeditiously and efficiently. *Fry & Co. v. ## ANNOTATION

Agreement not to partition implied. If it appears the tenants in common of a tract of land have formulated plans and entered into agreements in reference to the management of the common property and the plans and agreements are of such a character that to grant partition would be to destroy the mutual agreement of the parties, then an agreement not to partition will be implied. *Twin Lakes Reservoir & Canal Co. v. ## ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Partition: A Little-Known Remedy", see 17 Colo. Law. 1063 (1988).

38-28-105. Commissioners - oath - partition - objections. Upon the entry of any order for partition, the court shall appoint one or more disinterested commissioners who shall take oath to fairly and impartially make partition of the property in accordance with the decree of court. Such commissioners shall view the property and make partition thereof in writing, assigning to each party his share, and shall submit the same to the court for confirmation. Objections may be filed by any party within the time fixed by the court.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Partition: A Little-Known Remedy", see 17 Colo. Law. 1063 (1988).

Substitution of commissioner for refusal to serve. Where a commissioner appointed by the court under the provisions of this section to make partition declines to serve, the court may substitute another person in his place without giving notice to the parties, and, if the appointee is objectionable by reason of coming within any of the exceptions enumerated in this section, the objection may be raised after the appointment, or it may be interposed as an objection to the report before its confirmation. Jordan v. McNulty, 14 Colo. 280, 23 P. 460 (1890).

Effect of commissioner's failure to sign report. A commissioner's neglecting to sign and acknowledge the report does not do away with the presumption that he did meet and act with the other commissioners in making the partition. Jordan v. McNulty, 14 Colo. 280, 23 P. 460 (1890).

38-28-106. Commissioners may divide land. The commissioners appointed by the court, with the approval of the court, may divide any lands involved in such action into lots or parcels, streets, and alleys and file a map or plat thereof in compliance with law and applicable ordinances.

38-28-107. Sale of property - notice. If the commissioners report and the court finds that partition of the property cannot be made without manifest prejudice to the rights of any interested party, the court may direct the sale of such property at public sale upon such terms as the court may fix. Notice of such sale shall be given in the same manner as may be required by law for sales of real estate upon execution.

ANNOTATION

Court cannot issue order directing sale of property under partition statute on grounds of "waste" or through its equitable powers where the two parties hold separate concurrent estates and have no interest in common. Federal Deposit Ins. Corp. v. Mars, 821 P.2d 826 (Colo. App. 1991).

Trial court abused its discretion in ordering a sale of the subject property without a finding that partition in kind would result in manifest prejudice. Trial court did not find that partition in kind would result in economic prejudice or would be impractical. To the contrary, the trial court ordered an equitable in kind division of the property and specified the extent of necessary easements in the event plaintiffs did not exercise their option to buy defendant's interest. Young Props. v. Wolflick, 87 P.3d 235 (Colo. App. 2003).

Applied in First Nat'l Bank v. Energy Fuels Corp., 200 Colo. 540, 618 P.2d 1115 (1980).

38-28-108. Report - confirmation - distribution. The person making such sale shall make report thereof to the court for confirmation, and upon confirmation, the court shall direct the execution of a proper instrument of conveyance to the purchaser. The court shall direct the distribution of the net proceeds of such sale and any undistributed income from such property among the persons entitled thereto.

38-28-109. Compensation of commissioners - fees and costs. The court shall fix the compensation of the commissioners and the person making the sale and may order the payment thereof, with costs, expenses, and attorney's fees, out of the proceeds of such sale or make any other order which it deems best for the payment of such compensation, fees, and costs.

38-28-110. Powers of court. The court at any time may make such orders as it may deem necessary to promote the ends of justice to completely adjudicate every question and controversy concerning the title, rights, and interest of all persons whether in being or not, known or unknown, and may direct the payment and discharge of liens and have the property sold free from any lien or may apportion any lien among the persons to whom the partition is made.

ANNOTATION

Court's function is to sever unity of possession. A court's function when deciding a partition action is not to create new interests in property held by tenants in common, but is merely to sever the unity of possession owned by the tenants. Martinez v. Martinez, 638 P.2d 834 (Colo. App. 1981); McNamara v. Mossman, 230 P.3d 1286 (Colo. App. 2010).

Court to assign equal shares to cotenants. In order to allocate to each cotenant his share of the property's enhanced value, the court should begin by assigning each cotenant one-half of the property's stipulated value, and then make adjustments as required by the accounting. Martinez v. Martinez, 638 P.2d 834 (Colo. App. 1981).

When partitioning property held by tenants in common, the court should assign one-half of interest in the property to each tenant, and not grant a greater share of the property to either. Keith v. El-Kareh, 729 P.2d 377 (Colo. App. 1986).

Then offset amounts for contribution. Once the property has been divided, the court may then, to reach an equitable result, compute the contribution of each tenant and offset any amount owing against the one-half share held by each tenant. Martinez v. Martinez, 638 P.2d 834 (Colo. App. 1981); Keith v. El-Kareh, 729 P.2d 377 (Colo. App. 1986).

Where expenditures have been made by a cotenant improving jointly owned realty, that cotenant will be allowed the amount by which the improvements enhance the value of the property but not the cost thereof or the original amount expended in making the improvement. Martinez v. Martinez, 638 P.2d 834 (Colo. App. 1981).

Trial court abused its discretion in granting plaintiffs an option to purchase defendant's interest in the subject property. This section does not grant a trial court carte blanche to provide partition remedies, particularly where that remedy would contravene the provisions of § 38-28-107. Here, the court found that the parcel could be divided equitably. Neither party occupied the parcel as a primary residence. Furthermore, the trial court granted the plaintiffs, who originally sought to sell their interest in the parcel, an option to buy defendant's interest, while defendant sought to retain his interest in the property in kind. Thus, the trial court abused its discretion in granting the option to the plaintiffs. Young Props. v. Wolflick, 87 P.3d 235 (Colo. App. 2003).

Applied in Harrod v. Harrod, 34 Colo. App. 172, 526 P.2d 666 (1974).

from personal property to real property. Leader Fed. Bank for Sav. v. Saunders, 929 P.2d 1343 (Colo. 1997).

38-29-119. Furnishing bond for certificates. (1) In cases where the applicant for a certificate of title to a manufactured home is unable to provide the director or the director's authorized agent with a certificate of title thereto, duly transferred to such applicant, a bill of sale therefor, or other evidence of the ownership thereof that satisfies the director of the right of the applicant to have a certificate of title issued to him or her, as provided in section 38-29-110, a certificate of title for such home may, nevertheless, be issued by the director upon the applicant therefor furnishing the director with his or her statement, in such form as the director may prescribe. There shall appear a recital of the facts and circumstances by which the applicant acquired the ownership and possession of such home, the source of the title thereto, and such other information as the director may require to enable him or her to determine what liens and encumbrances are outstanding against such manufactured home, if any, the date thereof, the amount secured thereby, where said liens or encumbrances are of public record, if they are of public record, and the right of the applicant to have a certificate of title issued to him or her. In situations involving an abandoned manufactured home located on an applicant's real property, a copy of an order or judgment for possession obtained through a civil eviction proceeding, along with proof of efforts to notify, via certified mail, regular mail, and posting as otherwise required by law, the prior owner of the potential removal or transfer of title of the home, as well as proof of ownership of the real property on which the home is located, shall constitute sufficient evidence of the applicant's right to a certificate of title for the home. The statement shall contain or be accompanied by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury in the second degree, as defined in section 18-8-503, C.R.S., and shall accompany the formal application for the certificate as required in section 38-29-107.

(2) (a) If, from the affidavit of the applicant and such other evidence as may be submitted to him or her, the director finds that the applicant is the same person to whom a certificate of title for said home has previously been issued or that a certificate of title should be issued to the applicant, such certificate may be issued, in which event disposition thereof shall be made as in other cases. Except as provided by paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), no certificate of title shall be issued as provided in this section unless and until the applicant furnishes evidence of a savings account, deposit, or certificate of deposit meeting the requirements of section 11-35-101, C.R.S., or a good and sufficient bond with a corporate surety, to the people of the state of Colorado, in an amount equal to twice the actual value of the manufactured home according to the assessor's records, as of the time application for the certificate is made, conditioned that the applicant and his or her surety shall hold harmless any person who suffers any loss or damage by reason of the issuance thereof.

(b) An applicant shall not be required to furnish surety pursuant to this subsection (2) for a manufactured home that is twenty-five years old or older, if the applicant:

(I) Provides proof that no property taxes for previous years are due for the manufactured home;

(II) Has had a manufactured home identification inspection performed on the manufactured home; and

(III) Presents the information required in subsection (1) of this section with the title application, accompanied by the written declaration set forth therein.

(c) If any person suffers any loss or damage by reason of the issuance of the certificate of title as provided in this section, such person shall have a right of action against the applicant and, if applicable, the surety on his or her bond. The person who has suffered a loss or damage may proceed against the applicant, the surety, or against both the applicant and the surety.

Any person who violates any of the provisions of this section or any rule of the director relating thereto, made pursuant to the authority conferred upon him in this article, is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

38-29-122. Substitute manufactured home identification numbers - inspection.
(1) Any person required to make an application for a certificate of title to a manufactured home shall use the identification number placed upon the home by the manufacturer thereof or an identification number assigned to the home by the department. The certificate of title issued by the department shall use the identification number assigned to the manufactured home.

(2) On and after February 25, 1954, the identification number provided for in this section shall be accepted in lieu of any serial number provided for by law prior to said date.

(3) (a) The department may designate a manufactured home identification inspector to physically inspect a manufactured home in order to verify the following information: The identification number, the make of the manufactured home, the year of manufacture of the manufactured home, and such other information as may be required by the department. A manufactured home identification inspector may charge a fee for the inspection; except that such fee shall not exceed the reasonable costs related to the inspection. A manufactured home identification inspector shall notify the owner of the amount of the fee before commencing any verification activities. If the manufactured home identification inspector determines that the manufactured home identification number has been removed, changed, altered, or obliterated, the owner shall request that the department assign a distinguishing number to the manufactured home pursuant to section 38-29-123.

(b) The department may designate one or more of the following persons to be a manufactured home identification inspector charged with the functions set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3):

38-29-123. Assignment of a special manufactured home identification number by the department of revenue. The department is authorized to assign a distinguishing number to any manufactured home whenever there is no identifying number thereon or such number has been destroyed, obliterated, or mutilated. In such cases, the department shall provide a form on which the distinguishing number has been assigned to the manufactured home. The distinguishing number shall be affixed to the manufactured home in the door frame or fuse box or as determined by the department. The distinguishing number shall then be the manufactured home identification number. Such manufactured home shall be titled under such distinguishing number in lieu of the former number or absence thereof, or in the event that the manufactured home is affixed to the ground so that it is no longer capable of being drawn over the public highways, the owner shall file the form provided by the department on which the distinguishing number has been assigned with the clerk and recorder for the county or city and county in which the manufactured home is located. Any mortgage intended by the parties thereto to encumber or create a lien on a manufactured home, to be effective as a valid lien against the rights of third persons, purchasers for value without notice, mortgagees, or creditors of the owner, shall be filed for public record and the fact thereof noted on the owner's certificate of title or bill of sale substantially in the manner provided in section 38-29-128; and the filing of such mortgage with the authorized agent and the notation by him of that fact on the certificate of title or bill of sale substantially in the manner provided in section 38-29-128 shall constitute notice to the world of each and every right of the person secured by such mortgage.

(2) The provisions of this section and section 38-29-128 shall not apply to any mortgage or security interest upon any manufactured home held for sale or lease which constitutes inventory as defined in section 4-9-102, C.R.S. #### ANNOTATION

Compliance with this section makes UCC "fixture filing" unnecessary. Where creditor noted its lien on certificate of title pursuant to this section, and home was not held as inventory, creditor's interest was superior to that of holder of trust deed to real estate on which home had been affixed although creditor had not made a "fixture filing" under § 4-9-313. ENT Federal Credit Union v. Chrysler First Financial Serv. Corp., 826 P.2d 430 (Colo. App. 1992).

38-29-126. Existing mortgages not affected. Nothing in this article shall be construed to impair the rights of the holder of any lien on a manufactured home created by mortgage or otherwise prior to August 1, 1949, which remains unreleased and the undertaking which the lien thereof secures remains undischarged. Nothing in this article shall be construed to relieve the holders of such liens of the duty to file such instruments respecting the undertakings secured thereby as may be required by law to preserve the liens of such mortgages unimpaired.

38-29-127. Foreign mortgages. No mortgage on a manufactured home, filed for record in any state other than the state of Colorado, shall be valid and enforceable against the rights of subsequent purchasers for value, creditors, or mortgagees having no actual notice of the existence thereof. If the certificate of title for such home, whether issued under the laws of this state or any other state, bears thereon any notation adequate to apprise a purchaser, creditor, or mortgagee of the existence of such mortgage at the time any third party acquires a right in the manufactured home covered thereby, such mortgage and the rights of the holder thereof shall be enforceable in this state the same and with like effect as though such mortgage were filed in the state of Colorado and noted on the certificate of title in the manner prescribed in section 38-29-128.

38-29-128. Filing of mortgage. The holder of any mortgage on a manufactured home desiring to secure to himself the rights provided for in this article and to have the existence of the mortgage and the fact of the filing thereof for public record noted on the certificate of title to the manufactured home thereby encumbered shall present said mortgage or a duly executed copy or certified copy thereof and the certificate of title to the manufactured home encumbered to the authorized agent of the director in the county or city and county in which the manufactured home is located. Upon the receipt of said mortgage or executed copy or certified copy thereof and certificate of title, the authorized agent, if he is satisfied that the manufactured home described in the mortgage is the same as that described in the certificate of title, shall make and subscribe a certificate to be attached or stamped on the mortgage and on the certificate of title, in which shall appear the day and hour on which said mortgage was received for filing, the name and address of the mortgagee therein named and the name and address of the holder of such mortgage, if such person is other than the mortgagee named, the amount secured thereby, the date thereof, the day and year on which said mortgage was filed for public record, and such other information regarding the filing thereof in the office of the authorized agent as may be required by the director by rule, to which certificate the authorized agent shall affix his signature and the seal of his office.

Such mortgage shall be appropriately indexed and cross-indexed:

(a) Under one or more of the following headings in accordance with such rules and regulations relating thereto as may be adopted by the director:

(I) Manufacturer, manufacturer's number, or serial number of manufactured homes mortgaged;

(II) The numbers of the certificates of title for manufactured homes mortgaged;

If a certificate of permanent location has not been previously filed and recorded for the manufactured home, the owner shall also file an affidavit of real property, described in section 38-29-208, along with the certificate of removal.

(b) The certificate of removal and the affidavit of real property, if any, along with the application for a new certificate of title required in part 1 of this article, shall be filed with the authorized agent for the county or city and county in which the manufactured home is located. 38-29-204. Certificate of destruction. (1) (a) If a manufactured home is destroyed, dismantled, or sold or otherwise disposed of as salvage on or after July 1, 2008, the owner of the manufactured home or the person on whose real property the manufactured home is situated shall file a certificate of destruction.

(b) If the certificate of destruction accompanies an application to cancel a certificate of title pursuant to section 38-29-118 (1), the certificate shall be filed with the authorized agent for the county or city and county in which the manufactured home is or was located. The authorized agent, in his or her capacity as the clerk and recorder, shall file and record the certificate of destruction in his or her office.

(c) If an application to cancel a certificate of title is not required pursuant to section 38-29-118 (1) because no certificate of title was ever issued or because the title has been purged, the certificate of destruction shall be filed with the county clerk and recorder for the county or city and county in which the manufactured home is or was located. The clerk and recorder shall file and record the certificate of destruction in his or her office.

(d) (I) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if a manufactured home has been deemed materially dangerous or materially hazardous, pursuant to local building or health codes by a governmental entity, the person on whose real property the manufactured home is situated may file and record a certificate of destruction without attaching a certificate of taxes due or an authentication of paid ad valorem taxes and without surrendering a certificate of title or filing an application to cancel a certificate of title. Any certificate of destruction filed and recorded pursuant to this paragraph (d) shall be accompanied by the evidence of violation.

(II) The certificate of destruction and the evidence of violation shall be filed and recorded with the clerk and recorder for the county or city and county in which the manufactured home is or was located. The clerk and recorder shall file and record the certificate of destruction and the evidence of violation in his or her office.

(III) For purposes of this paragraph (d):

(A) "Evidence of violation" means a notice and order from a governmental entity that a manufactured home has been deemed materially dangerous or materially hazardous pursuant to local building or health codes and that all applicable cure periods have expired.

(B) "Governmental entity" means any federal agency, the state, or any county, town, city, or city and county.

(2) The property tax administrator shall establish the form of the certificate of destruction. In addition to any other information that the administrator may require, the certificate shall include the following:

(a) The name and mailing address of the owner of the manufactured home;

(b) The name and mailing address of each holder of a security interest in the manufactured home and all holders of a lien against the real property on which the manufactured home was affixed or permanently located;

(c) The identification number of the manufactured home;

(d) The manufacturer or make and year of the manufactured home;

(e) Attached to the certificate of destruction, a certificate of taxes due, or an authentication of paid ad valorem taxes, issued by the county treasurer of the county in which the manufactured home is located;

(f) The legal description of the real property on which the manufactured home was affixed or permanently located prior to destruction;

(g) A book and page or reception number reference for a certificate of permanent location that was previously filed related to the manufactured home, if any;

(h) Consent of all lienholders to the destruction of the manufactured home, or proof that a request for such consent was sent by certified mail to such lienholders, along with proof that a copy of the request for such consent was mailed to the owner if the certificate of destruction is filed by the person on whose real property the manufactured home is situated, at their last-known address and a notarized declaration, signed under penalty of perjury, that no response was received from any such lienholders within thirty days of the date of the mailing of the notice;

(i) Release of all holders of a mortgage to the extent that the mortgage applies to the manufactured home, or proof that a request for such consent was sent by certified mail to such mortgage holders at their last-known address and a notarized declaration, signed under penalty of perjury, that no response was received within thirty days of the date of the mailing of the notice; and

(j) Verification that the manufactured home has been destroyed, dismantled, or sold or otherwise disposed of as salvage.

(3) The certificate of destruction shall be acknowledged and shall contain or be accompanied by a written declaration that the statements made therein are made under the penalties of perjury in the second degree, as defined in section 18-8-503, C.R.S.

(4) Any owner or person on whose real property the manufactured home is situated who fails to file a properly completed certificate of destruction when required pursuant to this section shall be responsible for all actual damages sustained by any affected party related to the manufactured home being destroyed, dismantled, or sold or otherwise disposed of as salvage.

38-30-102. Water rights conveyed as real estate - well permit transfers - legislative declaration - definitions. (1) The general assembly:

(a) Finds that the division of water resources in the department of natural resources needs timely and accurate data regarding well ownership in order to efficiently and accurately account for wells and to ensure that wells are properly constructed and maintained;

(b) Determines that current data concerning well ownership is inadequate and that a substantial number of residential real estate transactions that transfer ownership of a well are not reported to the division;

(c) Determines that current and accurate data is necessary for the state to notify well owners of any health, safety, water right, or stewardship issues pertaining to their groundwater well; and

(d) Declares that this section is intended to provide the division with the information it needs to properly carry out its statutory duties.

(2) In the conveyance of water rights in all cases, except where the ownership of stock in ditch companies or other companies constitutes the ownership of a water right, the same formalities shall be observed and complied with as in the conveyance of real estate.

(3) (a) As used in this subsection (3):

(I) "Closing service" means closing and settlement services, as defined in section 10-11-102, C.R.S.

(II) "Division" means the division of water resources in the department of natural resources.

(III) "Person" means any individual, corporation, government or governmental subdivision or agency, business trust, estate, trust, limited liability company, partnership, association, or other legal entity.

(b) (I) On and after January 1, 2009, when a buyer of residential real estate enters into a transaction that results in the transfer of ownership of a small capacity well listed in section 37-90-105 (1) (a) or (1) (b), C.R.S., or a domestic exempt water well used for ordinary household purposes that is listed in section 37-92-602 (1) (b) or (1) (e), C.R.S., the buyer shall, prior to or at closing of the transaction, complete a change in ownership form for the well in compliance with section 37-90-143, C.R.S.; except that, if an existing well has not yet been registered with the division, the buyer shall complete a registration of existing well form for the well.

(II) The residential real estate contract approved by the real estate commission created in section 12-61-105, C.R.S., shall require the buyer to complete the appropriate form for the well and, if no person will be providing a closing service in connection with the transaction, to file the form with the division within sixty days after closing.

(c) (I) If a person provides a closing service in connection with a residential real estate transaction subject to this subsection (3), that person shall:

(A) Within sixty days after closing, submit the appropriate form to the division with as much information as is available, and the division shall be responsible for obtaining the necessary well registration information directly from the buyer; and

(B) Not be liable for delaying the closing of the transaction in order to ensure that the buyer completes the form required by subparagraph (I) of paragraph (b) of this subsection (3). If the closing is delayed pursuant to this sub-subparagraph (B), neither the buyer nor the seller shall have any claim under this section for relief against the buyer, the seller, the person who provided closing services, a title insurance company regulated pursuant to article 11 of title 10, C.R.S., or any person licensed pursuant to article 61 of title 12, C.R.S.

(II) If no person provides such closing service, the buyer shall submit the appropriate form within the deadline specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) and pay the applicable fee.

Deed determines extent of water rights. Where a deed clearly describes a water right intended to be conveyed there is no room for the application of the doctrine of implied grant, because the matter is one of conveyance and not of implication, and the extent of plaintiff's water rights is to be determined by the express terms of his deed. Wanamaker Ditch Co. v. Crane, 132 Colo. 366, 288 P.2d 339 (1955).

If deed is silent, intention of parties determinative. It is recognized in this state that water may or may not be appurtenant to land, and the provisions of the deed control. If the deed is silent on the subject, then the intention of the parties is to be determined from all the circumstances of the case, including the fact as to the use of the water and whether it is necessary and essential to the beneficial use and enjoyment of the land. Kinoshita v. North Denver Bank, 31 Colo. App. 227, 501 P.2d 1337 (1972), aff'd, 181 Colo. 183, 508 P.2d 1264 (1973).

Presumption of intent of convey all water rights. Where a deed to land conveyed all water rights in any way appertaining or belonging to said land, and the grantee and his successors in title claimed a water right thereunder, in the absence of some fact or circumstance disclosing a patent inconsistency with the right claimed, a presumption arises that the grantor intended to and did convey any and all water rights incident to and necessary to the beneficial enjoyment of the land. Means v. Pratt, 138 Colo. 214, 331 P.2d 805 (1958).

Prima facie title to water rights established. Where a claim to water rights has been consistently asserted for nearly 50 years without challenge or interference and the water so claimed has been used upon the lands of a petitioner and his predecessors in title for that period of time, a prima facie title to such right has been established. Means v. Pratt, 138 Colo. 214, 331 P.2d 805 (1958).

As to whether water right used to irrigate land passes as appurtenance to land. See Kinoshita v. North Denver Bank, 31 Colo. App. 277, 501 P.2d 1337 (1972).

quality of the title may be warranted much like with real property. Navajo Dev. Co. v. Sanderson, 655 P.2d 1374 (Colo. 1982).

Without regard to property over which water flows. Whatever the exact nature of the property interest, water rights may be bought and sold without regard to the real property over which the water flows. Navajo Dev. Co. v. Sanderson, 655 P.2d 1374 (Colo. 1982).

This section is merely a codification of the general rule, and is in harmony with the same. Colo. Trout Fisheries, Inc. v. Welfenberg, 84 Colo. 592, 273 P. 17 (1928).

Purpose of section. This section's obvious purpose is to confirm in the grantee any legal estate or interest subsequently acquired by the grantor which was intended to be conveyed. Van Wagenen v. Carpenter, 27 Colo. 444, 61 P. 698 (1900).

Applicability of section limited. This section has no application except in cases where the deed purports to convey an estate in fee simple absolute. Rittmaster v. Brisbane, 19 Colo. 371, 35 P. 736 (1894).

Section applicable only when the original transfer consists of a transfer of title to real property by sale or conveyance. Conveyance is the transfer of title from one person to another by delivery and acceptance of a deed. The deed of trust could not have purported to transfer title to the property from husband to the bank but rather secured payment of indebtedness by transfer to the public trustee. As such, the transaction was not a conveyance. Premier Bank v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of County of Bent, 214 P.3d 574 (Colo. App. 2009).

Section applies only to purported conveyances of land or estates in fee. Conveyance of a fee simple interest is generally accomplished by describing the grant as consisting of "the following real property" or some other description of the land. Such a conveyance carries with it covenants and warranties on the part of the grantor. Quitclaim language, however, only purports to convey the grantors' present interest; it makes no title warranty of any kind. It necessarily follows, therefore, that this section does not apply to such conveyances. Premier Bank v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of County of Bent, 214 P.3d 574 (Colo. App. 2009).

Granting clause of the deed only conveyed a quitclaim interest. Such language does not purport or promise to convey land or an estate in fee but only that which husband actually owned at the time. It is the granting clause, not the warranty clause in a deed that describes the nature of the interest conveyed. To the extent there is any conflict between the warranty clause and the granting clause, the latter controls. Premier Bank v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of County of Bent, 214 P.3d 574 (Colo. App. 2009).

Section does not affect lien priorities, and trial court erred in relying upon it to reverse priorities otherwise established under race-notice. Race-notice is the linchpin of Colorado real estate law. By its plain terms, statute applies only to enforce a guarantor's warranty to a grantee, and its intent is to remedy the possibility that, in the grant of an estate in fee simple absolute, the grantor could still claim, as against the grantee, title to property that the grantor purported to convey but only acquired title to after the conveyance. Thus, statute merely serves to "bind" a grantor to the terms of the original purported conveyance, and, contrary to bank's argument, it contains no language pertaining to or overriding establishment of lien priorities under race-notice. Accordingly, although the bank had valid lien on husband's after-acquired interest, lien is junior to county's lien on one-half undivided interest in property held by wife. Premier Bank v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of County of Bent, 214 P.3d 574 (Colo. App. 2009).

Applied in Phillipp v. Leet, 19 Colo. 246, 35 P. 540 (1893).

38-30-105. Lands not in possession may be conveyed. Any person claiming right or title to lands, tenements, or hereditaments, although he may be out of possession, and notwithstanding there may be an adverse possession thereof, may sell, convey, and transfer his interest in and to the same in as full and complete a manner as if he were in the actual possession of the lands and premises intended to be conveyed.

38-30-106. Tenant in fee tail takes in fee simple. In cases where, by the common law, any person may be or become seized in fee tail of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments by virtue of any devise or conveyance, or by any other means whatsoever, such person, instead of becoming seized in fee tail thereof, shall be deemed and adjudged to be seized of such lands, tenements, and hereditaments in fee simple.

Legislative intent. The manifest intention of the general assembly was to get rid of estates tail and not to revive conditional fees and to substitute for the fee tail a life estate in the grantee, with remainder in fee simple to those who would take such remainder by the terms of the grant. Sconce v. Neece, 129 Colo. 267, 268 P.2d 1102 (1954).

Fee simple conditional and estate tail distinguished. The major difference between the fee simple conditional and the estate tail is that the former is freely alienable after birth of the required issue while the latter lacks this characteristic and its alienability is extremely limited. Sconce v. Neece, 129 Colo. 267, 268 P.2d 1102 (1954).

38-30-107. Estate granted deemed fee simple unless limited. Every estate in land which is granted, conveyed, or devised to one, although other words necessary to transfer an estate of inheritance are not added, shall be deemed a fee simple estate of inheritance if a lesser estate is not limited by express words or does not appear to be granted, devised, or conveyed by operation of law.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Some Rules of Future Interests Can be Used to Clear Titles", see 12 Colo. Law. 1229 (1983).

Words of inheritance still give rise to fee simple estate. The use of words of inheritance, even though not required under this section, still gives rise to an estate in fee simple; the meaning or effect has not been changed, only the necessity for their use has been removed. In re Newby's Estate, 146 Colo. 296, 361 P.2d 622 (1961).

Rebuttable presumption of fee simple estate. The use of the word "deemed" in this section shows that only a rebuttable presumption is intended. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Morris, 147 Colo. 1, 362 P.2d 202 (1961); Farmers Reservoir & Irr. v. Sun Prod., 721 P.2d 1198 (Colo. App. 1986).

Estate in fee created by will. Where an estate in lands is created by will, it will be deemed to be in fee simple, unless the language of the will clearly shows that a lesser or different estate was intended to be established. Tarr v. Newby, 146 Colo. 296, 361 P.2d 622 (1961).

Title passes by use of word "convey". The word "convey" is the equivalent of the word "grant"; and by the use of the word "convey" in a deed, the title passes. City of Leadville v. Coronado Mining Co., 29 Colo. 17, 67 P. 289 (1901).

Use of the word "heirs" is not necessary to create a fee. Haymaker v. Windsor Reservoir & Canal Co., 81 Colo. 168, 254 P. 768 (1927); Tarr v. Newby, 146 Colo. 296, 361 P.2d 622 (1961).

Ambiguity construed in favor of grantee. Where ambiguity exists in the terms of an instrument creating an interest in real estate, the construction thereof must favor the grantee. Clevenger v. Continental Oil Co., 149 Colo. 417, 369 P.2d 550 (1962); Farmers Reservoir & Irr. v. Sun Prod., 721 P.2d 1198 (Colo. App. 1986).

Where the deed contains no language expressly limiting the fee interest, but language creating an interest in real property is ambiguous, it is to be construed in favor of the grantee.

Kanarado Mining & Dev. Co. v. Sutton, 36 Colo. App. 375, 539 P.2d 1325 (1975).

Interpretation of parties' intent allowed only when ambiguous. The intention of the parties to a conveyance is open to interpretation only when the words used are ambiguous. Radke v. Union P. R. R., 138 Colo. 189, 334 P.2d 1077 (1958).

Reservation construed to retain fee simple in grantor. A reservation will be construed as an exception where that is the plain intent and a grantor will retain in himself a fee simple estate in the portion reserved. Radke v. Union P. R. R., 138 Colo. 189, 334 P.2d 1077 (1958).

Right to prospect for minerals is license, not reservation. A right to prospect for and to remove minerals if found, is not a reservation of an estate in real property, but a mere license, subject to revocation before its exercise by the owner of the fee simple estate. Radke v. Union P. R. R., 138 Colo. 189, 334 P.2d 1077 (1958).

Grant of privilege to take coal is easement. If an owner grants to another the right or privilege of taking coal from his lands, this grant, if not an exclusive one, is not the grant of an interest in land, but of an easement or incorporeal right, which leaves the title to the coal in place remaining in the grantor. Radke v. Union P. R. R., 138 Colo. 189, 334 P.2d 1077 (1958).

Fee simple determinable conveyed. Where a block of ground within the limits of a city was conveyed to the county, with the proviso that if any part thereof should be used otherwise than for a courthouse, the premises should revert to the city, the conveyance conveyed a fee simple, determinable upon the condition expressed. Bd. of Comm'rs v. City of Colo. Springs, 66 Colo. 111, 180 P. 301 (1919).

Grant of all coal on land is sale. Grant of all the coal on the grantor's land, or of the exclusive right to mine the coal, is a sale of the coal in place. Radke v. Union P. R. R., 138 Colo. 189, 334 P.2d 1077 (1958).

38-30-107.5. Royalty interests - minerals or geothermal resources. (1) Any conveyance, reservation, or devise of a royalty interest in minerals or geothermal resources, whether of a perpetual or limited duration, contained in any instrument executed on or after July 1, 1991, creates a real property interest which vests in the holder or holders of such interest the right to receive the designated royalty share of the specified minerals or geothermal resources or the proceeds therefrom in accordance with the terms of the instrument. Unless otherwise provided in the conveyance, reservation, or devise, the holder of such interest shall not have the right to:

- (a) Explore for or develop the minerals or geothermal resources;
- (b) Grant a mineral development lease; or
- (c) Receive any share of rentals, bonus payments, surface damage payments, or similar sums that might be payable under the terms of any mineral development lease.

ANNOTATION

Rule against perpetuities inapplicable to option contract for mineral rights of stockholder. Although the option contract clearly identified a specific property interest as the subject matter of the option, the terms were insufficient to create an interest in the property described since mineral interests were yet to be distributed. Temple Hoyne Buell v. Holland & Hart, 851 P.2d 192 (Colo. App. 1992).

38-30-108. Conveyances to grantee in a representative capacity. (1) An instrument conveying an interest in real property, in which the grantee is described as trustee, agent, conservator, executor, administrator, attorney-in-fact, personal representative, nominee, custodian, or a person acting in any other representative capacity, shall also describe the representative capacity of such grantee by one or more of the following means:

- (a) Naming the person so represented;
- (b) Identifying the statute, the trust or other agreement, or the court appointment under which the grantee is acting; or
- (c) Referring, by proper description to book, page, document number, or file to an instrument, order, decree, or other writing containing any such description of the representative capacity of the grantee that is recorded with the county clerk and recorder in the county where the real property is located.

(2) If the representative capacity of the grantee is not described as provided in subsection (1) of this section, the description of a grantee in any such representative capacity in such instrument of conveyance shall be presumed to be a description of the person only and shall not be notice of the representative capacity of such grantee.

(3) After the recording of an instrument conveying an interest in real property in which the grantee is described as acting in a representative capacity, but in which the description of the grantee does not comply with subsection (1) of this section, and regardless of whether such instrument of conveyance was recorded prior to or after August 8, 2001, an affidavit that has been executed by or on behalf of such grantee, which refers by proper description by book, page, document number, or file to the recording information of such instrument of conveyance and that contains one of the descriptions of the representative capacity of such grantee described in subsection (1) of this section, may be recorded with the county clerk and recorder of the county where the real property is located. Upon the recording of such affidavit, all persons shall thereafter have notice of the representative capacity of such grantee with respect to the interest in real property so conveyed.

Word "trustee" deemed purely descriptive. The addition of the word "trustee" to the name of the grantee in a conveyance signifies nothing in view of this section; the word is purely descriptive of the person. Beatty v. Fellows, 101 Colo. 466, 74 P.2d 677 (1937).

Description of grantees as "trustees" in a deed is considered a description of the person only, and the presence of word in the deed does not give rise to an express trust. Coriell v. Hudson, 563 F.2d 978 (10th Cir. 1977).

The failure of a personal representative's deed to list the beneficiaries of a trust or reference a document of record providing such information, pursuant to this section, does not render trust property available to satisfy personal judgments against a trustee when the creditors placed no reliance on the non-conforming personal representative's deed in extending the credit. Lagae v. Lackner, 996 P.2d 1281 (Colo. 2000).

The intent and purpose of the general assembly in enacting this section did not include allowing personal judgment creditors to seize trust assets to satisfy a trustee's personal obligations when those creditors did not rely on the non-conforming in extending the credit. To determine otherwise would produce an absurd result. In enacting this statute, the general assembly responded to the problems faced by bona fide purchasers, lessees, mortgagees, or assignees that relied on the apparent authority of trustees. It did not intend to make trust property available to the unsecured creditors of a person who serves as a trustee for another, when those creditors placed no reliance on the non-conforming instrument in making their loans. Lagae v. Lackner, 996 P.2d 1281 (Colo. 2000).

Section protects devisees in addition to bona fide purchasers and similar parties. Deed transferring property did not satisfy the requirements of this section, and, therefore, the property was transferred to the grantees in their individual capacities not in a representative capacity. In re Estate of Kiser, 72 P.3d 425 (Colo. App. 2003).

In light of the legislative intent to protect alienability and title, the supreme court's interpretation of this section in Lagae v. Lackner is limited to circumstances in which the party claiming an interest adverse to the trust is not a transferee. In re Estate of Kiser, 72 P.3d 425 (Colo. App. 2003).

Subsection (3) applies retroactively to deeds filed before the effective date of such subsection. However, affidavit filed did not meet the statutory requirements. In re Estate of Kiser, 72 P.3d 425 (Colo. App. 2003).

Applied in Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Blanning, 29 Colo. App. 61, 479 P.2d 404 (1970).

38-30-108.5. Conveyances to trusts - ownership and transfer of property. (1) A trust may acquire, convey, encumber, lease, or otherwise deal with any interest in real or personal property in the name of the trust.

(2) In order to evidence the existence of a trust and the authority of one or more trustees to act on behalf of the trust with respect to an interest in real property held in the name of the trust, any trustee of the trust may execute and record with the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the real property is located, a statement of authority pursuant to section 38-30-172 (2).

(3) The provisions of subsection (1) of this section shall also apply to any interest in real or personal property that is already in the name of the trust as of August 8, 2001. Nothing in this section shall be construed to be the exclusive manner in which title to an interest in real or personal property may be held by or on behalf of a trust, and title to an interest in real or personal property may be held by or on behalf of a trust in any other manner permitted by law.

Rule against perpetuities inapplicable to cemetery trusts. (1) Any gifts, bequests, transfers, grants, or conveyances of real or personal property by any one person in trust amounting to not more than twenty-five thousand dollars in value in the aggregate at the time of the creation of such trusts, the income of which is to be used exclusively for the purpose of creating, maintaining, or caring for any graves, tombs, mausoleums, grave markers or monuments, burial places, grave sites, cemetery plots, or graveyards and payment of reasonable compensation to the trustee, shall be good, valid, and enforceable regardless of the time such trusts continue. The rule or law against perpetuities shall have no application to any such part of any such trusts as are not more than twenty-five thousand dollars in value at the time of the creation of such trusts.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to detract from the validity of any payment, gift, or bequest in consideration of an agreement of a cemetery relating to care and maintenance, or any trust or other agreement entered into by a cemetery in aid or furtherance of any promise of such cemetery relative to the maintenance thereof, or of any grave, tomb, mausoleum, grave marker or monument, burial place, grave site, or cemetery plot therein.

....., whose street address is ....., City or Town of ....., County of ..... and State of ....., for the consideration of ..... dollars, in hand paid, hereby sell(s) and convey(s) to ..... whose street address is ....., City or Town of ....., County of ..... and State of ....., the following real property in the County of ..... and State of Colorado, to wit: ..... with all its appurtenances and warrant(s) the title to the same, subject to .....

Signed this ..... day of ....., 20....

(b) Such deed may be acknowledged in accordance with section 38-35-101. Failure to state the address or the county or state of residence of the grantor or grantee shall not affect the validity of such deed.

(c) Every deed in substance in the above form, when properly executed, shall be a conveyance in fee simple to the grantee, with covenants on the part of the grantor as set forth in subsection (2) of this section.

(d) Every deed in substance in the above form, when properly executed, shall be a conveyance of the grantor’s interest, if any, in any vacated street, alley, or other right-of-way that adjoins the real property unless the transfer of such interest is expressly excluded in the deed.

(2) The words “warrant(s) the title” in a warranty deed as described in subsection (1) (a) of this section or in a mortgage as described in section 38-30-117 mean that the grantor covenants:

(a) That at the time of the making of such instrument he was lawfully seized of an indefeasible estate in fee simple in and to the property therein described and has good right and full power to convey the same;

(b) That the same was free and clear from all encumbrances, except as stated in the instrument; and

(c) That he warrants to the grantee and his heirs and assigns the quiet and peaceable possession of such property and will defend the title thereto against all persons who may lawfully claim the same.

Ambiguity construed in favor of grantee. Where the deed contains no language expressly limiting the fee interest, but language creating an interest in real property is ambiguous, it is to be construed in favor of the grantee. Kanarado Mining & Dev. Co. v. Sutton, 36 Colo. App. 375, 539 P.2d 1325 (1975).

Construction of deeds with reconveyance clauses. Deeds with reconveyance clauses have generally been construed as creating a fee simple subject to a covenant to reconvey or a fee simple on a condition subsequent. Kanarado Mining & Dev. Co. v. Sutton, 36 Colo. App. 375, 539 P.2d 1325 (1975).

Covenant of general warranty is a guarantee that the grantor is vested of an estate in fee simple with full power to convey, that the property is free of all encumbrances except as listed in the deed, that the grantor will guarantee title and peaceful possession, and will defend the grantee's title to the property. O'Brien v. Vill. Land Co., 794 P.2d 246 (Colo. 1990); Ford v. Summertree Lane Ltd. Liability Co., 56 P.3d 1206 (Colo. App. 2002).

Conveyance by warranty deed is promise from grantor that, at time of execution, grantor was lawfully seized of estate conveyed, that estate was free and clear of all encumbrances except as stated in deed, and the grantee is warranting the quiet possession of the property and that the grantor will defend the title against all persons lawfully claiming title. Upton v. Griffiths, 831 P.2d 504 (Colo. App. 1992).

Three-year statute of limitations for action in breach of warranty did not start to run until plaintiffs knew, or should have known, of the government's adverse possession of the property. Upton v. Griffiths, 831 P.2d 504 (Colo. App. 1992).

Court properly awarded attorney fees as damages for breach of deed warranties in action to establish rights to use road, but improperly awarded attorney fees for plaintiffs' efforts to establish that road was public and that the county was obligated to maintain it or for claims concerning indemnity issues. Vendee's knowledge of encumbrance. While, as a general rule, in an action of covenant for breach of warranty against encumbrances, the knowledge of an encumbrance upon the part of the vendee does not constitute a defense, yet when it appears that the vendee has assumed the removal of such encumbrance, the rule does not apply. McClellan v. Morris, 71 Colo. 304, 206 P. 575 (1922).

The sale of property with structures in violation of a building code is not a breach of the covenant against encumbrances because building requirements are difficult to discover once a structure has been built. In the case of a violation of zoning laws, however, which exist at the time of conveyance and are cited as conditions to the issuance of the certificate of occupancy, there is a breach of the covenant against encumbrances. Feit v. Donahue, 826 P.2d 407 (Colo. App. 1992).

An order for the alteration of a structure already built in violation of a law or ordinance, or for penalties imposed for such violations, constitutes an encumbrance. Feit v. Donahue, 826 P.2d 407 (Colo. App. 1992).

When a buyer agrees to buy "subject to building and zoning regulations", the possibility of a breach of the covenant against encumbrances is not forever foreclosed because the buyer is not obligated to take the property subject to existing zoning violations. Feit v. Donahue, 826 P.2d 407 (Colo. App. 1992).

(2) Such mortgage may be acknowledged in accordance with section 38-35-101. Failure to state the address or the county or state of residence of the grantor or grantee shall not affect the validity of such mortgage.

(3) Every mortgage in substance in the above form, when properly executed, shall be a mortgage to secure the payment of the money therein specified, with covenants as expressed in section 38-30-113 (2), but if the words "and warrant(s) the title to the same" are omitted, no such covenants shall be implied.

ANNOTATION

Intent to postpone deed's operation not provable by parol evidence. Under this section it is certainly required that the intention to postpone the operation of a deed shall be declared in the instrument, and it cannot be proved by parol. Omaha & Grant Smelting & Ref. Co. v. Tabor, 13 Colo. 41, 21 P. 9256 (1889).

Parol evidence of an agreement that possession should not pass until the purchase money is fully paid is inadmissible. Drake v. Root, 2 Colo. 685 (1875); Omaha & Grant Smelting & Ref. Co. v. Tabor, 13 Colo. 41, 21 P. 925 (1889).

Right to possess both surface and minerals. Conveyance invests grantees with ownership and the right to immediate possession of the real estate, both as to the surface and the minerals. Lambertson v. Thomas, 146 Colo. 539, 362 P.2d 180 (1961).

Possession denied where deed is void. This section does not entitle a grantee to possession if the deed of conveyance is void on its face, and occupancy of the land in controversy would then be a trespass. Williams v. Conroy, 35 Colo. 117, 83 P. 959 (1905); Whitehead v. Callahan, 44 Colo. 396, 99 P. 57 (1908).

Application of section to leasehold. During the term of a lease, a tenant is normally entitled to full possession of the premises, even to the exclusion of the landlord. Rutherford v. Scarborough, 28 Colo. App. 352, 472 P.2d 721 (1970).

Applied in Thomas v. Dunnean, 75 Colo. 216, 225 P. 253 (1924).

38-30-121. What covenants run with the land. Covenants of seisin, peaceable possession, freedom from encumbrances, and warranty contained in any conveyance of real estate, or any interest therein, shall run with the premises and inure to the benefit of all subsequent purchasers and encumbrancers.

Only last covenantee in possession can sue for breach. Where land conveyed with real covenants has passed by subsequent conveyances through the hands of various covenantees, only the last covenantee in whose possession the land is when the covenant is broken can sue for its breach, and his right of action extends to any or to all of the prior covenantors. Western Dev. & Realization Corp. v. Hext, 108 Colo. 312, 117 P.2d 313 (1941).

Accrual of cause of action depends upon time of breach; and the time of breach varies with the particular covenant. Bernklau v. Stevens, 150 Colo. 187, 371 P.2d 765 (1962).

Covenant of seisin is broken, if at all, when it is made. Bernklau v. Stevens, 150 Colo. 187, 371 P.2d 765 (1962).

Covenant of seisin and covenant of right to convey synonymous. The covenant of right to convey is practically synonymous with the covenant of seisin. Bernklau v. Stevens, 150 Colo. 187, 371 P.2d 765 (1962).

Covenant of title. The covenant of seisin is regarded in legal effect as a covenant of title as well as a covenant of possession. Bernklau v. Stevens, 150 Colo. 187, 371 P.2d 765 (1962).

Covenant against encumbrances runs with the land and inures to the benefit of subsequent purchasers. Wheeler v. Roley, 105 Colo. 116, 95 P.2d 2 (1939).

Covenant against encumbrances is not restricted to instances where there is an adverse claim of title, but applies when a house is sold with an existing zoning violation that eventually results in the revocation of the certificate allowing occupancy. Feit v. Donahue, 826 P.2d 407 (Colo. App. 1992).

A requirement that existed at time of conveyance that a garage be built to conform to zoning laws constituted an encumbrance. Feit v. Donahue, 826 P.2d 407 (Colo. App. 1992).

Covenant of warranty is broken when covenantee suffers eviction. Bernklau v. Stevens, 150 Colo. 187, 371 P.2d 765 (1962).

What constitutes eviction. The requirement of eviction for breach of covenant of warranty is satisfied when the covenantee is unable to obtain possession by reason of possession by a third person having a paramount title which existed at the time of the conveyance or because of the refusal of one in actual possession to surrender the premises to the covenantee. Bernklau v. Stevens, 150 Colo. 187, 371 P.2d 765 (1962).

Right of recovery unaffected by grantee's knowledge of defective title. Even though a grantee knows at the time of conveyance that his grantor's title is defective or that the grantor had no title to part of the land, it does not generally affect the grantee's right of recovery for a breach of warranty, but this, however, does not prevent a grantee from being estopped to assert his claim. Reinhardt v. Meyer, 153 Colo. 296, 385 P.2d 597 (1963).

Grantee with no loss has no action. The grantee of real property who has not, and will not, sustain any loss or damage by the breach of grantor's covenant to pay taxes on the property conveyed, has no cause of action for recovery of the amount of taxes assessed against the property. Western Dev. & Realization Corp. v. Hext, 108 Colo. 312, 117 P.2d 313 (1941).

When restrictive covenants deemed controlling. Restrictive residential covenants are controlling where they require a more restrictive use of the land than is permitted under zoning requirements. Lidke v. Martin, 31 Colo. App. 40, 500 P.2d 1184 (1972).

Applied in Stone v. Rozich, 88 Colo. 399, 297 P. 999 (1931).

38-30-122. No action against warrantor without notice and refusal to defend. No right of action shall exist upon a covenant of warranty against a warrantor when possession of the premises warranted has been actually delivered to or taken by the warrantee, until the party menacing the possession of the grantee, his heirs, personal representatives, or assigns have commenced legal proceedings to obtain possession of the premises in question and the grantor, after notice, has refused to defend, at his own cost, the premises in such action.

Section applies only to covenant of warranty. Seyfried v. Knoblauch, 44 Colo. 86, 96 P. 993 (1908).

Application of the statute is limited to grantees in possession of the property in dispute and shall not be used to delay the running of three-year statute of limitations on a claim involving a breach of warranty by a former grantee who conveyed and voluntarily relinquished possession of the property covered by the deed. Pagosa Springs Invs. v. Sivers, 886 P.2d 307 (Colo. App. 1994).

Section is inapplicable when possession is not obtained under the deed, not when the holder of the adverse title has obtained possession of the premises since the deed was made. Tierney v. Whiting, 2 Colo. 620 (1875).

"Legal proceedings" and "action" construed. The words "legal proceedings" and "action", as used in this section, mean a suit in court for the possession of the land. Ernst v. St. Clair, 71 Colo. 353, 206 P. 799 (1922).

This section does not bar action for breach of warranty deed since grantees never took possession of the property involved and are regarded as actually being evicted from property. Upton v. Griffiths, 831 P.2d 504 (Colo. App. 1992).

Accrual of cause of action for breach of warranty. Where a covenantee is never in possession of property conveyed, he cannot be menaced in his possession within the meaning of this section, hence a cause of action for breach of warranty accrues upon delivery of the conveyance. Bernklau v. Stevens, 150 Colo. 187, 371 P.2d 765 (1962).

This section clearly sets forth the commencement of legal proceedings by a third party as the date of accrual. Bernklau v. Stevens, 150 Colo. 187, 371 P.2d 765 (1962).

Water rights may be warranted. Water rights can be conveyed and the quality of the title may be warranted much like with real property. Navajo Dev. Co. v. Sanderson, 655 P.2d 1374 (Colo. 1982).

38-30-123. Powers of attorney must be recorded. In order that all conveyances which are executed by any attorney-in-fact may be seen to be executed with the assent of the grantor, the power of attorney of the attorney-in-fact, duly proved or acknowledged, shall be recorded in the same office in which the conveyances themselves are required to be recorded.

This section does not prohibit any other mode of transfer, nor was it so intended, and it is entirely competent for a corporation to transfer its property through such agency as it may designate. Bliss v. Harris, 38 Colo. 72, 87 P. 1076 (1906).

This section does not require, by express language or by implication, evidence of shareholder approval to convey real estate. It only requires that the corporation be authorized by law to convey real estate and a corporation possesses this general legal authority unless otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation. Svanidze v. Kirkendall, 169 P.3d 262 (Colo. App. 2007).

This section does not require proof of actual reliance in all cases. The phrase “relying on such instrument” modifies only the last item in the series “bona fide purchaser, encumbrancer, or other person”. The phrase reflects that the three items are alike in that they all rely on the instrument and that bona fide purchasers and encumbrancers rely on the instrument by definition. Svanidze v. Kirkendall, 169 P.3d 262 (Colo. App. 2007).

38-30-157. Same use prohibition or restriction repeated in subsequent instruments taking effect on or after January 1, 1966 - exception. (1) If any inter vivos instrument taking effect on or after January 1, 1966, or if the will of any testator dying on or after such date, or if any appointment made on or after such date, including an appointment by inter vivos instrument or will under a power created before such date, purports to convey or devise any interest in real property on a special limitation or subject to a condition subsequent which prohibits or restricts a use of such interest in real property which has been purportedly or in fact previously prohibited or restricted by an earlier conveyance or devise or appointment on a special limitation or subject to a condition subsequent, it shall be conclusively deemed and held that no new special limitation or possibility of reverter or condition subsequent or right of entry is thereby created with respect to such use, whether or not any such earlier special limitation or condition subsequent is still enforceable, unless the grantor in such inter vivos instrument or the testator in such will or the person who exercises such power of appointment expressly recites in such inter vivos instrument or such will or such appointment that he intends to create a new special limitation and possibility of reverter or a new condition subsequent and right of entry, and that he intends the same to be in addition to any other special limitation and possibility of reverter and any other condition subsequent and right of entry which may be then in existence. In the absence of such express recital, which may appear in a codicil to any will making such a devise or appointment, such language of special limitation and possibility of reverter or of condition subsequent and right of entry shall be conclusively deemed and held to be only a recognition of any prior special limitation and possibility of reverter and condition subsequent and right of entry which may be then in existence.

(2) Notwithstanding subsection (1) of this section, no presumption of intent shall be applied to any such conveyance or appointment by inter vivos instrument executed prior to April 26, 1965, but taking effect after January 1, 1966, where the person executing such inter vivos instrument, at any time between April 26, 1965, and January 1, 1966, lacks as a matter of law the capacity or power to add the express recital provided in subsection (1) of this section to such inter vivos instrument if a notice of claim, such as that required by sections 38-30-159 and 38-30-160, is filed for record in the manner set forth in said sections within one year after January 1, 1966; nor shall any presumption of intent be applied to any will making such a devise or appointment executed prior to April 26, 1965, where the testator or person making such appointment by will lacks testamentary capacity at any time between April 26, 1965, and January 1, 1966, and dies on or after January 1, 1966, if a notice of claim such as that required by sections 38-30-159 and 38-30-160 is filed for record in the manner set forth in said sections within one year after his death.

38-30-158. Record notice required for same use prohibition or restriction repeated in subsequent instruments taking effect prior to January 1, 1966 - exception - affidavit as to ownership and possession. (1) If any inter vivos instrument taking effect prior to January 1, 1966, or if the will of any testator dying prior to such date, or if any appointment made prior to such date, including an appointment by inter vivos instrument or will, purports to convey or devise any interest in real property on a special limitation or subject to a condition subsequent which prohibits or restricts a use of such interest in real property which has been purportedly or in fact previously prohibited or restricted by an earlier conveyance or devise or appointment on a special limitation or subject to a condition subsequent, it shall be conclusively deemed and held that no new special limitation or possibility of reverter or condition subsequent or right of entry was thereby created with respect to such use, unless a notice of claim to the contrary is filed for record within one year after January 1, 1966, in the manner provided by sections 38-30-159 and 38-30-160; except that if on January 1, 1966, any person is the owner of and in possession of any such interest in real property by reason of the occurrence prior to said date of the use prohibited or restricted by a special limitation or condition subsequent, such person shall not be required to file any notice in order to preserve the validity at the time of such occurrence of the special limitation and possibility of reverter or of the condition subsequent and right of entry upon which his ownership and possession are dependent.

(2) If such notice of claim to the contrary is not filed for record, except when not required as provided in subsection (1) of this section, such language of special limitation and possibility of reverter or of condition subsequent and right of entry shall be conclusively deemed and held to have been only a recognition of any prior special limitation and possibility of reverter and condition subsequent and right of entry which may have been then in existence. An affidavit may be made and filed for record in the county in which such interest in real property is located at any time on or after January 1, 1966, stating either that by January 1, 1966, no person was the owner of and in possession of such interest in real property by reason of such occurrence prior to said date of the use prohibited or restricted by a special limitation or condition subsequent, or the name of such person who was such owner in possession. Such affidavit shall further state that the affiant is of legal age and has personal knowledge of the ownership and possession of said interest in real property on January 1, 1966. Such affidavit shall not be made by anyone who then has a record interest in the real property described therein. Such recorded affidavit shall be deemed and held to be prima facie proof of the foregoing matters therein stated, and such recorded affidavit, and a copy of such record certified to be a true copy by the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein such affidavit is recorded shall be accepted in all courts of the state of Colorado as prima facie proof of the foregoing matters therein stated.

Such notice may be filed for record by the person claiming to be the owner of such possibility of reverter or right of entry, or by any other person acting on his behalf if the person who is said to be such owner is:

- (a) Under a legal disability; or
- (b) Unable to assert a claim on his own behalf; or
- (c) One of a class, but whose identity cannot be established or is unknown or uncertain at the time of filing such notice of claim.

38-30-160. Contents of notice - recording, indexing - effect. (1) To be effective and entitled to be filed for record, such notice shall contain all of the following matters:

(a) An accurate and full description of all real property affected by such notice, which description shall be set forth in particular terms and not by general inclusions; but if such claim is founded upon a recorded instrument, the description in such notice may be the same as that contained in the recorded instrument upon which the claim is based;

(b) The terms of the special limitation or condition subsequent from which the possibility of reverter or right of entry arises, and the name of the grantor or testator or person exercising such power of appointment who is said to have created the special limitation and possibility of reverter or condition subsequent and right of entry being claimed by such notice;

(c) The names of all claimants or owners of the possibility of reverter or right of entry on whose behalf it is filed for record, except that if a claimant or owner is one of a class whose identity cannot be established or is unknown or uncertain at the time of filing such notice, then as to such claimant or owner it shall be sufficient to identify such class, and such notice shall be wholly ineffective as to all persons who are neither named nor members of such class.

(2) The county clerk and recorder of each county shall accept every such notice presented to him which describes real property located in the county for which he serves and shall enter and record the same in the same way that deeds are recorded. In indexing such notice in his office, such county clerk and recorder shall enter such notice in the grantee indexes of deeds under the name of the person who has executed such notice and also under the names of all other persons named in said notice as claimants of or as owning such possibility of reverter or right of entry, and in the grantor indexes under the name of the grantor or testator or person exercising such power of appointment who is said to have created the special limitation and possibility of reverter or condition subsequent and right of entry being claimed by such notice.

(3) The county clerk and recorder shall be entitled to charge the same fees for recording such notice and for indexing it in the grantor and grantee indexes as are charged for the recording and indexing of deeds.

(4) If the real property affected by such notice is located in more than one county, such notice shall be recorded in each county wherein part of the real property is located, and such notice shall be wholly ineffective as to all real property located in any county in which it has not been recorded.

(a) Accelerate or mature the indebtedness secured by such real estate on account of the sale or transfer of such real estate or on account of the assumption of such indebtedness; except that this paragraph (a) shall not apply if the person to whom the real estate would be sold or transferred is reasonably determined by the person holding the security interest to be financially incapable of retiring the indebtedness according to its terms, based upon standards normally used by persons in the business of making loans on real estate in the same or similar circumstances; or

(b) Increase the interest rate more than one percent per annum above the existing interest rate of the indebtedness or otherwise modify, for the benefit of the holder of the security interest, the terms and conditions of the indebtedness secured by such real estate, on account of the sale or transfer of such real estate or on account of the assumption of such indebtedness; or

(c) Charge, collect, or attempt to collect any fee in excess of one-half of one percent of the principal amount of the indebtedness outstanding, on account of the sale or transfer of such real estate or on account of the assumption of such indebtedness, not including title insurance, abstracting, credit report, survey, or other charges appertaining to the sale; or

(2) The maximum increase allowed in paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section and the maximum fee allowed in paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section shall not be deemed required, minimum, or ordinary, but said interest increase and fee may, in any case, be less than the amount allowed.

(3) This section shall be applicable only to a security interest in real property utilized as residential dwelling units other than motels, hotels, and nursing homes.

(5) This section shall not be applicable to a person with a security interest in real estate who is not regularly engaged in the business of making real estate loans.

(6) In the event that the party assuming the indebtedness declines to agree to an increase in the interest rate as provided in paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section, said indebtedness may be prepaid without penalty or increased interest at any time within sixty days after said assumption; but if he does not make such prepayment within the sixty-day period he shall be liable for the increased interest rate from the date of the assumption, and any prepayment penalty provided for in the security instrument shall thereafter be in effect.

38-30-166. Joint ventures - ownership and transfer of property. (1) Upon compliance with the provisions of subsection (2) of this section, a joint venture may acquire, convey, encumber, lease, or otherwise deal with any interest in property in the name of the joint venture set forth in the affidavit required by subsection (2) of this section and may do so regardless of whether the affidavit is recorded before or after the conveyance to the joint venture is recorded. The provisions of this subsection (1) shall apply to any interest in property acquired in the name of a joint venture either before or after August 8, 2001.

(2) (a) Any member of a joint venture may record with the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the interest in property is located an affidavit setting forth the following:

(I) A statement that the affidavit relates to a joint venture;

(II) The name of the joint venture; and

(III) The names and addresses of all of the joint venturers of the joint venture.

(b) The affidavit may set forth a statement that fewer than all of the joint venturers are authorized to act on behalf of the joint venture in any acquisition, conveyance, encumbrance, lease, or other dealing with an interest in property in the name of the joint venture. If such a statement is included, the affidavit:

(I) Shall designate the joint venturers or the manner of designating the joint venturers so authorized;

(II) May express such limitations upon the authority of such joint venturers as may exist; and

(III) Shall be executed by all of the joint venturers named in the affidavit as set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2).

(c) If the affidavit does not contain a statement as set forth in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), the affidavit shall be executed by at least one joint venturer named in the affidavit.

(d) Upon recording, the affidavit shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts recited therein, the authority of the affiant to execute and record the affidavit, and the authority of the joint venturers who are thereby empowered to convey or otherwise act on behalf of the joint venture, insofar as the same affect title to any interest in property.

(3) This subsection (3) shall apply only to a joint venture that has recorded an affidavit pursuant to subsection (2) of this section. Where an interest in property is held in the name of a joint venture, such interest shall only be conveyed, encumbered, leased, or otherwise dealt with in the name of such joint venture by an instrument executed by all of the joint venturers named in the affidavit; except that, if the affidavit sets forth a statement as provided for in paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section, the joint venturers designated in such statement or designated in the manner provided in such statement may act in accordance with the statement with respect to such interest in property.

(4) This subsection (4) shall only apply to a joint venture that has recorded an affidavit pursuant to subsection (2) of this section. A lien or encumbrance arising out of a claim against a joint venturer may attach to the joint venturer's interest in the joint venture and to the separate property of the joint venturer but shall not attach to any property of the joint venture or any property or interest of any other joint venturer. A lien or encumbrance arising out of a claim against a joint venture may attach to the property of the joint venture. A lien or encumbrance arising out of a claim against a joint venture and a joint venturer may attach to the property of the joint venture, to the joint venturer's interest in the joint venture, and to the separate property of the joint venturer. On due application to a court of competent jurisdiction by any judgment creditor of a joint venturer, the court may charge such interest of such joint venturer with payment of the unsatisfied amount of the judgment, and with interest thereon, and may then or later appoint a receiver of distributions in respect of such interest.

(5) For the purposes of this section, the term "joint venture" does not include a partnership, as defined in the "Uniform Partnership Law", article 60 of title 7, C.R.S., or the "Colorado Uniform Partnership Act (1997)", article 64 of title 7, C.R.S., whether or not denominated a joint venture in its organizational documents or elsewhere. Except with respect to the provisions of subsection (4) of this section, as applied to any lien or encumbrance arising out of a claim by a joint venturer against another joint venturer in the joint venture, or against the joint venture itself, the provisions of this section shall not be interpreted to alter or affect the rights and duties between joint venturers of a joint venture, as may be required by law or by court decision.

38-30-167. Right of purchaser to obtain partial specific performance. If it is impossible for a vendor of real property to convey a portion of the real property he contracted to convey, the vendee has a right to obtain a conveyance of that portion which it is possible to convey and a right to obtain damages or other equitable relief concerning the portion which it is impossible to convey. For the purposes of this section, "vendor" includes an optionor or a grantor of a right to repurchase or lease, and "vendee" includes an optionee or a holder of a right to repurchase or lease.

ANNOTATION

By conjoining the right of partial specific performance and a right to damages or other equitable relief, this statute simply makes it clear that the remedy of partial performance is an additional remedy rather than a substitute for any relief to which the purchaser would be entitled for the vendor's inability to fully comply with the terms of the contract. Brush Grocery Kart v. Sure Fine Mkt., 47 P.3d 680 (Colo. 2002).

38-30-168. Unreasonable restrictions on renewable energy generation devices - definitions. (1) (a) A covenant, restriction, or condition contained in any deed, contract, security instrument, or other instrument affecting the transfer or sale of, or any interest in, real property that effectively prohibits or restricts the installation or use of a renewable energy generation device is void and unenforceable.

(b) As used in this section, "renewable energy generation device" means either:

(I) A solar energy device, as defined in section 38-32.5-100.3; or

(II) A wind-electric generator that meets the interconnection standards established in rules promulgated by the public utilities commission pursuant to section 40-2-124, C.R.S.

(2) Subsection (1) of this section shall not apply to:

(a) Aesthetic provisions that impose reasonable restrictions on the dimensions, placement, or external appearance of a renewable energy generation device and that do not:

(I) Significantly increase the cost of the device; or

(II) Significantly decrease its performance or efficiency;

(b) Bona fide safety requirements, required by an applicable building code or recognized electrical safety standard, for the protection of persons and property; or

(c) Reasonable restrictions on the installation and use of wind-electric generators to reduce interference with the use and enjoyment by residents of property situated near wind-electric generators as a result of the sound associated with the wind-electric generators. Interference with the use and enjoyment of property by residents for the purpose of determining whether a restriction is reasonable shall be determined as a part of the architectural review process as required by the governing documents of the common interest community and shall include consideration of input by the individuals requesting approval from the common interest community to install a wind-electric generator.

(3) This section shall not be construed to confer upon any property owner the right to place a renewable energy generation device on property that is:

(a) Owned by another person;

(b) Leased, except with permission of the lessor;

(c) Collateral for a commercial loan, except with permission of the secured party; or

(d) A limited common element or general common element of a common interest community.

(4) In any litigation involving the significance of an increase in cost of a renewable energy generation device, for purposes of subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section, the party that prevails on the issue of the significance of the increase shall be entitled to its reasonable attorney fees and costs incurred in litigating that issue. This subsection (4) shall not be construed to limit or prohibit an award of attorney fees or costs on other grounds or in connection with other issues.

(2) The dissolution of a corporation shall not eliminate or impair any remedy available to or against the corporation or its directors, officers, or shareholders for any right or claim existing or any liability incurred prior to such dissolution if an action or other proceeding is commenced thereon within two years after the date of the dissolution. (5) A statement of authority may contain any limitation as may exist upon the authority of the person named in the statement or holding the position described in the statement to bind the entity and any other matters concerning the manner in which the entity deals with any interest in real property. Source: L. 2012: Entire article added, (HB 12-1105), ch. 230, p. 1011, § 1, effective August 8.

38-30.7-102. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) “Wind energy agreement” means a lease, license, easement, or other agreement, whether by grant or reservation, to develop or participate in the income from or the development of wind-powered energy generation.

(2) “Wind energy developer” means the owner of the surface estate or the lessee, easement holder, licensee, or contracting party under a wind energy agreement.

(3) “Wind energy right” means a property interest in the development of wind-powered energy generation.

Source: L. 2012: Entire article added, (HB 12-1105), ch. 230, p. 1011, § 1, effective August 8.

38-30.7-103. Wind energy agreements - recording - termination - transfer. (1) A wind energy right is not severable from the surface estate; except that wind energy may be developed pursuant to a wind energy agreement.

(2) A wind energy agreement is an interest in real property. The owner of the surface estate or the wind energy developer shall record a wind energy agreement or a notice or memorandum evidencing a wind energy agreement in the office of the county clerk and recorder in the county where the land subject to the agreement is located. The wind energy agreement or notice or memorandum evidencing a wind energy agreement must include the name of the owner of the surface estate, the name of the lessee, easement holder, licensee, or contracting party under the wind energy agreement, and the legal description of the property. The wind energy agreement or notice or memorandum evidencing a wind energy agreement must be indexed in both the grantor and grantee indices under the name of the owner of the surface estate and the lessee, easement holder, licensee, or contracting party under the wind energy agreement.

(3) (a) After a wind energy agreement has terminated, the owner of the surface estate may request the wind energy developer to record a release of the wind energy agreement or notice or memorandum evidencing a wind energy agreement in the office of the county clerk and recorder in the county where the land subject to the wind energy agreement is located. The release must include the name of the owner of the surface estate, the name of the lessee, easement holder, licensee, or contracting party under the wind energy agreement, the legal description of the property, and the original reception number or book and page number of the wind energy agreement. The release must be indexed in both the grantor and grantee indices under the name of the owner of the surface estate and the lessee, easement holder, licensee, or contracting party under the wind energy agreement. The owner of the surface estate or the owner’s designee shall make the request in writing and deliver it personally or by certified mail, first class postage prepaid, return receipt requested, to the wind energy developer’s last-known address. The wind energy developer shall record the release within ninety days after the receipt of the request.

(b) The wind energy developer shall record the release within ninety days after the receipt of the request. If the wind energy developer fails to record the release within ninety days after the receipt of the request, the wind energy developer is liable to the owner of the surface estate for any damages caused by the wind energy developer’s failure to record the release. A copy of the written request has the same force and effect as the original request in an action for damages.

(4) Nothing in this article alters, amends, diminishes, or invalidates wind energy agreements or conveyances made or entered into prior to July 1, 2012, so long as a contract, lease, memorandum, or other notice evidencing the acquisition, conveyance, or reservation of the wind energy rights is recorded in accordance with subsection (2) of this section by September 1, 2012.

(5) Nothing in this article restricts the transfer of a wind energy agreement, including the transfer of the right of the owner of the surface estate to receive payments under the wind energy agreement.

Source: L. 2012: Entire article added, (HB 12-1105), ch. 230, p. 1012, § 1, effective August 8.

38-30.7-104. Reversion of easements. (1) Unless the owner of the surface estate and wind energy developer otherwise agree, all easement interests acquired after July 1, 2012, for the purpose of producing wind energy revert to the owner of the surface estate if wind energy production has ceased for a continuous period of fifteen years or if the generation of electricity by a turbine has not commenced within fifteen years after the execution of a wind energy agreement. Reversion of an interest under this section does not transfer any obligation to restore or reclaim the surface estate.

(2) The lessee, easement holder, licensee, or contracting party under the wind energy agreement shall record in the office of the county clerk and recorder where the land subject to the wind energy agreement is located an affidavit stating that the generation of electricity by a turbine has commenced. If no such affidavit is recorded, then the wind energy agreement expires by its own terms. If no terms are given, the wind energy agreement expires no more than fifteen years after the execution of the wind energy agreement. The affidavit must include the name of the owner of the surface estate, the name of the lessee, easement holder, licensee, or contracting party under the wind energy agreement, the legal description of the property, and the original reception number or book and page number of the wind energy agreement. The affidavit must be indexed in both the grantor and grantee indices under the name of the owner of the surface estate and the lessee, easement holder, licensee, or contracting party under the wind energy agreement.

JOINT TENANCY IN REAL PROPERTY - PROOF OF DEATH

38-31-101. Joint tenancy expressed in instrument - when. (1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (3) of this section and in section 38-31-201, no conveyance or devise of real property to two or more natural persons shall create an estate in joint tenancy in real property unless, in the instrument conveying the real property or in the will devising the real property, it is declared that the real property is conveyed or devised in joint tenancy or to such natural persons as joint tenants. The abbreviation "JTWROS" and the phrase "as joint tenants with right of survivorship" or "in joint tenancy with right of survivorship" shall have the same meaning as the phrases "in joint tenancy" and "as joint tenants". Any grantor in any such instrument of conveyance may also be one of the grantees therein.

(1.5) (a) The doctrine of the four unities of time, title, interest, and possession is continued as part of the law of this state subject to subsections (1), (3), (4), (5), (6), and (7) of this section and paragraph (b) of this subsection (1.5).

(b) Subsections (1), (3), (4), (5), (6), and (7) of this section are intended and shall be construed to clarify, supplement, and, limited to their express terms, modify the doctrine of the four unities.

(c) For purposes of this subsection (1.5), the "doctrine of the four unities of time, title, interest, and possession" means the common law doctrine that a joint tenancy is created by conveyance or devise of real property to two or more persons at the same time of the same title to the same interest with the same right of possession and includes the right of survivorship.

(2) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2006, p. 240, § 1, effective July 1, 2006.)

(3) A conveyance or devise to two or more personal representatives, trustees, or other fiduciaries shall be presumed to create an estate in joint tenancy in real property and not a tenancy in common.

(4) An estate in joint tenancy in real property shall only be created in natural persons; except that this limitation shall not apply to a conveyance or devise of real property to two or more personal representatives, trustees, or other fiduciaries. Any conveyance or devise of real property to two or more persons that does not create or is not presumed to create an estate in joint tenancy in the manner described in this section shall be a conveyance or devise in tenancy in common or to tenants in common.

(5) (a) Except as provided in sections 38-35-118 and 38-41-202 (4), a joint tenant may sever the joint tenancy between himself or herself and all remaining joint tenants by unilaterally executing and recording an instrument conveying his or her interest in real property to himself or herself as a tenant in common. The joint tenancy shall be severed upon recording such instrument. If there are two or more remaining joint tenants, they shall continue to be joint tenants as among themselves.

(b) Filing a petition in bankruptcy by a joint tenant shall not sever a joint tenancy.

(6) (a) The interests in a joint tenancy may be equal or unequal. The interests in a joint tenancy are presumed to be equal and such presumption is:

(I) Conclusive as to all persons who obtain an interest in property held in joint tenancy when such persons are without notice of unequal interests and have relied on an instrument recorded pursuant to section 38-35-109; and

(II) Rebuttable for all other persons.

(b) This subsection (6) does not bar claims for equitable relief as among joint tenants, including but not limited to partition and accounting.

(c) Upon the death of a joint tenant, the deceased joint tenant's interest is terminated. In the case of one surviving joint tenant, his or her interest in the property shall continue free of the deceased joint tenant's interest. In the case of two or more surviving joint tenants, their interests shall continue in proportion to their respective interests at the time the joint tenancy was created.

(d) For purposes of the "Colorado Medical Assistance Act", articles 4, 5, and 6 of title 25.5, C.R.S., a joint tenancy shall be deemed to be a joint tenancy with equal interests among the joint tenants regardless of the language in the deed or other instrument creating the joint tenancy.

(7) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to abrogate any existing case law to the extent that such case law establishes other means of severing a joint tenancy.

Law. 65 (April 2009).

Joint tenancy in Colorado is strictly limited and its very existence circumscribed by statute. Smith v. Greenburg, 121 Colo. 417, 218 P.2d 514 (1950).

Legislative policy is to prefer tenancies in common at the expense of joint tenancies. Estate of Kwatkowski, 94 Colo. 222, 29 P.2d 639 (1934).

Joint tenancy and tenancy in common distinguished. The major distinguishing characteristic of joint tenancy, as opposed to tenancy in common, is right of survivorship in each of the cotenants. Bradley v. Mann, 34 Colo. App. 135, 525 P.2d 492 (1974), aff'd, 188 Colo. 392, 535 P.2d 213 (1975).

A court must presume the tenancies are not joint till something is shown otherwise. Miller v. Buyer, 82 Colo. 474, 261 P. 659 (1927).

This section raises a presumption against the creation of joint tenancies, so that if the parties to a partnership had intended a joint tenancy to apply only to one-half of the partnership property, or to a particular one-half interest in it, they could and—because of this section—should have specifically so stated. In re Sullivan's Estate, 121 Colo. 494, 218 P.2d 1064 (1950).

In the absence of an affirmative declaration that the estate devised is in joint tenancy, an estate in tenancy in common will be devised, unless it clearly and explicitly appears from the language employed that the testator understood the nature and incidents of the different estates and intended to create a joint tenancy. Estate of Kwatkowski, 94 Colo. 222, 29 P.2d 639 (1934); Chilson v. Reed, 154 Colo. 149, 389 P.2d 87 (1964).

Mere use of word "jointly" is insufficient for the purpose of expressing a joint tenancy. Estate of Kwatkowski, 94 Colo. 222, 29 P.2d 639 (1934).

Language creates joint tenancy. The statement in a corporate stock certificate that parties "as joint tenants with right of survivorship and not as tenants in common" are the owners of the stock, amply proclaims a joint tenancy, and upon its face the certificate must be considered as accomplishing that result. Eisenhardt v. Lowell, 105 Colo. 417, 98 P.2d 1001 (1940).

Rights vest at creation of joint tenancy. In real property, rights under a joint tenancy are fixed and vested in the joint tenants at the time of the creation of the joint tenancy; and once a joint tenancy is created, the donor no longer has the power to exercise absolute dominion over the property. He may not treat the whole property as his own, he cannot convey to a third party the interest he created in the joint tenant, and while he may occupy the whole property, he cannot exclude the other joint tenants from their right to use and enjoy the property, and he is liable to them for any depleting use he may make of the land. Estate of Lee v. Graber, 170 Colo. 419, 462 P.2d 492 (1969).

Grantees under a joint tenancy deed are presumed to own equal shares in the property conveyed, but parol evidence is admissible to overcome the presumption. Duston v. Duston, 31 Colo. App. 147, 498 P.2d 1174 (1972).

Action by joint tenants inconsistent with survivorship right destroys tenancy. In ascertaining whether a joint tenancy has been destroyed, resulting in a tenancy in common, this state has recently adopted the modern test which focuses on the intent of the parties with regard to the right of survivorship characteristic. Actions by the joint tenants which are inconsistent with the right of survivorship operate to terminate the joint tenancy. Mangus v. Miller, 35 Colo. App. 115, 532 P.2d 368 (1974).

Action against joint tenancy. Where several parties are defendants in a suit to quiet title, in order that they may be sued jointly, it must affirmatively appear that they are joint tenants in whatever interest they claim to have. Miller v. Buyer, 82 Colo. 474, 261 P. 659 (1927).

Gift of joint interest is irrevocable. A gift of a joint interest in real property is complete, perfect, and irrevocable. Estate of Lee v. Graber, 170 Colo. 419, 462 P.2d 492 (1969).

A joint tenant may sever a joint tenancy by conveying the property to himself or herself as a tenant in common without the need for an intermediary strawman. Taylor v. Canterbury, 92 P.3d 961 (Colo. 2004).

Applied in Liden's Estate v. Foster, 103 Colo. 58, 82 P.2d 775 (1938); Liebhardt v. Avison, 123 Colo. 338, 229 P.2d 993 (1951); Franzen v. Zimmerman, 127 Colo. 381, 256 P.2d 897 (1953).

38-31-102. Proof of death - certificate of death available - definitions. (1) A certificate of death or a certified copy thereof of a person who is a joint tenant may be placed of record with the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the real property affected by the joint tenancy is located, together with a supplementary affidavit. The supplementary affidavit, which shall be properly sworn to or affirmed by a person of legal age having personal knowledge of the facts and having no record interest in the real property, shall include the legal description of the real property and a statement that the person referred to in the certificate was at the time of death the owner of a joint tenancy interest in the real property. When recorded, the original certificate and supplementary affidavit, or certified copies thereof, shall be accepted in all courts of the state of Colorado as prima facie proof of the death of the joint tenant. The certificate and supplementary affidavit provided for in this section may also be used to provide proof of the death of a life tenant or any other person whose record interest in real property terminates upon the death of such person to the same extent as a joint tenant as provided in this section.

(2) As used in this part 1, unless the context otherwise requires, a "certificate of death or certified copy thereof" means a certificate of death meeting the requirements set forth in section 38-35-112 to be admitted as evidence or a copy of such a certificate of death certified by the public office that issued it.

38-33-102. Condominium ownership recognized. Condominium ownership of real property is recognized in this state. Whether created before or after April 30, 1963, such ownership shall be deemed to consist of a separate estate in an individual air space unit of a multi-unit property together with an undivided interest in common elements. The separate estate of any condominium owner of an individual air space unit and his common ownership of such common elements as are appurtenant to his individual air space unit by the terms of the recorded declaration are inseparable for any period of condominium ownership that is prescribed by the recorded declaration. Condominium ownership may exist on land owned in fee simple or held under an estate for years.

Legislative intent. The intent of the General Assembly in providing for the establishment of estates in airspace was to subject all such estates to those legal provisions historically and by statute applicable to the traditional estate in real property. Ass'n of Owners, Satellite Apt., Inc. v. Otte, 38 Colo. App. 12, 550 P.2d 894 (1976).

Where common elements were owned by a townhome owners association, townhome complex did not constitute a condominium. Trailside Townhome Ass'n, Inc. v. Acierno, 880 P.2d 1197 (Colo. 1994).

38-33-103. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Condominium unit" means an individual air space unit together with the interest in the common elements appurtenant to such unit.

(2) "Declaration" is an instrument recorded pursuant to section 38-33-105 and which defines the character, duration, rights, obligations, and limitations of condominium ownership.

(3) Unless otherwise provided in the declaration or by written consent of all the condominium owners, "general common elements" means: The land or the interest therein on which a building or buildings are located; the foundations, columns, girders, beams, supports, main walls, roofs, halls, corridors, lobbies, stairs, stairways, fire escapes, entrances, and exits of such building or buildings; the basements, yards, gardens, parking areas, and storage spaces; the premises for the lodging of custodians or persons in charge of the property; installations of central services such as power, light, gas, hot and cold water, heating, refrigeration, central air conditioning, and incinerating; the elevators, tanks, pumps, motors, fans, compressors, ducts, and in general all apparatus and installations existing for common use; such community and commercial facilities as may be provided for in the declaration; and all other parts of the property necessary or convenient to its existence, maintenance, and safety, or normally in common use.

(4) "Individual air space unit" consists of any enclosed room or rooms occupying all or part of a floor or floors in a building of one or more floors to be used for residential, professional, commercial, or industrial purposes which has access to a public street.

(5) "Limited common elements" means those common elements designated in the declaration as reserved for use by fewer than all the owners of the individual air space units.

lation of Timesharing in Colorado", see 56 U. Colo. L. Rev. 289 (1985).

38-33-104. Assessment of condominium ownership. Whenever condominium ownership of real property is created or separate assessment of condominium units is desired, a written notice thereof shall be delivered to the assessor of the county in which said real property is situated, which notice shall set forth descriptions of the condominium units. Thereafter all taxes, assessments, and other charges of this state or of any political subdivision, or of any special improvement district, or of any other taxing or assessing authority shall be assessed against and collected on each condominium unit, each of which shall be carried on the tax books as a separate and distinct parcel for that purpose and not on the building or property as a whole. The valuation of the general and limited common elements shall be assessed proportionately upon the individual air space unit in the manner provided in the declaration. The lien for taxes assessed to any individual condominium owner shall be confined to his condominium unit and to his undivided interest in the general and limited common elements. No forfeiture or sale of any condominium unit for delinquent taxes, assessments, or charges shall divest or in any way affect the title of other condominium units.

Assessments in Bankruptcy Cases", see 19 Colo. Law. 2221 (1990).

38-33-105. Recording of declaration - certain rules and laws to apply. (1) The declaration shall be recorded in the county where the condominium property is located. Such declaration shall provide for the filing for record of a map properly locating condominium units. Any instrument affecting the condominium unit may legally describe it by the identifying condominium unit number or symbol as shown on such map. If such declaration provides for the disposition of condominium units in the event of the destruction or obsolescence of buildings in which such units are situate and restricts partition of the common elements, the rules or laws known as the rule against perpetuities and the rule prohibiting unlawful restraints on alienation shall not be applied to defeat or limit any such provisions.

(2) To the extent that any such declaration contains a mandatory requirement that all condominium unit owners be members of an association or corporation or provides for the payment of charges assessed by the association upon condominium units or the appointment of an attorney-in-fact to deal with the property upon its destruction or obsolescence, any rule of law to the contrary notwithstanding, the same shall be considered as covenants running with the land binding upon all condominium owners and their successors in interest. Any common law rule terminating agency upon death or disability of a principal shall not be applied to defeat or limit any such provisions.

Covenant concerning preemptive rights upheld. Where the condominium declaration provides that, in the event an owner of a unit desires to sell such unit and receives a bona fide offer for such sale, the unit shall be offered to the remaining owners who shall have a first right to purchase for the same terms and conditions as the bona fide offer, such a restrictive covenant does not violate the rule against perpetuities, nor does it constitute a restraint on alienation. Cambridge Co. v. East Slope Inv. Corp., 700 P.2d 537 (Colo. 1985).

Language of subsection (1) concerning the rule against perpetuities and restraints on alienation relates only to situations involving the destruction of obsolescence of condominium units. Cambridge Co. v. East Slope Inv. Corp., 700 P.2d 537 (Colo. 1985).

Constructive notice of declaration makes owner personally liable for unpaid assessments. Given that the declaration regarding the condominium ownership was recorded in the public records of the county long before petitioner became the owner of his unit and that the deed under which he acquired title stated that the conveyance was subject to the terms of the declaration, petitioner, upon acquiring ownership, assumed and became personally liable for any accrued and unpaid assessments. Chateaux Condominiums v. Daniels, 754 P.2d 425 (Colo. App. 1988).

Condominium owner waived right to assert homestead exemption prior to a condominium association's assessment lien due to a condominium declaration which was in existence before owner took title. Whispering Pines W. Condo. v. Treantos, 780 P.2d 26 (Colo. App. 1989).

Applied in Chateau Vill. N. Condominium Ass'n v. Jordan, 643 P.2d 791 (Colo. App. 1982).

38-33-105.5. Contents of declaration. (1) The declaration shall contain:

- (a) The name of the condominium property, which shall include the word "condominium" or be followed by the words "a condominium";
  - (b) The name of every county in which any part of the condominium property is situated;

Association Considerations", see 12 Colo. Law. 1090 (1983).

38-33-110. Time-sharing - definitions. As used in this section and section 38-33-111, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) (a) "Interval estate" means a combination of:

(I) An estate for years terminating on a date certain, during which years title to a time share unit circulates among the interval owners in accordance with a fixed schedule, vesting in each such interval owner in turn for a period of time established by the said schedule, with the series thus established recurring annually until the arrival of the date certain; and

(II) A vested future interest in the same unit, consisting of an undivided interest in the remainder in fee simple, the magnitude of the future interest having been established by the time of the creation of the interval estate either by the project instruments or by the deed conveying the interval estate. The estate for years shall not be deemed to merge with the future interest, but neither the estate for years nor the future interest shall be conveyed or encumbered separately from the other.

(b) "Interval estate" also means an estate for years as described in subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) where the remainder estate, as defined either by the project instruments or by the deed conveying the interval estate, is retained by the developer or his successors in interest.

(2) "Interval owner" means a person vested with legal title to an interval estate.

(3) "Interval unit" means a unit the title to which is or is to be divided into interval estates.

(4) "Project instruments" means the declaration, the bylaws, and any other set of restrictions or restrictive covenants, by whatever name denominated, which limit or restrict the use or occupancy of condominium units. "Project instruments" includes any lawful amendments to such instruments. "Project instruments" does not include any ordinance or other public regulation governing subdivisions, zoning, or other land use matters.

(5) "Time share estate" means either an interval estate or a time-span estate.

(6) "Time share owner" means a person vested with legal title to a time share estate.

(7) "Time share unit" means a unit the title to which is or is to be divided either into interval estates or time-span estates.

(8) "Time-span estate" means a combination of:

(a) An undivided interest in a present estate in fee simple in a unit, the magnitude of the interest having been established by the time of the creation of the time-span estate either by the project instruments or by the deed conveying the time-span estate; and

(b) An exclusive right to possession and occupancy of the unit during an annually recurring period of time defined and established by a recorded schedule set forth or referred to in the deed conveying the time-span estate.

(9) "Time-span owner" means a person vested with legal title to a time-span estate.

(10) "Time-span unit" means a unit the title to which is or is to be divided into time-span estates.

(11) "Unit owner" means a person vested with legal title to a unit, and, in the case of a time share unit, "unit owner" means all of the time share owners of that unit. When an estate is subject to a deed of trust or a trust deed, "unit owner" means the person entitled to beneficial enjoyment of the estate and not to any trustee or trustees holding title merely as security for an obligation.

Enactment of section not change of use of land. The enactment of this section and § 38-33-111 is not tantamount to a change of the use of the land nor is it a new regulation increasing the use of the land. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Colo. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 628 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1981).

"Membership interests," which do not entitle purchasers to exclusive use of any particular unit, for any particular annual period, do not transfer any interest in real property, and are not "time share estates" under this section. Bernhardt v. Hemphill, 878 P.2d 107 (Colo. App. 1994).

38-33-111. Special provisions applicable to time share ownership. (1) No time share estates shall be created with respect to any condominium unit except pursuant to provisions in the project instruments expressly permitting the creation of such estates. Each time share estate shall constitute for all purposes an estate or interest in real property, separate and distinct from all other time share estates in the same unit or any other unit, and such estates may be separately conveyed and encumbered.

(2) Repealed.

(3) With respect to each time share unit, each owner of a time share estate therein shall be individually liable to the unit owners' association or corporation for all assessments, property taxes both real and personal, and charges levied pursuant to the project instruments against or with respect to that unit, and such association or corporation shall be liable for the payment thereof, except to the extent that such instruments provide to the contrary. However, with respect to each other, each time share owner shall be responsible only for a fraction of such assessments, property taxes both real and personal, and charges proportionate to the magnitude of his undivided interest in the fee to the unit.

(4) No person shall have standing to bring suit for partition of any time share unit except in accordance with such procedures, conditions, restrictions, and limitations as the project instruments and the deeds to the time share estates may specify. Upon the entry of a final order in such a suit, it shall be conclusively presumed that all such procedures, conditions, restrictions, and limitations were adhered to.

(5) In the event that any condemnation award, any insurance proceeds, the proceeds of any sale, or any other sums shall become payable to all of the time share owners of a unit, the portion payable to each time share owner shall be proportionate to the magnitude of his undivided interest in the fee to the unit.

38-33-112. Notification to residential tenants. (1) A developer who converts an existing multiple-unit dwelling into condominium units, upon recording of the declaration as required by section 38-33-105, shall notify each residential tenant of the dwelling of such conversion.

(2) Such notice shall be in writing and shall be sent by certified or registered mail, postage prepaid, and return receipt provided. Notice is complete upon mailing to the tenant at the tenant's last known address. Notice may also be made by delivery in person to the tenant of a copy of such written notice, in which event notice is complete upon such delivery.

(3) Said notice constitutes the notice to terminate the tenancy as provided by section 13-40-107, C.R.S.; except that no residential tenancy shall be terminated prior to the expiration date of the existing lease agreement, if any, unless consented to by both the tenant and the developer. If the term of the lease has less than ninety days remaining when notification is mailed or delivered, as the case may be, or if there is no written lease agreement, residential tenancy may not be terminated by the developer less than ninety days after the date the notice is mailed or delivered, as the case may be, to the tenant, unless consented to by both the tenant and the developer. The return receipt shall be prima facie evidence of receipt of notice. If the term of the lease has less than ninety days remaining when notification is mailed or delivered, as the case may be, the tenant may hold over for the remainder of said ninety-day period under the same terms and conditions of the lease agreement if the tenant makes timely rental payments and performs other conditions of the lease agreement.

(4) The tenancy may be terminated within the ninety days prescribed in subsection (3) of this section upon agreement by the tenant in consideration of the payment of all moving expenses by the developer or for such other consideration as mutually agreed upon. Such tenancy may also be terminated within the ninety days prescribed in subsection (3) of this section upon failure by the tenant to make timely rental or lease payments.

(5) Any person who applies for a residential tenancy after the recording of the declaration shall be informed of this recording at the time of application, and any leases executed after such recording may provide for termination within less than ninety days provided that the terms of the lease conspicuously disclose the intention to convert the property containing the leased premises to condominium ownership.

(6) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the notification procedure set forth in this section is a matter of statewide concern. No county, municipality, or other political subdivision whether or not vested with home rule powers under article XX of the Colorado constitution, shall adopt or enforce any ordinance, rule, regulation, or policy which conflicts with the provisions of this section.

38-33.3-103. Definitions. As used in the declaration and bylaws of an association, unless specifically provided otherwise or unless the context otherwise requires, and in this article:

(1) "Affiliate of a declarant" means any person who controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with a declarant. A person controls a declarant if the person: Is a general partner, officer, director, or employee of the declarant; directly or indirectly, or acting in concert with one or more other persons or through one or more subsidiaries, owns, controls, holds with power to vote, or holds proxies representing more than twenty percent of the voting interests of the declarant; controls in any manner the election of a majority of the directors of the declarant; or has contributed more than twenty percent of the capital of the declarant. A person is controlled by a declarant if the declarant: Is a general partner, officer, director, or employee of the person; directly or indirectly, or acting in concert with one or more other persons or through one or more subsidiaries, owns, controls, holds with power to vote, or holds proxies representing more than twenty percent of the voting interests of the person; controls in any manner the election of a majority of the directors of the person; or has contributed more than twenty percent of the capital of the person. Control does not exist if the powers described in this subsection (1) are held solely as security for an obligation and are not exercised.

(2) "Allocated interests" means the following interests allocated to each unit:

(a) In a condominium, the undivided interest in the common elements, the common expense liability, and votes in the association;

(b) In a cooperative, the common expense liability and the ownership interest and votes in the association; and

(c) In a planned community, the common expense liability and votes in the association.

(2.5) "Approved for development" means that all or some portion of a particular parcel of real property is zoned or otherwise approved for construction of residential and other improvements and authorized for specified densities by the local land use authority having jurisdiction over such real property and includes any conceptual or final planned unit development approval.

(3) "Association" or "unit owners' association" means a unit owners' association organized under section 38-33.3-301.

(4) "Bylaws" means any instruments, however denominated, which are adopted by the association for the regulation and management of the association, including any amendments to those instruments.

(5) "Common elements" means:

(a) In a condominium or cooperative, all portions of the condominium or cooperative other than the units; and

(b) In a planned community, any real estate within a planned community owned or leased by the association, other than a unit.

(6) "Common expense liability" means the liability for common expenses allocated to each unit pursuant to section 38-33.3-207.

(7) "Common expenses" means expenditures made or liabilities incurred by or on behalf of the association, together with any allocations to reserves.

(8) "Common interest community" means real estate described in a declaration with respect to which a person, by virtue of such person's ownership of a unit, is obligated to pay for real estate taxes, insurance premiums, maintenance, or improvement of other real estate described in a declaration. Ownership of a unit does not include holding a leasehold interest in a unit of less than forty years, including renewal options. The period of the leasehold interest, including renewal options, is measured from the date the initial term commences.

(9) "Condominium" means a common interest community in which portions of the real estate are designated for separate ownership and the remainder of which is designated for common ownership solely by the owners of the separate ownership portions. A common interest community is not a condominium unless the undivided interests in the common elements are vested in the unit owners.

(10) "Cooperative" means a common interest community in which the real property is owned by an association, each member of which is entitled by virtue of such member's ownership interest in the association to exclusive possession of a unit.

(11) "Dealer" means a person in the business of selling units for such person's own account.

(12) "Declarant" means any person or group of persons acting in concert who:

(a) As part of a common promotional plan, offers to dispose of to a purchaser such declarant's interest in a unit not previously disposed of to a purchaser; or

(b) Reserves or succeeds to any special declarant right.

(13) "Declaration" means any recorded instruments however denominated, that create a common interest community, including any amendments to those instruments and also including, but not limited to, plats and maps.

(14) "Development rights" means any right or combination of rights reserved by a declarant in the declaration to:

(a) Add real estate to a common interest community;

(b) Create units, common elements, or limited common elements within a common interest community;

(c) Subdivide units or convert units into common elements; or

(d) Withdraw real estate from a common interest community.

(15) "Dispose" or "disposition" means a voluntary transfer of any legal or equitable interest in a unit, but the term does not include the transfer or release of a security interest.

(16) "Executive board" means the body, regardless of name, designated in the declaration to act on behalf of the association.

(16.5) "Horizontal boundary" means a plane of elevation relative to a described benchmark that defines either a lower or an upper dimension of a unit such that the real estate respectively below or above the defined plane is not a part of the unit.

(17) "Identifying number" means a symbol or address that identifies only one unit in a common interest community.

(17.5) "Large planned community" means a planned community that meets the criteria set forth in section 38-33.3-116.3 (1).

(18) "Leasehold common interest community" means a common interest community in which all or a portion of the real estate is subject to a lease, the expiration or termination of which will terminate the common interest community or reduce its size.

(19) "Limited common element" means a portion of the common elements allocated by the declaration or by operation of section 38-33.3-202 (1) (b) or (1) (d) for the exclusive use of one or more units but fewer than all of the units.

(19.5) "Map" means that part of a declaration that depicts all or any portion of a common interest community in three dimensions, is executed by a person that is authorized by this title to execute a declaration relating to the common interest community, and is recorded in the real estate records in every county in which any portion of the common interest community is located. A map is required for a common interest community with units having a horizontal boundary. A map and a plat may be combined in one instrument.

(20) "Master association" means an organization that is authorized to exercise some or all of the powers of one or more associations on behalf of one or more common interest communities or for the benefit of the unit owners of one or more common interest communities.

(21) "Person" means a natural person, a corporation, a partnership, an association, a trust, or any other entity or any combination thereof.

(21.5) "Phased community" means a common interest community in which the declarant retains development rights.

(22) "Planned community" means a common interest community that is not a condominium or cooperative. A condominium or cooperative may be part of a planned community.

(22.5) "Plat" means that part of a declaration that is a land survey plat as set forth in section 38-51-106, depicts all or any portion of a common interest community in two dimensions, is executed by a person that is authorized by this title to execute a declaration relating to the common interest community, and is recorded in the real estate records in every county in which any portion of the common interest community is located. A plat and a map may be combined in one instrument.

(23) "Proprietary lease" means an agreement with the association pursuant to which a member is entitled to exclusive possession of a unit in a cooperative.

(24) "Purchaser" means a person, other than a declarant or a dealer, who by means of a transfer acquires a legal or equitable interest in a unit, other than:

(a) A leasehold interest in a unit of less than forty years, including renewal options, with the period of the leasehold interest, including renewal options, being measured from the date the initial term commences; or

(b) A security interest.

(25) "Real estate" means any leasehold or other estate or interest in, over, or under land, including structures, fixtures, and other improvements and interests that, by custom, usage, or law, pass with a conveyance of land though not described in the contract of sale or instrument of conveyance. "Real estate" includes parcels with or without horizontal boundaries and spaces that may be filled with air or water.

(26) "Residential use" means use for dwelling or recreational purposes but does not include spaces or units primarily used for commercial income from, or service to, the public.

(27) "Rules and regulations" means any instruments, however denominated, which are adopted by the association for the regulation and management of the common interest community, including any amendment to those instruments.

(28) "Security interest" means an interest in real estate or personal property created by contract or conveyance which secures payment or performance of an obligation. The term includes a lien created by a mortgage, deed of trust, trust deed, security deed, contract for deed, land sales contract, lease intended as security, assignment of lease or rents intended as security, pledge of an ownership interest in an association, and any other consensual lien or title retention contract intended as security for an obligation.

(29) "Special declarant rights" means rights reserved for the benefit of a declarant to perform the following acts as specified in parts 2 and 3 of this article: To complete improvements indicated on plats and maps filed with the declaration; to exercise any development right; to maintain sales offices, management offices, signs advertising the common interest community, and models; to use easements through the common elements for the purpose of making improvements within the common interest community or within real estate which may be added to the common interest community; to make the common interest community subject to a master association; to merge or consolidate a common interest community of the same form of ownership; or to appoint or remove any officer of the association or any executive board member during any period of declarant control.

(30) “Unit” means a physical portion of the common interest community which is designated for separate ownership or occupancy and the boundaries of which are described in or determined from the declaration. If a unit in a cooperative is owned by a unit owner or is sold, conveyed, voluntarily or involuntarily encumbered, or otherwise transferred by a unit owner, the interest in that unit which is owned, sold, conveyed, encumbered, or otherwise transferred is the right to possession of that unit under a proprietary lease, coupled with the allocated interests of that unit, and the association’s interest in that unit is not thereby affected.

(31) “Unit owner” means the declarant or other person who owns a unit, or a lessee of a unit in a leasehold common interest community whose lease expires simultaneously with any lease, the expiration or termination of which will remove the unit from the common interest community but does not include a person having an interest in a unit solely as security for an obligation. In a condominium or planned community, the declarant is the owner of any unit created by the declaration until that unit is conveyed to another person; in a cooperative, the declarant is treated as the owner of any unit to which allocated interests have been allocated pursuant to section 38-33.3-207 until that unit has been conveyed to another person, who may or may not be a declarant under this article.

(32) “Vertical boundary” means the defined limit of a unit that is not a horizontal boundary of that unit.

ANNOTATION

Subdivision can be a common interest community as defined in subsection (8) even if it does not include common property. Where subdivision covenants required homeowners to pay mandatory assessments for maintenance or improvement and the homeowners’ association was responsible for maintenance and improvement of the subdivision and enforcement of covenants, the absence of common property in the subdivision did not preclude the subdivision from being a common interest community because the scope of the phrase “other real estate” in subsection (8) is not restricted to common property. Hiwan Homeowners Ass’n v. Knotts, 215 P.3d 1271 (Colo. App. 2009).

Based upon definition of “declaration” under subsection (13), in the absence of covenant imposing mandatory dues, homeowners association has the implied power to collect assessments from homeowners to pay for the maintenance of the common areas of the subdivision. Here, the “declarations” for the homeowners association of the subdivision in effect at the time respondent lot owner purchased his lot incorporated all documents recorded up to that date. At the time respondent lot owner purchased his lot, the declarations made clear that the homeowners association had the power to impose annual membership or use fees on lot owners. These declarations were sufficient to create a common interest community by implication, with the concomitant power to impose mandatory dues on lot owners to pay for the maintenance of common areas of the subdivision. The respondent lot owner, therefore, has an implied duty to pay his proportionate share of the cost of maintaining and operating the common area. Evergreen Highlands Ass’n v. West, 73 P.3d 1 (Colo. 2003).

Based upon definition of “declaration” in subsection (13), a plat can be part of a declaration. Giguere v. SJS Family Enters., 155 P.3d 462 (Colo. App. 2006).

“Subsequent filings” language used in declaration referenced development rights. Lots not in existence at the time declaration was recorded had yet to be created, and, as such, they represent units that could be created in the future and fall under the definition of “development rights”. Miller v. Curry, 203 P.3d 626 (Colo. App. 2009).

38-33.3-104. Variation by agreement. Except as expressly provided in this article, provisions of this article may not be varied by agreement, and rights conferred by this article may not be waived. A declarant may not act under a power of attorney or use any other device to evade the limitations or prohibitions of this article or the declaration.

38-33.3-105. Separate titles and taxation. (1) In a cooperative, unless the declaration provides that a unit owner's interest in a unit and its allocated interests is personal property, that interest is real estate for all purposes.

(2) In a condominium or planned community with common elements, each unit that has been created, together with its interest in the common elements, constitutes for all purposes a separate parcel of real estate and must be separately assessed and taxed. The valuation of the common elements shall be assessed proportionately to each unit, in the case of a condominium in accordance with such unit's allocated interests in the common elements, and in the case of a planned community in accordance with such unit's allocated common expense liability, set forth in the declaration, and the common elements shall not be separately taxed or assessed. Upon the filing for recording of a declaration for a condominium or planned community with common elements, the declarant shall deliver a copy of such filing to the assessor of each county in which such declaration was filed.

(3) In a planned community without common elements, the real estate comprising such planned community may be taxed and assessed in any manner provided by law.

Source: L. 91: Entire article added, p. 1707, § 1, effective July 1, 1992. L. 93: (1) and (2) amended, p. 643, § 2, effective April 30.

38-33.3-106. Applicability of local ordinances, regulations, and building codes. (1) A building code may not impose any requirement upon any structure in a common interest community which it would not impose upon a physically identical development under a different form of ownership; except that a minimum one hour fire wall may be required between units.

(2) In condominiums and cooperatives, no zoning, subdivision, or other real estate use law, ordinance, or regulation may prohibit the condominium or cooperative form of ownership or impose any requirement upon a condominium or cooperative which it would not impose upon a physically identical development under a different form of ownership.

38-33.3-106.5. Prohibitions contrary to public policy - patriotic and political expression - emergency vehicles - fire prevention - renewable energy generation devices - affordable housing - definitions. (1) Notwithstanding any provision in the declaration, bylaws, or rules and regulations of the association to the contrary, an association shall not prohibit any of the following:

(a) The display of the American flag on a unit owner's property, in a window of the unit, or on a balcony adjoining the unit if the American flag is displayed in a manner consistent with the federal flag code, Pub.L. 94-344; 90 stat. 810; 4 U.S.C. secs. 4 to 10. The association may adopt reasonable rules regarding the placement and manner of display of the American flag. The association rules may regulate the location and size of flags and flagpoles, but shall not prohibit the installation of a flag or flagpole.

(b) The display of a service flag bearing a star denoting the service of the owner or occupant of the unit, or of a member of the owner's or occupant's immediate family, in the active or reserve military service of the United States during a time of war or armed conflict, on the inside of a window or door of the unit. The association may adopt reasonable rules regarding the size and manner of display of service flags; except that the maximum dimensions allowed shall be not less than nine inches by sixteen inches.

(c) (I) The display of a political sign by the owner or occupant of a unit on property within the boundaries of the unit or in a window of the unit; except that:

(A) An association may prohibit the display of political signs earlier than forty-five days before the day of an election and later than seven days after an election day; and

(B) An association may regulate the size and number of political signs in accordance with subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (c).

(II) The association shall permit at least one political sign per political office or ballot issue that is contested in a pending election. The maximum dimensions of each sign may be limited to the lesser of the following:

(A) The maximum size allowed by any applicable city, town, or county ordinance that regulates the size of political signs on residential property; or

(B) Thirty-six inches by forty-eight inches.

(III) As used in this paragraph (c), "political sign" means a sign that carries a message intended to influence the outcome of an election, including supporting or opposing the election of a candidate, the recall of a public official, or the passage of a ballot issue.

(d) The parking of a motor vehicle by the occupant of a unit on a street, driveway, or guest parking area in the common interest community if the vehicle is required to be available at designated periods at such occupant's residence as a condition of the occupant's employment and all of the following criteria are met:

(I) The vehicle has a gross vehicle weight rating of ten thousand pounds or less;

(II) The occupant is a bona fide member of a volunteer fire department or is employed by a primary provider of emergency fire fighting, law enforcement, ambulance, or emergency medical services;

(III) The vehicle bears an official emblem or other visible designation of the emergency service provider; and

(IV) Parking of the vehicle can be accomplished without obstructing emergency access or interfering with the reasonable needs of other unit owners or occupants to use streets, driveways, and guest parking spaces within the common interest community.

(e) The removal by a unit owner of trees, shrubs, or other vegetation to create defensible space around a dwelling for fire mitigation purposes, so long as such removal complies with a written defensible space plan created for the property by the Colorado state forest service, an individual or company certified by a local governmental entity to create such a plan, or the fire chief, fire marshal, or fire protection district within whose jurisdiction the unit is located, and is no more extensive than necessary to comply with such plan. The plan shall be registered with the association before the commencement of work. The association may require changes to the plan if the association obtains the consent of the person, official, or agency that originally created the plan. The work shall comply with applicable association standards regarding slash removal, stump height, revegetation, and contractor regulations.

(f) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2006, p. 1215, § 2, effective May 26, 2006.)

(g) Reasonable modifications to a unit or to common elements as necessary to afford a person with disabilities full use and enjoyment of the unit in accordance with the federal "Fair Housing Act of 1968", 42 U.S.C. sec. 3604 (f) (3) (A).

(h) (I) The right of a unit owner, public or private, to restrict or specify by deed, covenant, or other document:

(A) The permissible sale price, rental rate, or lease rate of the unit; or

(B) Occupancy or other requirements designed to promote affordable or workforce housing as such terms may be defined by the local housing authority.

(II) (A) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the provisions of this paragraph (h) shall only apply to a county the population of which is less than one hundred thousand persons and that contains a ski lift licensed by the passenger tramway safety board created in section 25-5-703 (1), C.R.S.

(B) The provisions of this paragraph (h) shall not apply to a declarant-controlled community.

(III) Nothing in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (h) shall be construed to prohibit the future owner of a unit against which a restriction or specification described in such subparagraph has been placed from lifting such restriction or specification on such unit as long as any unit so released is replaced by another unit in the same common interest community on which the restriction or specification applies and the unit subject to the restriction or specification is reasonably equivalent to the unit being released in the determination of the beneficiary of the restriction or specification.

(IV) Except as otherwise provided in the declaration of the common interest community, any unit subject to the provisions of this paragraph (h) shall only be occupied by the owner of the unit.

(1.5) Notwithstanding any provision in the declaration, bylaws, or rules and regulations of the association to the contrary, an association shall not effectively prohibit renewable energy generation devices, as defined in section 38-30-168.

(2) Notwithstanding any provision in the declaration, bylaws, or rules and regulations of the association to the contrary, an association shall not require the use of cedar shakes or other flammable roofing materials.

38-33.3-106.7. Unreasonable restrictions on energy efficiency measures - definitions. (1) (a) Notwithstanding any provision in the declaration, bylaws, or rules and regulations of the association to the contrary, an association shall not effectively prohibit the installation or use of an energy efficiency measure.

(b) As used in this section, “energy efficiency measure” means a device or structure that reduces the amount of energy derived from fossil fuels that is consumed by a residence or business located on the real property. “Energy efficiency measure” is further limited to include only the following types of devices or structures:

(I) An awning, shutter, trellis, ramada, or other shade structure that is marketed for the purpose of reducing energy consumption;

(II) A garage or attic fan and any associated vents or louvers;

(III) An evaporative cooler;

(IV) An energy-efficient outdoor lighting device, including without limitation a light fixture containing a coiled or straight fluorescent light bulb, and any solar recharging panel, motion detector, or other equipment connected to the lighting device; and

(V) A retractable clothesline.

(2) Subsection (1) of this section shall not apply to:

(a) Reasonable aesthetic provisions that govern the dimensions, placement, or external appearance of an energy efficiency measure. In creating reasonable aesthetic provisions, common interest communities shall consider:

(I) The impact on the purchase price and operating costs of the energy efficiency measure;

(II) The impact on the performance of the energy efficiency measure; and

(III) The criteria contained in the governing documents of the common interest community.

(b) Bona fide safety requirements, consistent with an applicable building code or recognized safety standard, for the protection of persons and property.

(3) This section shall not be construed to confer upon any property owner the right to place an energy efficiency measure on property that is:

(a) Owned by another person;

(b) Leased, except with permission of the lessor;

(c) Collateral for a commercial loan, except with permission of the secured party; or

(d) A limited common element or general common element of a common interest community.

38-33.3-107. Eminent domain. (1) If a unit is acquired by eminent domain or part of a unit is acquired by eminent domain leaving the unit owner with a remnant which may not practically or lawfully be used for any purpose permitted by the declaration, the award must include compensation to the unit owner for that unit and its allocated interests whether or not any common elements are acquired. Upon acquisition, unless the decree otherwise provides, that unit's allocated interests are automatically reallocated to the remaining units in proportion to the respective allocated interests of those units before the taking. Any remnant of a unit remaining after part of a unit is taken under this subsection (1) is thereafter a common element.

(2) Except as provided in subsection (1) of this section, if part of a unit is acquired by eminent domain, the award must compensate the unit owner for the reduction in value of the unit and its interest in the common elements whether or not any common elements are acquired. Upon acquisition, unless the decree otherwise provides:

(a) That unit's allocated interests are reduced in proportion to the reduction in the size of the unit or on any other basis specified in the declaration; and

(b) The portion of allocated interests divested from the partially acquired unit is automatically reallocated to that unit and to the remaining units in proportion to the respective interests of those units before the taking, with the partially acquired unit participating in the reallocation on the basis of its reduced allocated interests.

(3) If part of the common elements is acquired by eminent domain, that portion of any award attributable to the common elements taken must be paid to the association. Unless the declaration provides otherwise, any portion of the award attributable to the acquisition of a limited common element must be equally divided among the owners of the units to which that limited common element was allocated at the time of acquisition. For the purposes of acquisition of a part of the common elements other than the limited common elements under this subsection (3), service of process on the association shall constitute sufficient notice to all unit owners, and service of process on each individual unit owner shall not be necessary.

(4) The court decree shall be recorded in every county in which any portion of the common interest community is located.

(5) The reallocations of allocated interests pursuant to this section shall be confirmed by an amendment to the declaration prepared, executed, and recorded by the association.

(2) Whenever it is claimed, or appears to the court, that a contract or any contract clause relating to a common interest community is or may be unconscionable, the parties, in order to aid the court in making the determination, shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to present evidence as to:

(a) The commercial setting of the negotiations;

(b) Whether the first party has knowingly taken advantage of the inability of the second party reasonably to protect such second party's interests by reason of physical or mental infirmity, illiteracy, or inability to understand the language of the agreement or similar factors;

(c) The effect and purpose of the contract or clause; and

(d) If a sale, any gross disparity at the time of contracting between the amount charged for the property and the value of that property measured by the price at which similar property was readily obtainable in similar transactions. A disparity between the contract price and the value of the property measured by the price at which similar property was readily obtainable in similar transactions does not, of itself, render the contract unconscionable.

ANNOTATION

The presumption that statutes apply prospectively is overcome here because subsection (1) expressly provides for application to all common interest communities created before July 1, 1992. Giguere v. SJS Family Enters., 155 P.3d 462 (Colo. App. 2006).

Although subsection (1) does not list several statutory sections as applying to common interest communities created before July 1, 1992, some sections not listed may be referenced to determine whether the statute permits the substantive result to be accomplished by an amendment because the sections listed in subsection (1) are limited to procedural issues. Giguere v. SJS Family Enters., 155 P.3d 462 (Colo. App. 2006).

38-33.3-118. Procedure to elect treatment under the “Colorado Common Interest Ownership Act”. (1) Any organization created prior to July 1, 1992, may elect to have the common interest community be treated as if it were created after June 30, 1992, and thereby subject the common interest community to all of the provisions contained in this article, in the following manner:

(a) If there are members or stockholders entitled to vote thereon, the board of directors may adopt a resolution recommending that such association accept this article and directing that the question of acceptance be submitted to a vote at a meeting of the members or stockholders entitled to vote thereon, which may be either an annual or special meeting. The question shall also be submitted whenever one-twentieth, or, in the case of an association with over one thousand members, one-fortieth, of the members or stockholders entitled to vote thereon so request. Written notice stating that the purpose, or one of the purposes, of the meeting is to consider electing to be treated as a common interest community organized after June 30, 1992, and thereby accepting the provisions of this article, together with a copy of this article, shall be given to each person entitled to vote at the meeting within the time and in the manner provided in the articles of incorporation, declaration, bylaws, or other governing documents for such association for the giving of notice of meetings to members. Such election to accept the provisions of this article shall require for adoption at least sixty-seven percent of the votes that the persons present at such meeting in person or by proxy are entitled to cast.

(b) If there are no persons entitled to vote thereon, the election to be treated as a common interest community under this article may be made at a meeting of the board of directors pursuant to a majority vote of the directors in office.

(2) A statement of election to accept the provisions of this article shall be executed and acknowledged by the president or vice-president and by the secretary or an assistant secretary of such association and shall set forth:

- (a) The name of the common interest community and association;
- (b) That the association has elected to accept the provisions of this article;
- (c) That there were persons entitled to vote thereon, the date of the meeting of such persons at which the election was made to be treated as a common interest community under this article, that a quorum was present at the meeting, and that such acceptance was authorized by at least sixty-seven percent of the votes that the members or stockholders present at such meeting in person or by proxy were entitled to cast;
- (d) That there were no members or stockholders entitled to vote thereon, the date of the meeting of the board of directors at which election to accept this article was made, that a quorum was present at the meeting, and that such acceptance was authorized by a majority vote of the directors present at such meeting;

(e) (Deleted by amendment, L. 93, p. 645, § 7, effective April 30, 1993.)

(f) The names and respective addresses of its officers and directors; and

(g) If there were no persons entitled to vote thereon but a common interest community has been created by virtue of compliance with section 38-33.3-103 (8), that the declarant desires for the common interest community to be subject to all the terms and provisions of this article.

(3) The original statement of election to be treated as a common interest community subject to the terms and conditions of this article shall be duly recorded in the office of the clerk and recorder for the county in which the common interest community is located.

(4) Upon the recording of the original statement of election to be treated as a common interest community subject to the provisions of this article, said common interest community shall be subject to all provisions of this article. Upon recording of the statement of election, such common interest community shall have the same powers and privileges and be subject to the same duties, restrictions, penalties, and liabilities as though it had been created after June 30, 1992.

(5) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, and with respect to a common interest community making the election permitted by this section, this article shall apply only with respect to events and circumstances occurring on or after July 1, 1992, and does not invalidate provisions of any declaration, bylaws, or plats or maps in existence on June 30, 1992.

38-33.3-119. Exception for small preexisting cooperatives and planned communities. If a cooperative or planned community created within this state before July 1, 1992, contains no more than ten units and is not subject to any development rights, it is subject only to sections 38-33.3-105 to 38-33.3-107 unless the declaration is amended in conformity with applicable law and with the procedures and requirements of the declaration to take advantage of the provisions of section 38-33.3-120, in which case all the sections enumerated in section 38-33.3-117 apply to that planned community.

38-33.3-120. Amendments to preexisting governing instruments. (1) In the case of amendments to the declaration, bylaws, or plats and maps of any common interest community created within this state before July 1, 1992, which has not elected treatment under this article pursuant to section 38-33.3-118:

(a) If the substantive result accomplished by the amendment was permitted by law in effect prior to July 1, 1992, the amendment may be made either in accordance with that law, in which case that law applies to that amendment, or it may be made under this article; and

(b) If the substantive result accomplished by the amendment is permitted by this article, and was not permitted by law in effect prior to July 1, 1992, the amendment may be made under this article.

(2) An amendment to the declaration, bylaws, or plats and maps authorized by this section to be made under this article must be adopted in conformity with the procedures and requirements of the law that applied to the common interest community at the time it was created and with the procedures and requirements specified by those instruments. If an amendment grants to any person any rights, powers, or privileges permitted by this article, all correlative obligations, liabilities, and restrictions in this article also apply to that person.

(3) An amendment to the declaration may also be made pursuant to the procedures set forth in section 38-33.3-217 (7).

ANNOTATION

There is a two-step process in reviewing the validity of an amendment to a plat of a common interest community created before July 1, 1992. First, the amendment's validity as a question of substance is considered under subsection (1) and then the amendment's validity as a question of procedure is considered under subsection (2). Giguere v. SJS Family Enters., 155 P.3d 462 (Colo. App. 2006).

38-33.3-120.5. Extension of declaration term. (1) If a common interest community has a declaration in effect with a limited term of years that was recorded prior to July 1, 1992, and if, before the term of the declaration expires, the unit owners in the common interest community have not amended the declaration pursuant to section 38-33.3-120 and in accordance with any conditions or fixed limitations described in the declaration, the declaration may be extended as provided in this section.

(2) The term of the declaration may be extended:

(a) If the executive board adopts a resolution recommending that the declaration be extended for a specific term not to exceed twenty years and directs that the question of extending the term of the declaration be submitted to the unit owners, as members of the association; and

(b) If an extension of the term of the declaration is approved by vote or agreement of unit owners of units to which at least sixty-seven percent of the votes in the association are allocated or any larger percentage the declaration specifies.

(3) Except for the extension of the term of a declaration as authorized by this section, no other provision of a declaration may be amended pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(4) For any meeting of unit owners at which a vote is to be taken on a proposed extension of the term of a declaration as provided in this section, the secretary or other officer specified in the bylaws shall provide written notice to each unit owner entitled to vote at the meeting stating that the purpose, or one of the purposes, of the meeting is to consider extending the term of the declaration. The notice shall be given in the time and manner specified in section 38-33.3-308 or in the articles of incorporation, declaration, bylaws, or other governing documents of the association.

(5) The extension of the declaration, if approved, shall be included in an amendment to the declaration and shall be executed, acknowledged, and recorded by the association in the records of the clerk and recorder of each county in which any portion of the common interest community is located. The amendment shall include:

(a) A statement of the name of the common interest community and the association;

(b) A statement that the association has elected to extend the term of the declaration pursuant to this section and the term of the approved extension;

(c) A statement that indicates that the executive board has adopted a resolution recommending that the declaration be extended for a specific term not to exceed twenty years, that sets forth the date of the meeting at which the unit owners elected to extend the term of the declaration, and that declares that the extension was authorized by a vote or agreement of unit owners of units to which at least sixty-seven percent of the votes in the association are allocated or any larger percentage the declaration specifies;

(d) A statement of the names and respective addresses of the officers and executive board members of the association.

(6) Upon the recording of the amendment required by subsection (5) of this section, and subject to the provisions of this section, a common interest community is subject to all provisions of the declaration, as amended.

38-33.3-121. Applicability to nonresidential planned communities. This article does not apply to a planned community in which all units are restricted exclusively to nonresidential use unless the declaration provides that the article does apply to that planned community. This article applies to a planned community containing both units that are restricted exclusively to nonresidential use and other units that are not so restricted, only if the declaration so provides or the real estate comprising the units that may be used for residential purposes would be a planned community in the absence of the units that may not be used for residential purposes.

38-33.3-123. Enforcement - limitation. (1) (a) If any unit owner fails to timely pay assessments or any money or sums due to the association, the association may require reimbursement for collection costs and reasonable attorney fees and costs incurred as a result of such failure without the necessity of commencing a legal proceeding.

(b) For any failure to comply with the provisions of this article or any provision of the declaration, bylaws, articles, or rules and regulations, other than the payment of assessments or any money or sums due to the association, the association, any unit owner, or any class of unit owners adversely affected by the failure to comply may seek reimbursement for collection costs and reasonable attorney fees and costs incurred as a result of such failure to comply, without the necessity of commencing a legal proceeding.

(c) In any civil action to enforce or defend the provisions of this article or of the declaration, bylaws, articles, or rules and regulations, the court shall award reasonable attorney fees, costs, and costs of collection to the prevailing party.

(d) Notwithstanding paragraph (c) of this subsection (1), in connection with any claim in which a unit owner is alleged to have violated a provision of this article or of the declaration, bylaws, articles, or rules and regulations of the association and in which the court finds that the unit owner prevailed because the unit owner did not commit the alleged violation:

(I) The court shall award the unit owner reasonable attorney fees and costs incurred in asserting or defending the claim; and

(II) The court shall not award costs or attorney fees to the association. In addition, the association shall be precluded from allocating to the unit owner's account with the association any of the association's costs or attorney fees incurred in asserting or defending the claim.

(e) A unit owner shall not be deemed to have confessed judgment to attorney fees or collection costs.

(2) Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, no action shall be commenced or maintained to enforce the terms of any building restriction contained in the provisions of the declaration, bylaws, articles, or rules and regulations or to compel the removal of any building or improvement because of the violation of the terms of any such building restriction unless the action is commenced within one year from the date from which the person commencing the action knew or in the exercise of reasonable diligence should have known of the violation for which the action is sought to be brought or maintained.

ANNOTATION

The express language of this section requires a plaintiff to prevail on a claim to obtain an award of attorney fees and no fees will be awarded where the merits of a defendant's affirmative defenses have not yet been adjudicated. Dunne v. Shenandoah Homeowners Ass'n, Inc., 12 P.3d 340 (Colo. App. 2000).

Even assuming a trial court could determine that an overall case ended in a tie, subsection (1)(c) requires a court to award fees "for each claim...to the party prevailing on such claim". Therefore, the statutory claim-by-claim approach differs from the C.R.C.P. 54(d) analysis of multiple claims cases. Giguere v. SJS Family Enters., 155 P.3d 462 (Colo. App. 2006).

By its express language this section does not apply to tort claims in which the plaintiff's primary purpose was not to enforce the covenants contained in the declaration but was to secure a damage award. Colo. Homes, Ltd. v. Loerch-Wilson, 43 P.3d 718 (Colo. App. 2001).

As a prevailing party on the defendant's claim for an assessment lien based on property damages, plaintiff is entitled to attorney fees and costs for that aspect of the case. Hallmark Bldg. Co. v. Westland Meadows Owners Ass'n, Inc., 983 P.2d 170 (Colo. App. 1999).

Where a civil action is brought to enforce the covenants of a property owners' association, both elements of subsection (1)(c) are met. Cody Park v. Harder, 251 P.3d 1 (Colo. App. 2009).

The plain language of subsection (1)(c) does not require a prevailing party to be a unit owner to collect attorney fees, and the omission of the language from this subsection, in light of its inclusion in other subsections of the statute, evidences the general assembly's intent not to limit recovery of attorney fees under that subsection to unit owners. Cody Park v. Harder, 251 P.3d 1 (Colo. App. 2009).

No award of attorney fees to condominium association on appeal under C.A.R. 39.5 and this section. Subsection (1)(c) provides for recovery of attorney fees only in actions to "enforce or defend the provision of this article or of the declaration, bylaws, articles, or rules and regulations". Condominium association defended against purchasers' breach of contract action and sought declaratory action that contract was void. Neither purchasers' claims nor associations' counterclaims were to enforce or defend the article; thus, the statute does not apply. Platt v. Aspenwood Condo. Ass'n, 214 P.3d 1060 (Colo. App. 2009).

Allocation of liability for 30% of attorney fees award to owner of lot improper where owner did not attempt to use an easement that violated restrictive covenants, but merely refused to vacate the easement pending a legal determination as to its validity and where co-defendant actually commenced building a road in reliance on the easement. Allocation of liability for attorney fees must be commensurate with failure to comply with covenants and remand to the trial court for reapportionment of liability for attorney fees was necessary. Buick v. Highland Meadow Estates, 21 P.3d 860 (Colo. 2001).

Statute of limitations defense was not preserved on appeal where defendants raised the defense in their answer to plaintiffs' second amended complaint and in the trial management order, but failed to bring the defense to the court's attention in opening or closing statements, in an oral motion for a directed verdict, or in a motion for a new trial. Highland Meadows Estates v. Buick, 994 P.2d 459 (Colo. App. 1999), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 21 P.3d 860 (Colo. 2001).

38-33.3-124. Legislative declaration - alternative dispute resolution encouraged - policy statement required. (1) (a) (I) The general assembly finds and declares that the cost, complexity, and delay inherent in court proceedings make litigation a particularly inefficient means of resolving neighborhood disputes. Therefore, common interest communities are encouraged to adopt protocols that make use of mediation or arbitration as alternatives to, or preconditions upon, the filing of a complaint between a unit owner and association in situations that do not involve an imminent threat to the peace, health, or safety of the community.

(II) The general assembly hereby specifically endorses and encourages associations, unit owners, managers, declarants, and all other parties to disputes arising under this article to agree to make use of all available public or private resources for alternative dispute resolution, including, without limitation, the resources offered by the office of dispute resolution within the Colorado judicial branch through its web site.

(b) On or before January 1, 2007, each association shall adopt a written policy setting forth its procedure for addressing disputes arising between the association and unit owners. The association shall make a copy of this policy available to unit owners upon request.

(2) (a) Any controversy between an association and a unit owner arising out of the provisions of this article may be submitted to mediation by agreement of the parties prior to the commencement of any legal proceeding.

(b) The mediation agreement, if one is reached, may be presented to the court as a stipulation. Either party to the mediation may terminate the mediation process without prejudice.

(c) If either party subsequently violates the stipulation, the other party may apply immediately to the court for relief.

(3) The declaration, bylaws, or rules of the association may specify situations in which disputes shall be resolved by binding arbitration under the uniform arbitration act, part 2 of article 22 of title 13, C.R.S., or by another means of alternative dispute resolution under the "Dispute Resolution Act", part 3 of article 22 of title 13, C.R.S.

CREATION, ALTERATION, AND TERMINATION OF COMMON INTEREST COMMUNITIES

38-33.3-201. Creation of common interest communities. (1) A common interest community may be created pursuant to this article only by recording a declaration executed in the same manner as a deed and, in a cooperative, by conveying the real estate subject to that declaration to the association. The declaration must be recorded in every county in which any portion of the common interest community is located and must be indexed in the grantee's index in the name of the common interest community and in the name of the association and in the grantor's index in the name of each person executing the declaration. No common interest community is created until the plat or map for the common interest community is recorded.

(2) In a common interest community with horizontal unit boundaries, a declaration, or an amendment to a declaration, creating or adding units shall include a certificate of completion executed by an independent licensed or registered engineer, surveyor, or architect stating that all structural components of all buildings containing or comprising any units thereby created are substantially completed.

ANNOTATION

Since a declaration must be executed in the same manner as a deed, it must be signed by the declarant to properly establish a homeowners' association. The declarant's signature on an accompanying document, such as a plat, is not sufficient. Abril Meadows Homeowner's Ass'n v. Castro, 211 P.3d 64 (Colo. App. 2009).

Actual awareness or knowledge of the declaration by a person sought to be bound by it cannot compensate for the absence of a signed declaration. Abril Meadows Homeowner's Ass'n v. Castro, 211 P.3d 64 (Colo. App. 2009).

38-33.3-202. Unit boundaries. (1) Except as provided by the declaration:

(a) If walls, floors, or ceilings are designated as boundaries of a unit, all lath, furring, wallboard, plasterboard, plaster, paneling, tiles, wallpaper, paint, and finished flooring and any other materials constituting any part of the finished surfaces thereof are a part of the unit, and all other portions of the walls, floors, or ceilings are a part of the common elements.

(b) If any chute, flue, duct, wire, conduit, bearing wall, bearing column, or other fixture lies partially within and partially outside the designated boundaries of a unit, any portion thereof serving only that unit is a limited common element allocated solely to that unit, and any portion thereof serving more than one unit or any portion of the common elements is a part of the common elements.

(c) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), all spaces, interior partitions, and other fixtures and improvements within the boundaries of a unit are a part of the unit.

(d) Any shutters, awnings, window boxes, doorsteps, stoops, porches, balconies, and patios and all exterior doors and windows or other fixtures designed to serve a single unit, but located outside the unit's boundaries, are limited common elements allocated exclusively to that unit.

38-33.3-203. Construction and validity of declaration and bylaws. (1) All provisions of the declaration and bylaws are severable.

(2) The rule against perpetuities does not apply to defeat any provision of the declaration, bylaws, or rules and regulations.

(3) In the event of a conflict between the provisions of the declaration and the bylaws, the declaration prevails, except to the extent the declaration is inconsistent with this article.

(4) Title to a unit and common elements is not rendered unmarketable or otherwise affected by reason of an insubstantial failure of the declaration to comply with this article. Whether a substantial failure impairs marketability is not affected by this article.

ANNOTATION

Subsection (3) provides that the Common Interest Ownership Act prevails over any inconsistent provision in a declaration. Heritage Vill. Owners Ass'n v. Golden Heritage Investors, Ltd., 89 P.3d 513 (Colo. App. 2004).

Development rights in a declaration that does not include a time limitation are void ab initio. Section 38-33.3-205 (1)(h) is unambiguous in requiring a time limitation, and failure to include such a limitation is not an insubstantial defect that may be overlooked under subsection (4) of this section. Silverview at Overlook, LLC v. Overlook at Mt. Crested Butte Ltd. Liab. Co., 97 P.3d 252 (Colo. App. 2004).

38-33.3-204. Description of units. A description of a unit may set forth the name of the common interest community, the recording data for the declaration, the county in which the common interest community is located, and the identifying number of the unit. Such description is a legally sufficient description of that unit and all rights, obligations, and interests appurtenant to that unit which were created by the declaration or bylaws. It shall not be necessary to use the term "unit" as a part of a legally sufficient description of a unit.

38-33.3-205. Contents of declaration. (1) The declaration must contain:

(a) The names of the common interest community and the association and a statement that the common interest community is a condominium, cooperative, or planned community;

(b) The name of every county in which any part of the common interest community is situated;

(c) A legally sufficient description of the real estate included in the common interest community;

(d) A statement of the maximum number of units that the declarant reserves the right to create;

(e) In a condominium or planned community, a description, which may be by plat or map, of the boundaries of each unit created by the declaration, including the unit's identifying number; or, in a cooperative, a description, which may be by plat or map, of each unit created by the declaration, including the unit's identifying number, its size or number of rooms, and its location within a building if it is within a building containing more than one unit;

(f) A description of any limited common elements, other than those specified in section 38-33.3-202 (1) (b) and (1) (d) or shown on the map as provided in section 38-33.3-209 (2) (j) and, in a planned community, any real estate that is or must become common elements;

(g) A description of any real estate, except real estate subject to development rights, that may be allocated subsequently as limited common elements, other than limited common elements specified in section 38-33.3-202 (1) (b) and (1) (d), together with a statement that they may be so allocated;

(h) A description of any development rights and other special declarant rights reserved by the declarant, together with a description sufficient to identify the real estate to which each of those rights applies and the time limit within which each of those rights must be exercised;

(i) If any development right may be exercised with respect to different parcels of real estate at different times, a statement to that effect together with:

(I) Either a statement fixing the boundaries of those portions and regulating the order in which those portions may be subjected to the exercise of each development right or a statement that no assurances are made in those regards; and

(II) A statement as to whether, if any development right is exercised in any portion of the real estate subject to that development right, that development right must be exercised in all or in any other portion of the remainder of that real estate;

(j) Any other conditions or limitations under which the rights described in paragraph (h) of this subsection (1) may be exercised or will lapse;

(k) An allocation to each unit of the allocated interests in the manner described in section 38-33.3-207;

(l) Any restrictions on the use, occupancy, and alienation of the units and on the amount for which a unit may be sold or on the amount that may be received by a unit owner on sale, condemnation, or casualty loss to the unit or to the common interest community or on termination of the common interest community;

(m) The recording data for recorded easements and licenses appurtenant to, or included in, the common interest community or to which any portion of the common interest community is or may become subject by virtue of a reservation in the declaration;

(n) All matters required by sections 38-33.3-201, 38-33.3-206 to 38-33.3-209, 38-33.3-215, 38-33.3-216, and 38-33.3-303 (4);

(o) Reasonable provisions concerning the manner in which notice of matters affecting the common interest community may be given to unit owners by the association or other unit owners;

(p) A statement, if applicable, that the planned community is a large planned community and is exercising certain exemptions from the "Colorado Common Interest Ownership Act" as such a large planned community;

(q) In a large planned community:

(I) A general description of every common element that the declarant is legally obligated to construct within the large planned community together with the approximate date by which each such common element is to be completed. The declarant shall be required to complete each such common element within a reasonable time after the date specified in the declaration, unless the declarant, due to an act of God, is unable to do so. The declarant shall not be legally obligated with respect to any common element not identified in the declaration.

(II) A general description of the type of any common element that the declarant anticipates may be constructed by, maintained by, or operated by the association. The association shall not assess members for the construction, maintenance, or operation of any common element that is not described pursuant to this subparagraph (II) unless such assessment is approved by the vote of a majority of the votes entitled to be cast in person or by proxy, other than by declarant, at a meeting duly convened as required by law.

(2) The declaration may contain any other matters the declarant considers appropriate.

(3) The plats and maps described in section 38-33.3-209 may contain certain information required to be included in the declaration by this section.

(4) A declarant may amend the declaration, a plat, or a map to correct clerical, typographical, or technical errors.

(5) A declarant may amend the declaration to comply with the requirements, standards, or guidelines of recognized secondary mortgage markets, the department of housing and urban development, the federal housing administration, the veterans administration, the federal home loan mortgage corporation, the government national mortgage association, or the federal national mortgage association.

ANNOTATION

Since a declaration must be executed in the same manner as a deed, it must be signed by the declarant to properly establish a homeowners' association. Where an accompanying plat bore the declarant's signature, but did not contain the information required by this section such as the description of any development rights reserved by the declarant or notice procedures pertaining to covenant violations, the filing was insufficient. Abril Meadows Homeowner's Ass'n v. Castro, 211 P.3d 64 (Colo. App. 2009).

Airplane runway was not subject to the declaration of restrictions for a subdivision because it was not a common area included in the legal description of the subdivision. Accordingly, recording data for a retained easement across the runway was not required by subsection (1)(m). Brush Creek Airport, L.L.C. v.

Avion Park, L.L.C., 57 P.3d 738 (Colo. App. 2002).

Development rights in a declaration that does not include a time limitation are void ab initio. Subsection (1)(h) is unambiguous in requiring a time limitation, and failure to include such a limitation is not an insubstantial defect that may be overlooked under § 38-33.3-203 (4). Silverview at Overlook, LLC v. Overlook at Mt. Crested Butte Ltd. Liab. Co., 97 P.3d 252 (Colo. App. 2004).

Because property owner failed to impose any time limit in declaration, property owner failed to properly reserve its development rights. Where a provision is automatically renewable indefinitely, the provision cannot be considered a time limit. Miller v. Curry, 203 P.3d 626 (Colo. App. 2009).

38-33.3-206. Leasehold common interest communities. (1) Any lease, the expiration or termination of which may terminate the common interest community or reduce its size, must be recorded. In a leasehold condominium or leasehold planned community, the declaration must contain the signature of each lessor of any such lease in order for the provisions of this section to be effective. The declaration must state:

- (a) The recording data for the lease;
- (b) The date on which the lease is scheduled to expire;
- (c) A legally sufficient description of the real estate subject to the lease;
- (d) Any rights of the unit owners to redeem the reversion and the manner whereby those rights may be exercised or state that they do not have those rights;
- (e) Any rights of the unit owners to remove any improvements within a reasonable time after the expiration or termination of the lease or state that they do not have those rights; and
- (f) Any rights of the unit owners to renew the lease and the conditions of any renewal or state that they do not have those rights.

(2) After the declaration for a leasehold condominium or leasehold planned community is recorded, neither the lessor nor the lessor's successor in interest may terminate the leasehold interest of a unit owner who makes timely payment of a unit owner's share of the rent and otherwise complies with all covenants which, if violated, would entitle the lessor to terminate the lease. A unit owner's leasehold interest in a condominium or planned community is not affected by failure of any other person to pay rent or fulfill any other covenant.

(3) Acquisition of the leasehold interest of any unit owner by the owner of the reversion or remainder does not merge the leasehold and fee simple interests unless the leasehold interests of all unit owners subject to that reversion or remainder are acquired.

(4) If the expiration or termination of a lease decreases the number of units in a common interest community, the allocated interests shall be reallocated in accordance with section 38-33.3-107 (1), as though those units had been taken by eminent domain. Reallocations shall be confirmed by an amendment to the declaration prepared, executed, and recorded by the association.

38-33.3-207. Allocation of allocated interests. (1) The declaration must allocate to each unit:

(a) In a condominium, a fraction or percentage of undivided interests in the common elements and in the common expenses of the association and, to the extent not allocated in the bylaws of the association, a portion of the votes in the association;

(b) In a cooperative, an ownership interest in the association, a fraction or percentage of the common expenses of the association, and, to the extent not allocated in the bylaws of the association, a portion of the votes in the association;

(c) In a planned community, a fraction or percentage of the common expenses of the association and, to the extent not allocated in the bylaws of the association, a portion of the votes in the association; except that, in a large planned community, the common expenses of the association may be paid from assessments and allocated as set forth in the declaration and the votes in the association may be allocated as set forth in the declaration.

(2) The declaration must state the formulas used to establish allocations of interests. Those allocations may not discriminate in favor of units owned by the declarant or an affiliate of the declarant.

(3) If units may be added to or withdrawn from the common interest community, the declaration must state the formulas to be used to reallocate the allocated interests among all units included in the common interest community after the addition or withdrawal.

(4) (a) The declaration may provide:

(I) That different allocations of votes shall be made to the units on particular matters specified in the declaration;

(II) For cumulative voting only for the purpose of electing members of the executive board;

(III) For class voting on specified issues affecting the class, including the election of the executive board; and

(IV) For assessments including, but not limited to, assessments on retail sales and services not to exceed six percent of the amount charged for the retail sale or service, and real estate transfers not to exceed three percent of the real estate sales price or its equivalent.

(b) A declarant may not utilize cumulative or class voting for the purpose of evading any limitation imposed on declarants by this article, nor may units constitute a class because they are owned by a declarant.

(c) Assessments allowed under subparagraph (IV) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) shall be entitled to the lien provided for under section 38-33.3-316 (1) but shall not be entitled to the priority established by section 38-33.3-316 (2) (b).

(d) Communities with classes for voting specified in the declaration as allowed pursuant to subparagraph (III) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) may designate classes of members on a reasonable basis which do not allow the declarant to control the association beyond the period provided for in section 38-33.3-303, including, without limitation, residence owners, commercial space owners, and owners of lodging space and to elect members to the association executive board from such classes.

(5) Except for minor variations due to the rounding of fractions or percentages, the sum of the common expense liabilities and, in a condominium, the sum of the undivided interests in the common elements allocated at any time to all the units shall each equal one if stated as fractions or one hundred percent if stated as percentages. In the event of discrepancy between an allocated interest and the result derived from application of the pertinent formula, the allocated interest prevails.

(6) In a condominium, the common elements are not subject to partition except as allowed for in section 38-33.3-312, and any purported conveyance, encumbrance, judicial sale, or other voluntary or involuntary transfer of an undivided interest in the common elements not allowed for in section 38-33.3-312, that is made without the unit to which that interest is allocated is void.

(7) In a cooperative, any purported conveyance, encumbrance, judicial sale, or other voluntary or involuntary transfer of an ownership interest in the association made without the possessory interest in the unit to which that interest is related is void.

38-33.3-208. Limited common elements. (1) Except for the limited common elements described in section 38-33.3-202 (1) (b) and (1) (d), the declaration shall specify to which unit or units each limited common element is allocated. That allocation may not be altered without the consent of the unit owners whose units are affected.

(2) Subject to any provisions of the declaration, a limited common element may be reallocated between or among units after compliance with the procedure set forth in this subsection (2). In order to reallocate limited common elements between or among units, the unit owners of those units, as the applicants, must submit an application for approval of the proposed reallocation to the executive board, which application shall be executed by those unit owners and shall include:

(a) The proposed form for an amendment to the declaration as may be necessary to show the reallocation of limited common elements between or among units;

(b) A deposit against attorney fees and costs which the association will incur in reviewing and effectuating the application, in an amount reasonably estimated by the executive board; and

(c) Such other information as may be reasonably requested by the executive board. No reallocation shall be effective without the approval of the executive board. The reallocation shall be effectuated by an amendment signed by the association and by those unit owners between or among whose units the reallocation is made, which amendment shall be recorded as provided in section 38-33.3-217 (3). All costs and attorney fees incurred by the association as a result of the application shall be the sole obligation of the applicants.

(3) A common element not previously allocated as a limited common element may be so allocated only pursuant to provisions in the declaration made in accordance with section 38-33.3-205 (1) (g). The allocations must be made by amendments to the declaration prepared, executed, and recorded by the declarant.

38-33.3-209. Plats and maps. (1) A plat or map is a part of the declaration and is required for all common interest communities except cooperatives. A map is required only for a common interest community with units having a horizontal boundary. The requirements of this section shall be deemed satisfied so long as all of the information required by this section is contained in the declaration, a map or a plat, or some combination of any two or all of the three. Each plat or map must be clear and legible. When a map is required under any provision of this article, the map, a plat, or the declaration shall contain a certification that all information required by this section is contained in the declaration, the map or a plat, or some combination of any two or all of the three.

(2) In addition to meeting the requirements of a land survey plat as set forth in section 38-51-106, each map shall show the following, except to the extent such information is contained in the declaration or on a plat:

- (a) The name and a general schematic plan of the entire common interest community;
  - (b) The location and dimensions of all real estate not subject to development rights, or subject only to the development right to withdraw, and the location and dimensions of all existing improvements within that real estate;
  - (c) A legally sufficient description, which may be of the whole common interest community or any portion thereof, of any real estate subject to development rights and a description of the rights applicable to such real estate;
  - (d) The extent of any existing encroachments across any common interest community boundary;
  - (e) To the extent feasible, a legally sufficient description of all easements serving or burdening any portion of the common interest community;
  - (f) The location and dimensions of the vertical boundaries of each unit and that unit's identifying number;
  - (g) The location, with reference to established data, of the horizontal boundaries of each unit and that unit's identifying number;
  - (g.5) Any units in which the declarant has reserved the right to create additional units or common elements, identified appropriately;
  - (h) A legally sufficient description of any real estate in which the unit owners will own only an estate for years;
  - (i) The distance between noncontiguous parcels of real estate comprising the common interest community; and
  - (j) The approximate location and dimensions of limited common elements, including porches, balconies, and patios, other than the limited common elements described in section 38-33.3-202 (1) (b) and (1) (d).
- (3) (Deleted by amendment, L. 93, p. 648, § 12, effective April 30, 1993.)
- (4) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2007, p. 1799, § 1, effective July 1, 2007.)
- (5) Unless the declaration provides otherwise, the horizontal boundaries of any part of a unit located outside of a building have the same elevation as the horizontal boundaries of the inside part and need not be depicted on the plats and maps.
- (6) Upon exercising any development right, the declarant shall record an amendment to the declaration with respect to that real estate reflecting change as a result of such exercise necessary to conform to the requirements of subsections (1), (2), and (4) of this section or new certifications of maps previously recorded if those maps otherwise conform to the requirements of subsections (1), (2), and (4) of this section.
- (7) Any certification of a map required by this article must be made by a registered land surveyor.
- (8) The requirements of a plat or map under this article shall not be deemed to satisfy any subdivision platting requirement enacted by a county or municipality pursuant to section 30-28-133, C.R.S., part 1 of article 23 of title 31, C.R.S., or a similar provision of a home rule city, nor shall the plat or map requirements under this article be deemed to be incorporated into any subdivision platting requirements enacted by a county or municipality.
- (9) Any plat or map that was recorded on or after July 1, 1998, but prior to July 1, 2007, and that satisfies the requirements of this section in effect on July 1, 2007, is deemed to have satisfied the requirements of this section at the time it was recorded.

ANNOTATION

The 1998 amendment to subsection (1) did not eliminate the need to file a plat or a map even if all pertinent information was contained in the declaration, because § 38-33.3-201 (1) still provides that no common interest community is created until the plat or map for the common interest community is recorded. Snowmass Land Co. v. Two Creeks Homeowner's Ass'n, 159 P.3d 662 (Colo. App. 2006).

Airplane runway and retained easement across the runway were not required to be depicted on a subdivision plat pursuant to subsections (2)(b) and (2)(e) because the runway was not a dedicated common area subject to the subdivision declarations and the easement therefore did not burden any part of the subdivi-vision. Brush Creek Airport, L.L.C. v. Avion Park, L.L.C., 57 P.3d 738 (Colo. App. 2002).

The description on a plat that simply stated "Parcel A, Lot 3", in conjunction with the attached notes, failed to adequately label the plat or map to identify the development rights applicable to that parcel, as required by subsection (2)(c). Snowmass Land Co. v. Two Creeks Homeowner's Ass'n, 159 P.3d 662 (Colo. App. 2006).

In addition, if the association's address, designated agent, or management company changes, the association shall make updated information available within ninety days after the change:

- (a) The name of the association;
- (b) The name of the association's designated agent or management company, if any;
- (c) A valid physical address and telephone number for both the association and the designated agent or management company, if any;
- (d) The name of the common interest community;
- (e) The initial date of recording of the declaration; and
- (f) The reception number or book and page for the main document that constitutes the declaration.

(2) Within ninety days after assuming control from the declarant pursuant to section 38-33.3-303 (5), and within ninety days after the end of each fiscal year thereafter, the association shall make the following information available to unit owners upon reasonable notice in accordance with subsection (3) of this section:

- (a) The date on which its fiscal year commences;
- (b) Its operating budget for the current fiscal year;

- (d) Its annual financial statements, including any amounts held in reserve for the fiscal year immediately preceding the current annual disclosure;
- (e) The results of its most recent available financial audit or review;
- (f) A list of all association insurance policies, including, but not limited to, property, general liability, association director and officer professional liability, and fidelity policies. Such list shall include the company names, policy limits, policy deductibles, additional named insureds, and expiration dates of the policies listed.
- (g) All the association's bylaws, articles, and rules and regulations;
- (h) The minutes of the executive board and member meetings for the fiscal year immediately preceding the current annual disclosure; and
- (i) The association's responsible governance policies adopted under section 38-33.3-209.5.

(3) It is the intent of this section to allow the association the widest possible latitude in methods and means of disclosure, while requiring that the information be readily available at no cost to unit owners at their convenience. Disclosure shall be accomplished by one of the following means: Posting on an internet web page with accompanying notice of the web address via first-class mail or e-mail; the maintenance of a literature table or binder at the association's principal place of business; or mail or personal delivery. The cost of such distribution shall be accounted for as a common expense liability.

(4) Notwithstanding section 38-33.3-117 (1) (h.5), this section shall not apply to a unit, or the owner thereof, if the unit is a time-share unit, as defined in section 38-33-110 (7).

38-33.3-209.5. Responsible governance policies - due process for imposition of fines. (1) To promote responsible governance, associations shall:

- (a) Maintain accurate and complete accounting records; and
- (b) Adopt policies, procedures, and rules and regulations concerning:
  - (I) Collection of unpaid assessments;
  - (II) Handling of conflicts of interest involving board members, which policies, procedures, and rules and regulations must include, at a minimum, the criteria described in subsection (4) of this section;
  - (III) Conduct of meetings, which may refer to applicable provisions of the nonprofit code or other recognized rules and principles;
  - (IV) Enforcement of covenants and rules, including notice and hearing procedures and the schedule of fines;
  - (V) Inspection and copying of association records by unit owners;
  - (VI) Investment of reserve funds;
  - (VII) Procedures for the adoption and amendment of policies, procedures, and rules;
  - (VIII) Procedures for addressing disputes arising between the association and unit owners; and
  - (IX) When the association has a reserve study prepared for the portions of the community maintained, repaired, replaced, and improved by the association; whether there is a funding plan for any work recommended by the reserve study and, if so, the projected sources of funding for the work; and whether the reserve study is based on a physical analysis and financial analysis. For the purposes of this subparagraph (IX), an internally conducted reserve study shall be sufficient.

(2) Notwithstanding any provision of the declaration, bylaws, articles, or rules and regulations to the contrary, the association may not fine any unit owner for an alleged violation unless:

(a) The association has adopted, and follows, a written policy governing the imposition of fines; and

(b) (I) The policy includes a fair and impartial fact-finding process concerning whether the alleged violation actually occurred and whether the unit owner is the one who should be held responsible for the violation. This process may be informal but shall, at a minimum, guarantee the unit owner notice and an opportunity to be heard before an impartial decision maker.

(II) As used in this paragraph (b), "impartial decision maker" means a person or group of persons who have the authority to make a decision regarding the enforcement of the association's covenants, conditions, and restrictions, including its architectural requirements, and the other rules and regulations of the association and do not have any direct personal or financial interest in the outcome. A decision maker shall not be deemed to have a direct personal or financial interest in the outcome if the decision maker will not, as a result of the outcome, receive any greater benefit or detriment than will the general membership of the association.

(3) If, as a result of the factfinding process described in subsection (2) of this section, it is determined that the unit owner should not be held responsible for the alleged violation, the association shall not allocate to the unit owner's account with the association any of the association's costs or attorney fees incurred in asserting or hearing the claim. Notwithstanding any provision in the declaration, bylaws, or rules and regulations of the association to the contrary, a unit owner shall not be deemed to have consented to pay such costs or fees.

(4) (a) The policies, procedures, and rules and regulations adopted by an association under subparagraph (II) of paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section must, at a minimum:

- (I) Define or describe the circumstances under which a conflict of interest exists;
- (II) Set forth procedures to follow when a conflict of interest exists, including how, and to whom, the conflict of interest must be disclosed and whether a board member must recuse himself or herself from discussing or voting on the issue; and
- (III) Provide for the periodic review of the association's conflict of interest policies, procedures, and rules and regulations.

(b) The policies, procedures, or rules and regulations adopted under this subsection (4) must be in accordance with section 38-33.3-310.5.

38-33.3-209.6. Executive board member education. The board may authorize, and account for as a common expense, reimbursement of board members for their actual and necessary expenses incurred in attending educational meetings and seminars on responsible governance of unit owners' associations. The course content of such educational meetings and seminars shall be specific to Colorado, and shall make reference to applicable sections of this article.

38-33.3-209.7. Owner education. (1) The association shall provide, or cause to be provided, education to owners at no cost on at least an annual basis as to the general operations of the association and the rights and responsibilities of owners, the association, and its executive board under Colorado law. The criteria for compliance with this section shall be determined by the executive board.

(2) Notwithstanding section 38-33.3-117 (1.5) (c), this section shall not apply to an association that includes time-share units, as defined in section 38-33-110 (7).

38-33.3-210. Exercise of development rights. (1) To exercise any development right reserved under section 38-33.3-205 (1) (h), the declarant shall prepare, execute, and record an amendment to the declaration and, in a condominium or planned community, comply with the provisions of section 38-33.3-209. The declarant is the unit owner of any units thereby created. The amendment to the declaration must assign an identifying number to each new unit created and, except in the case of subdivision or conversion of units described in subsection (3) of this section, reallocate the allocated interests among all units. The amendment must describe any common elements and any limited common elements thereby created and, in the case of limited common elements, designate the unit to which each is allocated to the extent required by section 38-33.3-208.

(2) Additional development rights not previously reserved may be reserved within any real estate added to the common interest community if the amendment adding that real estate includes all matters required by section 38-33.3-205 or 38-33.3-206, as the case may be, and, in a condominium or planned community, the plats and maps include all matters required by section 38-33.3-209. This provision does not extend the time limit on the exercise of development rights imposed by the declaration pursuant to section 38-33.3-205 (1) (h).

(3) Whenever a declarant exercises a development right to subdivide or convert a unit previously created into additional units, common elements, or both:

(a) If the declarant converts the unit entirely to common elements, the amendment to the declaration must reallocate all the allocated interests of that unit among the other units as if that unit had been taken by eminent domain; and

(b) If the declarant subdivides the unit into two or more units, whether or not any part of the unit is converted into common elements, the amendment to the declaration must reallocate all the allocated interests of the unit among the units created by the subdivision in any reasonable manner prescribed by the declarant.

(4) If the declaration provides, pursuant to section 38-33.3-205, that all or a portion of the real estate is subject to a right of withdrawal:

(a) If all the real estate is subject to withdrawal, and the declaration does not describe separate portions of real estate subject to that right, none of the real estate may be withdrawn after a unit has been conveyed to a purchaser; and

(b) If any portion of the real estate is subject to withdrawal, it may not be withdrawn after a unit in that portion has been conveyed to a purchaser.

(5) If a declarant fails to exercise any development right within the time limit and in accordance with any conditions or fixed limitations described in the declaration pursuant to section 38-33.3-205 (1) (h), or records an instrument surrendering a development right, that development right shall lapse unless the association, upon the request of the declarant or the owner of the real estate subject to development right, agrees to an extension of the time period for exercise of the development right or a reinstatement of the development right subject to whatever terms, conditions, and limitations the association may impose on the subsequent exercise of the development right. The extension or renewal of the development right and any terms, conditions, and limitations shall be included in an amendment executed by the declarant or the owner of the real estate subject to development right and the association.

38-33.3-211. Alterations of units. (1) Subject to the provisions of the declaration and other provisions of law, a unit owner:

(a) May make any improvements or alterations to his unit that do not impair the structural integrity, electrical systems, or mechanical systems or lessen the support of any portion of the common interest community;

(b) May not change the appearance of the common elements without permission of the association; or

(c) After acquiring an adjoining unit or an adjoining part of an adjoining unit, may remove or alter any intervening partition or create apertures therein, even if the partition in whole or in part is a common element, if those acts do not impair the structural integrity, electrical systems, or mechanical systems or lessen the support of any portion of the common interest community. Removal of partitions or creation of apertures under this paragraph (c) is not an alteration of boundaries.

38-33.3-212. Relocation of boundaries between adjoining units. (1) Subject to the provisions of the declaration and other provisions of law, and pursuant to the procedures described in section 38-33.3-217, the boundaries between adjoining units may be relocated by an amendment to the declaration upon application to the association by the owners of those units.

(2) In order to relocate the boundaries between adjoining units, the owners of those units, as the applicant, must submit an application to the executive board, which application shall be executed by those owners and shall include:

(a) Evidence sufficient to the executive board that the applicant has complied with all local rules and ordinances and that the proposed relocation of boundaries does not violate the terms of any document evidencing a security interest;

(b) The proposed reallocation of interests, if any;

(c) The proposed form for amendments to the declaration, including the plats or maps, as may be necessary to show the altered boundaries between adjoining units, and their dimensions and identifying numbers;

(d) A deposit against attorney fees and costs which the association will incur in reviewing and effectuating the application, in an amount reasonably estimated by the executive board; and

(e) Such other information as may be reasonably requested by the executive board.

(3) No relocation of boundaries between adjoining units shall be effected without the necessary amendments to the declaration, plats, or maps, executed and recorded pursuant to section 38-33.3-217 (3) and (5).

(4) All costs and attorney fees incurred by the association as a result of an application shall be the sole obligation of the applicant.

38-33.3-213. Subdivision of units. (1) If the declaration expressly so permits, a unit may be subdivided into two or more units. Subject to the provisions of the declaration and other provisions of law, and pursuant to the procedures described in this section, a unit owner may apply to the association to subdivide a unit.

(2) In order to subdivide a unit, the unit owner of such unit, as the applicant, must submit an application to the executive board, which application shall be executed by such owner and shall include:

(a) Evidence that the applicant of the proposed subdivision shall have complied with all building codes, fire codes, zoning codes, planned unit development requirements, master plans, and other applicable ordinances or resolutions adopted and enforced by the local governing body and that the proposed subdivision does not violate the terms of any document evidencing a security interest encumbering the unit;

(b) The proposed reallocation of interests, if any;

(c) The proposed form for amendments to the declaration, including the plats or maps, as may be necessary to show the units which are created by the subdivision and their dimensions, and identifying numbers;

(d) A deposit against attorney fees and costs which the association will incur in reviewing and effectuating the application, in an amount reasonably estimated by the executive board; and

(e) Such other information as may be reasonably requested by the executive board.

(3) No subdivision of units shall be effected without the necessary amendments to the declaration, plats, or maps, executed and recorded pursuant to section 38-33.3-217 (3) and (5).

(4) All costs and attorney fees incurred by the association as a result of an application shall be the sole obligation of the applicant.

38-33.3-214. Easement for encroachments. To the extent that any unit or common element encroaches on any other unit or common element, a valid easement for the encroachment exists. The easement does not relieve a unit owner of liability in case of willful misconduct nor relieve a declarant or any other person of liability for failure to adhere to the plats and maps.

38-33.3-215. Use for sales purposes. A declarant may maintain sales offices, management offices, and models in the common interest community only if the declaration so provides. Except as provided in a declaration, any real estate in a common interest community used as a sales office, management office, or model and not designated a unit by the declaration is a common element. If a declarant ceases to be a unit owner, such declarant ceases to have any rights with regard to any real estate used as a sales office, management office, or model, unless it is removed promptly from the common interest community in accordance with a right to remove reserved in the declaration. Subject to any limitations in the declaration, a declarant may maintain signs on the common elements advertising the common interest community. This section is subject to the provisions of other state laws and to local ordinances.

38-33.3-216. Easement rights. (1) Subject to the provisions of the declaration, a declarant has an easement through the common elements as may be reasonably necessary for the purpose of discharging a declarant's obligations or exercising special declarant rights, whether arising under this article or reserved in the declaration.

(2) In a planned community, subject to the provisions of the declaration and the ability of the association to regulate and convey or encumber the common elements as set forth in sections 38-33.3-302 (1) (f) and 38-33.3-312, the unit owners have an easement:

- (a) In the common elements for the purpose of access to their units; and
- (b) To use the common elements and all other real estate that must become common elements for all other purposes.

38-33.3-217. Amendment of declaration. (1) (a) (I) Except as otherwise provided in subparagraphs (II) and (III) of this paragraph (a), the declaration, including the plats and maps, may be amended only by the affirmative vote or agreement of unit owners of units to which more than fifty percent of the votes in the association are allocated or any larger percentage, not to exceed sixty-seven percent, that the declaration specifies. Any provision in the declaration that purports to specify a percentage larger than sixty-seven percent is hereby declared void as contrary to public policy, and until amended, such provision shall be deemed to specify a percentage of sixty-seven percent. The declaration may specify a smaller percentage than a simple majority only if all of the units are restricted exclusively to nonresidential use. Nothing in this paragraph (a) shall be construed to prohibit the association from seeking a court order, in accordance with subsection (7) of this section, to reduce the required percentage to less than sixty-seven percent.

(II) If the declaration provides for an initial period of applicability to be followed by automatic extension periods, the declaration may be amended at any time in accordance with subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a).

(III) This paragraph (a) shall not apply:

- (A) To the extent that its application is limited by subsection (4) of this section;
- (B) To amendments executed by a declarant under section 38-33.3-205 (4) and (5), 38-33.3-208 (3), 38-33.3-209 (6), 38-33.3-210, or 38-33.3-222;
- (C) To amendments executed by an association under section 38-33.3-107, 38-33.3-206 (4), 38-33.3-208 (2), 38-33.3-212, 38-33.3-213, or 38-33.3-218 (11) and (12);
- (D) To amendments executed by the district court for any county that includes all or any portion of a common interest community under subsection (7) of this section; or
- (E) To amendments that affect phased communities or declarant-controlled communities.

(b) (I) If the declaration requires first mortgagees to approve or consent to amendments, but does not set forth a procedure for registration or notification of first mortgagees, the association may:

(A) Send a dated, written notice and a copy of any proposed amendment by certified mail to each first mortgagee at its most recent address as shown on the recorded deed of trust or recorded assignment thereof; and

(B) Cause the dated notice, together with information on how to obtain a copy of the proposed amendment, to be printed in full at least twice, on separate occasions at least one week apart, in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the common interest community is located.

(II) A first mortgagee that does not deliver to the association a negative response within sixty days after the date of the notice specified in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) shall be deemed to have approved the proposed amendment.

(III) The notification procedure set forth in this paragraph (b) is not mandatory. If the consent of first mortgagees is obtained without resort to this paragraph (b), and otherwise in accordance with the declaration, the notice to first mortgagees shall be considered sufficient.

(2) No action to challenge the validity of an amendment adopted by the association pursuant to this section may be brought more than one year after the amendment is recorded.

(3) Every amendment to the declaration must be recorded in every county in which any portion of the common interest community is located and is effective only upon recordation. An amendment must be indexed in the grantee's index in the name of the common interest community and the association and in the grantor's index in the name of each person executing the amendment.

(4) (a) Except to the extent expressly permitted or required by other provisions of this article, no amendment may create or increase special declarant rights, increase the number of units, or change the boundaries of any unit or the allocated interests of a unit in the absence of a vote or agreement of unit owners of units to which at least sixty-seven percent of the votes in the association, including sixty-seven percent of the votes allocated to units not owned by a declarant, are allocated or any larger percentage the declaration specifies. The declaration may specify a smaller percentage only if all of the units are restricted exclusively to nonresidential use.

(b) The sixty-seven-percent maximum percentage stated in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section shall not apply to any common interest community in which one unit owner, by virtue of the declaration, bylaws, or other governing documents of the association, is allocated sixty-seven percent or more of the votes in the association.

(4.5) Except to the extent expressly permitted or required by other provisions of this article, no amendment may change the uses to which any unit is restricted in the absence of a vote or agreement of unit owners of units to which at least sixty-seven percent of the votes in the association are allocated or any larger percentage the declaration specifies. The declaration may specify a smaller percentage only if all of the units are restricted exclusively to nonresidential use.

(5) Amendments to the declaration required by this article to be recorded by the association shall be prepared, executed, recorded, and certified on behalf of the association by any officer of the association designated for that purpose or, in the absence of designation, by the president of the association.

(6) All expenses associated with preparing and recording an amendment to the declaration shall be the sole responsibility of:

(a) In the case of an amendment pursuant to sections 38-33.3-208 (2), 38-33.3-212, and 38-33.3-213, the unit owners desiring the amendment; and

(b) In the case of an amendment pursuant to section 38-33.3-208 (3), 38-33.3-209 (6), or 38-33.3-210, the declarant; and

(c) In all other cases, the association.

(7) (a) The association, acting through its executive board pursuant to section 38-33.3-303 (1), may petition the district court for any county that includes all or any portion of the common interest community for an order amending the declaration of the common interest community if:

(I) The association has twice sent notice of the proposed amendment to all unit owners that are entitled by the declaration to vote on the proposed amendment or are required for approval of the proposed amendment by any means allowed pursuant to the provisions regarding notice to members in sections 7-121-402 and 7-127-104, C.R.S., of the "Colorado Revised Nonprofit Corporation Act", articles 121 to 137 of title 7, C.R.S.;

(II) The association has discussed the proposed amendment during at least one meeting of the association; and

(III) Unit owners of units to which are allocated more than fifty percent of the number of consents, approvals, or votes of the association that would be required to adopt the proposed amendment pursuant to the declaration have voted in favor of the proposed amendment.

(b) A petition filed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (7) shall include:

(I) A summary of:

(A) The procedures and requirements for amending the declaration that are set forth in the declaration;

(B) The proposed amendment to the declaration;

(C) The effect of and reason for the proposed amendment, including a statement of the circumstances that make the amendment necessary or advisable;

(D) The results of any vote taken with respect to the proposed amendment; and

(E) Any other matters that the association believes will be useful to the court in deciding whether to grant the petition; and

(II) As exhibits, copies of:

(A) The declaration as originally recorded and any recorded amendments to the declaration;

(B) The text of the proposed amendment;

(C) Copies of any notices sent pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (7); and

(D) Any other documents that the association believes will be useful to the court in deciding whether to grant the petition.

(c) Within three days of the filing of the petition, the district court shall set a date for hearing the petition. Unless the court finds that an emergency requires an immediate hearing, the hearing shall be held no earlier than forty-five days and no later than sixty days after the date the association filed the petition.

(d) No later than ten days after the date for hearing a petition is set pursuant to paragraph (c) of this subsection (7), the association shall:

(I) Send notice of the petition by any written means allowed pursuant to the provisions regarding notice to members in sections 7-121-402 and 7-127-104, C.R.S., of the "Colorado Revised Nonprofit Corporation Act", articles 121 to 137 of title 7, C.R.S., to any unit owner, by first-class mail, postage prepaid or by hand delivery to any declarant, and by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to any lender that holds a security interest in one or more units and is entitled by the declaration or any underwriting guidelines or requirements of that lender or of the federal national mortgage association, the federal home loan mortgage corporation, the federal housing administration, the veterans administration, or the government national mortgage corporation to vote on the proposed amendment. The notice shall include:

(A) A copy of the petition which need not include the exhibits attached to the original petition filed with the district court;

(B) The date the district court will hear the petition; and

(C) A statement that the court may grant the petition and order the proposed amendment to the declaration unless any declarant entitled by the declaration to vote on the proposed amendment, the federal housing administration, the veterans administration, more than thirty-three percent of the unit owners entitled by the declaration to vote on the proposed amendment, or more than thirty-three percent of the lenders that hold a security interest in one or more units and are entitled by the declaration to vote on the proposed amendment file written objections to the proposed amendment with the court prior to the hearing;

(II) File with the district court:

(A) A list of the names and mailing addresses of declarants, unit owners, and lenders that hold a security interest in one or more units and that are entitled by the declaration to vote on the proposed amendment; and

(B) A copy of the notice required by subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (d).

(e) The district court shall grant the petition after hearing if it finds that:

(I) The association has complied with all requirements of this subsection (7);

(II) No more than thirty-three percent of the unit owners entitled by the declaration to vote on the proposed amendment have filed written objections to the proposed amendment with the court prior to the hearing;

(III) Neither the federal housing administration nor the veterans administration is entitled to approve the proposed amendment, or if so entitled has not filed written objections to the proposed amendment with the court prior to the hearing;

(IV) Either the proposed amendment does not eliminate any rights or privileges designated in the declaration as belonging to a declarant or no declarant has filed written objections to the proposed amendment with the court prior to the hearing;

(V) Either the proposed amendment does not eliminate any rights or privileges designated in the declaration as belonging to any lenders that hold security interests in one or more units and that are entitled by the declaration to vote on the proposed amendment or no more than thirty-three percent of such lenders have filed written objections to the proposed amendment with the court prior to the hearing; and

(VI) The proposed amendment would neither terminate the declaration nor change the allocated interests of the unit owners as specified in the declaration, except as allowed pursuant to section 38-33.3-315.

(f) Upon granting a petition, the court shall enter an order approving the proposed amendment and requiring the association to record the amendment in each county that includes all or any portion of the common interest community. Once recorded, the amendment shall have the same legal effect as if it were adopted pursuant to any requirements set forth in the declaration.

ANNOTATION

Because subsections (4) and (4.5) use the term “any unit”, rather than “all units”, and regardless of what owner approval percentage may be required procedurally, substantively subsections (4) and (4.5) permit changes to building and access envelopes of less than all the lots in a common interest community. Giguere v. SJS Family Enters., 155 P.3d 462 (Colo. App. 2006).

Although subsection (4.5) governs situations where homeowners would like to change an enumerated use to which a lot is restricted, it does not operate to preclude homeowners from seeking to create a new use restriction or to remove a specifically permitted land use pursuant to the terms of a declaration. Good v. Bear Canyon Ranch Ass'n, 160 P.3d 251 (Colo. App. 2007).

38-33.3-218. Termination of common interest community. (1) Except in the case of a taking of all the units by eminent domain, or in the case of foreclosure against an entire cooperative of a security interest that has priority over the declaration, a common interest community may be terminated only by agreement of unit owners of units to which at least sixty-seven percent of the votes in the association are allocated or any larger percentage the declaration specifies. The declaration may specify a smaller percentage only if all of the units in the common interest community are restricted exclusively to nonresidential uses.

(1.5) No planned community that is required to exist pursuant to a development or site plan shall be terminated by agreement of unit owners, unless a copy of the termination agreement is sent by certified mail or hand delivered to the governing body of every municipality in which a portion of the planned community is situated or, if the planned community is situated in an unincorporated area, to the board of county commissioners for every county in which a portion of the planned community is situated.

(2) An agreement of unit owners to terminate must be evidenced by their execution of a termination agreement or ratifications thereof in the same manner as a deed, by the requisite number of unit owners. The termination agreement must specify a date after which the agreement will be void unless it is recorded before that date. A termination agreement and all ratifications thereof must be recorded in every county in which a portion of the common interest community is situated and is effective only upon recordation.

(3) In the case of a condominium or planned community containing only units having horizontal boundaries described in the declaration, a termination agreement may provide that all of the common elements and units of the common interest community must be sold following termination. If, pursuant to the agreement, any real estate in the common interest community is to be sold following termination, the termination agreement must set forth the minimum terms of the sale.

(4) In the case of a condominium or planned community containing any units not having horizontal boundaries described in the declaration, a termination agreement may provide for sale of the common elements, but it may not require that the units be sold following termination, unless the declaration as originally recorded provided otherwise or all the unit owners consent to the sale.

(5) Subject to the provisions of a termination agreement described in subsections (3) and (4) of this section, the association, on behalf of the unit owners, may contract for the sale of real estate in a common interest community following termination, but the contract is not binding on the unit owners until approved pursuant to subsections (1) and (2) of this section. If any real estate is to be sold following termination, title to that real estate, upon termination, vests in the association as trustee for the holders of all interests in the units. Thereafter, the association has all the powers necessary and appropriate to effect the sale. Until the sale has been concluded and the proceeds thereof distributed, the association continues in existence with all the powers it had before termination. Proceeds of the sale must be distributed to unit owners and lienholders as their interests may appear, in accordance with subsections (8), (9), and (10) of this section, taking into account the value of property owned or distributed that is not sold so as to preserve the proportionate interests of each unit owner with respect to all property cumulatively. Unless otherwise specified in the termination agreement, as long as the association holds title to the real estate, each unit owner and the unit owner's successors in interest have an exclusive right to occupancy of the portion of the real estate that formerly constituted the unit. During the period of that occupancy, each unit owner and the unit owner's successors in interest remain liable for all assessments and other obligations imposed on unit owners by this article or the declaration.

(6) (a) In a planned community, if all or a portion of the common elements are not to be sold following termination, title to the common elements not sold vests in the unit owners upon termination as tenants in common in fractional interests that maintain, after taking into account the fair market value of property owned and the proceeds of property sold, their respective interests as provided in subsection (10) of this section with respect to all property appraised under said subsection (10), and liens on the units shift accordingly.

(b) In a common interest community, containing units having horizontal boundaries described in the declaration, title to the units not to be sold following termination vests in the unit owners upon termination as tenants in common in fractional interests that maintain, after taking into account the fair market value of property owned and the proceeds of property sold, their respective interests as provided in subsection (10) of this section with respect to all property appraised under said subsection (10), and liens on the units shift accordingly. While the tenancy in common exists, each unit owner and the unit owner's successors in interest have an exclusive right to occupancy of the portion of the real estate that formerly constituted such unit.

(7) Following termination of the common interest community, the proceeds of any sale of real estate, together with the assets of the association, are held by the association as trustee for unit owners and holders of liens on the units as their interests may appear.

(8) Upon termination of a condominium or planned community, creditors of the association who obtain a lien and duly record it in every county in which any portion of the common interest community is located are to be treated as if they had perfected liens on the units immediately before termination or when the lien is obtained and recorded, whichever is later.

(9) In a cooperative, the declaration may provide that all creditors of the association have priority over any interests of unit owners and creditors of unit owners. In that event, upon termination, creditors of the association who obtain a lien and duly record it in every county in which any portion of the cooperative is located are to be treated as if they had perfected liens against the cooperative immediately before termination or when the lien is obtained and recorded, whichever is later. Unless the declaration provides that all creditors of the association have that priority:

(a) The lien of each creditor of the association which was perfected against the association before termination becomes, upon termination, a lien against each unit owner's interest in the unit as of the date the lien was perfected;

(b) Any other creditor of the association who obtains a lien and duly records it in every county in which any portion of the cooperative is located is to be treated upon termination as if the creditor had perfected a lien against each unit owner's interest immediately before termination or when the lien is obtained and recorded, whichever is later;

(c) The amount of the lien of an association's creditor described in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (9) against each unit owner's interest must be proportionate to the ratio which each unit's common expense liability bears to the common expense liability of all of the units;

(d) The lien of each creditor of each unit owner which was perfected before termination continues as a lien against that unit owner's unit as of the date the lien was perfected; and

(e) The assets of the association must be distributed to all unit owners and all lienholders as their interests may appear in the order described above. Creditors of the association are not entitled to payment from any unit owner in excess of the amount of the creditor's lien against that unit owner's interest.

(10) The respective interests of unit owners referred to in subsections (5) to (9) of this section are as follows:

(a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (10), the respective interests of unit owners are the combined fair market values of their units, allocated interests, any limited common elements, and, in the case of a planned community, any tenant in common interest, immediately before the termination, as determined by one or more independent appraisers selected by the association. The decision of the independent appraisers shall be distributed to the unit owners and becomes final unless disapproved within thirty days after distribution by unit owners of units to which twenty-five percent of the votes in the association are allocated. The proportion of any unit owner's interest to that of all unit owners is determined by dividing the fair market value of that unit owner's unit and its allocated interests by the total fair market values of all the units and their allocated interests.

(b) If any unit or any limited common element is destroyed to the extent that an appraisal of the fair market value thereof prior to destruction cannot be made, the interests of all unit owners are:

(I) In a condominium, their respective common element interests immediately before the termination;

(II) In a cooperative, their respective ownership interests immediately before the termination; and

(III) In a planned community, their respective common expense liabilities immediately before the termination.

(11) In a condominium or planned community, except as provided in subsection (12) of this section, foreclosure or enforcement of a lien or encumbrance against the entire common interest community does not terminate, of itself, the common interest community. Foreclosure or enforcement of a lien or encumbrance against a portion of the common interest community other than withdrawable real estate does not withdraw that portion from the common interest community. Foreclosure or enforcement of a lien or encumbrance against withdrawable real estate does not withdraw, of itself, that real estate from the common interest community, but the person taking title thereto may require from the association, upon request, an amendment to the declaration excluding the real estate from the common interest community prepared, executed, and recorded by the association.

(12) In a condominium or planned community, if a lien or encumbrance against a portion of the real estate comprising the common interest community has priority over the declaration and the lien or encumbrance has not been partially released, the parties foreclosing the lien or encumbrance, upon foreclosure, may record an instrument excluding the real estate subject to that lien or encumbrance from the common interest community.

The board of directors shall reallocate interests as if the foreclosed section were taken by eminent domain by an amendment to the declaration prepared, executed, and recorded by the association.

38-33.3-219. Rights of secured lenders. (1) The declaration may require that all or a specified number or percentage of the lenders who hold security interests encumbering the units approve specified actions of the unit owners or the association as a condition to the effectiveness of those actions, but no requirement for approval may operate to:

(a) Deny or delegate control over the general administrative affairs of the association by the unit owners or the executive board; or

(b) Prevent the association or the executive board from commencing, intervening in, or settling any solicitation or proceeding; or

(c) Prevent any insurance trustee or the association from receiving and distributing any insurance proceeds pursuant to section 38-33.3-313.

38-33.3-220. Master associations. (1) If the declaration provides that any of the powers of a unit owners' association described in section 38-33.3-302 are to be exercised by or may be delegated to a master association, all provisions of this article applicable to unit owners' associations apply to any such master association except as modified by this section.

(2) Unless it is acting in the capacity of an association described in section 38-33.3-301, a master association may exercise the powers set forth in section 38-33.3-302 (1) (b) only to the extent such powers are expressly permitted to be exercised by a master association in the declarations of common interest communities which are part of the master association or expressly described in the delegations of power from those common interest communities to the master association.

(3) If the declaration of any common interest community provides that the executive board may delegate certain powers to a master association, the members of the executive board have no liability for the acts or omissions of the master association with respect to those powers following delegation.

(4) The rights and responsibilities of unit owners with respect to the unit owners' association set forth in sections 38-33.3-303, 38-33.3-308, 38-33.3-309, 38-33.3-310, and 38-33.3-312 apply in the conduct of the affairs of a master association only to persons who elect the board of a master association, whether or not those persons are otherwise unit owners within the meaning of this article.

(5) Even if a master association is also an association described in section 38-33.3-301, the articles of incorporation and the declaration of each common interest community, the powers of which are assigned by the declaration or delegated to the master association, must provide that the executive board of the master association be elected after the period of declarant control, if any, in one of the following ways:

(a) All unit owners of all common interest communities subject to the master association may elect all members of the master association's executive board.

(b) All members of the executive boards of all common interest communities subject to the master association may elect all members of the master association's executive board.

(c) All unit owners of each common interest community subject to the master association may elect specified members of the master association's executive board.

(d) All members of the executive board of each common interest community subject to the master association may elect specified members of the master association's executive board.

38-33.3-221. Merger or consolidation of common interest communities. (1) Any two or more common interest communities of the same form of ownership, by agreement of the unit owners as provided in subsection (2) of this section, may be merged or consolidated into a single common interest community. In the event of a merger or consolidation, unless the agreement otherwise provides, the resultant common interest community is the legal successor, for all purposes, of all of the preexisting common interest communities, and the operations and activities of all associations of the preexisting common interest communities are merged or consolidated into a single association that holds all powers, rights, obligations, assets, and liabilities of all preexisting associations.

(2) An agreement of two or more common interest communities to merge or consolidate pursuant to subsection (1) of this section must be evidenced by an agreement prepared, executed, recorded, and certified by the president of the association of each of the preexisting common interest communities following approval by owners of units to which are allocated the percentage of votes in each common interest community required to terminate that common interest community. The agreement must be recorded in every county in which a portion of the common interest community is located and is not effective until recorded.

(3) Every merger or consolidation agreement must provide for the reallocation of the allocated interests in the new association among the units of the resultant common interest community either by stating the reallocations or the formulas upon which they are based.

38-33.3-221.5. Withdrawal from merged common interest community. (1) A common interest community that was merged or consolidated with another common interest community, or is party to an agreement to do so pursuant to section 38-33.3-221, may withdraw from the merged or consolidated common interest community or terminate the agreement to merge or consolidate, without the consent of the other common interest community or communities involved, if the common interest community wishing to withdraw meets all of the following criteria:

- (a) It is a separate, platted subdivision;
  - (b) Its unit owners are required to pay into two common interest communities or separate unit owners' associations;
  - (c) It is or has been a self-operating common interest community or association continuously for at least twenty-five years;
  - (d) The total number of unit owners comprising it is fifteen percent or less of the total number of unit owners in the merged or consolidated common interest community or association;
  - (e) Its unit owners have approved the withdrawal by a majority vote and the owners of units representing at least seventy-five percent of the allocated interests in the common interest community wishing to withdraw participated in the vote; and
  - (f) Its withdrawal would not substantially impair the ability of the remainder of the merged common interest community or association to:
    - (I) Enforce existing covenants;
    - (II) Maintain existing facilities; or
    - (III) Continue to exist.
- (2) If an association has met the requirements set forth in subsection (1) of this section, it shall be considered withdrawn as of the date of the election at which its unit owners voted to withdraw.

38-33.3-222. Addition of unspecified real estate. In a common interest community, if the right is originally reserved in the declaration, the declarant, in addition to any other development right, may amend the declaration at any time during as many years as are specified in the declaration to add additional real estate to the common interest community without describing the location of that real estate in the original declaration; but the area of real estate added to the common interest community pursuant to this section may not exceed ten percent of the total area of real estate described in section 38-33.3-205 (1) (c) and (1) (h), and the declarant may not in any event increase the number of units in the common interest community beyond the number stated in the original declaration pursuant to section 38-33.3-205 (1) (d), except as provided in section 38-33.3-217 (4).

MANAGEMENT OF THE COMMON INTEREST COMMUNITY

38-33.3-301. Organization of unit owners' association. A unit owners' association shall be organized no later than the date the first unit in the common interest community is conveyed to a purchaser. The membership of the association at all times shall consist exclusively of all unit owners or, following termination of the common interest community, of all former unit owners entitled to distributions of proceeds under section 38-33.3-218, or their heirs, personal representatives, successors, or assigns. The association shall be organized as a nonprofit, not-for-profit, or for-profit corporation or as a limited liability company in accordance with the laws of the state of Colorado; except that the failure of the association to incorporate or organize as a limited liability company will not adversely affect either the existence of the common interest community for purposes of this article or the rights of persons acting in reliance upon such existence, other than as specifically provided in section 38-33.3-316. Neither the choice of entity nor the organizational structure of the association shall be deemed to affect its substantive rights and obligations under this article.

38-33.3-302. Powers of unit owners' association. (1) Except as provided in subsections (2) and (3) of this section, and subject to the provisions of the declaration, the association, without specific authorization in the declaration, may:

- (a) Adopt and amend bylaws and rules and regulations;
- (b) Adopt and amend budgets for revenues, expenditures, and reserves and collect assessments for common expenses from unit owners;
- (c) Hire and terminate managing agents and other employees, agents, and independent contractors;
- (d) Institute, defend, or intervene in litigation or administrative proceedings in its own name on behalf of itself or two or more unit owners on matters affecting the common interest community;
- (e) Make contracts and incur liabilities;
- (f) Regulate the use, maintenance, repair, replacement, and modification of common elements;
- (g) Cause additional improvements to be made as a part of the common elements;

(h) Acquire, hold, encumber, and convey in its own name any right, title, or interest to real or personal property, subject to the following exceptions:

(I) Common elements in a condominium or planned community may be conveyed or subjected to a security interest only pursuant to section 38-33.3-312; and

(II) Part of a cooperative may be conveyed, or all or part of a cooperative may be subjected to a security interest, only pursuant to section 38-33.3-312;

(i) Grant easements, leases, licenses, and concessions through or over the common elements;

(j) Impose and receive any payments, fees, or charges for the use, rental, or operation of the common elements other than limited common elements described in section 38-33.3-202 (1) (b) and (1) (d);

(k) Impose charges for late payment of assessments, recover reasonable attorney fees and other legal costs for collection of assessments and other actions to enforce the power of the association, regardless of whether or not suit was initiated, and, after notice and an opportunity to be heard, levy reasonable fines for violations of the declaration, bylaws, and rules and regulations of the association;

(l) Impose reasonable charges for the preparation and recordation of amendments to the declaration or statements of unpaid assessments;

(m) Provide for the indemnification of its officers and executive board and maintain directors' and officers' liability insurance;

(p) Exercise all other powers that may be exercised in this state by legal entities of the same type as the association; and

(q) Exercise any other powers necessary and proper for the governance and operation of the association.

(2) The declaration may not impose limitations on the power of the association to deal with the declarant that are more restrictive than the limitations imposed on the power of the association to deal with other persons.

(3) (a) Any managing agent, employee, independent contractor, or other person acting on behalf of the association shall be subject to this article to the same extent as the association itself would be.

(b) Decisions concerning the approval or denial of a unit owner's application for architectural or landscaping changes shall be made in accordance with standards and procedures set forth in the declaration or in duly adopted rules and regulations or bylaws of the association, and shall not be made arbitrarily or capriciously.

Subsection (1)(d) confers standing upon owner's common interest community association to defend litigation in its own name on behalf of itself or two or more unit owners on matters affecting the common interest community. It does not establish the adequacy as a matter of law of the representation by an association of lot owners belonging to the association who were absent from the underlying action. Because conflicting interests exist between the association and the absent owners, representation was not adequate. When assessing prejudice, the court must consider whether the interests of an absent party are adequately represented by those already a party to the litigation. Clubhouse at Fairway Pines v. Fairway Pines Estates, 214 P.3d 451 (Colo. App. 2008).

38-33.3-303. Executive board members and officers - powers and duties - reserve funds - reserve study - audit. (1) (a) Except as provided in the declaration, the bylaws, or subsection (3) of this section or any other provisions of this article, the executive board may act in all instances on behalf of the association.

(b) Notwithstanding any provision of the declaration or bylaws to the contrary, all members of the executive board shall have available to them all information related to the responsibilities and operation of the association obtained by any other member of the executive board. This information shall include, but is not necessarily limited to, reports of detailed monthly expenditures, contracts to which the association is a party, and copies of communications, reports, and opinions to and from any member of the executive board or any managing agent, attorney, or accountant employed or engaged by the executive board to whom the executive board delegates responsibilities under this article.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2.5) of this section:

(a) If appointed by the declarant, in the performance of their duties, the officers and members of the executive board are required to exercise the care required of fiduciaries of the unit owners.

(b) If not appointed by the declarant, no member of the executive board and no officer shall be liable for actions taken or omissions made in the performance of such member's duties except for wanton and willful acts or omissions.

(2.5) With regard to the investment of reserve funds of the association, the officers and members of the executive board shall be subject to the standards set forth in section 7-128-401, C.R.S.; except that, as used in that section:

(a) "Corporation" or "nonprofit corporation" means the association.

(b) "Director" means a member of the association's executive board.

(c) "Officer" means any person designated as an officer of the association and any person to whom the executive board delegates responsibilities under this article, including, without limitation, a managing agent, attorney, or accountant employed by the executive board.

(3) (a) The executive board may not act on behalf of the association to amend the declaration, to terminate the common interest community, or to elect members of the executive board or determine the qualifications, powers and duties, or terms of office of executive board members, but the executive board may fill vacancies in its membership for the unexpired portion of any term.

(b) Committees of the association shall be appointed pursuant to the governing documents of the association or, if the governing documents contain no applicable provisions, pursuant to section 7-128-206, C.R.S. The person appointed after August 15, 2009, to preside over any such committee shall meet the same qualifications as are required by the governing documents of the association for election or appointment to the executive board of the association.

(4) (a) Within ninety days after adoption of any proposed budget for the common interest community, the executive board shall mail, by ordinary first-class mail, or otherwise deliver a summary of the budget to all the unit owners and shall set a date for a meeting of the unit owners to consider the budget. Such meeting shall occur within a reasonable time after mailing or other delivery of the summary, or as allowed for in the bylaws. The executive board shall give notice to the unit owners of the meeting as allowed for in the bylaws. Unless the declaration requires otherwise, the budget proposed by the executive board does not require approval from the unit owners and it will be deemed approved by the unit owners in the absence of a veto at the noticed meeting by a majority of all unit owners, or if permitted in the declaration, a majority of a class of unit owners, or any larger percentage specified in the declaration, whether or not a quorum is present. In the event that the proposed budget is vetoed, the periodic budget last proposed by the executive board and not vetoed by the unit owners must be continued until a subsequent budget proposed by the executive board is not vetoed by the unit owners.

(b) (I) At the discretion of the executive board or upon request pursuant to subparagraph (II) or (III) of this paragraph (b) as applicable, the books and records of the association shall be subject to an audit, using generally accepted auditing standards, or a review, using statements on standards for accounting and review services, by an independent and qualified person selected by the board. Such person need not be a certified public accountant except in the case of an audit. A person selected to conduct a review shall have at least a basic understanding of the principles of accounting as a result of prior business experience, education above the high school level, or bona fide home study. The audit or review report shall cover the association's financial statements, which shall be prepared using generally accepted accounting principles or the cash or tax basis of accounting.

(II) An audit shall be required under this paragraph (b) only when both of the following conditions are met:

(A) The association has annual revenues or expenditures of at least two hundred fifty thousand dollars; and

(B) An audit is requested by the owners of at least one-third of the units represented by the association.

(III) A review shall be required under this paragraph (b) only when requested by the owners of at least one-third of the units represented by the association.

(IV) Copies of an audit or review under this paragraph (b) shall be made available upon request to any unit owner beginning no later than thirty days after its completion.

(V) Notwithstanding section 38-33.3-117 (1.5) (h), this paragraph (b) shall not apply to an association that includes time-share units, as defined in section 38-33-110 (7).

(5) (a) Subject to subsection (6) of this section:

(I) The declaration, except a declaration for a large planned community, may provide for a period of declarant control of the association, during which period a declarant, or persons designated by such declarant, may appoint and remove the officers and members of the executive board. Regardless of the period of declarant control provided in the declaration, a period of declarant control terminates no later than the earlier of sixty days after conveyance of seventy-five percent of the units that may be created to unit owners other than a declarant, two years after the last conveyance of a unit by the declarant in the ordinary course of business, or two years after any right to add new units was last exercised.

(II) The declaration for a large planned community may provide for a period of declarant control of the association during which period a declarant, or persons designated by such declarant, may appoint and remove the officers and members of the executive board. Regardless of the period of declarant control provided in the declaration, a period of declarant control terminates in a large planned community no later than the earlier of sixty days after conveyance of seventy-five percent of the maximum number of units that may be created under zoning or other governmental development approvals in effect for the large planned community at any given time to unit owners other than a declarant, six years after the last conveyance of a unit by the declarant in the ordinary course of business, or twenty years after recordation of the declaration.

(b) A declarant may voluntarily surrender the right to appoint and remove officers and members of the executive board before termination of the period of declarant control, but, in that event, the declarant may require, for the duration of the period of declarant control, that specified actions of the association or executive board, as described in a recorded instrument executed by the declarant, be approved by the declarant before they become effective.

(c) If a period of declarant control is to terminate in a large planned community pursuant to subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (5), the declarant, or persons designated by the declarant, shall no longer have the right to appoint and remove the officers and members of the executive board unless, prior to the termination date, the association approves an extension of the declarant's ability to appoint and remove no more than a majority of the executive board by vote of a majority of the votes entitled to be cast in person or by proxy, other than by the declarant, at a meeting duly convened as required by law. Any such approval by the association may contain conditions and limitations. Such extension of declarant's appointment and removal power, together with any conditions and limitations approved as provided in this paragraph (c), shall be included in an amendment to the declaration previously executed by the declarant.

(6) Not later than sixty days after conveyance of twenty-five percent of the units that may be created to unit owners other than a declarant, at least one member and not less than twenty-five percent of the members of the executive board must be elected by unit owners other than the declarant. Not later than sixty days after conveyance of fifty percent of the units that may be created to unit owners other than a declarant, not less than thirty-three and one-third percent of the members of the executive board must be elected by unit owners other than the declarant.

(7) Except as otherwise provided in section 38-33.3-220 (5), not later than the termination of any period of declarant control, the unit owners shall elect an executive board of at least three members, at least a majority of whom must be unit owners other than the declarant or designated representatives of unit owners other than the declarant. The executive board shall elect the officers. The executive board members and officers shall take office upon election.

(8) Notwithstanding any provision of the declaration or bylaws to the contrary, the unit owners, by a vote of sixty-seven percent of all persons present and entitled to vote at any meeting of the unit owners at which a quorum is present, may remove any member of the executive board with or without cause, other than a member appointed by the declarant or a member elected pursuant to a class vote under section 38-33.3-207 (4).

(9) Within sixty days after the unit owners other than the declarant elect a majority of the members of the executive board, the declarant shall deliver to the association all property of the unit owners and of the association held by or controlled by the declarant, including without limitation the following items:

(a) The original or a certified copy of the recorded declaration as amended, the association's articles of incorporation, if the association is incorporated, bylaws, minute books, other books and records, and any rules and regulations which may have been promulgated;

(b) An accounting for association funds and financial statements, from the date the association received funds and ending on the date the period of declarant control ends. The financial statements shall be audited by an independent certified public accountant and shall be accompanied by the accountant's letter, expressing either the opinion that the financial statements present fairly the financial position of the association in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles or a disclaimer of the accountant's ability to attest to the fairness of the presentation of the financial information in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles and the reasons therefor. The expense of the audit shall not be paid for or charged to the association.

(c) The association funds or control thereof;

(d) All of the declarant's tangible personal property that has been represented by the declarant to be the property of the association or all of the declarant's tangible personal property that is necessary for, and has been used exclusively in, the operation and enjoyment of the common elements, and inventories of these properties;

(e) A copy, for the nonexclusive use by the association, of any plans and specifications used in the construction of the improvements in the common interest community;

(f) All insurance policies then in force, in which the unit owners, the association, or its directors and officers are named as insured persons;

(g) Copies of any certificates of occupancy that may have been issued with respect to any improvements comprising the common interest community;

(h) Any other permits issued by governmental bodies applicable to the common interest community and which are currently in force or which were issued within one year prior to the date on which unit owners other than the declarant took control of the association;

(i) Written warranties of the contractor, subcontractors, suppliers, and manufacturers that are still effective;

(j) A roster of unit owners and mortgagees and their addresses and telephone numbers, if known, as shown on the declarant's records;

(k) Employment contracts in which the association is a contracting party;

(l) Any service contract in which the association is a contracting party or in which the association or the unit owners have any obligation to pay a fee to the persons performing the services; and

(m) For large planned communities, copies of all recorded deeds and all recorded and unrecorded leases evidencing ownership or leasehold rights of the large planned community unit owners' association in all common elements within the large planned community.

38-33.3-303.5. Construction defect actions - disclosure. (1) (a) In the event the executive board, pursuant to section 38-33.3-302 (1) (d), institutes an action asserting defects in the construction of five or more units, the provisions of this section shall apply. For purposes of this section, "action" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 13-20-803 (1), C.R.S.

(b) The executive board shall substantially comply with the provisions of this section.

(2) (a) Prior to the service of the summons and complaint on any defendant with respect to an action governed by this section, the executive board shall mail or deliver written notice of the commencement or anticipated commencement of such action to each unit owner at the last known address described in the association's records.

(b) The notice required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) shall state a general description of the following:

(I) The nature of the action and the relief sought; and

(II) The expenses and fees that the executive board anticipates will be incurred in prosecuting the action.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed to:

(a) Require the disclosure in the notice or the disclosure to a unit owner of attorney-client communications or other privileged communications;

(b) Permit the notice to serve as a basis for any person to assert the waiver of any applicable privilege or right of confidentiality resulting from, or to claim immunity in connection with, the disclosure of information in the notice; or

(c) Limit or impair the authority of the executive board to contract for legal services, or limit or impair the ability to enforce such a contract for legal services.

Source: L. 2001: Entire section added, p. 390, § 3, effective August 8.

38-33.3-304. Transfer of special declarant rights. (1) A special declarant right created or reserved under this article may be transferred only by an instrument evidencing the transfer recorded in every county in which any portion of the common interest community is located. The instrument is not effective unless executed by the transferee.

(2) Upon transfer of any special declarant right, the liability of a transferor declarant is as follows:

(a) A transferor is not relieved of any obligation or liability arising before the transfer and remains liable for warranty obligations imposed upon such transferor by this article. Lack of privity does not deprive any unit owner of standing to bring an action to enforce any obligation of the transferor.

(b) If a successor to any special declarant right is an affiliate of a declarant, the transferor is jointly and severally liable with the successor for the liabilities and obligations of the successor which relate to the common interest community.

(c) If a transferor retains any special declarant rights but transfers other special declarant rights to a successor who is not an affiliate of the declarant, the transferor is liable for any obligations or liabilities imposed on a declarant by this article or by the declaration relating to the retained special declarant rights and arising after the transfer.

(d) A transferor has no liability for any act or omission or any breach of a contractual or warranty obligation arising from the exercise of a special declarant right by a successor declarant who is not an affiliate of the transferor.

(3) Unless otherwise provided in a mortgage instrument, deed of trust, or other agreement creating a security interest, in case of foreclosure of a security interest, sale by a trustee under an agreement creating a security interest, tax sale, judicial sale, or sale under bankruptcy or receivership proceedings of any units owned by a declarant or real estate in a common interest community subject to development rights, a person acquiring title to all the property being foreclosed or sold succeeds to only those special declarant rights related to that property held by that declarant which are specified in a written instrument prepared, executed, and recorded by such person at or about the same time as the judgment or instrument or by which such person obtained title to all of the property being foreclosed or sold.

(4) Upon foreclosure of a security interest, sale by a trustee under an agreement creating a security interest, tax sale, judicial sale, or sale under bankruptcy act or receivership proceedings of all interests in a common interest community owned by a declarant:

(a) The declarant ceases to have any special declarant rights; and

(b) The period of declarant control terminates unless the instrument which is required by subsection (3) of this section to be prepared, executed, and recorded at or about the same time as the judgment or instrument conveying title provides for transfer of all special declarant rights to a successor declarant.

(5) The liabilities and obligations of persons who succeed to special declarant rights are as follows:

(a) A successor to any special declarant right who is an affiliate of a declarant is subject to all obligations and liabilities imposed on any declarant by this article or by the declaration.

(b) A successor to any special declarant right, other than a successor described in paragraph (c) or (d) of this subsection (5) or a successor who is an affiliate of a declarant, is subject to all obligations and liabilities imposed by this article or the declaration:

(I) On a declarant which relate to the successor's exercise or nonexercise of special declarant rights; or

(II) On the declarant's transferor, other than:

(A) Misrepresentations by any previous declarant;

(B) Warranty obligations on improvements made by any previous declarant or made before the common interest community was created;

(C) Breach of any fiduciary obligation by any previous declarant or such declarant's appointees to the executive board; or

(D) Any liability or obligation imposed on the transferor as a result of the transferor's acts or omissions after the transfer.

(c) A successor to only a right reserved in the declaration to maintain models, sales offices, and signs, if such successor is not an affiliate of a declarant, may not exercise any other special declarant right and is not subject to any liability or obligation as a declarant.

(d) A successor to all special declarant rights held by a transferor who succeeded to those rights pursuant to the instrument prepared, executed, and recorded by such person pursuant to the provisions of subsection (3) of this section may declare such successor's intention in such recorded instrument to hold those rights solely for transfer to another person. Thereafter, until transferring all special declarant rights to any person acquiring title to any unit or real estate subject to development rights owned by the successor or until recording an instrument permitting exercise of all those rights, that successor may not exercise any of those rights other than the right held by such successor's transferor to control the executive board in accordance with the provisions of section 38-33.3-303 (5) for the duration of any period of declarant control, and any attempted exercise of those rights is void. So long as a successor declarant may not exercise special declarant rights under this subsection (5), such successor declarant is not subject to any liability or obligation as a declarant, other than liability for the successor's acts and omissions under section 38-33.3-303 (4).

(6) Nothing in this section subjects any successor to a special declarant right to any claims against or other obligations of a transferor declarant, other than claims and obligations arising under this article or the declaration.

38-33.3-305. Termination of contracts and leases of declarant. (1) The following contracts and leases, if entered into before the executive board elected by the unit owners pursuant to section 38-33.3-303 (7) takes office, may be terminated without penalty by the association, at any time after the executive board elected by the unit owners pursuant to section 38-33.3-303 (7) takes office, upon not less than ninety days' notice to the other party:

(a) Any management contract, employment contract, or lease of recreational or parking areas or facilities;

(b) Any other contract or lease between the association and a declarant or an affiliate of a declarant; or

(c) Any contract or lease that is not bona fide or was unconscionable to the unit owners at the time entered into under the circumstances then prevailing.

(2) Subsection (1) of this section does not apply to any lease the termination of which would terminate the common interest community or reduce its size, unless the real estate subject to that lease was included in the common interest community for the purpose of avoiding the right of the association to terminate a lease under this section or a proprietary lease.

38-33.3-306. Bylaws. (1) In addition to complying with applicable sections, if any, of the "Colorado Business Corporation Act", articles 101 to 117 of title 7, C.R.S., or the "Colorado Revised Nonprofit Corporation Act", articles 121 to 137 of title 7, C.R.S., if the common interest community is organized pursuant thereto, the bylaws of the association must provide:

(a) The number of members of the executive board and the titles of the officers of the association;

(b) Election by the executive board of a president, a treasurer, a secretary, and any other officers of the association the bylaws specify;

(c) The qualifications, powers and duties, and terms of office of, and manner of electing and removing, executive board members and officers and the manner of filling vacancies;

(d) Which, if any, of its powers the executive board or officers may delegate to other persons or to a managing agent;

(e) Which of its officers may prepare, execute, certify, and record amendments to the declaration on behalf of the association; and

(f) A method for amending the bylaws.

(2) Subject to the provisions of the declaration, the bylaws may provide for any other matters the association deems necessary and appropriate.

(3) (a) If an association with thirty or more units delegates powers of the executive board or officers relating to collection, deposit, transfer, or disbursement of association funds to other persons or to a managing agent, the bylaws of the association shall require the following:

(I) That the other persons or managing agent maintain fidelity insurance coverage or a bond in an amount not less than fifty thousand dollars or such higher amount as the executive board may require;

(II) That the other persons or managing agent maintain all funds and accounts of the association separate from the funds and accounts of other associations managed by the other persons or managing agent and maintain all reserve accounts of each association so managed separate from operational accounts of the association;

(III) That an annual accounting for association funds and a financial statement be prepared and presented to the association by the managing agent, a public accountant, or a certified public accountant.

(b) Repealed.

38-33.3-307. Upkeep of the common interest community. (1) Except to the extent provided by the declaration, subsection (2) of this section, or section 38-33.3-313 (9), the association is responsible for maintenance, repair, and replacement of the common elements, and each unit owner is responsible for maintenance, repair, and replacement of such owner's unit. Each unit owner shall afford to the association and the other unit owners, and to their agents or employees, access through such owner's unit reasonably necessary for those purposes. If damage is inflicted, or a strong likelihood exists that it will be inflicted, on the common elements or any unit through which access is taken, the unit owner responsible for the damage, or expense to avoid damage, or the association if it is responsible, is liable for the cost of prompt repair.

(1.5) Maintenance, repair, or replacement of any drainage structure or facilities, or other public improvements required by the local governmental entity as a condition of development of the common interest community or any part thereof shall be the responsibility of the association, unless such improvements have been dedicated to and accepted by the local governmental entity for the purpose of maintenance, repair, or replacement or unless such maintenance, repair, or replacement has been authorized by law to be performed by a special district or other municipal or quasi-municipal entity.

(2) In addition to the liability that a declarant as a unit owner has under this article, the declarant alone is liable for all expenses in connection with real estate within the common interest community subject to development rights. No other unit owner and no other portion of the common interest community is subject to a claim for payment of those expenses. Unless the declaration provides otherwise, any income or proceeds from real estate subject to development rights inures to the declarant. If the declarant fails to pay all expenses in connection with real estate within the common interest community subject to development rights, the association may pay such expenses, and such expenses shall be assessed as a common expense against the real estate subject to development rights, and the association may enforce the assessment pursuant to section 38-33.3-316 by treating such real estate as if it were a unit. If the association acquires title to the real estate subject to the development rights through foreclosure or otherwise, the development rights shall not be extinguished thereby, and, thereafter, the association may succeed to any special declarant rights specified in a written instrument prepared, executed, and recorded by the association in accordance with the requirements of section 38-33.3-304 (3).

(3) In a planned community, if all development rights have expired with respect to any real estate, the declarant remains liable for all expenses of that real estate unless, upon expiration, the declaration provides that the real estate becomes common elements or units.

38-33.3-308. Meetings. (1) Meetings of the unit owners, as the members of the association, shall be held at least once each year. Special meetings of the unit owners may be called by the president, by a majority of the executive board, or by unit owners having twenty percent, or any lower percentage specified in the bylaws, of the votes in the association. Not less than ten nor more than fifty days in advance of any meeting of the unit owners, the secretary or other officer specified in the bylaws shall cause notice to be hand delivered or sent prepaid by United States mail to the mailing address of each unit or to any other mailing address designated in writing by the unit owner. The notice of any meeting of the unit owners shall be physically posted in a conspicuous place, to the extent that such posting is feasible and practicable, in addition to any electronic posting or electronic mail notices that may be given pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section. The notice shall state the time and place of the meeting and the items on the agenda, including the general nature of any proposed amendment to the declaration or bylaws, any budget changes, and any proposal to remove an officer or member of the executive board.

(2) (a) All regular and special meetings of the association's executive board, or any committee thereof, shall be open to attendance by all members of the association or their representatives. Agendas for meetings of the executive board shall be made reasonably available for examination by all members of the association or their representatives.

(b) (I) The association is encouraged to provide all notices and agendas required by this article in electronic form, by posting on a web site or otherwise, in addition to printed form. If such electronic means are available, the association shall provide notice of all regular and special meetings of unit owners by electronic mail to all unit owners who so request and who furnish the association with their electronic mail addresses. Electronic notice of a special meeting shall be given as soon as possible but at least twenty-four hours before the meeting.

(II) Notwithstanding section 38-33.3-117 (1.5) (i), this paragraph (b) shall not apply to an association that includes time-share units, as defined in section 38-33-110 (7), C.R.S.

(2.5) (a) Notwithstanding any provision in the declaration, bylaws, or other documents to the contrary, all meetings of the association and board of directors are open to every unit owner of the association, or to any person designated by a unit owner in writing as the unit owner's representative.

(b) At an appropriate time determined by the board, but before the board votes on an issue under discussion, unit owners or their designated representatives shall be permitted to speak regarding that issue. The board may place reasonable time restrictions on persons speaking during the meeting. If more than one person desires to address an issue and there are opposing views, the board shall provide for a reasonable number of persons to speak on each side of the issue.

(c) Notwithstanding section 38-33.3-117 (1.5) (i), this subsection (2.5) shall not apply to an association that includes time-share units, as defined in section 38-33-110 (7).

(3) The members of the executive board or any committee thereof may hold an executive or closed door session and may restrict attendance to executive board members and such other persons requested by the executive board during a regular or specially announced meeting or a part thereof. The matters to be discussed at such an executive session shall include only matters enumerated in paragraphs (a) to (f) of subsection (4) of this section.

(4) Matters for discussion by an executive or closed session are limited to:

(a) Matters pertaining to employees of the association or the managing agent's contract or involving the employment, promotion, discipline, or dismissal of an officer, agent, or employee of the association;

(b) Consultation with legal counsel concerning disputes that are the subject of pending or imminent court proceedings or matters that are privileged or confidential between attorney and client;

(c) Investigative proceedings concerning possible or actual criminal misconduct;

(d) Matters subject to specific constitutional, statutory, or judicially imposed requirements protecting particular proceedings or matters from public disclosure;

(e) Any matter the disclosure of which would constitute an unwarranted invasion of individual privacy;

(f) Review of or discussion relating to any written or oral communication from legal counsel.

(4.5) Upon the final resolution of any matter for which the board received legal advice or that concerned pending or contemplated litigation, the board may elect to preserve the attorney-client privilege in any appropriate manner, or it may elect to disclose such information, as it deems appropriate, about such matter in an open meeting.

(5) Prior to the time the members of the executive board or any committee thereof convene in executive session, the chair of the body shall announce the general matter of discussion as enumerated in paragraphs (a) to (f) of subsection (4) of this section.

(6) No rule or regulation of the board or any committee thereof shall be adopted during an executive session. A rule or regulation may be validly adopted only during a regular or special meeting or after the body goes back into regular session following an executive session.

(7) The minutes of all meetings at which an executive session was held shall indicate that an executive session was held and the general subject matter of the executive session.

38-33.3-309. Quorums. (1) Unless the bylaws provide otherwise, a quorum is deemed present throughout any meeting of the association if persons entitled to cast twenty percent, or, in the case of an association with over one thousand unit owners, ten percent, of the votes which may be cast for election of the executive board are present, in person or by proxy at the beginning of the meeting.

(2) Unless the bylaws specify a larger percentage, a quorum is deemed present throughout any meeting of the executive board if persons entitled to cast fifty percent of the votes on that board are present at the beginning of the meeting or grant their proxy, as provided in section 7-128-205 (4), C.R.S.

38-33.3-310. Voting - proxies. (1) (a) If only one of the multiple owners of a unit is present at a meeting of the association, such owner is entitled to cast all the votes allocated to that unit. If more than one of the multiple owners are present, the votes allocated to that unit may be cast only in accordance with the agreement of a majority in interest of the owners, unless the declaration expressly provides otherwise. There is majority agreement if any one of the multiple owners casts the votes allocated to that unit without protest being made promptly to the person presiding over the meeting by any of the other owners of the unit.

(b) (I) (A) Votes for contested positions on the executive board shall be taken by secret ballot. This sub-subparagraph (A) shall not apply to an association whose governing documents provide for election of positions on the executive board by delegates on behalf of the unit owners.

(B) At the discretion of the board or upon the request of twenty percent of the unit owners who are present at the meeting or represented by proxy, if a quorum has been achieved, a vote on any matter affecting the common interest community on which all unit owners are entitled to vote shall be by secret ballot.

(C) Ballots shall be counted by a neutral third party or by a committee of volunteers. Such volunteers shall be unit owners who are selected or appointed at an open meeting, in a fair manner, by the chair of the board or another person presiding during that portion of the meeting. The volunteers shall not be board members and, in the case of a contested election for a board position, shall not be candidates.

(D) The results of a vote taken by secret ballot shall be reported without reference to the names, addresses, or other identifying information of unit owners participating in such vote.

(II) Notwithstanding section 38-33.3-117 (1.5) (j), this paragraph (b) shall not apply to an association that includes time-share units, as defined in section 38-33-110 (7).

(2) (a) Votes allocated to a unit may be cast pursuant to a proxy duly executed by a unit owner. A proxy shall not be valid if obtained through fraud or misrepresentation. Unless otherwise provided in the declaration, bylaws, or rules of the association, appointment of proxies may be made substantially as provided in section 7-127-203, C.R.S.

(b) If a unit is owned by more than one person, each owner of the unit may vote or register protest to the casting of votes by the other owners of the unit through a duly executed proxy. A unit owner may not revoke a proxy given pursuant to this section except by actual notice of revocation to the person presiding over a meeting of the association. A proxy is void if it is not dated or purports to be revocable without notice. A proxy terminates eleven months after its date, unless it provides otherwise.

(c) The association is entitled to reject a vote, consent, written ballot, waiver, proxy appointment, or proxy appointment revocation if the secretary or other officer or agent authorized to tabulate votes, acting in good faith, has reasonable basis for doubt about the validity of the signature on it or about the signatory's authority to sign for the unit owner.

(d) The association and its officer or agent who accepts or rejects a vote, consent, written ballot, waiver, proxy appointment, or proxy appointment revocation in good faith and in accordance with the standards of this section are not liable in damages for the consequences of the acceptance or rejection.

(e) Any action of the association based on the acceptance or rejection of a vote, consent, written ballot, waiver, proxy appointment, or proxy appointment revocation under this section is valid unless a court of competent jurisdiction determines otherwise.

(3) (a) If the declaration requires that votes on specified matters affecting the common interest community be cast by lessees rather than unit owners of leased units:

(I) The provisions of subsections (1) and (2) of this section apply to lessees as if they were unit owners;

(II) Unit owners who have leased their units to other persons may not cast votes on those specified matters; and

(III) Lessees are entitled to notice of meetings, access to records, and other rights respecting those matters as if they were unit owners.

(b) Unit owners must also be given notice, in the manner provided in section 38-33.3-308, of all meetings at which lessees are entitled to vote.

(4) No votes allocated to a unit owned by the association may be cast.

38-33.3-310.5. Executive board - conflicts of interest - definitions. (1) Section 7-128-501, C.R.S., shall apply to members of the executive board; except that, as used in that section:

(a) "Corporation" or "nonprofit corporation" means the association.

(b) "Director" means a member of the association's executive board.

(c) "Officer" means any person designated as an officer of the association and any person to whom the board delegates responsibilities under this article, including, without limitation, a managing agent, attorney, or accountant employed by the board.

38-33.3-311. Tort and contract liability. (1) Neither the association nor any unit owner except the declarant is liable for any cause of action based upon that declarant's acts or omissions in connection with any part of the common interest community which that declarant has the responsibility to maintain. Otherwise, any action alleging an act or omission by the association must be brought against the association and not against any unit owner. If the act or omission occurred during any period of declarant control and the association gives the declarant reasonable notice of and an opportunity to defend against the action, the declarant who then controlled the association is liable to the association or to any unit owner for all tort losses not covered by insurance suffered by the association or that unit owner and all costs that the association would not have incurred but for such act or omission. Whenever the declarant is liable to the association under this section, the declarant is also liable for all expenses of litigation, including reasonable attorney fees, incurred by the association. Any statute of limitation affecting the association's right of action under this section is tolled until the period of declarant control terminates. A unit owner is not precluded from maintaining an action contemplated by this section by being a unit owner or a member or officer of the association.

(2) The declarant is liable to the association for all funds of the association collected during the period of declarant control which were not properly expended.

ANNOTATION

Subsection (1) does not establish the adequacy as a matter of law of the representation by a common interest community association of lot owners belonging to the association who were absent from the underlying action. Because conflicting interests exist between the association and the absent owners, representation was not adequate. When assessing prejudice, the court must consider whether the interests of an absent party are adequately represented by those already a party to the litigation. Clubhouse at Fairway Pines v. Fairway Pines Estates, 214 P.3d 451 (Colo. App. 2008).

38-33.3-312. Conveyance or encumbrance of common elements. (1) In a condominium or planned community, portions of the common elements may be conveyed or subjected to a security interest by the association if persons entitled to cast at least sixty-seven percent of the votes in the association, including sixty-seven percent of the votes allocated to units not owned by a declarant, or any larger percentage the declaration specifies, agree to that action; except that all owners of units to which any limited common element is allocated must agree in order to convey that limited common element or subject it to a security interest. The declaration may specify a smaller percentage only if all of the units are restricted exclusively to nonresidential uses. Proceeds of the sale are an asset of the association.

(2) Part of a cooperative may be conveyed and all or part of a cooperative may be subjected to a security interest by the association if persons entitled to cast at least sixty-seven percent of the votes in the association, including sixty-seven percent of the votes allocated to units not owned by a declarant, or any larger percentage the declaration specifies, agree to that action; except that, if fewer than all of the units or limited common elements are to be conveyed or subjected to a security interest, then all unit owners of those units, or the units to which those limited common elements are allocated, must agree in order to convey those units or limited common elements or subject them to a security interest. The declaration may specify a smaller percentage only if all of the units are restricted exclusively to nonresidential uses. Proceeds of the sale are an asset of the association. Any purported conveyance or other voluntary transfer of an entire cooperative, unless made in compliance with section 38-33.3-218, is void.

(3) An agreement to convey, or subject to a security interest, common elements in a condominium or planned community, or, in a cooperative, an agreement to convey, or subject to a security interest, any part of a cooperative, must be evidenced by the execution of an agreement, in the same manner as a deed, by the association. The agreement must specify a date after which the agreement will be void unless approved by the requisite percentage of owners. Any grant, conveyance, or deed executed by the association must be recorded in every county in which a portion of the common interest community is situated and is effective only upon recordation.

(4) The association, on behalf of the unit owners, may contract to convey an interest in a common interest community pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, but the contract is not enforceable against the association until approved pursuant to subsections (1) and (2) of this section and executed and ratified pursuant to subsection (3) of this section. Thereafter, the association has all powers necessary and appropriate to effect the conveyance or encumbrance, including the power to execute deeds or other instruments.

(5) Unless in compliance with this section, any purported conveyance, encumbrance, judicial sale, or other transfer of common elements or any other part of a cooperative is void.

(6) A conveyance or encumbrance of common elements pursuant to this section shall not deprive any unit of its rights of ingress and egress of the unit and support of the unit.

(7) Unless the declaration otherwise provides, a conveyance or encumbrance of common elements pursuant to this section does not affect the priority or validity of preexisting encumbrances.

(8) In a cooperative, the association may acquire, hold, encumber, or convey a proprietary lease without complying with this section.

ANNOTATION

Subsection (3) requires that, when requisite number of unit owners approve the sale of new units, such approval be executed as a written agreement demonstrating that association has authority to enter into contracts to sell the new units. Nothing in the record shows that the unit owners executed any type of agreement approving the sale of new units. Platt v. Aspenwood Condo. Ass'n, 214 P.3d 1060 (Colo. App. 2009).

“Contract” referred to in subsection (4) must be ratified by the unit owners to be enforceable. Subsection (4) allows an association to enter into a contract but requires ratification for the contract to be enforceable. Association could enter into a contract but it could not also ratify the contract; therefore, the unit owners were required to ratify the contract to render it enforceable. Platt v. Aspenwood Condo. Ass'n, 214 P.3d 1060 (Colo. App. 2009).

Under subsection (5), a “purported conveyance”, not “the agreement to convey” or “the contract”, is void for noncompliance with subsections (1) through (4). Although plaintiffs entered into contract to purchase new condominium unit, the unit was not conveyed to them; therefore, because the contract was not ratified by the unit owners, it was unenforceable, and the plaintiffs specific performance claim cannot stand. Platt v. Aspenwood Condo. Ass'n, 214 P.3d 1060 (Colo. App. 2009).

Trial court erred in dismissing plaintiffs’ breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing claim, because subsection (5) pertains to conveyances and not to the contract. Platt v. Aspenwood Condo. Ass'n, 214 P.3d 1060 (Colo. App. 2009).

Contract for sale of condominium unit is not void under subsection (5). Because contract was not ratified by the unit owners, it is unenforceable, and purchasers’ specific performance claim cannot stand. Nothing in the record shows that unit owners executed any type of agreement approving the sale of two new units. Reading subsections (3) and (4) together, “contract” referred to in subsection (4) must be ratified by the unit owners to render it enforceable. Moreover, subsection (5) pertains to conveyances and not to the contract. Although purchasers entered into contract to purchase a new condominium unit, the unit was not conveyed to them. Thus, subsection (5) was not triggered. Platt v. Aspenwood Condo. Ass'n, 214 P.3d 1060 (Colo. App. 2009).

38-33.3-313. Insurance. (1) Commencing not later than the time of the first conveyance of a unit to a person other than a declarant, the association shall maintain, to the extent reasonably available:

(a) Property insurance on the common elements and, in a planned community, also on property that must become common elements, for broad form covered causes of loss; except that the total amount of insurance must be not less than the full insurable replacement cost of the insured property less applicable deductibles at the time the insurance is purchased and at each renewal date, exclusive of land, excavations, foundations, and other items normally excluded from property policies; and

(b) Commercial general liability insurance against claims and liabilities arising in connection with the ownership, existence, use, or management of the common elements, and, in cooperatives, also of all units, in an amount, if any, specified by the common interest community instruments or otherwise deemed sufficient in the judgment of the executive board but not less than any amount specified in the association documents, insuring the executive board, the unit owners' association, the management agent, and their respective employees, agents, and all persons acting as agents. The declarant shall be included as an additional insured in such declarant's capacity as a unit owner and board member. The unit owners shall be included as additional insureds but only for claims and liabilities arising in connection with the ownership, existence, use, or management of the common elements and, in cooperatives, also of all units. The insurance shall cover claims of one or more insured parties against other insured parties.

(2) In the case of a building that is part of a cooperative or that contains units having horizontal boundaries described in the declaration, the insurance maintained under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section must include the units but not the finished interior surfaces of the walls, floors, and ceilings of the units. The insurance need not include improvements and betterments installed by unit owners, but if they are covered, any increased charge shall be assessed by the association to those owners.

(3) If the insurance described in subsections (1) and (2) of this section is not reasonably available, or if any policy of such insurance is cancelled or not renewed without a replacement policy therefore having been obtained, the association promptly shall cause notice of that fact to be hand delivered or sent prepaid by United States mail to all unit owners. The declaration may require the association to carry any other insurance, and the association in any event may carry any other insurance it considers appropriate, including insurance on units it is not obligated to insure, to protect the association or the unit owners.

(4) Insurance policies carried pursuant to subsections (1) and (2) of this section must provide that:

(a) Each unit owner is an insured person under the policy with respect to liability arising out of such unit owner's interest in the common elements or membership in the association;

(b) The insurer waives its rights to subrogation under the policy against any unit owner or member of his household;

(c) No act or omission by any unit owner, unless acting within the scope of such unit owner's authority on behalf of the association, will void the policy or be a condition to recovery under the policy; and

(d) If, at the time of a loss under the policy, there is other insurance in the name of a unit owner covering the same risk covered by the policy, the association's policy provides primary insurance.

(5) Any loss covered by the property insurance policy described in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) and subsection (2) of this section must be adjusted with the association, but the insurance proceeds for that loss shall be payable to any insurance trustee designated for that purpose, or otherwise to the association, and not to any holder of a security interest. The insurance trustee or the association shall hold any insurance proceeds in trust for the association unit owners and lienholders as their interests may appear. Subject to the provisions of subsection (9) of this section, the proceeds must be disbursed first for the repair or restoration of the damaged property, and the association, unit owners, and lienholders are not entitled to receive payment of any portion of the proceeds unless there is a surplus of proceeds after the property has been completely repaired or restored or the common interest community is terminated.

(6) The association may adopt and establish written nondiscriminatory policies and procedures relating to the submittal of claims, responsibility for deductibles, and any other matters of claims adjustment. To the extent the association settles claims for damages to real property, it shall have the authority to assess negligent unit owners causing such loss or benefiting from such repair or restoration all deductibles paid by the association. In the event that more than one unit is damaged by a loss, the association in its reasonable discretion may assess each unit owner a pro rata share of any deductible paid by the association.

(7) An insurance policy issued to the association does not obviate the need for unit owners to obtain insurance for their own benefit.

(8) An insurer that has issued an insurance policy for the insurance described in subsections (1) and (2) of this section shall issue certificates or memoranda of insurance to the association and, upon request, to any unit owner or holder of a security interest. Unless otherwise provided by statute, the insurer issuing the policy may not cancel or refuse to renew it until thirty days after notice of the proposed cancellation or nonrenewal has been mailed to the association, and each unit owner and holder of a security interest to whom a certificate or memorandum of insurance has been issued, at their respective last-known addresses.

(9) (a) Any portion of the common interest community for which insurance is required under this section which is damaged or destroyed must be repaired or replaced promptly by the association unless:

(I) The common interest community is terminated, in which case section 38-33.3-218 applies;

(II) Repair or replacement would be illegal under any state or local statute or ordinance governing health or safety;

(III) Sixty-seven percent of the unit owners, including every owner of a unit or assigned limited common element that will not be rebuilt, vote not to rebuild; or

(IV) Prior to the conveyance of any unit to a person other than the declarant, the holder of a deed of trust or mortgage on the damaged portion of the common interest community rightfully demands all or a substantial part of the insurance proceeds.

(b) The cost of repair or replacement in excess of insurance proceeds and reserves is a common expense. If the entire common interest community is not repaired or replaced, the insurance proceeds attributable to the damaged common elements must be used to restore the damaged area to a condition compatible with the remainder of the common interest community, and, except to the extent that other persons will be distributees, the insurance proceeds attributable to units and limited common elements that are not rebuilt must be distributed to the owners of those units and the owners of the units to which those limited common elements were allocated, or to lienholders, as their interests may appear, and the remainder of the proceeds must be distributed to all the unit owners or lienholders, as their interests may appear, as follows:

(I) In a condominium, in proportion to the common element interests of all the units; and

(II) In a cooperative or planned community, in proportion to the common expense liabilities of all the units; except that, in a fixed or limited equity cooperative, the unit owner may not receive more of the proceeds than would satisfy the unit owner's entitlements under the declaration if the unit owner leaves the cooperative. In such a cooperative, the proceeds that remain after satisfying the unit owner's obligations continue to be held in trust by the association for the benefit of the cooperative. If the unit owners vote not to rebuild any unit, that unit's allocated interests are automatically reallocated upon the vote as if the unit had been condemned under section 38-33.3-107, and the association promptly shall prepare, execute, and record an amendment to the declaration reflecting the reallocations.

(10) If any unit owner or employee of an association with thirty or more units controls or disburses funds of the common interest community, the association must obtain and maintain, to the extent reasonably available, fidelity insurance. Coverage shall not be less in aggregate than two months' current assessments plus reserves, as calculated from the current budget of the association.

(11) Any person employed as an independent contractor by an association with thirty or more units for the purposes of managing a common interest community must obtain and maintain fidelity insurance in an amount not less than the amount specified in subsection

(10) of this section, unless the association names such person as an insured employee in a contract of fidelity insurance, pursuant to subsection (10) of this section.

(12) The association may carry fidelity insurance in amounts greater than required in subsection (10) of this section and may require any independent contractor employed for the purposes of managing a common interest community to carry more fidelity insurance coverage than required in subsection (10) of this section.

(13) Premiums for insurance that the association acquires and other expenses connected with acquiring such insurance are common expenses.

38-33.3-314. Surplus funds. Unless otherwise provided in the declaration, any surplus funds of the association remaining after payment of or provision for common expenses and any prepayment of or provision for reserves shall be paid to the unit owners in proportion to their common expense liabilities or credited to them to reduce their future common expense assessments.

Source: L. 91: Entire article added, p. 1752, § 1, effective July 1, 1992. L. 93: Entire section amended, p. 652, § 19, effective April 30.

38-33.3-315. Assessments for common expenses. (1) Until the association makes a common expense assessment, the declarant shall pay all common expenses. After any assessment has been made by the association, assessments shall be made no less frequently than annually and shall be based on a budget adopted no less frequently than annually by the association.

(2) Except for assessments under subsections (3) and (4) of this section and section 38-33.3-207 (4) (a) (IV), all common expenses shall be assessed against all the units in accordance with the allocations set forth in the declaration pursuant to section 38-33.3-207 (1) and (2). Any past-due common expense assessment or installment thereof shall bear interest at the rate established by the association not exceeding twenty-one percent per year.

(3) To the extent required by the declaration:

(a) Any common expense associated with the maintenance, repair, or replacement of a limited common element shall be assessed against the units to which that limited common element is assigned, equally, or in any other proportion the declaration provides;

(b) Any common expense or portion thereof benefiting fewer than all of the units shall be assessed exclusively against the units benefited; and

(c) The costs of insurance shall be assessed in proportion to risk, and the costs of utilities shall be assessed in proportion to usage.

(4) If any common expense is caused by the misconduct of any unit owner, the association may assess that expense exclusively against such owner's unit.

(5) If common expense liabilities are reallocated, common expense assessments and any installment thereof not yet due shall be recalculated in accordance with the reallocated common expense liabilities.

(6) Each unit owner is liable for assessments made against such owner's unit during the period of ownership of such unit. No unit owner may be exempt from liability for payment of the assessments by waiver of the use or enjoyment of any of the common elements or by abandonment of the unit against which the assessments are made.

(7) Unless otherwise specifically provided in the declaration or bylaws, the association may enter into an escrow agreement with the holder of a unit owner's mortgage so that assessments may be combined with the unit owner's mortgage payments and paid at the same time and in the same manner; except that any such escrow agreement shall comply with any applicable rules of the federal housing administration, department of housing and urban development, veterans' administration, or other government agency.

ANNOTATION

Summary judgment was not appropriate in an action brought by an association to collect unpaid association dues for a timeshare unit where the owner of the unit made a sufficient showing that the developer, in connection with a resale program, agreed to pay the dues, and the association and the developer were, for all practical purposes, one and the same. Club Telluride Owners Ass'n, Inc. v. Mitchell, 70 P.3d 502 (Colo. App. 2002).

Relieving the owner of a timeshare unit of an obligation to pay dues when the developer agreed to pay the dues in connection with a resale program was not void as against public policy. This section prohibits preferential assessments among units. It does not address agreements concerning how assessments will be paid. The statutory scheme would not be frustrated if the association accepted the developer and its successor as the primary obligors and looked to the owner as surety after exhausting collection efforts against the primary obligors. Club Telluride Owners Ass'n, Inc. v. Mitchell, 70 P.3d 502 (Colo. App. 2002).

38-33.3-316. Lien for assessments. (1) The association, if such association is incorporated or organized as a limited liability company, has a statutory lien on a unit for any assessment levied against that unit or fines imposed against its unit owner. Unless the declaration otherwise provides, fees, charges, late charges, attorney fees, fines, and interest charged pursuant to section 38-33.3-302 (1) (j), (1) (k), and (1) (l), section 38-33.3-313 (6), and section 38-33.3-315 (2) are enforceable as assessments under this article. The amount of the lien shall include all those items set forth in this section from the time such items become due. If an assessment is payable in installments, each installment is a lien from the time it becomes due, including the due date set by any valid association's acceleration of installment obligations.

(2) (a) A lien under this section is prior to all other liens and encumbrances on a unit except:

(I) Liens and encumbrances recorded before the recordation of the declaration and, in a cooperative, liens and encumbrances which the association creates, assumes, or takes subject to;

(II) A security interest on the unit which has priority over all other security interests on the unit and which was recorded before the date on which the assessment sought to be enforced became delinquent, or, in a cooperative, a security interest encumbering only the unit owner's interest which has priority over all other security interests on the unit and which was perfected before the date on which the assessment sought to be enforced became delinquent; and

(III) Liens for real estate taxes and other governmental assessments or charges against the unit or cooperative.

(b) Subject to paragraph (d) of this subsection (2), a lien under this section is also prior to the security interests described in subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) to the extent of:

(I) An amount equal to the common expense assessments based on a periodic budget adopted by the association under section 38-33.3-315 (1) which would have become due, in the absence of any acceleration, during the six months immediately preceding institution by either the association or any party holding a lien senior to any part of the association lien created under this section of an action or a nonjudicial foreclosure either to enforce or to extinguish the lien.

(II) (Deleted by amendment, L. 93, p. 653, § 21, effective April 30, 1993.)

(c) This subsection (2) does not affect the priority of mechanics' or materialmen's liens or the priority of liens for other assessments made by the association. A lien under this section is not subject to the provisions of part 2 of article 41 of this title or to the provisions of section 15-11-201, C.R.S.

(d) The association shall have the statutory lien described in subsection (1) of this section for any assessment levied or fine imposed after June 30, 1992. Such lien shall have the priority described in this subsection (2) if the other lien or encumbrance is created after June 30, 1992.

(3) Unless the declaration otherwise provides, if two or more associations have liens for assessments created at any time on the same property, those liens have equal priority.

(4) Recording of the declaration constitutes record notice and perfection of the lien. No further recordation of any claim of lien for assessments is required.

(5) A lien for unpaid assessments is extinguished unless proceedings to enforce the lien are instituted within six years after the full amount of assessments become due.

(6) This section does not prohibit actions or suits to recover sums for which subsection (1) of this section creates a lien or to prohibit an association from taking a deed in lieu of foreclosure.

(7) The association shall be entitled to costs and reasonable attorney fees incurred by the association in a judgment or decree in any action or suit brought by the association under this section.

(8) The association shall furnish to a unit owner or such unit owner's designee or to a holder of a security interest or its designee upon written request, delivered personally or by certified mail, first-class postage prepaid, return receipt, to the association's registered agent, a written statement setting forth the amount of unpaid assessments currently levied against such owner's unit. The statement shall be furnished within fourteen calendar days after receipt of the request and is binding on the association, the executive board, and every unit owner. If no statement is furnished to the unit owner or holder of a security interest or his or her designee, delivered personally or by certified mail, first-class postage prepaid, return receipt requested, to the inquiring party, then the association shall have no right to assert a lien upon the unit for unpaid assessments which were due as of the date of the request.

(9) In any action by an association to collect assessments or to foreclose a lien for unpaid assessments, the court may appoint a receiver of the unit owner to collect all sums alleged to be due from the unit owner prior to or during the pending of the action. The court may order the receiver to pay any sums held by the receiver to the association during the pending of the action to the extent of the association's common expense assessments.

(10) In a cooperative, upon nonpayment of an assessment on a unit, the unit owner may be evicted in the same manner as provided by law in the case of an unlawful holdover by a commercial tenant, and the lien may be foreclosed as provided by this section.

(11) The association's lien may be foreclosed by any of the following means:

(a) In a condominium or planned community, the association's lien may be foreclosed in like manner as a mortgage on real estate.

(b) In a cooperative whose unit owners' interests in the units are real estate as determined in accordance with the provisions of section 38-33.3-105, the association's lien must be foreclosed in like manner as a mortgage on real estate.

(c) In a cooperative whose unit owners' interests in the units are personal property, as determined in accordance with the provisions of section 38-33.3-105, the association's lien must be foreclosed as a security interest under the "Uniform Commercial Code", title 4, C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Where an association is misnamed in its recorded lien statement, the misnomer does not affect its right to foreclose, because this section does not require an association to record a statement to perfect the statutory lien. In the absence of evidence that the misnomer frustrated the identification of the association or caused confusion to the defendants, the association is entitled to foreclose the lien. Sunstone at Colo. Springs Homeowners Ass'n v. White, 56 P.3d 127 (Colo. App. 2002).

In addition to common expense assessments, a special priority lien held by a homeowners' association under subsection (2)(b)(I) may include late charges, attorney fees, fines, and interest. First Atl. Mortgage v. Sunstone N. Homeowners Ass'n, 121 P.3d 254 (Colo. App. 2005).

Upon foreclosure by the lender, condominium association's lien for unpaid assessments was senior to that of the lender's first deed of trust to the extent of six months of assessments. The association has a super-priority lien over the lender's otherwise senior deed of trust in the event of a foreclosure commenced by the association or the lender, which lien is limited to delinquent assessments accruing within six months of the initiation of foreclosure proceedings. Further, the association's super-priority lien includes interest, charges, late charges, fines, and attorney fees so long as the total does not exceed the limit. BA Mortg. v. Quail Creek Condo. Ass'n, 192 P.3d 447 (Colo. App. 2008).

38-33.3-316.5. Time share estate - foreclosure - definitions. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Junior lienor" has the same meaning as set forth in section 38-38-100.3 (12), C.R.S.

(b) "Obligor" means the person liable for the assessment levied against a time share estate pursuant to section 38-33.3-316 or the record owner of the time share estate.

(c) "Time share estate" has the same meaning as set forth in section 38-33-110 (5).

(2) A plaintiff may commence a single judicial foreclosure action pursuant to section 38-33.3-316 (11), joining as defendants multiple obligors with separate time share estates and the junior lienors thereto, if:

(a) The judicial foreclosure action involves a single common interest community;

(b) The declaration giving rise to the right of the association to collect assessments creates default and remedy obligations that are substantially the same for each obligor named as a defendant in the judicial foreclosure action;

(c) The action is limited to a claim for judicial foreclosure brought pursuant to section 38-33.3-316 (11); and

(d) The plaintiff does not allege, with respect to any obligor, that the association's lien is prior to any security interest described in section 38-33.3-316 (2) (a) (II), even if such a claim could be made pursuant to section 38-33.3-316 (2) (b) (I).

(3) In a judicial foreclosure action in which multiple obligors with separate time share estates and the junior lienors thereto have been joined as defendants in accordance with this section:

(a) In addition to any other circumstances where severance is proper under the Colorado rules of civil procedure, the court may sever for separate trial any disputed claim or claims;

(b) If service by publication of two or more defendants is permitted by law, the plaintiff may publish a single notice for all joined defendants for whom service by publication is permitted, so long as all information that would be required by law to be provided in the published notice as to each defendant individually is included in the combined published notice. Nothing in this paragraph (b) shall be interpreted to allow service by publication of any defendant if service by publication is not otherwise permitted by law with respect to that defendant.

(c) The action shall be deemed a single action, suit, or proceeding for purposes of payment of filing fees, notwithstanding any action by the court pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), so long as the plaintiff complies with subsection (2) of this section.

(4) Notwithstanding that multiple obligors with separate time share estates may be joined in a single judicial foreclosure action, unless otherwise ordered by the court, each time share estate foreclosed pursuant to this section shall be subject to a separate foreclosure sale, and any cure or redemption rights with respect to such time share estate shall remain separate.

(5) The plaintiff in an action brought pursuant to this section is deemed to waive any claims against a defendant for a deficiency remaining after the foreclosure of the lien for assessment and for attorney fees related to the foreclosure action.

(II) Notwithstanding section 38-33.3-117 (1) (I), this paragraph (c) shall not apply to a unit, or the owner thereof, if the unit is a time-share unit, as defined in section 38-33-110 (7).

(d) The association shall maintain its records in written form or in another form capable of conversion into written form within a reasonable time.

(2) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), all financial and other records shall be made reasonably available for examination and copying by any unit owner and such owner's authorized agents.

(b) (I) Notwithstanding paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), a membership list or any part thereof may not be obtained or used by any person for any purpose unrelated to a unit owner's interest as a unit owner without consent of the executive board.

(II) Without limiting the generality of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b), without the consent of the executive board, a membership list or any part thereof may not be:

(A) Used to solicit money or property unless such money or property will be used solely to solicit the votes of the unit owners in an election to be held by the association;

(B) Used for any commercial purpose; or

(C) Sold to or purchased by any person.

(3) The association may charge a fee, which may be collected in advance but which shall not exceed the association's actual cost per page, for copies of association records.

(I) Under corporation statutes governing the inspection of lists of shareholders or members prior to an annual meeting; or

(II) If the unit owner is in litigation with the association, to the same extent as any other litigant; or

(b) The power of a court, independently of this article, to compel the production of association records for examination on proof by a unit owner of proper purpose.

(7) This section shall not be construed to invalidate any provision of the declaration, bylaws, the corporate law under which the association is organized, or other documents that more broadly defines records of the association that are subject to inspection and copying by unit owners, or that grants unit owners freer access to such records; except that the privacy protections contained in paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section shall supersede any such provision.

Editor's note: This version of this section is effective until January 1, 2013.

A lien for assessments previously filed during a period in which the association was validly registered or before registration was required pursuant to this section shall not be extinguished by a lapse in the association's registration, but any pending enforcement proceedings related to such lien shall be suspended, and any applicable time limits tolled, until the association is again validly registered pursuant to this section.

common interest community. The attribution comported with the overall scheme of property taxation. Jet Black, LLC v. Routt County Bd. of County Comm'rs, 165 P.3d 744 (Colo. App. 2006).

The phrase in subsection (2) stating that “common elements shall not be separately taxed or assessed” is merely a recognition that the value of common elements is inherently included as a component of each individual unit’s total actual value and will be assessed and taxed as part of the unit’s overall assessment and taxation, rather than separately taxed or assessed to the association as was previously done. Manor Vail Condominium Ass’n v. Bd. of Equaliz., 956 P. 2d 654 (Colo. App. 1998).

38-33.5-106. Exemption from securities laws. Any stock certificate or other evidence of membership issued by a cooperative housing corporation as an investment in its stock or capital to tenant-stockholders of such corporation is exempt from securities laws contained in article 51 of title 11, C.R.S.

38-34-101. General policy regarding titles. It is the purpose and intention of this article and article 35, part 2 of article 39, and part 1 of article 41 of this title to render titles to real property and every interest therein more secure and marketable, and it is declared to be the policy in this state that this article and all other laws concerning or affecting title to real property and every interest therein and all recorded instruments, decrees, and orders of courts of record, including all proceedings in the suits or causes wherein such orders or decrees have been entered or rendered, shall be liberally construed with the end in view of rendering such titles absolute and free from technical defects so that subsequent purchasers and encumbrancers by way of mortgage, judgment, or otherwise may rely on the record title and so that the record title of the party in possession is sustained and not defeated by technical or strict constructions.

Under this section, any doubt relative to the meaning and application of a covenant must be resolved in favor of unrestricted use of property and all restrictions relative to the use or occupancy of real property must be strictly construed. Covenant provision that allowed "two horses or bovine animals to be kept on a lot of five or less acres" did not prohibit sheep from being maintained on such a lot. Dunne v. Shenandoah Homeowners Ass'n, Inc., 12 P.3d 340 (Colo. App. 2000).

38-34-104. Death of trustee. Upon the death of a sole trustee or the surviving trustee of an express trust created by any written instrument affecting title to real property, the trust shall not descend to the heirs of such trustee nor pass to his personal representative, but the trust if then unexecuted shall vest in the then public trustee and his successors in office of the county wherein the real estate is situate, with all powers of the original trustee. The district court may, upon application of any party in interest, appoint a new trustee except in such cases where by law or by the instrument a successor in trust is provided, and in such cases the trust shall vest in such successor.

38-34-105. When deed transferred before incorporation. If at the time of the delivery of a deed describing the grantee as a corporation no incorporation papers have been filed and if thereafter proper incorporation papers are filed, the title to the real property shall vest in the grantee as soon as the grantee is incorporated and no other instrument of conveyance shall be required. As to all such conveyances executed prior to March 28, 1927, it shall be conclusively presumed that the title vested in the incorporators in trust for the grantee and that said incorporators properly conveyed the real property to the grantee when the grantee was incorporated unless within one year from March 28, 1927, there is filed in the office of the proper recorder a written explanation or statement of the transaction signed and acknowledged by the proper parties.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

38-35-101. Acknowledgments - form - prima facie evidence. (1) No officer authorized to take acknowledgments of instruments affecting title to real property shall take or certify such acknowledgments unless the person making the same is personally known to such officer to be the identical person he represents himself to be or is proved to be such by at least one credible person known to such officer. It shall not be necessary to state such fact in his certificate of acknowledgment attached to any instrument affecting title to real property.

(2) Any deed or other instrument relating to or affecting title to real property acknowledged substantially in accordance with the following form before a proper official shall be prima facie evidence of the proper execution thereof:

STATE OF COLORADO ) ) ss.
County of ..... )

The foregoing instrument was acknowledged before me this ..... day of ....., 20...., by .....
(if by natural person or persons, insert name or names; if by person acting in representative or official capacity or as attorney-in-fact, insert name of person as executor, attorney-in-fact, or other capacity or description; if by officer of corporation, insert name of such officer or officers as the president or other officers of such corporation, naming it). If acknowledgment is taken by a notary public, the date of expiration of his commission shall also appear on the certificate.

Witness my hand and official seal.

Title of Officer

(3) As to any instrument acknowledged substantially in accordance with the above form of acknowledgment, such acknowledgment shall be prima facie evidence:

(a) That the person named therein as acknowledging the instrument appeared in person before the official taking the acknowledgment and was personally known to such official to be the person whose name was subscribed to the instrument and that such person acknowledged that he signed the instrument as his free and voluntary act for the uses and purposes therein set forth;

(b) If the acknowledgment is by a person in a representative or official capacity, that the person acknowledging the instrument acknowledged it to be his free and voluntary act in such capacity or as the free and voluntary act of the principal, person, or entity represented;

(c) If the person acknowledging is an officer of a corporation, that such person was known to the official taking the acknowledgment to be such corporate officer and that the instrument was executed and acknowledged by such corporate officer, with proper authority from the corporation, as the act of such corporation;

(d) If the persons acknowledging are directors, trustees, or managers of a dissolved or expired corporation, acting last before the time of the dissolution or expiration of such corporation, or the survivors of them, that such persons were such corporate directors, trustees, or managers, or the survivors of them, and that the instrument was executed and acknowledged by them with proper authority;

(e) If the person acknowledging is a partner, that such person was such partner and that the instrument was executed and acknowledged by such partner with proper authority from such partnership as the act of such partnership.

(4) If such instrument has been acknowledged in the manner provided in this section and has been recorded in the office of the proper county clerk and recorder, it shall also be prima facie evidence of due delivery of such instrument, irrespective of the length of time that may have elapsed between the date of such instrument and the date when such instrument was so recorded. The provisions of this section shall relate and apply to all instruments which have been executed prior to May 4, 1937, as well as to all instruments which are executed after said date, irrespective of whether such instruments have been acknowledged before or after said date and irrespective of whether such instruments are recorded before or after said date.

(5) The seal required to be affixed to a deed or other instrument under the provisions of this section may consist of a rubber stamp with a facsimile affixed thereon of the seal required to be used and may be placed or stamped upon the deed or other instrument requiring the seal with indelible ink.

For article, "Signatures on Documents Affecting Title to Colorado Real Property — Parts I and III", see 12 Colo. Law. 61 and 447 (1983).

Purpose of this article is to make real estate titles more safe, secure and marketable. To this end a liberal construction is required and in interpreting this article, it is necessary to construe its various sections harmoniously. Birkby v. Wilson, 92 Colo. 281, 19 P.2d 490 (1933).

One of the purposes of recording acts is the avoidance of secret liens and consequent frauds attendant upon them. Moore v. Chalmers-Galloway Live Stock Co., 90 Colo. 548, 10 P.2d 950 (1933).

Legislative intent. When the General Assembly provided for the short form of acknowledgment as a substitute for the long form, it was a substitution for all purposes, and it is not intended that the long form of acknowledgment should bestow certain advantages not conferred by the short form. Rock v. Fastenau, 122 Colo. 41, 219 P.2d 781 (1950).

Acknowledgement not required for effective conveyance. Unless there is an express statutory provision to the contrary a deed of real estate to be effective as a conveyance or transfer of real estate, as between grantor and grantee, need not be acknowledged at all. Am. Nat'l Bank v. Silverthorn, 87 Colo. 345, 287 P. 641 (1930).

Innocent subsequent purchasers are protected. The rights of innocent subsequent purchasers of property conveyed by an unacknowledged instrument may be protected, but not the privies in estate of the grantor. Am. Nat'l Bank v. Silverthorn, 87 Colo. 345, 287 P. 641 (1930).

Section inapplicable to acknowledgment of articles of incorporation. Neither the provisions of this section as to the acknowledgment of deeds, nor the reasons therefor, apply to the acknowledgment of articles of incorporation. People ex rel. Bernard v. Cheeseman, 7 Colo. 376, 3 P. 716 (1884).

When proof of identity unnecessary. It is not necessary to prove the identity to the certifying officer, of one making acknowledgment of the execution of a deed, when the officer has knowledge of the identity from a source that satisfies his conscience: as through introduction by a mutual friend. Nippel v. Hammond, 4 Colo. 211 (1878).

Acknowledgment of deed by corporate secretary is prima facie proof. The acknowledgment by the secretary of a corporation's deed is prima facie proof that the note and mortgage were signed by the proper officers and the seal attached to the mortgage is the corporate seal of the company, in accordance with this section. Bliss v. Harris, 38 Colo. 72, 87 P. 1076 (1906).

Possession of duly acknowledged deed is presumptive evidence of delivery. Possession of a duly acknowledged and recorded deed is presumptive evidence of its delivery, and the burden is upon a party asserting nondelivery to prove that fact. White v. White, 149 Colo. 166, 368 P.2d 417 (1962).

Presumption of delivery arises from recordation of a deed. Carmack v. Place, 188 Colo. 303, 535 P.2d 197 (1975).

Once acknowledgement and recording of deed is established, burden shifts to opponent to prove nondelivery. Jacquez v. Jacquez, 694 P.2d 1292 (Colo. App. 1984).

Presumption of delivery relates back to date of deed's execution. Upon recording, the rebuttable presumption of delivery arising from recordation relates back to the date of the execution of the deed. Carmach v. Place, 188 Colo. 303, 535 P.2d 197 (1975).

When a deed is properly recorded, a rebuttable presumption of due delivery arises which relates back to the date of execution of the deed, and the burden shifts to the opponent to demonstrate non-delivery. Brown v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 720 P.2d 579 (Colo. App. 1985).

The presumption that delivery relates back to the date of the deed's execution is rebuttable, and therefore where a mineral deed was held in escrow pending full payment, there could be no earlier delivery than the date the deed was released from escrow. Tuttle v. Burrows, 852 P.2d 1314 (Colo. App. 1992).

Section includes treasurer's deeds. This section is sufficiently broad to include treasurer's deeds. Colpitts v. Fastenau, 117 Colo. 594, 192 P.2d 524 (1948).

Applied in Cody v. Butterfield, 1 Colo. 377 (1871); Consolidated Gregory Co. v. Raber, 1 Colo. 511 (1872); McCraw v. Welch, 2 Colo. 284 (1874); Cowell v. Colo. Springs Co., 3 Colo. 82 (1876); Knight v. Lawrence, 19 Colo. 425, 36 P. 242 (1894); Monroe v. Monroe, 99 Colo. 401, 63 P.2d 459 (1936); Grusing v. Parke, 120 Colo. 555, 212 P.2d 102 (1949); Winslett v. Rozan, 279 F.2d 654 (10th Cir. 1960).

38-35-102. When unacknowledged instruments prima facie evidence. (1) When an instrument, which by its terms constitutes a promise or obligation for the payment of money and also by its terms gives or creates or purports to give or to create a lien upon real estate as security for the payment of such money, at the time that such instrument has been filed for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county in which said real estate is situate, irrespective of whether such recording is the original recording of such instrument or a recording of such instrument subsequent to its original recording, bears upon its face or upon its back an assignment, transfer, or endorsement thereof, such instrument and such assignment, transfer, or endorsement thereof or the recorded copy of such instrument and of such assignment, transfer, or endorsement thereof or a certified copy of the recorded copy of said instrument and of such assignment, transfer, or endorsement thereof certified by the county clerk and recorder shall be admissible in evidence as and shall constitute prima facie evidence of such transfer, assignment, or endorsement of such instrument from the person whose purported signature is affixed to such assignment, transfer, or endorsement to the person named in such assignment, transfer, or endorsement as the assignee, transferee, or endorsee of such instrument, irrespective of whether or not such assignment, transfer, or endorsement has been acknowledged in the manner provided by law for the acknowledgment of instruments relating to or affecting title to real property or acknowledged at all.

(2) The provisions of this section shall relate and apply to all of such instruments which have been executed prior to May 4, 1937, as well as to all such instruments executed after said date, irrespective of whether said assignments, transfers, or endorsements were executed before or after May 4, 1937, and irrespective of whether such instruments and such assignments, transfers, and endorsements thereof were recorded before or after said date.

Deed with improperly authenticated acknowledgment inadmissible. Where the deed was acknowledged before a justice of the peace in a different county from that in which the claim is situated, and no certificate to the official character of the officer taking the acknowledgment, or to the genuineness of his signature, was attached, as required by subsection (1), nor was any other proof of the due execution of the deed offered, the acknowledgment of this deed was not properly authenticated, and the deed is not admissible into evidence without further proof of its execution. McGinnis v. Egbert, 8 Colo. 41, 5 P. 652 (1884).

Deed properly admitted absent objection to proof of execution. Where an objection to the admissibility of the deed went only to the want of a proper acknowledgment, and did not go to the fact that the execution of the instrument had not been otherwise proved in the manner required by the rules of evidence applicable to such a writing, the deed, not having been objected to on this ground, was properly admitted. Advantage of having a deed acknowledged and certified is that it may be read into evidence without additional proof of its execution. Knight v. Lawrence, 19 Colo. 425, 36 P. 242 (1894).

Deed admissible despite lapse of time. Where a deed was admittedly signed by grantors and witnessed by their neighbor, on the date shown thereon and was acknowledged before a notary public the following day in statutory form, and some 10 years later, it was filed of record, the deed is therefore admissible in evidence as prima facie proof of its free, voluntary, and proper execution, acknowledgment, and delivery, irrespective of the lapse of time between the date of execution and date of recordation. Winslett v. Rozan, 279 F.2d 654 (10th Cir. 1960).

Deed inadmissible where acknowledgment certificate is nullity. Where the certificate of acknowledgment is a nullity, and thus afforded no proof of the execution of the deed, unless its execution was otherwise proved, the deed itself, if produced, would be inadmissible in evidence. *Trowbridge v. Failure to search record destroys validity of lack of notice claim. The trial court erred in its conclusion that the wife did not need to search the record, because her failure to search the record destroys the validity of her claim that she had no notice or knowledge of the liens, and her failure to establish this constituent of fraud prevents recovery. *Ingels v. 38-35-109. Instrument may be recorded - validity of unrecorded instruments - liability for fraudulent documents. (1) All deeds, powers of attorney, agreements, or other instruments in writing conveying, encumbering, or affecting the title to real property, certificates, and certified copies of orders, judgments, and decrees of courts of record may be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county where such real property is situated; except that all instruments conveying the title of real property to the state or a political subdivision shall be recorded pursuant to section 38-35-109.5. No such unrecorded instrument or document shall be valid against any person with any kind of rights in or to such real property who first records and those holding rights under such person, except between the parties thereto and against those having notice thereof prior to acquisition of such rights. This is a race-notice recording statute. In all cases where by law an instrument may be filed in the office of a county clerk and recorder, the filing thereof in such office shall be equivalent to the recording thereof, and the recording thereof in the office of such county clerk and recorder shall be equivalent to the filing thereof.

(1.5) (a) Any person may record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of any county a master form mortgage or master form deed of trust. Such forms shall be entitled to recordation without any acknowledgment or signature; without identification of any specific real property; and without naming any specific mortgagor, mortgagee, trustor, beneficiary, or trustee. Every instrument shall contain on the face of the document "Master form recorded by (name of person causing instrument to be recorded)." The county clerk and recorder shall index such master forms in the grantee index under the name of the person causing it to be recorded.

(b) (1) Any of the provisions of such master form instrument may be incorporated by reference in any mortgage or deed of trust encumbering real estate situated within the state, if such reference in the mortgage or deed of trust states the following:

(A) That the master form instrument was recorded in the county in which the mortgage or deed of trust is offered for record;

(B) The date when recorded and the book and page or pages or reception or index number where such master form was recorded;

(C) That a copy of the provisions of the master form instrument was furnished to the person executing the mortgage or deed of trust; and

(D) If fewer than all of the provisions of the referenced master form are being adopted or incorporated, a statement identifying by paragraph, section, or other specification method which will clearly identify the incorporated provision or provisions, provided that in the absence of specific designation, the entire referenced master form will be deemed to be incorporated.

(II) The recording of any mortgage or deed of trust which has incorporated by reference any of the provisions of a master form recorded as provided in this section shall have the same effect as if such provisions of such master form had been set forth fully in the mortgage or deed of trust.

(2) All deeds dated after January 1, 1977, and recorded with the county clerk and recorder pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall include a notation of the legal address of the grantee of the instrument, including road or street address if applicable. Any such deed submitted to the county clerk and recorder lacking such address shall not be recorded and shall be returned to the person requesting the recordation. Acceptance of a deed by the county clerk and recorder in violation of this subsection (2) shall not make such deed invalid. A notation as required in this subsection (2) may be made by a person other than the grantee after the execution of the deed.

(3) Any person who offers to have recorded or filed in the office of the county clerk and recorder any document purporting to convey, encumber, create a lien against, or otherwise affect the title to real property, knowing or having a reason to know that such document is forged or groundless, contains a material misstatement or false claim, or is otherwise invalid, shall be liable to the owner of such real property for the sum of not less than one thousand dollars or for actual damages caused thereby, whichever is greater, together with reasonable attorney fees. Any grantee or other person purportedly benefited by a recorded document that purports to convey, encumber, create a lien against, or otherwise affect the title to real property and is forged or groundless, contains a material misstatement or false claim, or is otherwise invalid who willfully refuses to release such document of record upon request of the owner of the real property affected shall be liable to such owner for the damages and attorney fees provided for in this subsection (3).

(4) Repealed.

(5) (a) An affidavit, executed under penalty of perjury, stating facts enumerated under paragraph (b) of this subsection (5) and made by a person who has actual knowledge of, and is competent to testify in a court of competent jurisdiction about, the facts in such affidavit may affect the title to real property within the state and may be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder in the county in which the real property is situated.

(b) When recorded, an affidavit as described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (5), or a certified copy of such affidavit, shall constitute prima facie evidence of one or more of the following facts:

(I) The name, age, identity, residence, or service in the armed forces of any party;

(II) Whether the land embraced in any conveyance or any part of such land or right therein has been in the actual possession of any party or parties within the chain of title;

(III) If furnished by a professional land surveyor as defined in section 12-25-202, C.R.S., a surveyor's affidavit of correction in accordance with section 38-51-111 or a land survey plat in accordance with section 38-51-106, that reconciles conflicts and ambiguities in descriptions of land in recorded instruments;

(IV) A scrivener's error.

(c) An affidavit filed under this subsection (5) shall state that the affiant has actual knowledge of, and is competent to testify to, the facts in the affidavit and shall include a description of the land, the title that may be affected by facts stated in such affidavit, a reference to an instrument of record containing such description, the name of the person appearing by the record to be the owner of such land at the time of the recording of the affidavit, and an acknowledgment that the affiant is testifying under penalty of perjury. The recorder shall index the affidavit in the name of the record owner.

This section is constitutional, and does not violate the 14th amendment to federal constitution. Moore v. Chalmers-Galloway Live Stock Co., 90 Colo. 548, 10 P.2d 950 (1932).

Term "purporting" in subsection (3) is not unconstitutionally vague. People v. Forgey, 770 P.2d 781 (Colo. 1989).

The intent of the general assembly in enacting this section was to halt the filing of invalid liens against real property. Turkey Creek L.L.C. v. Anglo Am. Consol. Corp., 43 P.3d 701 (Colo. App. 2001).

Evident purpose of this section is to provide an effectual remedy against the loss accruing to subsequent purchasers of real estate arising from the existence of secret or concealed conveyances thereof unknown to the subsequent purchaser. Hallett v. Alexander, 50 Colo. 37, 114 P.

490, (1911); Lewin v. Telluride Iron Works Co., 272 F. 590 (8th Cir. 1921).

Recording acts have been enacted in response to a need to provide protection for purchasers of real property against the risk of prior secret conveyances by the seller. Page v. Fees-Krey, Inc., 617 P.2d 1188 (Colo. 1980).

This section was not enacted for the benefit of lienholders and the owners of incumbrances upon real estate only, but for all bona fide purchasers as well. McMurtrie v. Riddell, 9 Colo. 497, 13 P. 181 (1886).

The last sentence in subsection (3) was intended to facilitate the quick withdrawal of an unjustified lien filed in the name of someone other than the individual who had recorded the document. Dahl v. Young, 862 P.2d 969 (Colo. App. 1993).

Applicability of section. This section applies to a deed which was theretofore executed but withheld from record eight years before the statute became operative and two years after the passage of the act. Moore v. Chalmers-Galloway Live Stock Co., 90 Colo. 548, 10 P.2d 950 (1932).

The recording act applies to an instrument creating an overriding royalty carved out of the working interest in an oil and gas lease. Page v. Fees-Krey, Inc., 617 P.2d 1188 (Colo. 1980).

How protection effected. The protection of subsequent purchasers is effected by requiring every deed to be recorded before it can be of any effect as against such purchasers. Hallett v. Alexander, 50 Colo. 37, 114 P. 490 (1911); Lewin v. Telluride Iron Works Co., 272 F. 590 (8th Cir. 1921).

This section is not abrogated by the stolen property statute. There is no recovery under the stolen property statute against a good faith purchaser who holds record title to real property, even if the real property was earlier conveyed under fraudulent circumstances. Strekal v. Espe, 114 P.3d 67 (Colo. App. 2004).

"Groundless document" as used in this section means one for which there is no rational basis in fact or law to support a proponent's claim. Int'l Tech. Instruments, Inc. v. Eng'g Measurement Co., 678 P.2d 558 (Colo. App. 1983); Harris v. Hanson, 821 P.2d 821 (Colo. App. 1991).

Claim of purchaser under a contract for the purchase and sale of property was groundless where purchaser refused to close on property for the agreed purchase price knowing or having reason to know at the time of recording the contract for purchase and sale as a lien that the filing presented a false claim to purchase the property. Harris v. Hanson, 821 P.2d 821 (Colo. App. 1991); Hohn v. Morrison, 870 P.2d 513 (Colo. App. 1993).

Although “willful” has not been defined within the context of this section it is appropriate to give it its plain and ordinary meaning. Malicious intent is not required for willfulness. Nor must the offending party have actually gained anything by his or her actions. All that is required is that the party acted voluntarily, purposefully, and with a conscious disregard for the consequences of his or her conduct. Hohn v. Morrison, 870 P.2d 513 (Colo. App. 1993).

Filing of lien document with reason to know that such filing would unjustifiably cloud property’s title justifies charges under section, regardless of whether valid lien was created. People v. Marston, 772 P.2d 615 (Colo. 1989).

Subsection (3) prohibiting filing of frivolous lien on real property is violated when a party files a document which does not comply with requirements necessary to create a lien, knowing or having reason to know the document was unfounded. People v. Forgey, 770 P.2d 781 (Colo. 1989).

By its plain wording, subsection (3) provides that damages for false recording shall be the actual damages incurred but no less than one thousand dollars. It makes no mention of a daily damage penalty and none may be implied. Martinez v. Affordable Hous. Network, Inc., 109 P.3d 983 (Colo. App. 2004), rev’d on other grounds, 123 P.3d 1201 (Colo. 2005).

Notice of lis pendens was groundless and invalid under subsection (3) because the plaintiffs’ original complaint sought only monetary damages and did not affect title to real property. The validity of a notice of lis pendens is determined when it is recorded, and the subsequent filing of an amended complaint that asserts an equitable lien claim cannot relate back to the date of the original complaint and thereby render an invalid notice of lis pendens valid. Brossia v. Rick Constr., Ltd., 81 P.3d 1126 (Colo. App. 2003).

Payment for the filing of and authorization for the issuance of deeds of trust indicated a purpose or intent to have deeds of trust recorded. Thus, trial court did not err in determining that deeds of trust were “offered” for recording. Turkey Creek L.L.C. v. Anglo Am. Consol. Corp., 43 P.3d 701 (Colo. App. 2001).

Purchaser under a contract for the sale and purchase of real property violated subsection (3) where the purchaser refused to close on property for the agreed purchase price, later relinquished his claim for specific performance of the sales contract, and refused to remove cloud on title of property after repeated requests by the sellers. Harris v. Hanson, 821 P.2d 821 (Colo. App. 1991).

There was evidence the defendant knowingly recorded a judgment lien after it had been fully satisfied since he had consulted with attorneys, stated that he was familiar with the operations of the county clerk and recorder, and had on a number of occasions recorded documents in the office to make them a matter of public record. Dahl v. Young, 862 P.2d 969 (Colo. App. 1993).

Trial court wrongly held that property owner claiming private prescriptive easement violated subsection (3) by filing sworn affidavits describing prior purchasers’ historic use of the tract at issue on the grounds affidavits unjustifiably clouded title of adverse property claimants. The affidavits unjustifiably clouded title because property owner failed to obtain a court decree expressly establishing an easement prior to filing them. However, a party may lawfully record a document putting others on notice of a prescriptive easement over another’s property regardless of whether a court has yet recognized the existence of the easement. Brown v. Faatz, 197 P.3d 245 (Colo. App. 2008).

Affidavits describing prior purchasers’ historic use of the tract at issue are instruments encumbering or affecting title to real property within the meaning of subsections (1) and (3). Nonetheless, recording of the affidavits by property owner claiming easement, which clouded title of other property claimants, did not in and of itself constitute a violation of subsection (3). The statute only prohibits the recording of documents that the person knows or has reason to know are forged, groundless, contain a material misstatement or false claim, or are otherwise invalid. Here, the easement claimant did not know or have reason to know that the affidavits contained material misstatements, and the trial court’s findings that claimant should have known the affidavits were “groundless” or “otherwise invalid” were based on misapprehensions of the law. Accordingly, property owner claiming easement did not violate subsection (3). Brown v. Faatz, 197 P.3d 245 (Colo. App. 2008).

Trial court’s findings were deficient because although it determined the hourly rate there was no mention of the reasonableness of the hours expended or the propriety of the tasks performed. Dahl v. Young, 862 P.2d 969 (Colo. App. 1993).

Trial court did not err by determining that lis pendens filed by condominium purchasers was not spurious at the time it was filed. Purchaser’s contract claim, while unsuccessful, was advanced in good faith. While purchasers’ claim for specific performance that formed basis of lis pendens was effectively denied by the trial court’s recognition that the contract that afforded the remedy of specific performance was terminated, purchasers advanced rational arguments, based upon facts and the law, in support of its continued existence and these arguments were not groundless or otherwise spurious. At the time of recording the lis pendens, purchasers did not know or have reason to know the trial court would later find the contract to be void under § 38-33.3-312 (5). By extension, the lis pendens, while filed and recorded, was not a spurious document. Platt v. Aspenwood Condo. Ass'n, 214 P.3d 1060 (Colo. App. 2009).

II. INSTRUMENTS TO WHICH SECTION APPLIES.

Bond for conveyance of real estate. The assignment by the obligee or his assignee of a bond for the conveyance of real estate comes clearly within the provisions of subsection (1) of this section and, unless recorded will not take effect as against a subsequent bona fide purchaser or encumbrancer without notice. McFarran v. Knox, 5 Colo. 217 (1880).

Quitclaim deed effectual to pass real estate property. A quit claim deed is as effectual to pass the title to real estate as any other, and the purchaser accepting such deed, without notice of prior rights, will be as fully protected as if his deed contained full covenants of warranty. Bradbury v. Davis, 5 Colo. 265 (1880); Delta County Land & Cattle Co. v. Talcott, 17 Colo. App. 316, 68 P. 985 (1902); Houlahan v. Fin. Consol. Mining Co., 34 Colo. 365, 82 P. 484

(1905); Hallett v. Alexander, 50 Colo. 37, 114 P. 490 (1911); Kelsey v. Norris, 53 Colo. 306, 125 P. 111 (1912).

A contract for future conveyance of lands is within subsection (1), and an assignment by the purchaser of his right under such contract, not recorded, is without effect as to a creditor of such purchaser who, without notice of the assignment, levies an execution upon the land. Salisbury v. La Fitte, 57 Colo. 358, 141 P. 484 (1914).

Deed of release is a deed affecting title to real estate. Delta County Land & Cattle Co. v. Talcott, 17 Colo. App. 316, 68 P. 985 (1902).

Contract of joint adventure which gives a party an equitable interest in the real estate involved is one "affecting the title" thereto under subsection (1), and is recordable. Austin v. Stephen, 89 Colo. 177, 300 P. 364 (1931).

Water adjudication decrees. The court recommended that a certified copy of water adjudication decrees be filed in the county clerk and recorder's office, as permitted by subsection (1), to give notice as there provided. Davis v. Hurt, 81 Colo. 10, 253 P. 394 (1927).

Overriding royalty carved out of working interest in oil and gas lease is an interest in real property and is therefore subject to the rules of priority of this article. Fees-Krey, Inc. v. Page, 42 Colo. App. 8, 591 P.2d 1339 (1978), rev'd on other grounds, 617 P.2d 1188 (Colo. App. 1980).

Spouse's interest following filing of dissolution proceeding. Whatever interest a wife has in her husband's property upon the filing of a dissolution proceeding is still subject to the requirements of Colorado's recording laws. If the wife does not record, the ex-husband's trustee in bankruptcy may acquire superior rights. In re Harms, 7 B.R. 398 (D. Colo. 1980).

Recording statutes do not apply to the enforceability of planned unit development (PUD) plans. PUD plans are filed pursuant to legislative enactments and constitute a form of rezoning. Recording of PUD plan provisions under the recording act is not required because the notice goals of the recording act are satisfied by the PUD approval process. A PUD plan is not an instrument affecting title to real property within the purview of the recording statutes. South Creek Assocs. v. Bixby, 781 P.2d 1027 (Colo. 1989).

Race-notice statute cannot be used to determine the priority of creditors, because the judgment debtor did not have a legal or equitable interest in the property. Where a judgment debtor had neither a legal nor an equitable interest in a property, recording a judgment does not create a lien on the property, because there is no interest on which the lien could attach. Consequently, this section does not apply. Shepler v. Whalen, 119 P.3d 1084 (Colo. 2005).

III. NOTICE.

A. Record as Notice.

This section is a race-notice statute. Nile Valley Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Sec. Title Guarantee Corp., 813 P.2d 849 (Colo. App. 1991).

The race-notice system protects buyers who record their liens without notice of prior unrecorded conveyances or liens. Joondeph v. Hicks, 235 P.3d 303 (Colo. 2010).

Recording of deeds under this section is notice to all the world of the interest in land held by the person recording. Botkin v. Pyle, 91 Colo. 221, 14 P.2d 187 (1932).

Purchaser may rely upon records. If, upon their face, the records are complete, and show that the title is good, in the absence of information to the contrary from any other source, he may safely rely upon them. Delta County Land & Cattle Co. v. Talcott, 17 Colo. App. 316, 68 P. 985 (1902). See Perkins v. Adams, 16 Colo. App. 96, 63 P. 792 (1901); King v. Ackroyd, 28 Colo. 488, 66 P. 906 (1901).

Purchaser is bound by record. A purchaser of real estate is bound to know what the records disclose concerning the title, and if they indicate the existence of some outside condition by which it may be affected, he is bound to investigate, and he is charged with knowledge of the facts to which the investigation would lead. Delta County Land & Cattle Co. v. Talcott, 17 Colo. App. 316, 68 P. 985 (1902). See Perkins v. Adams, 16 Colo. App. 96, 63 P. 792 (1901); King v. Ackroyd, 28 Colo. 488, 66 P. 906 (1901).

Unless otherwise provided by statute, a purchaser is bound by recitals in conveyances or other instruments of transfer in his chain of title even where the instrument containing the recitals is not recorded. Page v. Fees-Krey, Inc., 617 P.2d 1188 (Colo. 1980).

Creditor is charged with knowledge of homestead claims through recording statute, and his lack of knowledge through inadvertence would be immaterial. Am. Heritage Bank & Trust Co. v. Trees, 35 Colo. App. 147, 532 P.2d 380 (1974).

Notice or lack thereof to joint tenant is irrelevant to the determination of validity of the conveyance. Carmack v. Place, 188 Colo. 303, 535 P.2d 197 (1975).

Person deemed to have constructive notice of recorded encumbrances. Armove v. First Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 713 P.2d 1329 (Colo. App. 1985).

Proper recording of documents provides constructive notice of interests affecting title. Collins v. Scott, 943 P.2d 20 (Colo. App. 1996).

The record of an instrument is notice only to those persons claiming under the same chain of title who are bound to search for it. Collins v. Scott, 943 P.2d 20 (Colo. App. 1996).

Documents outside the chain of title provide no notice unless a possible irregularity appears in the record that indicates the existence of some outside interest by which the title may be affected. In such cases, a purchaser is bound to investigate and is charged with knowledge of the facts to which the investigation would have led. Collins v. Scott, 943 P.2d 20 (Colo. App. 1996).

Party was put on constructive notice of transfer by prior recording of quitclaim deed. A search of the grantor-grantee index from the date the will was admitted to probate would have disclosed the quitclaim deed. The deed was not outside the chain of title. Collins v. Scott, 943 P.2d 20 (Colo. App. 1996).

Recording in office of federal bureau of land management is not constructive notice to a person acquiring an interest in property in Colorado. Fees-Krey, Inc. v. Page, 42 Colo. App. 8, 591 P.2d 1339 (1978), rev'd on other grounds, 617 P.2d 1188 (Colo. 1980).

Where deeds of trust to property owned by a partnership were signed by the individual partners and recorded under their names, there was no indication of conveyance of the property by the partnership and the bankruptcy trustee for the partnership estate was not charged with constructive notice of the deeds of trust signed by the individual partners. Nile Valley Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Sec. Title Guarantee Corp., 813 P.2d 849 (Colo. App. 1991).

The party preparing deeds of trust for signature is charged with the responsibility of complying with the statutes. Thus, the savings and loan association taking deeds of trust on property owned by a partnership as collateral on promissory notes could not claim the partnership's bankruptcy trustee had constructive notice of the deeds where the deeds were incorrectly prepared by the savings and loan association, were signed by the individual partners rather than by the partnership, and were filed under the partners' names. Nile Valley Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Sec. Title Guarantee Corp., 813 P.2d 849 (Colo. App. 1991).

Status of purchaser of leased property. Having notice of tenancy by virtue of the lessee's possession, the purchaser of leased property has a duty to inquire of the lessee concerning its rights in the leased property, and such purchaser takes subject to all rights which would have been revealed by reasonable inquiry, including the lessee's rights of first refusal. Cohen v. Thomas & Son Transf. Line, 196 Colo. 386, 586 P.2d 39 (1978).

B. Notice of Unrecorded Instruments.

Purpose of subsection (1). The meaning and intent of subsection (1) is that no prior unrecorded conveyance or contract, affecting the title to land, shall take effect as to any subsequent bona fide purchaser without notice, or as to any one who, in good faith and without notice of a prior unrecorded deed or other instrument, acquires a lien or incumbrance on the same tract of land. McMurtrie v. Riddell, 9 Colo. 497, 13 P. 181 (1886).

Unrecorded deed ineffective against creditor without notice. An unrecorded deed does not take effect as against an execution creditor without notice. Knox v. McFarran, 4 Colo. 586 (1879); McMurtrie v. Riddell, 9 Colo. 497, 13 P. 181 (1886); Jerome v. Carbonate Nat'l Bank, 22 Colo. 37, 43 P. 215 (1896); Western Chem. Mfg. Co. v. McCaffrey, 47 Colo. 397, 107 P. 1081 (1910); Hallett v. Alexander, 50 Colo. 37, 114 P. 490 (1911).

As to bona fide purchasers. An unrecorded deed, though binding upon the grantor, his heirs, and devisees, is a nullity as to bona fide purchasers or encumbrancers without notice. Hallett v. Alexander, 50 Colo. 37, 114 P. 490 (1911); Carroll v. Kit Carson Land Co., 24 Colo. App. 217, 133 P. 148 (1913).

Notice constructive if means exist to obtain knowledge. Notice may be constructive or implied from the fact that there existed means of knowledge which the party did not use. Jaramillo v. McLoy, 263 F. Supp. 870 (D. Colo. 1967).

Knowledge by agent that land across which easement ran was going to be sold and of closing date was sufficient to put easement purchaser on inquiry notice of existence of receipt and option contract to sell land, rendering easement subject to prior unrecorded interest under receipt and option contract. Enerwest, Inc. v. Dyco Petroleum Corp., 716 P.2d 1130 (Colo. App. 1986).

All instruments affecting title have same standing for recording purposes. All instruments affecting the title to real property are given the same standing for recording purposes and, by the terms of subsection (1), they may all be recorded, and if they are not recorded, they are without validity as against any class of persons holding any kind of rights except as between the parties themselves and those who have actual notice of the unrecorded instrument. Plew v. Colo. Lumber Prods., 28 Colo. App. 557, 481 P.2d 127 (1970).

Joint tenant not protected from unrecorded deed. A joint tenant is not in the "class of persons with any kind of rights" in the property, and thereby is not protected from an unrecorded deed. Carmack v. Place, 188 Colo. 303, 535 P.2d 197 (1975).

Internal revenue service lien against property belonging to former husband does not reach former wife's interest in that property. Although unrecorded, the separation agreement, which severed the joint tenancy and conveyed a life estate to the former wife, prevented former husband from contesting the ownership of interest conveyed to her. The IRS stands in the shoes of the former husband, who has no rights to property interest conveyed to former wife to which the tax lien could attach, where the IRS stipulated that its tax levy did not reach any interest of the former wife. United States v. Gibbons, 71 F.3d 1496 (10th Cir. 1995).

Party which had obtained authorization from surface estate owner to drill test hole to determine existence and extent of coal deposits, but not from owner of unrecorded coal lease or owner of mineral estate as required, was not party "with any kind of rights" entitled to protection of recording statute against coal lease owner's action for unauthorized geologic exploration. Grynberg v. City of Northglenn, 739 P.2d 230 (Colo. 1987).

Recording statutes do not apply to the enforceability of planned unit development (PUD) plans. PUD plans are filed pursuant to legislative enactments and constitute a form of rezoning. Recording of PUD plan provisions under the recording act is not required because the notice goals of the recording act are satisfied by the PUD approval process. A PUD plan is not an instrument affecting title to real property within the purview of the recording statutes. South Creek Assocs. v. Bixby, 781 P.2d 1027 (Colo. 1989).

Defense of bona fide purchaser must be presented by answer unless it appears by the complaint. Allen v. Blanche Gold Mining Co., 46 Colo. 199, 102 P. 1072 (1909).

IV. PRIORITIES.

A. General Principles.

On its face, the recording statute provides a method by which a later grantee of rights in real property can, under certain circumstances, perfect its title against an earlier grantee. However, a failure of the later grantee to qualify for the benefits of the statute does not necessarily mean that its interests are subordinate to those of an earlier grantee. If the later grantee has notice of the earlier unrecorded instrument or fails to record first, the recording statute simply fails to provide a mechanism for determining the priority of the competing interests, and none will be imputed to it. ALH Holding Co. v. Bank of Telluride, 18 P.3d 742 (Colo. 2000).

Instrument first recorded has priority. As between two trust deeds on the same property executed at the same time and as a part of the same transaction, the instrument first recorded is first in right. Bray v. Trower, 87 Colo. 240, 286 P. 275 (1930).

The purchaser whose conveyance is first filed for record is entitled to a preference, and obtains the title, regardless of the date of its execution.

Houlahan v. Fin. Consol. Mining Co., 34 Colo. 365, 82 P. 484 (1905).

Where two trust deeds are given to secure payment of the purchase price of property, they are of equal dignity in this respect, and the one which is recorded first constitutes the senior lien of the two. Bray v. Trower, 87 Colo. 240, 286 P. 275 (1930).

A junior deed first recorded, to one who purchases in good faith, is preferred to a prior deed not recorded. Kelsey v. Norris, 53 Colo. 306, 125 P. 111 (1912).

This section is a "race-notice statute" granting priority to a second grantee only if he takes the instrument without notice of the prior conveyance and gets his instrument recorded ahead of the prior instrument. Eastwood v. Shedd, 166 Colo. 136, 442 P.2d 423 (1968).

Order of judgment creditors is order transcripts filed. Equitable liens accrue to the benefit of judgment creditors in the order that the transcripts of judgment were filed. Fort Lupton State Bank v. Murata, 626 P.2d 757 (Colo. App. 1981).

Attachment lien takes precedence over unrecorded title. The lien of an attachment is an encumbrance within the meaning of subsection (1), and takes precedence over an unrecorded title or interest, of which the attaching creditor had no notice at the time of his attachment. Perkins v. Adams, 16 Colo. App. 96, 63 P. 792 (1901).

The "shelter rule" provides that one who is not a bona fide purchaser, but who takes an interest in property from a bona fide purchaser, may be sheltered in the latter's protective status. Strekal v. Espe, 114 P.3d 67 (Colo. App. 2004).

Under the shelter rule, party who buys real property from good faith purchaser who had no notice of potential title defect will acquire the status of that good faith purchaser without notice even though the party took the property with notice of a lis pendens. Strekal v. Espe, 114 P.3d 67 (Colo. App. 2004).

B. Illustrative Cases.

Donee with duly recorded instrument entitled to protection. The donee of real property, who has duly recorded the instrument of conveyance, is entitled to the protection of the Colorado conveyancing and recording act. Eastwood v. Shedd, 166 Colo. 136, 442 P.2d 423 (1968).

Failure to file assignment. Where plaintiff neglected to avail himself of the permission afforded by subsection (1) to file his assignment, his equity must be held inferior to the equity of a subsequent purchaser of the mortgaged property, who relied solely upon the record title, which showed on its face an unencumbered title in his remote grantor. Stetler v. Winegar, 75 Colo. 500, 226 P. 858 (1924).

Judgment lien superior to secret lien created by oral agreement. A judgment lien was held superior to any secret lien or trust existing in favor of the trustee created by oral agreement between the trustee and the cestuis que trust of which the judgment creditors had no notice. Teller v. Hill, 18 Colo. App. 509, 72 P. 811 (1903).

Judgment under creditor's bill deemed binding on purchasers from debtor. A judgment under a creditor's bill subjecting debtor's interest in lands to plaintiff's claim, is binding on purchasers from the debtor, although they were not parties to the suit, their deed being unrecorded at the time the action was instituted. Shuck v. Quackenbush, 75 Colo. 592, 227 P. 1041 (1924).

Holder of prior perfected deed of trust has priority over an attorney's charging lien where holder of deed has no actual or constructive notice of the attorney's lien. Cottonwood Hill, Inc. v. Ansay, 782 P.2d 1207 (Colo. App. 1989).

The holder of an interest in real property does not acquire a preferred title to such property by filing first when such holder has agreed that a subsequent encumbrance is superior. Fleet Real Estate Funding Corp. v. Koch, 805 P.2d 1206 (Colo. App. 1991).

38-35-109.5. Recording of instruments conveying real property to public entities.

(1) Any instrument, including, but not limited to, a resolution, ordinance, deed, conveyance document, plat, or survey, conveying the title of real property to the state or a political subdivision shall be recorded in the office of the clerk and recorder of the county in which such real property is situated within thirty days of such conveyance. If the state or a political subdivision fails to record such instrument pursuant to this section, the state or political subdivision shall be liable for the amount of interest incurred by the county pursuant to the provisions of section 39-12-111, C.R.S., due to such failure to record.

(2) For purposes of satisfying the recording requirement in subsection (1) of this section, the executive director of the appropriate state department or his or her designee shall record any instrument conveying the title of real property to the state, and a political subdivision shall designate an appropriate official or officials who shall record any instrument conveying the title of real property to the political subdivision.

(3) For purposes of this section, "political subdivision" means a county, city and county, city, town, service authority, school district, local improvement district, law enforcement authority, water, sanitation, fire protection, metropolitan, irrigation, drainage, or other special district or any other kind of municipal, quasi-municipal, or public corporation organized pursuant to law.

38-35-110. Lis pendens as notice - issuance of certificate - expiration. (1) After filing any pleading in an action in any court of record of this state or in any district court of the United States within this state wherein relief is claimed affecting the title to real property, any party to such action may record in the office of the county clerk and recorder in the county or counties in which the real property or any portion thereof is situated a notice of lis pendens containing the name of the court where such action is pending, the names of the parties to such action at the time of such recording, and a legal description of the real property. The failure to name a party or describe a portion of the real property in such notice shall not affect the sufficiency of such notice, or the sufficiency of an extension of such notice pursuant to the provisions of subsection (4) of this section, as to the interest of the parties named in such notice or in such extension in the real property described therein. From the time of recording, such notice of lis pendens shall be notice to any person thereafter acquiring, by, through, or under any party named in such notice, an interest in the real property described in the notice in the county or counties where recorded that the interest so acquired may be affected by the action described in the notice.

(2) (a) Unless a timely notice of appeal is filed while a notice of lis pendens is in effect or unless the notice of lis pendens has expired and ceased to be notice as provided in subsection (6) of this section, except as provided in sections 38-22-132 and 38-22.5-111, a recorded notice of lis pendens shall remain in effect until the earliest of the following:

(I) The action is dismissed without an order of the court;

(II) Forty-five days elapses following the entry of an appealable order determining that certain real property specifically described in such order, or a specifically described interest therein, will not be affected by a judgment on the issues then pending, but the notice of lis pendens shall remain in effect as to all other real property described in such notice; or

(III) Forty-five days elapses following the entry of final judgment in the trial court as to all parties and as to some or all of the real property described in the notice of lis pendens, or a specifically described interest therein, but the notice of lis pendens shall remain in effect as to all other property described in such notice.

(b) For the purposes of subparagraphs (II) and (III) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), the forty-five-day period shall commence on the first day allowed for the filing of an appeal.

(c) If a timely notice of appeal is filed while a notice of lis pendens is in effect or if the notice of lis pendens is filed after an appeal is filed, such notice of lis pendens shall remain in effect until the earliest of the following:

(I) The notice of lis pendens expires and ceases to be notice as provided in subsection (6) of this section;

(II) The court having jurisdiction over the action enters an order determining that the notice of lis pendens is no longer in effect;

(III) Thirty days elapses following the issuance of a mandate by the appellate court; except that, if the mandate issued by the appellate court remands the case to a lower court for further proceedings, the notice of lis pendens shall remain in effect subject to the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2).

(3) (a) Upon request by any person, the clerk of the trial court shall issue a certificate stating whether, as of a specified date, a judgment was entered in the action described in such certificate and the date of such judgment or, if the action was dismissed, the date of such dismissal and whether such dismissal was by court order, by notice, or by stipulation. In either case, the certificate shall also state either that, as of a specified date, posttrial motions have not been filed or that posttrial motions have been filed, identifying such motions and the action, if any, taken on such motions and the date of such action. The certificate shall also state that either there is or is not an advisory copy of a notice of appeal of the action filed with the trial court.

(b) Upon request by any person, the clerk of the appellate court shall issue a certificate stating, as of a specified date, either that appellate proceedings respecting the action described in such certificate have not been commenced or that such proceedings have been commenced and stating the date of such commencement. If appellate proceedings have been commenced, the certificate shall also state either that a formal mandate has or has not been issued and, if not issued, that either a judgment, an opinion of the court, and directions as to costs have not been issued or have been issued and the dates thereof.

(c) Upon being recorded with the county clerk and recorder of the county or counties wherein the real property or any portion thereof is situated, any such certificate issued by the clerk of the trial court or the clerk of the appellate court shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated.

(4) Except as provided in subsection (6) of this section, a recorded notice of lis pendens which has not ceased to be in effect as provided in subsection (2) of this section shall expire and cease to be notice to any person for any purpose six years after the date of its recording, unless an extension of the notice of lis pendens is recorded prior to its expiration. A timely recorded extension showing the information required in subsection (1) of this section, showing that such is an extension of an original notice of lis pendens, and showing the recording date of the original notice of lis pendens shall extend the effect of the original notice for six years after the date of recording the extension or to such earlier date as such notice ceases to be in effect as provided in subsection (2) of this section.

(5) A new notice of lis pendens meeting all the requirements of subsection (1) of this section may be recorded at any time while the action is pending and shall be notice to the same extent as provided in subsection (1) of this section; except that such new notice shall be notice only from the time of its recording.

(6) Any notice of lis pendens recorded prior to March 20, 1992, which does not cease to be in effect as provided in subsection (2) of this section and which is not extended as provided in subsection (4) of this section shall expire and cease to be notice to any person for any purpose six years after the date of its recording or two years after March 20, 1992, whichever is later.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Curative Statutes of Colorado Respecting Titles to Real Estate", see 26 Dicta 321 (1949).

The intended purpose for filing a notice of lis pendens is to provide notice to anyone who may acquire an interest in the property during the pendency of litigation so that he or she will be bound by its outcome. Moore & Assocs. Realty, Inc. v. Arrowhead at Vail, 892 P.2d 367 (Colo. App. 1994) (decided under former C.R.C.P. 105 (f)(1)); Brossia v. Rick Constr., L.T.D., 81 P.3d 1126 (Colo. App. 2003).

Effect of filing lis pendens. Tinglof v. Askerlund, 96 Colo. 27, 39 P.2d 1039 (1934).

Notice of lis pendens did not constitute filing or recording of an equitable lien against the property. Thomas v. Oken, 699 P.2d 7 (Colo. App. 1984); Alien, Inc. v. Futterman, 924 P.2d 1063 (Colo. App. 1995).

Validity of a notice of lis pendens is determined when it is recorded, and the subsequent filing of an amended complaint that asserts an equitable lien claim cannot relate back to the date of the original complaint and thereby render an invalid notice of lis pendens valid. Brossia v. Rick Constr., L.T.D., 81 P.3d 1126 (Colo. App. 2003).

Lis pendens terminates with dismissal of plaintiff's appeal. A subsequent settlement between the parties did not resurrect the lis pendens and thus was not binding on the interests of a third party which had filed an interest on the property during the pendency of the lis pendens. Perry Park Country Club, Inc. v. Manhattan Sav. Bank, 813 P.2d 841 (Colo. App. 1991).

Notice recorded pursuant to § 38-22-129 does not satisfy the notice requirement of this section. Weize Co., LLC v. Colo. Reg'l Constr., 251 P.3d 489 (Colo. App. 2010).

District court correctly determined that notice of lis pendens was of no effect vis-a-vis defendant holding deed of trust on the property and, therefore, did not impair defendant's right to foreclose on the property. A notice of lis pendens is not notice to a person who acquires an interest in property from someone other than the parties named in the notice. Here, it is undisputed that the deed of trust to the subject property was not given to defendant's assignor by plaintiffs, because defendant's assignor did not acquire its interest in the property "by, through, or under any party named in" the notice of lis pendens. By the express language of subsection (1), therefore, the notice of lis pendens was not notice to defendant of plaintiff's claimed interest in the property. Thomas v. Lynx United Group, LLC, 159 P.3d 789 (Colo. App. 2006).

Notice of lis pendens was ineffective as to defendant's assignor because defendant's assignor did not acquire its interest in the property "by, through, or under any party named in" the notice of lis pendens and because it could not be found in defendant's chain of title and, therefore, failed to provide constructive notice of plaintiff's interest in property. Subsection (1) expressly provides that a notice of lis pendens must be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the real property is located. Interests in property that do not appear in the chain of title, as shown by the grantor and grantee indices, do not give notice to purchasers of those interests. Here, notice of lis pendens that failed to list record holder of title to property was outside defendant's chain of title. As a matter of law, therefore, it did not provide constructive notice of plaintiff's claimed interest in the property, notwithstanding that it was filed in the office of the county clerk and recorder. Accordingly, defendant properly permitted to foreclose on the deed of trust. Thomas v. Lynx United Group, LLC, 159 P.3d 789 (Colo. App. 2006).

Filing motion to amend or supplement complaint to add a count relating to property purchased with allegedly fraudulently transferred funds immediately prior to recording lis pendens, was filing of pleading under this section. Emarine v. Haley, 892 P.2d 343 (Colo. App. 1994) (decided under former C.R.C.P. 105 (f)(1)).

Although this section does not expressly authorize the filing of a notice of lis pendens in a federal action, its plain language includes the filing of a notice of an action in any court. Alien, Inc. v. Futterman, 924 P.2d 1063 (Colo. App. 1995).

A party to an out-of-state action affecting title to real property in Colorado is entitled to file a notice of lis pendens. Kerns v. Kerns, 53 P.3d 1157 (Colo. 2002).

Trial court had no authority to release notice of lis pendens while plaintiffs' claims remained pending in federal court. Alien, Inc. v. Futterman, 924 P.2d 1063 (Colo. App. 1995).

An equitable action to impose a constructive trust on real property located within the state of Colorado entitles the party bringing the action to file a notice of lis pendens against that property in accordance with this section. Kerns v. Kerns, 53 P.3d 1157 (Colo. 2002).

The phrase "[t]he court having jurisdiction over the action" in subsection (2)(c)(II) does not mean the judge presiding over the underlying probate matter. Pierce v. Francis, 194 P.3d 505 (Colo. App. 2008).

38-35-111. Option to purchase - notice for one year only. (1) Recorded instruments in writing of the nature of an option to purchase affecting title to real property under the terms of which instruments possession is not delivered to the purchaser shall not constitute notice to any person for a period of more than one year after the time specified in such instrument for the conveyance of said property. After the expiration of such period, such instrument shall cease to be notice to any person for any purpose.

(2) All such instruments which have been recorded prior to March 28, 1927, shall constitute notice only for one year from said date if the time for performance therein fixed has expired. Thereafter such instruments shall cease to be notice to any person for any purpose. In the event the time for performance specified in such instrument has not expired by March 28, 1927, such instrument shall constitute notice only for a period of one year from the time in said instrument specified for performance, and thereafter the same shall cease to be notice to any person for any purpose.

(3) If a notice of lis pendens conforming to the requirements of section 38-35-110 is recorded prior to the expiration of the one-year period, such instrument shall continue to be notice until the later of the expiration of such period or the date the lis pendens ceases to be in effect or expires and ceases to be notice in accordance with the provisions of section 38-35-110.

Purchasers and redemptioners are parties to foreclosure proceedings. Purchasers at a judicial mortgage sale and redemptioners become parties to such foreclosure proceedings, subject to the jurisdiction of the court with respect to all

38-35-115. Execution by foreign representative of instrument regarding real estate prior to filing certified copies of order of appointment. When, by statute in effect at the time of the execution by an executor, trustee, or other representative appointed by a court or tribunal of a state other than Colorado or of a territory of the United States or of a country beyond the limits of the United States of an instrument of conveyance or encumbrance or contract concerning real estate in Colorado in accordance with the powers conferred by a will, testament, or codicil admitted to probate by such court or tribunal, a certified copy or an exemplified copy of the letters testamentary or trusteeship issued by such court or tribunal under such will, testament, or codicil or of the order of appointment by such court or tribunal is required to be filed for record with the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein is situated such real estate, the filing for record with such county clerk and recorder of such certified copy or exemplified copy of letters or order after the execution of such instrument of conveyance or encumbrance or contract shall have the same force and effect that it would have had if it had been filed for record with such county clerk and recorder prior to the execution of such instrument of conveyance or encumbrance or contract, whether such instrument of conveyance or encumbrance or contract was executed before or after April 17, 1941, and whether such certified copy or exemplified copy was so filed for record before or after said date.

38-35-116. Variances in names in instruments affecting the title to real property. (1) (a) The middle name or the initial of a middle name appearing in a name contained in an instrument affecting the title to real property or in a signature or an acknowledgment shall be deemed prima facie to be a material part of such name.

(b) One or more of the following variances between any two instruments affecting the title to the same real property shall not destroy or impair the presumption that the person so named is the same person in both instruments:

(I) The full first name appearing in one and only the initial letter of that first name appearing in the other;

(II) A full middle name appearing in one and only the initial letter of that middle name appearing in the other;

(III) The initial letter of a middle name appearing in one and not appearing in the other; or

(IV) A full middle name appearing in one and not appearing in the other.

(c) In spite of a variance described in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), the person so named in both instruments shall be presumed to be the same person until such time as the contrary appears, and, until such time, such instruments, the record of such instruments, or a certified copy of the record of such instruments shall be admissible in evidence as though the names in the two instruments were identical.

(2) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2003, p. 833, § 1, effective August 6, 2003.)

(3) The word "instruments" as used in this section means not only instruments voluntarily executed but also papers filed or issued in or in connection with actions and other proceedings in court and orders, judgments, and decrees entered therein and transcripts of such judgments, proceedings in foreclosure pursuant to powers of sale, certificates of birth, certificates of death, and certificates of marriage.

This section supports a conclusion that, when an individual uses a first initial, the individual's middle name is deemed to be

38-35-117. Mortgages, not a conveyance - lien theory. Mortgages, trust deeds, or other instruments intended to secure the payment of an obligation affecting title to or an interest in real property shall not be deemed a conveyance, regardless of its terms, so as to enable the owner of the obligation secured to recover possession of real property without foreclosure and sale, but the same shall be deemed a lien.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "Must Colorado Real Property Installment Sale Contracts Be Foreclosed as Mortgages?", see 9 Dicta 320 (1932). For note, "Validity of 'Myself' Notes and Deeds of Trust", see 30 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 195 (1958).

Value tends to show transaction's character. In an action to have a deed, absolute on its face, declared a mortgage, value is one test tending to show the character of the transaction. Wilson v. Giem, 90 Colo. 27, 5 P.2d 880 (1931); Taylor v. Briggs, 99 Colo. 89, 60 P.2d 1081 (1936).

Deeds as security agreement within section. Where the grantor executed deeds for certain real property to the grantee under an agreement, the agreement is a security arrangement in the fullest sense since it provided for extension of existing loans, set forth the terms of future loans, and left grantor in possession and holding equitable title; therefore, the deeds are instruments which secured the payment of an obligation, and as such, they fell squarely within the provisions of this section and had the legal effect of mortgages and had to be foreclosed as such. Weil v. Colo. Livestock Prod. Credit Ass'n, 30 Colo. App. 301, 494 P.2d 134 (1971).

Cannot sever a joint tenancy. Deed of trust is not a conveyance but is, instead, a lien and thus cannot sever a joint tenancy. Webster v. Mauz, 702 P.2d 297 (Colo. App. 1985).

Equitable mortgage. A deed deposited in escrow to be delivered to the grantee on failure of the grantor to pay a debt due the grantee is an equitable mortgage. Larson v. Hinds, 155 Colo. 282, 394 P.2d 129 (1964).

Conveyance with contemporaneous bond to reconvey evidence of mortgage. A conveyance of land, with contemporaneous bond to reconvey, is sometimes accepted as strong evidence that a mortgage is intended, but where it appears that an absolute transfer is the purpose of the parties, this intention prevails. Baird v. Baird, 48 Colo. 506, 111 P. 79 (1910).

No instrument intended to secure the payment of a debt shall be deemed a conveyance, regardless of its terms. Ver Straten v. Worth, 79 Colo. 30, 243 P. 1104 (1926); Reid v. Pyle, 51 P.3d 1064 (Colo. App. 2002).

Quitclaim deed with contemporaneous written agreement constituting security. A quitclaim deed, taken in connection with a contemporaneous written agreement concerning possession of the property, held to constitute security for a debt, and therefore a mortgage. Ver Straten v. Worth, 79 Colo. 30, 243 P. 1104 (1926).

Deed of trust given as security deemed mortgage. A deed of trust given as security for a debt is a mortgage. McGovney v. Gwillim, 16 Colo. App. 284, 65 P. 346 (1901).

Quitclaim deed given as security deemed mortgage. A quitclaim deed, given and intended as security for a debt, is a mortgage. Morris v. Cheney, 81 Colo. 393, 255 P. 987 (1927).

Installment contract for sale of land deemed mortgage. Where A contracted to sell land to B, the latter to pay the purchase price in installments, the contract is in effect a mortgage which secured to A the performance of the obligations of B. Pope v. Parker, 84 Colo. 535, 271 P. 1118 (1928).

Where vendor retains possession of property sold. A contract for the sale and purchase of real estate on the installment plan, where the vendor retained possession is not to be a mortgage, and not to be treated as such under this section. Am. Mtg. Co. v. Logan, 90 Colo. 157, 7 P.2d 953 (1932).

Installment contract where time is of essence not mortgage. An installment contract where time is of the essence is not a mortgage and is not to be treated as such, for if it were, either actually or in effect, a mortgage, the vendor could not recover possession under the unlawful detainer act until after foreclosure and sale, and then only in the event that he purchased at the sale. Am. Mtg. Co. v. Logan, 90 Colo. 157, 7 P.2d 953 (1932).

Lease and option to purchase property granted to lessee as consideration for allowing foreclosure of a deed of trust given to creditors for purchase price did not constitute an equitable mortgage where there was no underlying debt or obligation secured by the return of title to property to creditors and the granting of a lease and option to lessee. Alien, Inc. v. Futterman, 924 P.2d 1063 (Colo. App. 1995).

Stipulation that mortgagee becomes absolute owner upon default void. No force will be given to a stipulation in a mortgage, or in a deed intended as a mortgage, or in any instrument executed at the same time accompanying such deed by which the mortgagor agrees that, if he fails to make payment by a stated time, the mortgagee shall become the absolute owner of the property because the deed when executed, being simply a mortgage for the security of a debt, cannot become anything else, except through the execution of a subsequent agreement based upon a valuable consideration. Larson v. Hinds, 155 Colo. 282, 394 P.2d 129 (1964).

Provision for vendor's re-entry upon default void. A provision in sale contract that upon default vendor might re-enter and sell premises is void. Pope v. Parker, 84 Colo. 535, 271 P. 1118 (1928).

Receiver to be appointed to collect rents and profits. Although this section provides that the owner of a real estate mortgage shall not be entitled to the possession of the mortgaged property without foreclosure and sale, where such a mortgage pledges rents and profits as part of the security, and the security is inadequate and the mortgagor insolvent, a court of equity may appoint a receiver any time after filing the suit of foreclosure to collect the rents and profits and have the same applied on the mortgage debt. Moncrieff v. Hare, 38 Colo. 221, 87 P. 1082 (1906); Elmira Mechanics' Soc'y v. Stanchfield, 160 F. 811 (8th Cir. 1908).

A director's deed resulting from an IRS tax sale was not an instrument intended to secure payment of an obligation under this section and was not a lien that must be foreclosed upon in order for the plaintiffs to assert their ownership rights. Behr v. Burge, 940 P.2d 1084 (Colo. App. 1996).

Applied in Fairview Mining Corp. v. Am. Mines & Smelting Co., 86 Colo. 77, 278 P. 800 (1929); Jenkins v. Peet, 19 Bankr. 105 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1982).

II. EFFECT OF SECTION.

Mortgage does not vest title in the mortgagee. Fehringer v. Martin, 22 Colo. App. 634, 126 P. 1131 (1912).

The mortgagor is still the owner, notwithstanding the mortgage. Hendricks v. Town of Julesburg, 55 Colo. 59, 132 P. 61 (1913).

Mortgagee has a lien merely; if the mortgagee is out of possession and not entitled to possession, he cannot maintain an action of trespass for damages. Pueblo & A.V.R.R. v. Beshoas, 8 Colo. 32, 5 P. 639 (1884).

This section deprives the mortgagee of all possession and right of possession, before or after the condition is broken, until after foreclosure and sale. Pueblo & A.V.R.R. v. Beshoas, 8 Colo. 32, 5 P. 639 (1884); Moncrieff v. Hare, 38 Colo. 221, 87 P. 1082 (1906); Fidelity Bond & Mtg. Co. v. Paul, 90 Colo. 94, 6 P.2d 462 (1931); Erwin v. West, 105 Colo. 71, 99 P.2d 201 (1939).

Mortgagee has no right to possession until after foreclosure and sale and expiration of period of redemption. Morris v. Cheney, 81 Colo. 393, 255 P. 987 (1927); Moncrieff v. Hare, 38 Colo. 221, 87 P. 1082 (1906).

Colorado has adopted by statute a lien theory of mortgages, which theory generally prohibits a mortgagee from acquiring possession of a mortgaged property until a foreclosure and sale have occurred. Martinez v. Continental Enter., 730 P.2d 308 (Colo. 1986).

Under a lien theory, the mortgage on a deed of trust creates a lien against real property but does not convey title. Hohn v. Morrison, 870 P.2d 513 (Colo. App. 1993).

In a lien theory jurisdiction such as Colorado, a mortgage, deed of trust, or other interest "intended to secure the payment of an obligation affecting title to or an interest in real property shall not be deemed a conveyance" but is, instead, a lien; however, the fact that a mortgage or deed of trust is a security interest, rather than an ownership interest in real property, does not mean that it is not an asset. Herstam v. Bd. of Dirs., 895 P.2d 1131 (Colo. App. 1995).

Section's effect unchanged if mortgage in form of deed absolute. The fact that the mortgage is in the form of a deed absolute on its face does not change the rule, provided by this section, as it affects the mortgagee and his representatives. Pueblo & A.V.R.R. v. Beshoas, 8 Colo. 32, 5 P. 639 (1884); Fehringer v. Martin, 22 Colo. App. 634, 126 P. 1131 (1912).

An unconditional tender of the amount due by the debtor releases the lien of the mortgage unless the creditor establishes a justifiable and good faith reason for rejection of the tender. Hohn v. Morrison, 870 P.2d 513 (Colo. App. 1993).

To the extent a clause in a deed of trust giving the mortgagee the right to possession of property subject to the deed of trust on default on note was inconsistent with statute dealing with right to possession, the statute prevails. Martinez v. Continental Enter., 730 P.2d 308 (Colo. 1986).

Regardless of the terms in the deed of trust, lender has only an inchoate right to rents until mortgagor defaults and lender takes some "effectual step", such as filing foreclosure or gaining rightful possession, to subject assigned rents to payment of the debt. Galleria Towers v. Crump Warren & Sommer, 831 P.2d 908 (Colo. App. 1991).

Where tenant is released from rental obligations by mortgagor prior to foreclosure by lender, lender's rights to receive rents are not vested and therefore extinguished by the release. Galleria Towers v. Crump Warren & Sommer, 831 P.2d 908 (Colo. App. 1991).

III. EVIDENCE.

Extrinsic evidence may prove deed. A deed, purporting to be an absolute conveyance, may be proven by extrinsic evidence, either parol or written, to be in effect a mortgage. Larson v. Hinds, 155 Colo. 282, 394 P.2d 129 (1964); Baird v. Baird, 48 Colo. 506, 111 P. 79 (1910); Davis v. Pursel, 55 Colo. 287, 134 P. 107 (1913); Denver Sanitarium & Hosp. Ass'n v. Roberts, 65 Colo. 60, 174 P. 300 (1918); Oppegard v. Oppegard, 90 Colo. 483, 10 P.2d 333 (1932).

Oral evidence is admissible to show a deed is a mortgage, even though fraud or mistake is not alleged specifically. Ver Straten v. Worth, 79 Colo. 30, 243 P. 1104 (1926).

Oral evidence is admissible to show that the deed in effect is a mortgage, notwithstanding a contemporaneous written agreement.; Townsend v. Petersen, 12 Colo. 491, 21 P. 619 (1889); Armor v. Spalding, 14 Colo. 302, 23 P. 789 (1890); Perot v. Cooper, 17 Colo. 80, 28 P. 391 (1891); Davis v. Hopkins, 18 Colo. 153, 32 P. 70 (1893); Butsch v. Smith, 40 Colo. 64, 90 P. 61 (1907); Blackstock v. Robertson, 42 Colo. 472, 94 P. 336 (1908).

In an action to redeem from what purports to be an absolute sale of lands, though the object of the parties to the transaction is expressed in one or more separate writings, it is competent to prove by parol evidence that the real transaction is a mortgage, regardless of the number of writings by which it is evidenced. Blackstock v. Robertson, 42 Colo. 472, 94 P. 336 (1908).

Evidence must be clear, certain, and unequivocal, and it must be convincing beyond a reasonable doubt in order to sustain a bill to declare an absolute deed a mortgage. Baird v.

Baird, 48 Colo. 506, 111 P. 79 (1910); Denver Sanitarium & Hosp. Ass'n v. Roberts, 65 Colo. 60, 174 P. 300 (1918); Oppegard v. Oppegard, 90 Colo. 483, 10 P.2d 333 (1932); Whitsett v. Kershow, 4 Colo. 419 (1878); Townsend v. Petersen, 12 Colo. 491, 21 P. 619 (1889); Armor v. Spalding, 14 Colo. 302, 23 P. 789 (1890); Davis v. Hopkins, 18 Colo. 153, 32 P. 70 (1893); Graff v. Portland Town & Mineral Co., 12 Colo.

App. 106, 54 P. 854 (1898); Butsch v. Smith, 40 Colo. 64, 90 P. 61 (1907); Enos v. Anderson, 40 Colo. 395, 93 P. 475 (1907).

Party alleging mortgage has burden of proof. The burden of so establishing the fact rests upon the party who alleges the conveyance to be a mortgage. Oppegard v. Oppegard, 90 Colo. 483., 10 P.2d 333 (1932).

38-35-118. Homestead, how conveyed - claimant insane. (1) Except as provided in section 38-41-202 (3), to convey or encumber homesteaded property, the husband and wife, if the owner thereof is married, shall execute the conveyance or encumbrance. Such conveyance or encumbrance may be by one instrument or separate instruments which may be acknowledged in the manner provided by articles 30 to 44 of this title. A recital in any recorded conveyance or encumbrance of real property of the marital status of the party executing the same or that the property is or is not occupied as a home by the owner thereof or his family shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. If the owner of the homesteaded property and a person of the opposite sex, both bearing the same surname, join in the conveyance or encumbrance thereof, the identity of surnames shall be prima facie evidence that such parties are husband and wife for the purposes of this article.

(2) A homestead exemption may be released by an instrument in writing, signed by the party who could convey said property. A statement contained in a mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument creating a lien waiving or releasing the homestead shall be construed only as a subordination of the homestead to such mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien.

(3) If the homestead is claimed by a person who at the time of conveyance or encumbrance thereof is insane or mentally incompetent and for whose estate there is a conservator duly appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction as provided by the laws of Colorado, the court having jurisdiction of the estate of such insane or mentally incompetent person, wherever it appears to be in the best interests of the ward, may by order empower such conservator to convey or encumber the homestead of such insane or mentally incompetent person.

(4) If such insane or mentally incompetent person is married, the conservator of the estate of the insane or mentally incompetent spouse, when so authorized by court to convey or encumber the homestead of his ward, may do so by a single instrument in writing jointly executed by such conservator and the other spouse, not insane, or such conservator may convey or encumber such homestead of his ward by a separate instrument.

(5) In all cases wherein the court orders a conveyance or encumbrance of a homestead claimed by an insane or mentally incompetent person, the actual consideration for the conveyance or encumbrance of such homestead, whether in money or equivalent property, but not to exceed the sum of five thousand dollars in amount or value, shall be delivered to and accounted for by the conservator of the estate of such insane or mentally incompetent person and such funds or property coming into the possession of the conservator from such sources shall not be liable for the debts of the insane or mentally incompetent person.

38-35-124. Requirements upon satisfaction of indebtedness. Except as provided in articles 22 and 23 of this title, when all indebtedness, whether absolute or contingent, secured by a lien on real property has been satisfied, unless the debtor requests in writing that the lien not be released, the creditor or holder of the indebtedness shall, within ninety days after the satisfaction of the indebtedness and receipt from the debtor of the reasonable costs of procuring and recording the release documents, record with the appropriate clerk and recorder the documents necessary to release or satisfy the lien of record or, in the case of an indebtedness secured by a deed of trust to a public trustee, file with the public trustee the documents required for a release as prescribed by section 38-39-102. If the debtor requests in writing that the lien be released, or fails to request in writing that the lien not be released, then the debtor's request or the actual release shall cancel any obligations on the part of the creditor or holder to make any further loan or advance that would be secured by the lien. If the person satisfying the indebtedness requests in writing delivery to him or her of the cancelled instruments of indebtedness at the time of satisfaction, the creditor or holder shall be relieved of any further obligation or liability under this section after such delivery has been completed. Upon satisfaction of the indebtedness, the creditor or holder shall return to the person satisfying the indebtedness all papers and personal property of the debtor that have been held by the creditor or holder in connection with the indebtedness. Any creditor or holder who fails to comply with this section shall be liable to the owner of the real property encumbered by such indebtedness and to any other person liable on such indebtedness for all actual economic loss incurred enforcing the rights provided under this section, including reasonable attorney fees and costs.

ANNOTATION

In action brought against the United States by local housing authority to quiet title to real property, federal law preempted this Colorado statute. Hous. Authority of City of Fort Collins v. U.S., 980 F.2d 624 (10th Cir. 1992).

This section clearly and unequivocally requires a satisfaction of an indebtedness before a creditor is required to file the documents necessary for a release of lien. Hohn v. Morrison, 870 P.2d 513 (Colo. App. 1993).

This section clearly requires that, upon tender of a payment fully satisfying an obligation secured by real property, the deed of trust securing that obligation must be released. Crown Bank v. Crowder Mortgage Corp., 5 P.3d 954 (Colo. App. 2000).

A lender cannot place conditions on its release of a deed of trust other than the satisfaction of the indebtedness secured by that deed of trust. This conclusion is consistent with the apparent purpose of the statute, which is to permit the owners of real property to obtain the release of liens by the payment of the full amount secured by the lien and thereby permit the owner to sell, pledge, or otherwise deal with the property of the lien. If a lien holder were permitted further to condition the release of the lien, it could use that ability to coerce settlement of other disputes or accounts, a result the statute was clearly intended to prevent. Crown Bank v. Crowder Mortgage Corp., 5 P.3d 954 (Colo. App. 2000).

38-35-124.5. Effect of written payoff statement. (1) Any person or entity providing closing and settlement services for a real estate transaction and to whom a payoff statement is addressed shall be entitled to reasonably rely on the amounts that are set forth in such payoff statement for the time frame set forth therein and shall not be liable to the creditor or holder of the indebtedness or its agent for any omitted amounts, unless a written amendment is received by such person or entity prior to the closing of the transaction. Upon payment to the creditor or holder of the amounts stated in the written payoff statement, as may be amended, such creditor or holder shall be required to comply with the release provisions of section 38-35-124.

(2) Any creditor or holder of the indebtedness who fails to comply with the release provisions of section 38-35-124 as required by subsection (1) of this section shall be liable to those persons or entities to whom the written payoff statement was addressed for any actual economic loss suffered by such persons or entities, including reasonable attorney fees and costs in enforcing the provisions of this section.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, in the event of an error in the written payoff statement provided by a creditor or holder of the indebtedness or its agent, the creditor shall retain any remedies, legal or equitable, to collect directly against the obligor any unsecured additional amounts determined to be outstanding.

38-35-125. Closing and settlement services - disbursement of funds. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) “Available for immediate withdrawal as a matter of right” includes funds transferred by any of the following means:

(I) Any wire transfer;

(II) Any certified check, cashier’s check, teller’s check, or any other instrument as defined by federal regulation CC, 12 CFR 229.10 (c).

(a.5) “Closing and settlement services” means those services which benefit the parties to the sale, lease, encumbrance, mortgage, or creation of a secured interest in and to real property and the receipt and disbursement of money in connection with any sale, lease, encumbrance, mortgage, or deed of trust.

(b) “Financial institution” means an entity that is authorized under the laws of this state, another state, or the United States to make loans and receive deposits and has its deposits insured by the federal deposit insurance corporation or its successor or the national credit union share insurance fund.

(c) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2004, p. 1206, § 83, effective August 4, 2004.)

(2) No person or entity that provides closing and settlement services for a real estate transaction shall disburse funds as a part of such services until those funds have been received and are either: Available for immediate withdrawal as a matter of right from the financial institution in which the funds have been deposited; or available for immediate withdrawal as a consequence of an agreement of a financial institution in which the funds are to be deposited or a financial institution upon which the funds are to be drawn. Any such agreement shall be made with or for the benefit of the person or entity providing closing and settlement services for a real estate transaction. Notwithstanding the provisions of this subsection (2), the person or entity providing closing and settlement services may advance funds, not to exceed five hundred dollars, on behalf of interested parties for the transaction to pay incidental fees for such items as tax certificates and recording costs or to cover minor changes in the closing adjustments.

(3) The requirements of subsection (2) of this section may be waived by the seller in the real estate transaction if:

(a) It is specified as part of written closing instructions in advance of closing that the seller waives the requirements set forth in subsection (2) of this section and that the person or entity conducting the closing, unless such person or entity is the seller, is not to handle the receipt and disbursement of funds as part of the closing; and

(b) Any holder of a lien encumbering the property up to the time of closing agrees, in writing, to such waiver and further agrees, in writing, to release such lien immediately upon receipt of a check from the closing drawn in the amount of the outstanding indebtedness secured by such lien. Such an agreement shall obligate the lienholder to release such lien regardless of whether the payoff check received has been or will be honored.

(4) Any seller who so requests as part of written closing instructions in advance of closing shall be entitled to receive the proceeds of closing in a cashier's check or in funds electronically transferred to an account specified by the seller.

(5) Failure to comply with the provisions of this section shall be deemed a deceptive trade practice, as provided in section 6-1-105 (1) (v), C.R.S., and the attorney general or a district attorney may apply to the appropriate district court of this state for an order to effect the purposes of this section.

38-35-126. Contract for deed - escrow of tax moneys - written notice. (1) (a) Parties entering into a contract for deed to real property shall designate the public trustee of the county where the real property is located to act as escrow agent for moneys paid or to be paid by the purchaser to meet the property tax obligations on the real property, including the seller's credit at closing for the current year's property taxes and periodic property tax payments, which the contract shall provide will be made monthly by the purchaser to the public trustee. The purchaser shall be responsible for payment to the public trustee of the escrow fee pursuant to section 38-37-104 (1) (d). Once each year during the month of April, upon notice from the county treasurer, the public trustee shall, to the extent funds are on deposit in the escrow account, transfer sufficient funds from the escrow account to the county treasurer for payment of property taxes on the real property for the prior taxable year. The public trustee shall continue as escrow agent for tax moneys collected on the real property until the deed to the real property is delivered to the purchaser and recorded. At the time of delivery, the public trustee shall release to the purchaser any moneys remaining in the escrow account and the receipts for all property taxes paid on the property by the public trustee. If the public trustee determines that the escrow is no longer necessary, the public trustee may terminate the escrow account. The public trustee shall notify the county treasurer of the termination and shall transfer any moneys held in escrow to the county treasurer for payment of property taxes in accordance with section 39-10-104.5, C.R.S. Any amount so transferred by the public trustee shall be subtracted from the amount of property tax payable on the real property at the time annual property taxes for the current or subsequent taxable years are due. Upon termination of the escrow account, any amount not accepted by the county treasurer upon transfer shall be returned by the public trustee to the person holding title to the real property that is the subject of the contract for deed to real property.

(b) For the purposes of this section, a “contract for deed to real property” means a contract for the sale of real property which provides that the purchaser shall assume possession of the real property and the rights and responsibilities of ownership of the real property but that the deed to such real property will not be delivered to the purchaser for at least one hundred eighty days following the latest execution date on the contract for deed to real property and not until the purchaser has met certain conditions such as payment of the full contract price or a specified portion thereof. “Contract for deed to real property” includes installment land contracts.

(c) The public trustee shall deposit tax moneys received pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) in an escrow account opened for such purpose in one or more financial institutions which are in compliance with and qualified and defined in article 10.5 of title 11, C.R.S. Moneys from more than one transaction may be commingled in one account, to be accounted for separately. If the escrow account opened by the public trustee under the provisions of this subsection (1) bears interest, such interest shall be retained by the public trustee to defray expenses arising from the administration of such escrow account.

(d) A public trustee may designate an alternate to act as escrow agent on any contract for deed to real property in which the public trustee is designated as escrow agent pursuant to the provisions of this section; except that such alternate shall not be a party to the contract for deed to real property. Such designation shall be made by sending written notification of such designation to the parties to such contract and to the county treasurer. Such notice shall include the name and legal address of the designated alternate and the date such designated alternate shall assume the duties of escrow agent. Such designated alternate shall have all of the duties and powers of the public trustee to act as escrow agent on a contract for deed to real property as stated in this section. In the event that the public trustee designates an alternate to serve as escrow agent, the purchaser shall pay to the designated alternate the escrow fee as stated in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1).

(2) Within ninety days of executing and delivering a contract for deed to real property, the seller shall file with the county treasurer of the county wherein the real property is located a written notice of transfer by contract for deed to real property. Such notice shall not operate to convey title. Such notice shall include the name and legal address of the seller, the name and legal address of the purchaser, a legal description of the real property, the date upon which the contract for deed to real property was executed and delivered, and the date or conditions upon which the deed to the real property will be delivered to the purchaser, absent default. In addition, within ninety days of executing and delivering the contract for deed to real property, the seller shall file a real estate transfer declaration with the county assessor of the county wherein the property is located, pursuant to the provisions of section 39-14-102, C.R.S.

(3) The buyer shall have the option of voiding any contract for deed to real property which fails to designate the public trustee as escrow agent for deposit of property tax moneys or for which no written notice is filed with the county treasurer’s office or the county assessor’s office. Upon avoidance of such contract, the buyer shall be entitled to the return of all payments made on the contract, with statutory interest as defined in section 5-12-102, C.R.S., and reasonable attorney fees and costs. This avoidance right shall expire on the date seven years after the latest execution date on the contract for deed to real property unless exercised prior to such date.

(4) The provisions of subsections (1) and (3) of this section shall not apply to the parties to a contract for deed to real property so long as the seller complies with the requirements of subsection (2) of this section, so long as the real property which is the subject of such contract for deed to real property is not subdivided into parcels which are smaller than one acre, and so long as the seller pays the annual property tax obligations on the real property which is the subject of such contract for deed to real property or submits a bond or an irrevocable letter of credit in the amount of the taxes due on such real property to the county treasurer, either of which shall be immediately payable to such county treasurer upon default. Payment of such property taxes or submittal of such bond or irrevocable letter of credit shall be made within thirty days of mailing of the notice of taxes due from the county treasurer and prior to seeking reimbursement from the purchaser.

ANNOTATION

Where installment land contract failed to include required provision under subsection (1)(a) designating the public trustee as escrow agent, contract violated mandate of this section, and buyers were entitled to void it. Haan v. Traylor, 79 P.3d 114 (Colo. App. 2003).

Upon voidance of a contract under subsection (1)(a), buyers were also entitled to an award of their reasonable attorney fees and costs under subsection (3). Haan v. Traylor, 79 P.3d 114 (Colo. App. 2003).

Buyer's claim under subsection (3) to void installment land contract was an affirmative defense and compulsory counterclaim. As such, defense and claim should have been asserted in buyer's responsive pleading (or amended responsive pleading) or they are waived. Buyer's claim was related to seller's claim and, therefore, was a compulsory counterclaim. Dinosaur Park Invs., L.L.C. v. Tello, 192 P.3d 513 (Colo. App. 2008).

District court erred in allowing buyer under C.R.C.P. 15(a) to amend his answer to raise defense under subsection (3) following trial after ruling before trial that he would not be permitted to raise such defense. Where a defense or claim is not pleaded or intentionally and actually tried, a court cannot render a judgment thereon. This rule cannot be circumvented by allowing a party to amend his or her answer after trial where the defense or claim was not tried by express or implied consent. Dinosaur Park Invs., L.L.C. v. Tello, 192 P.3d 513 (Colo. App. 2008).

Further, the district court abused its discretion in effectively permitting buyer to amend his answer after trial because seller was clearly prejudiced. Dinosaur Park Invs., L.L.C. v. Tello, 192 P.3d 513 (Colo. App. 2008).

38-35-127. Unenforceability of prospective residential transfer fee covenants - notice requirements for existing residential transfer fee covenants - written statement of transfer fee payable - affidavit - legislative declaration - definitions. (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(a) The public policy of this state favors the transferability and marketability of interests in residential real property free from unreasonable restraints on alienation and covenants or servitudes that do not touch and concern the residential real property; and

(b) A transfer fee covenant as applied to residential real property violates this public policy by impairing the transferability and marketability of title to affected residential real property and constitutes an unreasonable restraint on alienation, regardless of the duration of the transfer fee covenant or the amount of the transfer fee set forth in the transfer fee covenant.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Conveyance" means the sale, gift, conveyance, assignment, inheritance, or other transfer of an ownership interest in residential real property located in this state either upon which there are residential improvements or upon which the construction of residential improvements has commenced.

(b) "Excluded provision" means any one of the following:

(I) Any provision of a purchase contract, option, mortgage, deed of trust, security agreement, agreement engaging a real estate broker for brokerage services, lease, or other agreement that obligates one party to the agreement to pay the other, as full or partial consideration for the agreement or for a waiver of rights under the agreement, an amount determined under the agreement, if the amount constitutes:

(A) Principal, interest, charges, fees, or other amounts to the extent payable by a borrower to a lender, including seller carry-back financing, pursuant to a loan secured by a mortgage, deed of trust, or other security agreement encumbering residential real property, including, without limitation, any fee payable to the lender for consenting to an assumption of the loan or a conveyance subject to the security agreement, any fees or charges payable to the lender for estoppel letters or certificates, and any shared appreciation interest or profit participation or other consideration payable to the lender in connection with the loan;

(B) Compensation or expense reimbursement paid to a licensed real estate broker for brokerage services rendered in connection with the conveyance for which the compensation is earned or a one-time fee paid to a closing agent, title insurance company, property management company, management company for an association of unit owners, mortgage loan originator, mortgage broker, or other party for services rendered in connection with the conveyance for which the fee is earned; or

(C) Any rent, reimbursement, charge, fee, or other amount to the extent payable by a lessee to a lessor under a lease, including, without limitation, any fee payable to the lessor for consenting to an assignment, subletting, encumbrance, or transfer of the lease;

(II) Any provision in a deed, memorandum, short form, or other document recorded for the purpose of providing record notice of an agreement described in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b);

(III) To the extent permitted by law, any provision in a document imposing a tax, fee, charge, assessment, fine, or other amount, to the extent payable to or imposed, directly or indirectly, by a governmental authority or a quasi-governmental entity or to such authority's or entity's successors and assigns, and including, without limitation, an amount imposed by any owner of residential real property as the declarant pursuant to a recorded declaration of transfer fee covenants that assigns or otherwise designates the right to receive and utilize the proceeds of such transfer fee to a governmental authority or quasi-governmental entity, or to such authority's or entity's successors and assigns, including any bond trustee or lender with respect to financing transactions of such authority or entity;

(IV) Any provision in a recorded document, regardless of whether the document is recorded before, on, or after May 23, 2011, requiring payment of a fee, charge, assessment, fine, or other amount only to the extent payable to or collected by an association of unit owners, homeowners, property owners, condominium owners, or similar mandatory membership organization, including a cooperative, mobile home, time share unit, or common interest community association;

(V) Any provision in a document requiring payment of a fee, charge, assessment, dues, contribution, or other amount, only to the extent payable to an organization described in section 501 (c) (3), 501 (c) (4), or 501 (c) (7) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, for the purpose of benefiting the community in which the affected real property is located, the common areas of the community, or any adjacent or contiguous real property and supporting activities such as cultural, educational, charitable, affordable housing, preservation of open space, recreational, transportation, environmental, conservation, or similar activities;

(VI) Any provision in a document requiring payment of an amount to the extent required pursuant to a recorded covenant or servitude that imposes limitations on the use of residential real property pursuant to an environmental remediation project pertaining to such property; or

(VII) Any provision in a recorded deed, memorandum, short form, or other recorded document requiring payment of an amount that, once paid, shall not bind any successor in title to the interest in residential real property and that shall in no event be payable by a grantee upon the conveyance of residential real property upon which there are residential improvements.

(c) "Payee" means the person, entity, or organization, or their successors and assigns, specified in the transfer fee covenant to which a transfer fee is to be paid.

(d) "Residential improvements" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 39-1-102 (14.3), C.R.S.

(e) "Residential real property" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 39-1-102 (14.5), C.R.S.

(f) "Time share unit" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 38-33-110 (7).

(g) "Transfer fee" means a fee or charge required to be paid by a transfer fee covenant, any portion of which is payable upon conveyance or payable for the right to make or accept such conveyance, regardless of whether the fee or charge is a fixed amount or is determined as a percentage of the value of the residential real property, the purchase price, or any other form of consideration given for the conveyance.

(h) "Transfer fee covenant" means a provision in a document, whether recorded or not and however denominated, that requires or purports to require the payment of a transfer fee, or part of a transfer fee, to a payee. A transfer fee covenant shall not include, nor shall this section apply to, an excluded provision.

(3) (a) Any transfer fee covenant recorded on or after May 23, 2011, or any lien recorded on or after May 23, 2011, to the extent that it purports to secure the payment of a transfer fee, shall not, upon conveyance, be binding on or enforceable against the affected real property or be payable for the right to make or accept such conveyance, nor shall such covenant or lien be binding on or enforceable against any subsequent owner, purchaser, or holder of any mortgage, deed of trust, or other security interest encumbering the affected real property.

(b) Any person who records, or causes or suffers to be recorded, a transfer fee covenant on or after May 23, 2011, and fails to release such covenant and any lien purporting to secure the payment of a transfer fee within thirty days after written request for the release is sent to the last-known address of the payee as specified in the transfer fee covenant personally or by certified mail, first-class postage prepaid, return receipt requested, shall be liable for all of the following:

(I) Any actual damages resulting from the imposition of the transfer fee covenant on a conveyance, including the amount of any transfer fee paid by a party to the conveyance; and

(II) All reasonable actual attorney fees, expenses, and costs incurred by a party to the conveyance or by a holder of a mortgage, deed of trust, or other security interest encumbering the residential real property subject to the transfer fee covenant in connection with an action to:

(A) Recover a transfer fee paid;

(B) Quiet title to the residential real property burdened by the transfer fee covenant; or

(C) Show cause why the transfer fee covenant, or any lien purporting to secure the payment of a transfer fee, should not be declared invalid.

(4) (a) In the case of any transfer fee covenant, or any amendment to such covenant, recorded prior to May 23, 2011, the payee, as a condition of payment of the transfer fee, shall record against the residential real property burdened by the transfer fee covenant, in the office of the county clerk and recorder for the county in which the residential real property is situated, not later than October 1, 2011, a notice of transfer fee.

(b) The notice of transfer fee required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) shall:

(I) Be entitled "notice of transfer fee", which title shall be in at least fourteen-point boldface type;

(II) Specify the amount of the transfer fee if the transfer fee is a flat amount or the percentage of the sales price constituting the transfer fee if the transfer fee is determined as a percentage of the value of the residential real property, or such other basis by which the transfer fee is to be calculated;

(III) Provide actual cost examples of the transfer fee for a home priced at two hundred fifty thousand dollars, a home priced at five hundred thousand dollars, and a home priced at seven hundred fifty thousand dollars;

(IV) Specify the date or circumstances under which the transfer fee payment requirement expires, if any;

(V) Describe the general purpose for which the moneys from the transfer fee will be used;

(VI) Identify the name of the payee and specific contact information for the payee, including mailing address, regarding where the moneys are to be sent;

(VII) Contain the acknowledged signature of the payee;

(VIII) Identify the name of the owner and the legal description of the residential real property burdened by the transfer fee covenant, as disclosed by the records of the county clerk and recorder; and

(IX) Specify the method of releasing any lien recorded against the residential real property pursuant to the transfer fee covenant.

(c) The payee may file an amendment to the notice of transfer fee containing new contact information, and such amendment shall contain the recording information of the notice of transfer fee that it amends, the name of the owner, and the legal description of the residential real property burdened by the transfer fee covenant as contained in the records of the county clerk and recorder at the time of the recording of the amendment.

(d) The office of the county clerk and recorder shall index the notice of transfer fee under the names of the persons, entities, or organizations identified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (4) or as such names may be identified in a notice that has been amended under paragraph (c) of this subsection (4). The office of the county clerk and recorder shall not be required to examine any other information contained in the notice of transfer fee or any amendment to such notice.

(5) If the payee fails to comply fully with paragraph (a) or (b) of subsection (4) of this section, the grantor of any residential real property burdened by the transfer fee covenant may proceed with the conveyance to any grantee and in doing so shall be deemed to have acted in good faith and shall not be subject to any obligations under the transfer fee covenant. All conveyances thereafter shall be free and clear of any such transfer fee and transfer fee covenant.

(6) (a) Upon written request made by the owner, or the owner's designee, delivered personally or by certified mail, first-class postage prepaid, return receipt requested, to the payee's address shown on the notice of transfer fee or any amendment to the notice, the payee shall furnish to the owner or the owner's designee a written statement specifying the amount of the transfer fee payable. If the payee fails to provide such statement within thirty days after the date a written request for the same is sent to the address shown in the notice of transfer fee in order to obtain a release of such fee, then the owner or the owner's designee, on recording of the affidavit required under subparagraph (I) of paragraph (b) of this subsection (6), may convey any interest in the residential real property to any grantee without payment of the transfer fee and such conveyance shall not be subject to the transfer fee and transfer fee covenant.

(b) (I) An affidavit, executed under penalty of perjury, stating the facts specified under paragraph (a) of this subsection (6) and containing, at a minimum, the information set out in subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (b), and made by one or more persons, if applicable, who has actual knowledge of, and is competent to testify in a court of competent jurisdiction about, the facts in such affidavit, shall be recorded prior to, simultaneously with, or within forty-five days after a deed or other instrument conveying the interest in the residential real property burdened by the transfer fee covenant is recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder in the county in which the residential real property is situated.

(II) When recorded, an affidavit as described in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) shall constitute prima facie evidence that:

(A) A request for the written statement of the transfer fee payable in order to obtain a release of the fee imposed by the transfer fee covenant was sent to the address shown in the notice of transfer fee or in any amendment to such notice; and

(B) The payee failed to provide the written statement of the transfer fee payable within thirty days of the date of the notice sent to the address shown in the notice of transfer fee or in any amendment to such notice.

(III) An affidavit filed under subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) shall state that the affiant has actual knowledge of, and is competent to testify to, the facts in the affidavit and shall include the legal description of the residential real property burdened by the transfer fee covenant; the name of the person appearing who is on record as the owner of such residential real property at the time of the signing of such affidavit; the name of the grantee of the conveyance to be recorded; a reference, by recording information, to the instrument of record containing the transfer fee covenant; and an acknowledgment that the affiant is testifying under penalty of perjury.

(IV) The office of the county clerk and recorder shall index the affidavit in the name of the record owner shown therein.

(V) In no event shall the liability of the affiant to any payee for nonpayment of the transfer fee exceed the amount stated in the notice of transfer fee covenant for that particular conveyance; except that nothing in this section shall confer any liability upon any person or title company, or any agent or employee of such company, that executes an affidavit on request of any grantor when the person or title company has actual knowledge of some or all of the matters contained in the affidavit, unless that person or title company is proven to have acted in bad faith or with gross negligence.

(7) Notwithstanding any other provision contained in the transfer fee covenant, any notice given under this section shall be sent to the last-known address of the payee as specified in the notice of transfer fee or in any amendment to the notice.

(8) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, subsections (4), (5), and (6) of this section shall not apply to a nonprofit organization formed prior to May 23, 2011, that is either described in section 501 (c) (3), 501 (c) (4), or 501 (c) (7) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, or that is organized in accordance with the provisions of article 30 of title 7, C.R.S., article 40 of title 7, C.R.S., or articles 121 to 137 of title 7, C.R.S., and that is a payee under a transfer fee covenant recorded prior to May 23, 2011.

(9) This section shall not be construed to imply that any transfer fee covenant or excluded provision is valid or enforceable solely as the result of the enactment of this section.

PART 2

SPURIOUS LIENS AND DOCUMENTS

38-35-201. Definitions. As used in this part 2, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Federal official or employee" means an appointed or elected official or any employee of the government of the United States of America or of any agency of such government as defined for purposes of the "Federal Tort Claims Act", 28 U.S.C. sec. 2671.

(2) "Lien" means an encumbrance on real or personal property as security for the payment of a debt or performance of an obligation.

(3) "Spurious document" means any document that is forged or groundless, contains a material misstatement or false claim, or is otherwise patently invalid.

(4) "Spurious lien" means a purported lien or claim of lien that:

(a) Is not provided for by a specific Colorado or federal statute or by a specific ordinance or charter of a home rule municipality;

(b) Is not created, suffered, assumed, or agreed to by the owner of the property it purports to encumber; or

(c) Is not imposed by order, judgment, or decree of a state court or a federal court.

(5) "State court" means a court established pursuant to title 13, C.R.S.

(6) "State or local official or employee" means an appointed or elected official or any employee of:

(a) The state of Colorado;

(b) Any agency, board, commission, or state department in any branch of state government;

ANNOTATION

For purposes of satisfying the definition of “spurious document” under subsection (3), a document is “groundless” for which a proponent can advance no rational argument based on evidence or the law to support the claim of a lien. Westar Holdings P’ship v. Reece, 991 P.2d 328 (Colo. App. 1999).

Notice of lis pendens may be a spurious document, which includes any document that is forged or groundless, contains a material misstatement or false claim, or is otherwise patently invalid. Pierce v. Francis, 194 P.3d 505 (Colo. App. 2008); Shyanne Props., LLC v. Torp, 210 P.3d 490 (Colo. App. 2009).

“Wild deed” is “patently invalid” and thus a spurious document under subsection (3). A deed of trust executed by a grantor with no right, title, or interest in the subject properties the deed purported to convey is outside the chain of title, a “wild deed”, and a spurious document. GMAC Mortgage Corp. v. PWI Group, 155 P.3d 556 (Colo. App. 2006).

Use of notices of lis pendens in will contests appropriate. Pierce v. Francis, 194 P.3d 505 (Colo. App. 2008).

Claims in underlying will contest sufficient to justify a notice of lis pendens. Pierce v. Francis, 194 P.3d 505 (Colo. App. 2008).

Likelihood of success at trial or on appeal not required to rebuff a challenge to a lis pendens notice. Pierce v. Francis, 194 P.3d 505 (Colo. App. 2008).

Because mechanic’s liens are provided for by statute, article 22 of title 38, they are excluded from definition of “spurious liens” and cannot be invalidated on that basis. Moreover, mechanic’s liens cannot be challenged as “spurious documents”. Tuscany, LLC v. W. States Excavating Pipe & Boring, LLC, 128 P.3d 274 (Colo. App. 2005).

Courts of general jurisdiction have the authority to weigh the validity of a mechanic’s lien on other grounds and apply the spurious liens and documents’ statutes. SR Condos., LLC v. K.C. Constr., Inc., 176 P.3d 866 (Colo. App. 2007).

Notice of lis pendens cannot be a spurious lien because such notice is not a lien. A notice of lis pendens does not encumber property but merely informs third parties that litigation is pending that could affect title to the property. Pierce v. Francis, 194 P.3d 505 (Colo. App. 2008).

38-35-202. Recording or filing. (1) Any state or local official or employee, including the clerk and recorder of any county or city and county and the Colorado secretary of state, may accept or reject for recording or filing any document that the state or local official or employee reasonably believes in good faith may be a spurious lien or spurious document.

(2) No state or local official or employee, including the clerk and recorder of any county or city and county and the Colorado secretary of state, shall be liable to any person or claimant for either the acceptance or rejection for recording or filing of any document that the state or local official or employee reasonably believes in good faith may be a spurious lien or spurious document.

(3) No state or local official or employee, including the clerk and recorder of any county or city and county and the Colorado secretary of state, shall be obligated to accept for recording or filing any lien or claim of lien against a federal official or employee or a state or local official or employee based upon the performance or nonperformance of that official’s or employee’s duties unless such lien or claim of lien is accompanied by a specific order issued by a state court or federal court authorizing the recording or filing of such lien or claim of lien.

38-35-203. Action to enforce. (1) No spurious lien or spurious document shall hold or affect any real or personal property longer than thirty-five days after the lien or document has been recorded or filed in the office of any state or local official or employee, including the office of the clerk and recorder of any county or city and county or the office of the Colorado secretary of state, unless within the thirty-five days:

(a) An action has been commenced to enforce such lien or document in the state district court for the county or city and county in which the lien or document was recorded or filed or the federal district court in Colorado; and

(b) A notice of lis pendens stating that such an action has been commenced is recorded or filed in the office where the lien or document was recorded or filed.

(2) The notice of lis pendens required by paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section must comply with the requirements of section 38-35-110 and rule 105 (f) of the Colorado rules of civil procedure and must include the civil action number of the action that has been commenced to enforce the lien or document. Failure to comply with the requirements of this subsection (2) shall render the notice of lis pendens invalid.

38-35-204. Order to show cause. (1) Any person whose real or personal property is affected by a recorded or filed lien or document that the person believes is a spurious lien or spurious document may petition the district court in the county or city and county in which the lien or document was recorded or filed or the federal district court in Colorado for an order to show cause why the lien or document should not be declared invalid. The petition shall set forth a concise statement of the facts upon which the petition is based and shall be supported by an affidavit of the petitioner or the petitioner's attorney. The order to show cause may be granted ex parte and shall:

(a) Direct any lien claimant and any person who recorded or filed the lien or document to appear as respondent before the court at a time and place certain not less than fourteen days nor more than twenty-one days after service of the order to show cause why the lien or document should not be declared invalid and why such other relief provided for by this section should not be granted;

(b) State that, if the respondent fails to appear at the time and place specified, the spurious lien or spurious document will be declared invalid and released; and

(c) State that the court shall award costs, including reasonable attorney fees, to the prevailing party.

(2) If, following the hearing on the order to show cause, the court determines that the lien or document is a spurious lien or spurious document, the court shall make findings of fact and enter an order and decree declaring the spurious lien or spurious document and any related notice of lis pendens invalid, releasing the recorded or filed spurious lien or spurious document, and entering a monetary judgment in the amount of the petitioner's costs, including reasonable attorney fees, against any respondent and in favor of the petitioner. A certified copy of such order may be recorded or filed in the office of any state or local official or employee, including the clerk and recorder of any county or city and county and the Colorado secretary of state.

(3) If, following the hearing on the order to show cause, the court determines that the lien or document is not a spurious lien or spurious document, the court shall issue an order so finding and enter a monetary judgment in the amount of any respondent's costs, including reasonable attorney fees, against any petitioner and in favor of the respondent.

Editor's note: Section 173 of chapter 208, Session Laws of Colorado 2012, provides that the act amending subsection (1)(a) applies to specified time intervals. For more information, see page 896 of Session Laws of Colorado 2012.

For purposes of satisfying the definition of “spurious document” under this section, a document is “groundless” for which a proponent can advance no rational argument based on evidence or the law to support the claim of a lien. Westar Holdings P’ship v. Reece, 991 P.2d 328 (Colo. App. 1999).

A hearing held pursuant to subsection (3) includes both the privilege to be present when the case is being considered and the right to present and support one’s contentions by evidence and argument, unless the parties agree to a waiver of the right to be present and have evidence considered. Accordingly, the court erred in limiting its review to the pleaded allegations and legal argument. Westar Holdings P’ship. v. Reece, 991 P.2d 328 (Colo. App. 1999).

Trial court had jurisdiction to award attorney fees and costs to defendants for a spurious lis pendens. Because plaintiff did not refute that the lis pendens was spurious at the show cause hearing, and because a lis pendens can be a spurious document, trial court had jurisdiction to enter judgment in favor of defendants and against plaintiff for defendants’ costs and attorney fees. Shyanne Props., LLC v. Torp, 210 P.3d 490 (Colo. App. 2009).

Trial court abused its discretion in awarding attorney fees without holding an evidentiary hearing on the reasonableness and necessity of the attorney fees requested by defendants. If a party requests a hearing concerning an award of fees, the trial court must hold a hearing. Shyanne Props., LLC v. Torp, 210 P.3d 490 (Colo. App. 2009).

Release of contested liens or documents before the show cause hearing precludes an award of attorney fees under this section. Sifton v. Stewart Title Guar. Co., 259 P.3d 542 (Colo. App. 2011).

(a) That an occupant of real property is, or was at any time suspected to be, infected or has been infected with human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) or diagnosed with acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS), or any other disease which has been determined by medical evidence to be highly unlikely to be transmitted through the occupancy of a dwelling place; or

38-35.7-103. Disclosure - methamphetamine laboratory. (1) A buyer of residential real property has the right to test the property for the purpose of determining whether the property has ever been used as a methamphetamine laboratory.

(2) (a) Tests conducted pursuant to this section shall be performed by a certified industrial hygienist or industrial hygienist, as those terms are defined in section 24-30-1402, C.R.S., and in accordance with the procedures and standards established by rules of the state board of health promulgated pursuant to section 25-18.5-102, C.R.S. If the seller's test results indicate that the property has been used as a methamphetamine laboratory but has not been remediated to meet the standards established by rules of the state board of health promulgated pursuant to section 25-18.5-102, C.R.S., then the second independent hygienist shall so notify the seller.

(c) If the seller receives the notice referred to in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2) or if the seller receives the notice referred to in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) and does not elect to have the property retested pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), then an illegal drug laboratory used to manufacture methamphetamine shall be deemed to have been discovered, and the owner shall be deemed to have received notice pursuant to section 25-18.5-103 (1) (a), C.R.S. Nothing in this section shall prohibit a buyer from purchasing the property and assuming liability pursuant to section 25-18.5-103, C.R.S., if, on the date of closing, the buyer provides notice to the department of public health and environment of the purchase and assumption of liability and if the remediation required by section 25-18.5-103, C.R.S., is completed within ninety days after the date of closing.

(3) (a) Except as specified in subsection (4) of this section, the seller shall disclose in writing to the buyer whether the seller knows that the property was previously used as a methamphetamine laboratory.

(b) A seller who fails to make a disclosure required by this section at or before the time of sale and who knew of methamphetamine production on the property is liable to the buyer for:

(I) Costs relating to remediation of the property according to the standards established by rules of the state board of health promulgated pursuant to section 25-18.5-102, C.R.S.;

(II) Costs relating to health-related injuries occurring after the sale to residents of the property caused by methamphetamine production on the property; and

(III) Reasonable attorney fees for collection of costs from the seller.

(c) A buyer shall commence an action under this subsection (3) within three years after the date on which the buyer closed the purchase of the property where the methamphetamine production occurred.

(4) If the seller became aware that the property was once used for the production of methamphetamine and the property was remediated in accordance with the standards established pursuant to section 25-18.5-102, C.R.S., and evidence of such remediation was received by the applicable governing body in compliance with the documentation requirements established pursuant to section 25-18.5-102, C.R.S., then the seller shall not be required to disclose that the property was used as a methamphetamine laboratory to a buyer, and the property shall be removed from any government-sponsored informational service listing properties that have been used for the production of methamphetamine.

(5) For purposes of this section, "residential real property" includes a: Manufactured home; mobile home; condominium; townhome; home sold by the owner, a financial institution, or the federal department of housing and urban development; rental property, including an apartment; and short-term residence such as a motel or hotel.

(II) On and after January 1, 2008, each listing contract, contract of sale, or seller's property disclosure for residential real property that is not subject to the real estate commission's jurisdiction pursuant to article 61 of title 12, C.R.S., shall contain a disclosure statement in bold-faced type that is clearly legible in substantially the same form as is specified in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a).

(b) If the disclosure statement required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) indicates that the source of potable water is a well, the seller shall also provide with such disclosure a copy of the current well permit if one is available.

(2) The obligation to provide the disclosure set forth in subsection (1) of this section shall be upon the seller. If the seller complies with this section, the purchaser shall not have any claim under this section for relief against the seller or any person licensed pursuant to article 61 of title 12, C.R.S., for any damages to the purchaser resulting from an alleged inadequacy of the property's source of water. Nothing in this section shall affect any remedy that the purchaser may otherwise have against the seller.

(3) For purposes of this section, "residential real property" means residential land and residential improvements, as those terms are defined in section 39-1-102, C.R.S., but does not include hotels and motels, as those terms are defined in section 39-1-102, C.R.S.; except that a mobile home and a manufactured home, as those terms are defined in section 39-1-102, C.R.S., shall be deemed to be residential real property only if the mobile home or manufactured home is permanently affixed to a foundation.

38-35.7-106. Solar prewire option - solar consultation. (1) (a) Every person that builds a new single-family detached residence for which a buyer is under contract shall offer the buyer the opportunity to have the residence's electrical system or plumbing system, or both, include one of the following:

(I) A residential photovoltaic solar generation system or a residential solar thermal system, or both;

(II) Upgrades of wiring or plumbing, or both, planned by the builder to accommodate future installation of such systems; or

(III) A chase or conduit, or both, constructed to allow ease of future installation of the necessary wiring or plumbing for such systems.

(b) The offer required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall be made in accordance with the builder's construction schedule for the residence. In the case of prefabricated or manufactured homes, "construction schedule" shall include the schedule for completion of prefabricated walls or other subassemblies.

(2) Every person that builds a new single-family detached residence for sale, whether or not the residence has been prewired for a photovoltaic solar generation system, shall provide to every buyer under contract a list of businesses in the area that offer residential solar installation services so that the buyer, if he or she so desires, can obtain expert help in assessing whether the residence is a good candidate for solar installation and how much of a cost savings a residential photovoltaic solar generation system could provide. The list of businesses shall be derived from a master list of Colorado solar installers maintained by the Colorado energy office.

(3) The Colorado energy office shall maintain and update, as appropriate, a master list of Colorado solar installers and shall make the master list available, upon request, to any person that requests a copy. The Colorado energy office may specify qualifications for businesses to be included in the master list and shall make the master list available on its official web site.

(4) Providing the master list of solar installers prepared by the Colorado energy office to a buyer under contract shall not constitute an endorsement of any installer or contractor listed. A person that builds a new single-family detached residence shall not be liable for any advice, labor, or materials provided to the buyer by a third-party solar installer.

(5) The Colorado energy office or its designees shall offer periodic training sessions on residential photovoltaic solar generation systems or solar thermal systems to persons that build new single-family detached residences. The Colorado energy office may assess and collect from participants a registration fee, not to exceed the actual costs of providing such training.

(6) Nothing in this section shall preclude a person that builds a new single-family detached residence from:

(a) Subjecting solar photovoltaic electrical system upgrades to the same terms and conditions as other upgrades, including but not limited to charges related to upgrades, deposits required for upgrades, deadlines, and construction timelines;

(b) Selecting the contractors that will complete the installation of solar photovoltaic electrical system upgrades;

(c) Stipulating in the purchase agreement or sales contract that solar photovoltaic electrical system upgrades are based on technology available at the time of installation and such upgrades may not support all solar photovoltaic systems or systems installed at a future date, and that the person that builds a new single-family detached residence shall not be liable for any additional upgrades, retrofits, or other alterations to the residence that may be necessary to accommodate a solar photovoltaic system installed at a future date.

(7) This section shall apply to contracts entered into on or after August 10, 2009, to purchase new single-family detached residences built on or after August 10, 2009; except that this section shall not apply to unoccupied homes serving as sales inventory or model homes.

38-35.7-107. Water-smart homes option. (1) (a) Every person that builds a new single-family detached residence for which a buyer is under contract shall offer the buyer the opportunity to select one or more of the following water-smart home options for the residence:

(I) Installation of water-efficient toilets, lavatory faucets, and showerheads that meet or exceed the following water-efficient standards: Toilets shall use no more than one and twenty-eight one-hundredths of a gallon per flush, lavatory faucets no more than one and one-half gallons per minute, and showerheads no more than two gallons per minute;

(II) If dishwashers or clothes washers are financed, installed, or sold as upgrades through the home builder, the builder shall offer a model that is qualified pursuant to the federal environmental protection agency's energy star program at the time of offering. Clothes washers shall have a water factor of less than or equal to six gallons of water per cycle per cubic foot of capacity.

(III) If landscaping is financed, installed, or sold as upgrades through the home builder and will be maintained by the home owner, the home builder shall offer a landscape design that follows the landscape practices specified in this subparagraph (III) to ensure both the professional design and installation of such landscaping and that water conservation will be accomplished. These best management practices are contained in the document titled "Green Industry Best Management Practices (BMPs) for the Conservation and Protection of Water Resources in Colorado: Moving Toward Sustainability", 3rd release, and appendix, released in May 2008, or this document's successors due to future inclusion of improved landscaping practices, water conservation advancements, and new irrigation technology. The best management practices specified in this subparagraph (III), through utilization of the proper landscape design, installation, and irrigation technology, accomplish substantial water savings compared to landscape designs, installation, and irrigation system utilization where these practices are not adhered to. The following best management practices and water budget calculator form the basis for the design and installation for the front yard landscaping option if selected by the homeowner as an upgrade:

(A) Xeriscape: To include the seven principles of xeriscape that provide a comprehensive approach for conserving water;

(B) Water budgeting: To include either a water allotment by the water utility for the property, if offered by the water utility, or a landscape water budget based on plant water requirements;

(C) Landscape design: To include a plan and design for the landscape to comprehensively conserve water and protect water quality;

(D) Landscape installation and erosion control: To minimize soil erosion and employ proper soil care and planting techniques during construction;

(E) Soil amendment and ground preparation: To include an evaluation of the soil and improve it, if necessary, to address water retention, permeability, water infiltration, aeration, and structure;

(F) Tree placement and tree planting: To include proper soil and space for root growth and to include proper planting of trees, shrubs, and other woody plants to promote long-term health of these plants;

(G) Irrigation design and installation: To include design of the irrigation system for the efficient and uniform distribution of water to plant material and the development of an irrigation schedule;

(H) Irrigation technology and scheduling: To include water conserving devices that stop water application during rain, high wind, and other weather events and incorporate evapotranspiration conditions. Irrigation scheduling should address frequency and duration of water application in the most efficient manner; and

(I) Mulching: To include the use of organic mulches to reduce water loss through evaporation, reduce soil loss, and suppress weeds.

(IV) Installation of a pressure-reducing valve that limits static service pressure in the residence to a maximum of sixty pounds per square inch. Piping for home fire sprinkler systems shall comply with state and local codes and regulations but are otherwise excluded from this subparagraph (IV).

(b) The offer required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall be made in accordance with the builder's construction schedule for the residence. In the case of prefabricated or manufactured homes, "construction schedule" includes the schedule for completion of prefabricated walls or other subassemblies.

(2) Nothing in this section precludes a person that builds a new single-family detached residence from:

(a) Subjecting water-efficient fixture and appliance upgrades to the same terms and conditions as other upgrades, including charges related to upgrades, deposits required for upgrades, deadlines, and construction timelines;

(b) Selecting the contractors that will complete the installation of the selected options; or

(c) Stipulating in the purchase agreement or sales contract that water-efficient fixtures and appliances are based on technology available at the time of installation, such upgrades may not support all water-efficient fixtures or appliances installed at a future date, and the person that builds a new single-family detached residence is not liable for any additional upgrades, retrofits, or other alterations to the residence that may be necessary to accommodate water-efficient fixtures or appliances installed at a future date.

(3) This section does not apply to unoccupied homes serving as sales inventory or model homes.

(4) The upgrades described in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section shall not contravene state or local codes, covenants, and requirements. All homes, landscapes, and irrigation systems shall meet all applicable national, state, and local regulations.

Act of registration is practically ministerial. The registrar is presumed to exercise some sound judgment in complying with the provisions of this article, yet under this section, the act of registration is practically ministerial because, when there is a doubt in the registrar's mind, or in the mind of any person in interest, the matter can be referred to the court, and where a hearing is provided, the court determines the question, and the result is entered accordingly. White v. Ainsworth, 62 Colo. 513, 163 P. 959, 1918E Ann. Cas. 179 (1917).

38-36-153. When owner's certificate must be presented - effect of presentation. No new certificates of titles shall be entered, and no memorial shall be made upon any certificate of title in pursuance of any deed or other voluntary instrument unless the owner's duplicate certificate is presented with such instrument, except in cases provided for in this article, or upon the order of the court, for cause shown. Whenever such order is made, a memorial therefor shall be entered, or a new certificate issued, as directed by said order. The production of the owner's duplicate certificate, whenever any voluntary instrument is presented for registration, shall be conclusive authority from the registered owner to the registrar of titles to enter a new certificate or to make a memorial of registration in accordance with such instrument, and a new certificate or memorial shall be binding upon the registered owner and upon all persons claiming under him, in favor of every purchaser for value and in good faith.

38-36-154. Certified copy of owner's duplicate certificates. (1) In the event that an owner's duplicate certificate of title is lost, mislaid, or destroyed, the owner may make affidavit of the fact before any officer authorized to administer oaths, stating, with particularity, the facts relating to such loss, mislaying, or destruction, and shall file the same in the office of the registrar of titles.

(2) Any party in interest may thereupon apply to the court, and the court shall, upon proofs of the facts set forth in the affidavit, enter an order directing the registrar of titles to make and issue a new owner's duplicate certificate. Such new owner's duplicate certificate shall be printed or marked "certified copy of owner's duplicate certificate", and such certified copy shall stand in the place of and have like effect as the owner's duplicate certificate.

Mode of conveying registered land. An owner of registered land conveying the same, or any portion thereof, in fee, shall execute a deed of conveyance which the grantor shall file with the registrar of titles in the county where the land lies. The owner's duplicate certificate shall be surrendered, at the same time, and shall be by the registrar marked "canceled". The original certificate of title shall also be marked "canceled". The registrar of titles shall thereupon enter in the register of titles a new certificate of title to the grantee, and shall prepare and deliver to such grantee an owner's duplicate certificate. All encumbrances, claims, or interests adverse to the title of the registered owner shall be stated upon the new certificate, except insofar as they may be simultaneously released or discharged. When only a part of the land described in a certificate is transferred, or some estate or interest in the land remains in the transferor, a new certificate shall be issued to him for the part, estate, or interest remaining to him.

If such action is brought for loss or damage arising only through the fraud or wrongful act of some person other than the registrar or his deputies, the examiners of title, the clerk of the court, or his deputies, or arising jointly through the fraud or wrongful act of such other persons, and the omission, mistakes, or misfeasance of the registrar of titles or his deputies, the examiners of titles, or the clerk of the court, or his deputies, such action shall be brought against both the county treasurer and such persons.

(2) In all such actions where there are defendants other than the county treasurer and damages have been recovered, no final judgment shall be entered against the county treasurer until execution against the other defendants shall be returned unsatisfied in whole or in part, and the officer returning the execution shall certify that the amount still due upon the execution cannot be collected except by application to the indemnity fund. Thereupon, the court, being satisfied as to the truth of such return, shall order final judgment against the treasurer for the amount of the execution and costs, or so much thereof as remains unpaid. The county treasurer shall, upon such order of the court and final judgment, pay the amount of such judgment out of the assurance fund. It is the duty of the county attorney to appear and defend all such actions. If the funds in the assurance fund at any time are insufficient to pay any judgment in full, the balance unpaid shall draw interest at the legal rate of interest and be paid with such interest out of the first funds coming into said fund.

Annotator's note. Since § 38-37-101 is similar to § 38-37-101 as it existed prior to the 1990 repeal and reenactment of this article, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Grantee sufficiently identified as public trustee. A deed of trust to "the public trustee", executed by a resident of a particular county, conveying lands situate in that county, requiring notice of the sale, upon default, to be published in that county, sufficiently identifies the grantee as the public trustee of the same county. Healey v. Zobel, 45 Colo. 294, 101 P. 56 (1909).

Public trustee is not peace officer; he is no part of a statewide system, and he is uncontrolled by state authority, save for the power to remove those appointed by him which is lodged in the governor. Chambers v. People ex rel. Storer, 70 Colo. 496, 202 P. 1081 (1921).

Applied in Brewer v. Harrison, 27 Colo. 349, 62 P. 224 (1900); Brown v. Denver Omnibus & Cab Co., 254 F. 560 (8th Cir. 1918).

38-37-102. Appointment - bond - office. (1) The governor shall appoint a public trustee in and for each of the counties of the first and second classes for the term of two years. However, the term of any public trustee in and for a county of the first or second class appointed on or after February 1, 1989, but before February 1, 1991, shall expire on February 1, 1991. All appointments of public trustees in and for counties of the first and second classes on or after February 1, 1991, shall be for terms of four years, with the first such term beginning on February 1, 1991. If the office of public trustee in and for any county of the first or second class should become vacant on or after February 1, 1991, the governor shall appoint a successor to complete the four-year term. The governor shall appoint as public trustees only those persons who have at least a four-year college degree and five years' administrative or business experience or, in the alternative, ten years' administrative or business experience. Any person so appointed public trustee shall serve at the pleasure of the governor. Every person so appointed public trustee in counties of the first and second classes shall, before entering upon the duties of such office, execute a surety bond issued by a company authorized to issue such bonds in the state of Colorado, in the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, conditioned, in both classes of counties, that the person so appointed as public trustee will well and faithfully execute the duties of such office; and such public trustee shall promptly account for and pay over to such persons as are entitled thereto all moneys and other valuables that come into such person's hands as public trustee.

(2) The county treasurer shall be the public trustee in each of the counties other than those of the first and second classes, and each such county treasurer as public trustee shall execute a surety bond issued by a company authorized to issue such bonds in the state of Colorado in the sum of ten thousand dollars, to be approved by the county commissioners of the county, conditioned that such person will well and faithfully perform the duties of public trustee and properly account for and pay over to such persons as are entitled thereto all moneys and other valuables that come into such person's hands as public trustee. In counties wherein the county treasurer is the public trustee, as provided in this subsection (2), such person shall conduct the duties of public trustee at the office of the county treasurer; and, in counties of the first and second classes, the public trustee shall maintain an office and regular place of business for the performance of the public trustee's official duties; and, in all cases, the office of the public trustee shall be kept open for the transaction of business during ordinary business hours each day, except Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays.

(3) The board of county commissioners shall furnish, at the expense of the county, all office supplies, including books, forms, and stationery necessary for the use of the public trustee in carrying out the provisions of this section and sections 38-37-101 and 38-37-104, subject to the provisions of section 38-37-104 (3).

Editor's note: The provisions of this section are similar to provisions of several former sections as they existed prior to 1990. For a detailed comparison, see the comparative tables located in the back of the index.

ANNOTATION

Public trustee is not appointive state officer and is not subject to the provisions of the state personnel system, § 13 of art. XII, Colo. Const. Chambers v. People ex rel. Storer, 70 Colo. 496, 202 P. 1081 (1921).

Public trustee is county officer since the powers and duties of public trustees are all the same and are performed within his county and relate solely to property situated therein. Dixon v. People ex rel. Elliott, 53 Colo. 527, 127 P. 930 (1912); Walsh v. People ex rel. McClenahan, 72 Colo. 406, 211 P. 646 (1922); People ex rel. Fairall v. Sabin, 75 Colo. 545, 227 P. 565 (1924).

Effect of complaint against county treasurer by that title only. A complaint against the county treasurer, by that title only, with the addition of "trustee", nowhere naming him as public trustee, does not make the public trustee party. Watkins v. Perry, 25 Colo. App. 425, 139 P. 551 (1914).

Because the office of the public trustee is required to stay open during regular business hours and § 38-37-108 allows for payment by electronic transfer, the public trustee's bank must accept electronic transfers during regular business hours. Thus, the trial court erred in refusing to grant an extension for redemption of property where the plaintiff attempted to pay by electronic transfer of funds, but was prevented by the public trustee's bank, which had closed early. Buell v. White, 908 P.2d 1175 (Colo. App. 1995).

38-37-103. Deputy trustee - successor in office. Each public trustee may appoint deputies who shall have the same power in all respects as the public trustee. All acts of a deputy public trustee shall have the same effect as though performed by the public trustee. If a public trustee dies, resigns, or is removed from office, or if a public trustee's term of office expires after selling any property under the term of a deed of trust and before executing a certificate of redemption or deed for the property, the public trustee's successor in office shall execute the certificate or deed in the same manner that the public trustee making such sale might have done.

38-37-104. Duties of public trustees - fees, expenses, and salaries - reports. (1) The public trustees of each county of this state shall perform the functions and exercise the powers conferred upon them by statute. They shall be entitled to receive as fees for such services the following sums and no other fees or perquisites whatever:

(VII) For recommencing the foreclosure after reinstatement where a sale was held in violation of the automatic stay provisions of the federal bankruptcy code of 1978, title 11 of the United States Code, as amended, pursuant to section 38-38-109 (2) (c) (II), the sum of fifty dollars;

(VIII) For recommencing the foreclosure after bankruptcy where publication was not completed pursuant to section 38-38-109 (2) (b) (I), the sum of seventy-five dollars;

(IX) For performing the actions described in section 38-38-101 (9), the sum of one hundred dollars;

(X) The sum of all amounts paid by the public trustee to third parties in connection with processing a foreclosure, including but not limited to all recording, filing, publication, and electronic transmission fees;

(XI) For processing a rescission of sale pursuant to section 38-38-113, the sum of one hundred dollars; and

(XII) For rescheduling a sale after a rescission of sale pursuant to section 38-38-113 (4), the additional sum of fifty dollars.

(c) For performing any duty of the public trustee pursuant to section 38-30-171 (3) (b), 38-30-173 (3) (b), or 38-34-104, the sum of twenty-five dollars or such greater amount as may be approved by a court of competent jurisdiction; and

(d) For performing duties pursuant to section 38-35-126 (1), an additional annual fee of seventy-five dollars, payable in advance, for each taxable year, or portion thereof, during which an escrow account is established.

(2) (a) The salary of the public trustee in the different counties of the state shall be fixed at the following amounts, to wit: In counties of the first class and second class, twenty-six thousand dollars per annum for full-time public trustees and, in counties of the third class, six thousand five hundred dollars per annum.

(b) For public trustees whose terms begin on or after July 1, 1998, but prior to January 1, 2003, the salary of the public trustee in the different counties of the state shall be fixed at the following amounts, to wit: In counties of the first and second class, thirty-two thousand dollars per annum for full-time public trustees and, in counties of the third class, eight thousand dollars per annum; except that, in the city and county of Broomfield, such salary shall be as set forth in its annual budget.

(b.3) (I) For public trustees whose terms begin on or after January 1, 2003, except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (II), (III), or (IV) of this paragraph (b.3), the salary of the public trustee in the different counties of the state shall be fixed at the following amounts, to wit: In counties of the first and second class, forty-eight thousand five hundred dollars per annum, and in counties of the third class, twelve thousand five hundred dollars per annum.

(II) For public trustees who are serving in office on or after March 13, 2008, the salary of the public trustee in the different counties of the state shall be fixed at the following amounts, to wit: In counties of the first class, forty-eight thousand five hundred dollars per annum; in counties of the second class, fifty-six thousand five hundred dollars per annum; and in counties of the third class, twelve thousand five hundred dollars per annum.

(III) For public trustees in counties of the second class who are serving in office on or after February 1, 2009, the salary shall be fixed at sixty-four thousand five hundred dollars per annum.

(IV) For public trustees in counties of the second class who are serving in office on or after February 1, 2010, the salary shall be fixed at seventy-two thousand five hundred dollars per annum.

(b.5) Public trustees in counties of the second class whose terms begin on or after January 1, 2003, may collect benefits in addition to their salary that do not exceed benefits received by other elected county officers within their county.

(c) Such salaries shall be paid from the fees collected by the public trustee as provided in this section and not otherwise.

(3) The public trustee of each county shall quarterly make and file with the board of county commissioners of the county a full and complete statement under oath of all transactions of the office of the public trustee and shall, upon the approval of said report, pay to the county treasurer all sums that the public trustee has received as fees in excess of the amount of salary then due to the public trustee and in excess of all necessary and reasonable expenses for staff wages and any benefits provided pursuant to county personnel policy and other expenses incidental to the conduct of the office of the public trustee for the quarter ending at the time of such report, which moneys shall, by the county treasurer, be placed to the credit of a fund to be known as the public trustee salary fund. The public trustee shall, before remitting such excess funds, retain such excess funds in a special reserve fund, which fund shall be maintained in a separate interest-bearing account as permitted under section 38-37-113, until such special reserve fund, including accrued interest, reaches an amount equal to the public trustee's total operating expenses and authorized salary for the previous fiscal year, as filed pursuant to this subsection (3). If, in any particular quarter, the public trustee's operating expenses and authorized salary exceed the fees collected in the quarter, the public trustee may draw on the special reserve fund to cover the public trustee's operating expenses and authorized salary for that quarter. At such time as the special reserve fund has reached the permitted amount, excess funds shall be paid to the county treasurer to be placed in the public trustee salary fund. At the expiration of each year, the county treasurer shall, out of any moneys in the public trustee salary fund and not otherwise, pay to the public trustee such an amount, if any, as may be still due to the public trustee on account of the public trustee's salary for that year just expired, such payment to be made only upon the certificate of the board stating the amount of such salary still remaining due and unpaid, and the balance of said fund shall thereupon be transferred to the general fund of the county.

(5) Any person serving as a public trustee who has been appointed by the governor shall report to the governor at such times and on such matters as the governor may require.

(6) The public trustee of each county shall adopt a budget pursuant to the requirements of part 1 of article 1 of title 29, C.R.S., and shall submit the budget to the board of county commissioners of the county in which he or she serves for review by the board.

(7) The office of the public trustee is subject to annual audit pursuant to the "Colorado Local Government Audit Law", part 6 of article 1 of title 29, C.R.S.; except that the office of the public trustee of any trustee who is appointed by the governor shall instead be subject to an individual annual audit pursuant to section 29-1-603 (1.5), C.R.S.

(8) Each public trustee who is appointed by the governor shall be subject to the state "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of title 24, C.R.S., for any purchase of twenty thousand dollars or more and for any multiple year purchase agreement; except that, if the procurement rules established for the county in which the public trustee serves require an open and competitive bidding process, the public trustee may apply the county procurement rules.

ANNOTATION

Because this section authorizes payment by electronic transfer of funds and the office of the public trustee is required to stay open during regular business hours, the public trustee's bank must accept electronic transfers during regular business hours. Thus, the trial court erred in refusing to grant an extension for redemption of property where the plaintiff attempted to pay by electronic transfer of funds, but was prevented by the public trustee's bank, which had closed early. Buell v. White, 908 P.2d 1175 (Colo. App. 1995).

38-37-109. Suits against public trustee. When public trustees, or county treasurers acting as trustees, are sued in their official capacity, the district attorney shall provide legal representation for the public trustees serving in such district attorney's district, unless such legal representation is provided for otherwise.

38-37-110. (2) Other than fees and costs, which shall be governed by section 38-37-104, all moneys received by a public trustee for the purposes of a cure, a bid, excess proceeds, or a redemption under article 38 of this title shall be held as custodial funds for the party entitled to receive such moneys. 38-38-101. Holder of evidence of debt may elect to foreclose. (1) Documents required. Whenever a holder of an evidence of debt declares a violation of a covenant of a deed of trust and elects to publish all or a portion of the property therein described for sale, the holder or the attorney for the holder shall file the following with the public trustee of the county where the property is located:

(a) A notice of election and demand signed and acknowledged by the holder of the evidence of debt or signed by the attorney for the holder;

(b) The original evidence of debt, including any modifications to the original evidence of debt, together with the original indorsement or assignment thereof, if any, to the holder of the evidence of debt or other proper indorsement or assignment in accordance with subsection (6) of this section or, in lieu of the original evidence of debt, one of the following:

(I) A corporate surety bond in the amount of one and one-half times the face amount of the original evidence of debt;

(II) A copy of the evidence of debt and a certification signed and properly acknowledged by a holder of an evidence of debt acting for itself or as agent, nominee, or trustee under subsection (2) of this section or a statement signed by the attorney for such holder, citing the paragraph of section 38-38-100.3 (20) under which the holder claims to be a qualified holder and certifying or stating that the copy of the evidence of debt is true and correct and that the use of the copy is subject to the conditions described in paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section; or

(III) A certified copy of a monetary judgment entered by a court of competent jurisdiction;

(c) The original recorded deed of trust securing the evidence of debt and any original recorded modifications of the deed of trust or any recorded partial releases of the deed of trust, or in lieu thereof, one of the following:

(I) Certified copies of the recorded deed of trust and any recorded modifications of the deed of trust or recorded partial releases of the deed of trust; or

(II) Copies of the recorded deed of trust and any recorded modifications of the deed of trust or recorded partial releases of the deed of trust and a certification signed and properly acknowledged by a holder of an evidence of debt acting for itself or as an agent, nominee, or trustee under subsection (2) of this section or a signed statement by the attorney for such holder, citing the paragraph of section 38-38-100.3 (20) under which the holder claims to be a qualified holder and certifying or stating that the copies of the recorded deed of trust and any recorded modifications of the deed of trust or recorded partial releases of the deed of trust are true and correct and that the use of the copies is subject to the conditions described in paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section;

(d) A combined notice pursuant to section 38-38-103; except that the combined notice may be omitted with the prior approval of the officer because the officer will supply the combined notice;

(e) A mailing list;

(f) Any affidavit recorded pursuant to section 38-35-109 (5) affecting the deed of trust described in paragraph (c) of this subsection (1), which affidavit shall be accepted by the public trustee as modifying the deed of trust for all purposes under this article only if the affidavit is filed with the public trustee at the same time as the other documents required under this subsection (1);

(f.5) If there is a loan servicer of the evidence of debt described in the notice of election and demand and the loan servicer is not the holder, a statement executed by the holder of the evidence of debt or the attorney for such holder, identifying, to the best of such person's knowledge, the name of the loan servicer;

(g) A statement executed by the holder of an evidence of debt, or the attorney for such holder, identifying, to the best knowledge of the person executing such statement, the name and address of the current owner of the property described in the notice of election and demand; and

(h) A separate document notifying the public trustee that the property referred to in the notice of election and demand is property that requires posting under section 38-38-802. If the document required by this paragraph (h) is not filed at the time the documents required by paragraphs (a) to (e) of this subsection (1) are filed with the public trustee, and the holder determines at a later date that the property requires posting, the holder shall request that the public trustee rerecord the notice of election and demand. Thereafter, all deadlines for the foreclosure action shall be determined according to the date of the rerecording of the notice of election and demand as though the foreclosure was commenced on such date, and the public trustee shall collect a fee of seventy-five dollars from the holder. If the document required by this paragraph (h) is filed in error, the holder may withdraw it by filing with the public trustee an affidavit signed by the holder or the attorney for the holder affirming both that the document required by this paragraph (h) was filed in error and that the property has not been posted pursuant to section 38-38-802. In order to be effective, and thereby notify the public trustee that the property is not eligible for posting, such affidavit shall be filed with the public trustee no later than fourteen days after the date of the determination of the public trustee that the filing is complete in accordance with section 38-38-102 (1).

(2) Foreclosure by qualified holder without original evidence of debt, original or certified copy of deed of trust, or proper indorsement. (a) A qualified holder, whether acting for itself or as agent, nominee, or trustee under section 38-38-100.3 (20) (j), that elects to foreclose without the original evidence of debt pursuant to subparagraph (II) of paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section, or without the original recorded deed of trust or a certified copy thereof pursuant to subparagraph (II) of paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section, or without the proper indorsement or assignment of an evidence of debt under paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section shall, by operation of law, be deemed to have agreed to indemnify and defend any person liable for repayment of any portion of the original evidence of debt in the event that the original evidence of debt is presented for payment to the extent of any amount, other than the amount of a deficiency remaining under the evidence of debt after deducting the amount bid at sale, and any person who sustains a loss due to any title defect that results from reliance upon a sale at which the original evidence of debt was not presented. The indemnity granted by this subsection (2) shall be limited to actual economic loss suffered together with any court costs and reasonable attorney fees and costs incurred in defending a claim brought as a direct and proximate cause of the failure to produce the original evidence of debt, but such indemnity shall not include, and no claimant shall be entitled to, any special, incidental, consequential, reliance, expectation, or punitive damages of any kind. A qualified holder acting as agent, nominee, or trustee shall be liable for the indemnity pursuant to this subsection (2).

(b) In the event that a qualified holder or the attorney for the holder commences a foreclosure without production of the original evidence of debt, proper indorsement or assignment, or the original recorded deed of trust or a certified copy thereof, the qualified holder or the attorney for the holder may submit the original evidence of debt, proper indorsement or assignment, or the original recorded deed of trust or a certified copy thereof to the officer prior to the sale. In such event, the sale shall be conducted and administered as if the original evidence of debt, proper indorsement or assignment, or the original recorded deed of trust or a certified copy thereof had been submitted at the time of commencement of such proceeding, and any indemnities deemed to have been given by the qualified holder under paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) shall be null and void as to the instrument produced under this paragraph (b).

(c) In the event that a foreclosure is conducted where the original evidence of debt, proper indorsement or assignment, or original recorded deed of trust or certified copy thereof has not been produced, the only claims shall be against the indemnitor as provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) and not against the foreclosed property or the attorney for the holder of the evidence of debt. Nothing in this section shall preclude a person liable for repayment of the evidence of debt from pursuing remedies allowed by law.

(3) Foreclosure on a portion of property. A holder of an evidence of debt may elect to foreclose a deed of trust under this article against a portion of the property encumbered by the deed of trust only if such portion is encumbered as a separate and distinct parcel or lot by the original or an amended deed of trust. Any foreclosure conducted by a public trustee against less than all of the property then encumbered by the deed of trust shall not affect the lien or the power of sale contained therein as to the remaining property. The amount bid at a sale of less than all of the property shall be deemed to have satisfied the secured indebtedness to the extent of the amount of the bid.

(4) Notice of election and demand. A notice of election and demand filed with the public trustee pursuant to this section shall contain the following:

(a) The names of the original grantors of the deed of trust being foreclosed and the original beneficiaries or grantees thereof;

(b) The name of the holder of the evidence of debt;

(c) The date of the deed of trust being foreclosed;

(d) The recording date, county, book, and page or reception number of the recording of the deed of trust being foreclosed;

(e) The amount of the original principal balance of the secured indebtedness;

(f) The amount of the outstanding principal balance of the secured indebtedness as of the date of the notice of election and demand;

(g) A legal description of the property to be foreclosed as set forth in the documents to be provided to the public trustee pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section;

(h) A statement of whether the property described in the notice of election and demand is all or only a portion of the property then encumbered by the deed of trust being foreclosed;

(i) A statement of the violation of the covenant of the evidence of debt or deed of trust being foreclosed upon which the foreclosure is based, which statement shall not constitute a waiver of any right accruing on account of any violation of any covenant of the evidence of debt or deed of trust other than the violation specified in the notice of election and demand;

(j) The name, address, business telephone number, and bar registration number of the attorney for the holder of the evidence of debt, which may be indicated in the signature block of the notice of election and demand; and

(k) A description of any changes to the deed of trust described in the notice of election and demand that are based on an affidavit filed with the public trustee under paragraph (f) of subsection (1) of this section, together with the recording date and reception number or book and page number of the recording of that affidavit in the records.

(5) Error in notice. In the event that the amount of the outstanding principal balance due and owing upon the secured indebtedness is erroneously set forth in the notice of election and demand or the combined notice, the error shall not affect the validity of the notice of election and demand, the combined notice, the publication, the sale, the certificate of purchase described in section 38-38-401, the certificate of redemption described in section 38-38-402, the confirmation deed as defined in section 38-38-100.3 (5), or any other document executed in connection therewith.

(6) Indorsement or assignment. (a) Proper indorsement or assignment of an evidence of debt shall include the original indorsement or assignment or a certified copy of an indorsement or assignment recorded in the county where the property being foreclosed is located.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (6), the original evidence of debt or a copy thereof without proper indorsement or assignment shall be deemed to be properly indorsed or assigned if a qualified holder presents the original evidence of debt or a copy thereof to the officer together with a statement in the certification of the qualified holder or in the statement of the attorney for the qualified holder pursuant to subparagraph (II) of paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section that the party on whose behalf the foreclosure was commenced is the holder of the evidence of debt.

(7) Multiple instruments. If the evidence of debt consists of multiple instruments, such as notes or bonds, the holder of the evidence of debt may elect to foreclose with respect to fewer than all of such instruments or documents by identifying in the notice of election and demand and the combined notice only those to be satisfied in whole or in part, in which case the requirements of this section shall apply only as to those instruments or documents.

(8) Assignment or transfer of debt during foreclosure. (a) The holder of the evidence of debt may assign or transfer the secured indebtedness at any time during the pendency of a foreclosure action without affecting the validity of the secured indebtedness. Upon receipt of written notice signed by the holder who commenced the foreclosure action or the attorney for the holder stating that the evidence of debt has been assigned and transferred and identifying the assignee or transferee, the public trustee shall complete the foreclosure as directed by the assignee or transferee or the attorney for the assignee or transferee. No holder of an evidence of debt, certificate of purchase, or certificate of redemption shall be liable to any third party for the acts or omissions of any assignee or transferee that occur after the date of the assignment or transfer.

(b) The assignment or transfer of the secured indebtedness during the pendency of a foreclosure shall be deemed made without recourse unless otherwise agreed in a written statement signed by the assignor or transferor. The holder of the evidence of debt, certificate of purchase, or certificate of redemption making the assignment or transfer and the attorney for the holder shall have no duty, obligation, or liability to the assignee or transferee or to any third party for any act or omission with respect to the foreclosure or the loan servicing of the secured indebtedness after the assignment or transfer. If an assignment or transfer is made by a qualified holder that commenced the foreclosure pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, the qualified holder's indemnity under said subsection (2) shall remain in effect with respect to all parties except to the assignee or transferee, unless otherwise agreed in a writing signed by the assignee or transferee if the assignee or transferee is a qualified holder.

(c) If an assignment or transfer is made to a holder of an evidence of debt other than a qualified holder, the holder must file with the officer the original evidence of debt and the original recorded deed of trust or, in lieu thereof, the documents required in paragraphs (b) and (c) of subsection (1) of this section. An assignee or transferee shall be presumed to not be a qualified holder, and as such, shall be subject to the provisions of this paragraph (c), unless a signed statement by the attorney for such assignee or transferee that cites the paragraph of section 38-38-100.3 (20) under which the assignee or transferee claims to be a qualified holder is filed with the officer.

(9) Partial release from deed of trust. At any time after the recording of the notice of election and demand but prior to the sale, a portion of the property may be released from the deed of trust being foreclosed pursuant to section 38-39-102 or as otherwise provided by order of a court of competent jurisdiction recorded in the county where the property being released is located. Upon recording of the release or court order, the holder of the evidence of debt or the attorney for the holder shall pay the fee described in section 38-37-104 (1) (b) (IX), amend the combined notice, and, in the case of a public trustee foreclosure, amend the notice of election and demand to describe the property that continues to be secured by the deed of trust or other lien being foreclosed as of the effective date of the release or court order. The public trustee shall record the amended notice of election and demand upon receipt. Upon receipt of the amended combined notice, the public trustee shall republish and mail the amended combined notice in the manner set forth in section 38-38-109 (1) (b).

(10) Deposit. The public trustee may require a deposit of up to six hundred fifty dollars or the amount of the fee permitted pursuant to section 38-37-104 (1) (b) (I), whichever is greater, at the time the notice of election and demand is filed, to be applied against the fees and costs of the public trustee. The public trustee may allow the attorney for the holder of the evidence of debt to establish one or more accounts with the public trustee, which the public trustee may use to pay the fees and costs of the public trustee in any foreclosure filed by the holder or the attorney for the holder, or through which the public trustee may transmit refunds or cures, overbids, or redemption proceeds.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 2006 repeal and reenactment.

Deed not invalidated by failure to designate advertising period. The failure to designate what the period of advertising should be made does not invalidate the deed because, if the grantor did not designate the period in the deed, the trustee may advertise a reasonable time. Healey v. Zobel, 45 Colo. 294, 101 P. 56 (1909).

Publication complied with section. Where a deed of trust authorized a sale of the lands, after "four weeks public notice of the time and place of such sale by advertisement weekly, in some newspaper of general circulation", and the notice of sale thereunder, to take place on the 12th of December, was published on the 10th, 17th, and 24th days of November, and the 1st day of December, there was a compliance with the power contained in the deed of trust and with this section. Gold Dirt Mining & Milling Co. v. Perigo Mines, Land & Townsite Corp., 48 Colo. 197, 109 P. 263 (1910).

Notice at address given in deed complies with section. Notice to subsequent encumbrancer, at the address given in the deed of trust, is a compliance with this section. Watkins v. Booth, 55 Colo. 91, 132 P. 1141 (1913).

Where the mortgagee testified that he had actual notice of the foreclosure proceeding, but that there was no compliance with the statutory requirements of notice, and where the record reflected that the notices in question were mailed to him at the address given in the deed of trust, that is all that is required. Motlong v. World Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 168 Colo. 540, 452 P.2d 384 (1969).

Homestead exemption applies in public trustee sales. Frank v. First Nat'l Bank, 653 P.2d 748 (Colo. App. 1982).

Not only homestead exemptions, but redemption rights as provided in sales on execution are incorporated in public trustee sales. Frank v. First Nat'l Bank, 653 P.2d 748 (Colo. App. 1982).

Sale of homesteaded property. When a public trustee conducts a sale of homesteaded property upon a deed of trust with a waiver therein, the public trustee must limit the sale to the extent of the waiver or else require that the sale of the homestead conform to the safeguards in a forced sale of homestead by execution as set forth in § 38-41-206. Frank v. First Nat'l Bank, 653 P.2d 748 (Colo. App. 1982).

When lender bank made election of remedy to proceed by public trustee foreclosure on separate deeds of trust to 17 parcels, bank surrendered remedy contained in agreement that the disputed parcel would not be released from deed of trust until the bank received $50,000 toward the principal on promissory notes for 17 parcels. Colo. Nat'l Bank-Exchange v. Hammar, 764 P.2d 359 (Colo. App. 1988).

A collusive foreclosure under power of sale is a fraudulent conveyance. The fundamental element of a fraudulent conveyance is whether the debtor's estate is unjustly diminished. Megabank Fin. v. Alpha Gamma Rho, 841 P.2d 318 (Colo. App. 1992).

A chattel mortgage is collusive if it is a transaction intended to delay creditors and to prevent the property of the debtor coming to their use. Megabank Fin. v. Alpha Gamma Rho, 841 P.2d 318 (Colo. App. 1992).

A fraudulent conveyance results whether of real or personal property if, as a result of the debtor's operations on the title to his property, the creditor loses by reason of finding less to seize and apply to his claim; however, no injury can result from a sale of an asset at its fair value since the estate does not abate as a result of what was done. Megabank Fin. v. Alpha Gamma Rho, 841 P.2d 318 (Colo. App. 1992).

The foreclosure sale of less than all of the properties encumbered by a deed of trust was valid where creditor's intent was clear, debtor suffered no prejudice, and there were no intervening rights of third parties. Rolfes v. O'Connor, 844 P.2d 1330 (Colo. App. 1992).

Plaintiffs' due process rights not violated where claim of insufficient notice arises out of their own failure to comply with the change of address requirements in the deed of trust. Plaintiffs failed to provide to defendant, in writing, a notice of change of address. Defendant thus utilized address specified in the deed of trust to serve its motion and notice under C.R.C.P. 120 and to provide the public trustee with plaintiffs' most current address. The plain language of the deed of trust expresses the parties' intentions concerning notice and changes of address. Defendant's adherence to the deed of trust's notice provision complied with the notice requirements of C.R.C.P. 120(a). Thus, the notice provision in the deed of trust and defendant's compliance with that provision comported with the requirements of C.R.C.P. 120(a). Estates in Eagle Ridge, LLLP v. Valley Bank & Trust, 141 P.3d 838 (Colo. App. 2005).

(2) The public trustee shall retain in the public trustee's records a printed or electronic copy of the notice of election and demand and the combined notice, as published pursuant to section 38-38-103. 38-38-104. Right to cure when default is nonpayment - right to cure for certain technical defaults. (1) Unless the order authorizing the sale described in section 38-38-105 contains a determination that there is a reasonable probability that a default in the terms of the evidence of debt, deed of trust, or other lien being foreclosed other than nonpayment of sums due thereunder has occurred, any of the following persons is entitled to cure the default if the person files with the officer, no later than fifteen calendar days prior to the date of sale, a written notice of intent to cure together with evidence of the person's right to cure to the satisfaction of the officer:

(a) (I) The owner of the property as of the date and time of the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens as evidenced in the records;

(II) If the owner of the property is dead or incapacitated on or after the date and time of the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens, the owner's heirs, personal representative, legal guardian, or conservator as of the time of filing of the notice of intent to cure, whether or not such person's interest is shown in the records, or any co-owner of the property if the co-owner's ownership interest is evidenced in the records as of the date and time of the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens;

(III) A transferee of the property as evidenced in the records as of the time of filing of the notice of intent to cure if the transferee was the property owner's spouse as of the date and time of the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens or if the transferee is wholly owned or controlled by the property owner, is wholly owned or controlled by the controlling owner of the property owner, or is the controlling owner of the property owner;

(IV) A transferee or owner of the property by virtue of merger or other similar event or by operation of law occurring after the date and time of the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens; or

(V) The holder of an order or judgment entered by a court of competent jurisdiction as evidenced in the records after the date and time of the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens ordering title to the property to be vested in a person other than the owner;

(b) A person liable under the evidence of debt;

(c) A surety or guarantor of the evidence of debt; or

(d) A holder of an interest junior to the lien being foreclosed by virtue of being a lienor or lessee of, or a holder of an easement or license on, the property or a contract vendee of the property, if the instrument evidencing the interest was recorded in the records prior to the date and time of the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens. If, prior to the date and time of the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens, a lien is recorded in an incorrect county, the holder's rights under this section shall only be valid if the lien is rerecorded in the correct county at least fifteen calendar days prior to the actual date of sale.

(2) (a) (I) Promptly upon receipt of a notice of intent to cure by the officer, but no less than twelve calendar days prior to the date of sale, the officer shall transmit by mail, facsimile, or electronic means to the person executing the notice of election and demand a request for a statement of all sums necessary to cure the default. The cure statement shall be filed with the officer by the attorney for the holder or, if none, by the holder of the evidence of debt and shall set forth the amounts necessary to cure as identified in the cure statement. Upon receipt of the statement of the amounts needed to cure, the officer shall transmit the cure statement in writing to the person filing the notice of intent to cure the default.

(II) If a cure statement is required pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), the holder of the evidence of debt shall submit a signed and acknowledged cure statement, or the office of the attorney for the holder shall submit a signed cure statement, specifying the following amounts, itemized in substantially the following categories and in substantially the following form:

(b) No later than 12 noon on the day before the sale, the person desiring to cure the default shall pay to the officer all sums that are due and owing under the evidence of debt and deed of trust or other lien being foreclosed and all fees and costs of the holder of the evidence of debt allowable under the evidence of debt, deed of trust, or other lien being foreclosed through the effective date that are set forth in the cure statement; except that any principal that would not have been due in the absence of acceleration shall not be included in such sums due.

(c) If a cure is made, interest for the period of any continuance pursuant to section 38-38-109 (1) (c) shall be allowed only at the regular rate and not at the default rate as may be specified in the evidence of debt, deed of trust, or other lien being foreclosed. If a cure is not made, interest at the default rate, if specified in the evidence of debt, deed of trust, or other lien being foreclosed, for the period of the continuance shall be allowed.

(d) Upon receipt of the cure amount and a withdrawal or dismissal of the foreclosure from the holder of the evidence of debt or the attorney for the holder, the officer shall deliver the cure amount, less the fees and costs of the officer, to the attorney for the holder or, if none, to the holder, the foreclosure shall be withdrawn or dismissed as provided by law, and the evidence of debt shall be returned uncanceled to the attorney for the holder of the evidence of debt or, if none, to the holder by the public trustee or to the court by the sheriff.

(3) Where the default in the terms of the evidence of debt, deed of trust, or other lien on which the holder of the evidence of debt claims the right to foreclose is the failure of a party to furnish balance sheets or tax returns, any person entitled to cure pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section may cure such default in the manner prescribed in this section by providing to the holder or the attorney for the holder the required balance sheets, tax returns, or other adequate evidence of the party's financial condition so long as all sums currently due under the evidence of debt have been paid and all amounts due under paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section, where applicable, have been paid.

(4) Any person liable on the debt and the grantor of the deed of trust or other lien being foreclosed shall be deemed to have given the necessary consent to allow the holder of the evidence of debt or the attorney for the holder to provide the information specified in paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section to the officer and all other persons who may assert a right to cure pursuant to this section.

(5) A cure statement pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section shall state the period for which it is effective. The cure statement shall be effective for at least ten calendar days after the date the cure statement is received by the officer or until the last day to cure under paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section, whichever occurs first. The cure statement shall be effective for no more than thirty calendar days after the date the cure statement is received by the officer or until the last day to cure under paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section, whichever occurs first. The use of good faith estimates in the cure statement with respect to interest and fees and costs is specifically authorized by this article, so long as the cure statement states that it is a good faith estimate effective through the last day to cure as indicated in the cure statement. The use of a good faith estimate in the cure statement shall not change or extend the period or effective date of a cure statement.

(6) Following expiration of the period for which the cure statement is effective, but no less than fifteen calendar days prior to the date of sale, the person who originally submitted the notice of intent to cure may make a written request to the public trustee for an update of the amount necessary to cure. Upon receipt by the public trustee of such written request for updated cure figures, subsection (2) of this section shall apply.

(7) If the holder of the evidence of debt or the attorney for the holder receives a request for a cure statement under paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section and does not file a cure statement with the officer by the earlier of ten business days after receipt of the request or the eighth calendar day before the date of the sale, the officer shall continue the sale for one week. Thereafter and until the cure statement is filed, the officer shall continue the sale an additional week for each week that the holder fails to file the cure statement; except that the sale shall not be continued beyond the period of continuance allowed under section 38-38-109 (1) (a). A cure statement must be received by 12 noon on the day it is due in order to meet a deadline set forth in this subsection (7).

Annotator's note. Since § 38-38-104 is similar to § 38-39-118 as it existed prior to the 1990 repeal and reenactment of this article and article 39, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Applicability of section. This section applies only where foreclosure action has been initiated. Certified Realty Corp. v. Smith, 198 Colo. 222, 597 P.2d 1043 (1979).

This section applies to a situation where default in the terms of a note and deed of trust consists, not only of nonpayment of principal and interest, but also of failure to pay real property taxes. Foster Lumber Co. v. Weston Constructors, Inc., 33 Colo. App. 436, 521 P.2d 1294 (1974).

Section modified common law by limiting acceleration right. This section has modified the common law by limiting right of acceleration. Foster Lumber Co. v. Weston Constructors, Inc., 33 Colo. App. 436, 521 P.2d 1294 (1974).

When the action involves only a default of payment and the deed of trust or mortgage is being foreclosed, this section limits the effectiveness of an acceleration clause. Smith v. Certified Realty Corp., 41 Colo. App. 170, 585 P.2d 293 (1978), aff'd, 198 Colo. 222, 597 P.2d 1043 (1979).

Section prevents foreclosure if creditor's interests not jeopardized. This section must be interpreted so as to carry out its general legislative intent which was to permit debtors to prevent foreclosure of mortgages or deeds of trust in instances in which the creditor's interests will not be jeopardized. Foster Lumber Co. v. Weston Constructors, Inc., 33 Colo. App. 436, 521 P.2d 1294 (1974); Jacobs Invs. v. PRD Holdings, Ltd., 44 Colo. App. 184, 612 P.2d 1149 (1980).

And cures default on note, deed of trust, or mortgage. This section specifically refers to defaults on "the note, deed of trust, or mortgage" and was obviously intended to permit a debtor to cure a default in the terms of either instrument. Foster Lumber Co. v. Weston Constructors, Inc., 33 Colo. App. 436, 521 P.2d 1294 (1974).

Section does not limit the number of times a debtor can cure defaults. Jacobs Invs. v. PRD Holdings, Ltd., 44 Colo. App. 184, 612 P.2d 1149 (1980).

Subsection (3) protects the creditor from the allegation that he has waived his future right to accelerate and to foreclose upon default because the debtor was able to cure defaults at an earlier time. Jacobs Invs. v. PRD Holdings, Ltd., 44 Colo. App. 184, 612 P.2d 1149 (1980).

No equitable right to cure default in action on promissory note. There is no equitable right to cure default in action brought solely on promissory note. Smith v. Certified Realty Corp., 41 Colo. App. 170, 585 P.2d 293 (1978), aff'd, 198 Colo. 222, 597 P.2d 1043 (1979).

Postponement of sale also postpones deadline for curing default. When the date of a foreclosure sale is postponed, the deadline for curing the default, notice to the public trustee of intention to cure at least seven days prior to the sale, is correspondingly postponed. Kirchner v. Sanchez, 661 P.2d 1161 (Colo. 1983).

Acceleration clause enforceable. Where suit after default of payment is on the note only and the creditor does not bring an action to foreclose on the security, i.e., the deed of trust, the acceleration clause in the note is enforceable, and the debtor has no statutory or equitable right to cure the money default. Smith v. Certified Realty Corp., 41 Colo. App. 170, 585 P.2d 293 (1978), aff'd, 198 Colo. 222, 597 P.2d 1043 (1979).

Statutory coverage triggered by initiation of foreclosure proceedings. Because by its terms this section applies only to deeds of trust or mortgages "being foreclosed" and the statutory mechanism for tender operates through the public trustees or other officers "conducting the sale", statutory coverage is triggered by initiation of foreclosure proceedings on the mortgage or deed of trust. Foster Lumber Co. v. Weston Constructors, Inc., 33 Colo. App. 436, 521 P.2d 1294 (1974).

Attorney fees. When a deed of trust is foreclosed as a mortgage, the court may award attorney fees. Bakers Park Mining & Milling Co. v. District Court, 662 P.2d 483 (Colo. 1983).

To cure default, debtor is required to pay interest at the default rate on the entire balance of the debt for the period during which the note was in default plus all delinquent principal. Foothills Apartments v. Fischer, 693 P.2d 395 (Colo. App. 1984).

No partial cure of default. Default is either cured or not cured, and if "cured" then it is as if no default occurred. The effect of curing default under the foreclosure statute is to put parties in the same position as they would have been had no default occurred. Foothills Apartments v. Fischer, 693 P.2d 395 (Colo. App. 1984).

Parties returned to original status following timely tender. This section allows one liable, under a note and deed of trust or mortgage, whose only default is nonpayment, to cure the default by tender of the delinquent payments due plus costs, late charges, and attorneys' fees. If such a tender is made within five (now seven) days of the foreclosure sale, the foreclosure action is terminated and the parties are returned to their original status. Ulander v. Allen, 37 Colo. App. 279, 544 P.2d 1001 (1976).

There is no statutorily prescribed remedy for failure to comply with this section. Burrell Registration Co. v. McKelvey, 194 Colo. 157, 570 P.2d 248 (1977).

Bankruptcy court lacks authority to extend statutory time to cure default after the certificate of purchase has been issued. Benford-Whiting Co. v. Robertson, 4 B.R. 213 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1980).

38-38-105. Court order authorizing sale mandatory - notice of hearing for residential properties - definition.

(1) Repealed.

(2) (a) On and after January 1, 2008, whenever a public trustee forecloses upon a deed of trust under this article, the holder of the evidence of debt or the attorney for the holder shall obtain an order authorizing sale from a court of competent jurisdiction to issue the same pursuant to rule 120 or other rule of the Colorado rules of civil procedure. The order shall recite the date the hearing was scheduled if no hearing was held, or the date the hearing was completed if a hearing was held, which date in either case must be no later than the day prior to the last day on which an effective notice of intent to cure may be filed with the public trustee under section 38-38-104. A sale held without an order authorizing sale issued in compliance with this paragraph (a) shall be invalid.

(b) The public trustee shall postpone the sale, unless the holder or the attorney for the holder causes a copy of the order to be provided to the public trustee no later than 12 noon on the second business day prior to the date of sale. A sale held in violation of this paragraph (b) shall not be invalid if an order that complied with the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) was entered.

(3) Not less than fourteen days before the date set for the hearing pursuant to rule 120 or other rule of the Colorado rules of civil procedure, the holder or the attorney for the holder seeking an order authorizing sale under this section for a residential property shall cause a notice of hearing as described in rule 120 (b) of the Colorado rules of civil procedure to be posted in a conspicuous place on the property that is the subject of the sale. If possible, the notice shall be posted on the front door of the residence, but if access to the door is not possible or is restricted, the notice shall be posted at an alternative conspicuous location, such as a gate or similar impediment. If a person at the residence is impeding posting at the residence at the time of the attempted posting, the notice may be handed to that person to satisfy this posting requirement. The notice required by this subsection (3) is sufficient if it complies with the requirements of this section without regard to any requirements for service of process in a civil action required by court rule.

(4) As used in this section, "residential property" means any real property upon which a dwelling, as defined in section 5-1-301 (18), C.R.S., is constructed and occupied.

Inadequate foreclosure bid, or bid not in "good faith", does not bar recovery of a deficiency judgment rather inadequacy should be considered only to adjust amount of deficiency claim. Bank of Am. v. Kosovich, 878 P.2d 65 (Colo. App. 1994).

Trial court properly concluded that no formal notice of acceleration was required under the terms of the note, and commencement of a foreclosure action was sufficient to accel-

Trial court erred in allowing defendants to include in their foreclosure bids as “amounts due” future interest amounts. Upon defendants’ acceleration of the entire loan obligation, defendants had waived or were no longer entitled to recover the contested amounts, which would constitute an impermissible prepayment penalty not authorized by the note and deed of trust in the event of foreclosure. Kirk v. Kitchens, 49 P.3d 1189 (Colo. App. 2002).

38-38-107. Fees and costs - definitions. (1) All fees and costs of every kind and nature incurred under the provisions of articles 37 to 39 of this title shall be fees and costs of the sale chargeable as additional amounts owing under the deed of trust or other lien being foreclosed. in the statement of redemption if such amounts have not been included in a prior bid or statement of redemption.

(5) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsections (1), (3), and (4) of this section, a holder of an evidence of debt, certificate of purchase, or certificate of redemption shall not accept from a provider of services or products related to property inspection, broker's price opinion, title report, appraisal, insurance, repair, or maintenance or from an agent or affiliate of the provider any payment, benefit, or remuneration of any kind, whether in the form of cash, employee, advertising, computer program or service, bank deposit, or other good or service in connection with a foreclosure in which a property inspection, broker's price opinion, title report, appraisal, insurance, repair, or maintenance service or product of the provider or an agent or affiliate of the provider was used, unless the total value of all payment, benefit, or remuneration received by the holder from the provider of the service or product is shown and credited against amounts owed to the holder in each bid, cure statement, or redemption statement.

38-38-109. Continuance of sale - effect of bankruptcy - withdrawal of sale.

(1) Continuance. (a) For any reason deemed by the officer to be good cause or upon written request by the holder of the evidence of debt or by the attorney for the holder, at any time before commencement of the sale, the officer may continue the sale to a later date by making, at the time and place designated for the sale, an oral announcement of the time and place of such continuance, or by posting or providing a notice of the continuance at the time and place designated for the sale, which shall include the time and place to which the sale is continued. Except as provided in subparagraph (I) of paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section, a sale that is not held on the then-scheduled date of sale and is not continued from the then-scheduled date of sale pursuant to this paragraph (a) shall be deemed to have been continued for a period of one week, and from week to week thereafter in like manner, until the sale is held or otherwise continued pursuant to this paragraph (a). No sale shall be continued to a date later than twelve months from the originally designated date in the combined notice, except as provided in subsection (2) of this section.

(b) At the request of the holder of the evidence of debt or the attorney for the holder or upon the officer's own initiative, the officer shall correct any errors in a published combined notice and shall continue the then-scheduled date of sale to a future date within the period of continuance allowed by paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) to permit a corrected combined notice to be published or the original combined notice to be republished pursuant to section 38-38-103 (5). If the officer failed to publish the combined notice as required by section 38-38-103 (5), the officer shall continue the then-scheduled date of sale to a future date within the period of continuance allowed by paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). The future date of sale to which the sale is continued pursuant to this paragraph (b) shall be no later than thirty calendar days after the fifth publication of the corrected combined notice or republished combined notice. The officer shall mail a copy of the combined notice, or corrected combined notice if the original combined notice was erroneous, to the persons and addresses on the most recent amended mailing list no later than ten calendar days after the first correct publication or republication and no less than forty-five calendar days prior to the actual date of sale in the same manner as set forth in section 38-38-103. If there is no amended mailing list, the officer shall mail a copy of the combined notice, or corrected combined notice if the original combined notice was erroneous, to the persons as set forth in the mailing list.

(c) (I) (A) If a cure statement is not timely filed, the sale will be continued pursuant to section 38-38-104 (7).

(B) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2009, (HB 09-1207), ch. 164, p. 715, § 11, effective January 1, 2010.)

(C) During a foreclosure deferment pursuant to part 8 of this article, any continuance described by sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I) shall run concurrently with the foreclosure deferment.

(II) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2009, (HB 09-1207), ch. 164, p. 715, § 11, effective January 1, 2010.)

(III) When the property is to be sold by the sheriff, if the cure statement is not filed with the sheriff by 12 noon on the seventh calendar day before the last date of sale permitted under paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), the foreclosure action shall be deemed dismissed, and the holder of the evidence of debt or the attorney for the holder shall file a motion to dismiss with the court. Upon good cause shown, the holder or the attorney for the holder may file a motion with the court requesting further relief as the court may deem necessary or appropriate in the circumstances. The sheriff shall record the order of dismissal or other order of the court and collect all fees and costs actually incurred by the sheriff.

(2) Effect of bankruptcy proceedings. (a) If all publications of the combined notice prescribed by section 38-38-103 (5) or 13-56-201 (1), C.R.S., have been completed before a bankruptcy petition has been filed that automatically stays the officer from conducting the sale, the officer shall announce, post, or provide notice of that fact on the then-scheduled date of sale, take no action at the then-scheduled sale, and allow the sale to be automatically continued from week to week in accordance with paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section unless otherwise requested in writing prior to any such date of sale by the holder of the evidence of debt or the attorney for the holder.

(b) (I) If the publications of the combined notice prescribed by section 38-38-103 (5) or 13-56-201 (1), C.R.S., have not been started or if all the publications have not been completed before the day a bankruptcy petition has been filed that automatically stays the officer from conducting the sale, the officer shall immediately cancel any remaining publications of the combined notice and, on the date set for the sale, announce, post, or provide a notice that the sale has been enjoined or has been stayed by the automatic stay provisions of the federal bankruptcy code of 1978, title 11 of the United States Code, as amended. The sale shall not be continued under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section.

(II) When the property is to be sold by the public trustee, the public trustee shall rerecord the notice of election and demand and proceed with all additional foreclosure procedures provided by this article, as though the foreclosure had just been commenced, upon:

(A) The termination of any injunction or upon the entry of a bankruptcy court order dismissing the bankruptcy case, abandoning the property being foreclosed, closing the bankruptcy case, or granting relief from the automatic stay provisions of the federal bankruptcy code of 1978, title 11 of the United States Code, as amended; and

(B) Receipt of a request from the holder of the evidence of debt or the attorney for the holder to restart the action. The public trustee shall rerecord the notice within ten business days of the request.

(III) When the property is to be sold by the sheriff under any statutory or judicial foreclosure or upon execution and levy made pursuant to any court order or decree, upon the notification of termination of any injunction or upon the entry of a bankruptcy court order dismissing the bankruptcy case, abandoning the property being foreclosed, closing the bankruptcy case, or granting relief from the automatic stay provisions of the federal bankruptcy code of 1978, title 11 of the United States Code, as amended, the sheriff shall forthwith establish a new date of sale and republish a new combined notice pursuant to section 13-56-201 (1), C.R.S.

(c) (I) If a sale is held in violation of the automatic stay provisions of the federal bankruptcy code of 1978, title 11 of the United States Code, as amended, and an order is subsequently entered by a bankruptcy court of competent jurisdiction dismissing the bankruptcy, abandoning the property being foreclosed, or closing the bankruptcy case, or an order is subsequently entered granting relief from the automatic stay provided by the federal bankruptcy code, then the evidence of debt, deed of trust, or other lien being foreclosed shall immediately be deemed reinstated, and the deed of trust or other lien shall have the same priority as if the sale had not occurred. The reinstatement shall be confirmed by the officer's indorsement on the original evidence of debt and deed of trust or other lien, if deposited with the officer, or on the copy thereof if one has been submitted pursuant to section 38-38-101 (1), although the failure to so indorse shall not affect the validity of the reinstatement. Immediately upon reinstatement, the power of sale provided therein, if any, shall be deemed revived. The indorsement shall be in substantially the following form:

The undersigned, as _____ (Public Trustee) (Sheriff) _____ for the _____, county of _____, state of Colorado, by this indorsement, hereby confirms the reinstatement of this _____ (evidence of debt) (deed of trust) (lien) _____ in accordance with the requirements of section 38-38-109 (2) (c) (I), Colorado Revised Statutes.

(II) If the holder of the evidence of debt, deed of trust, or other lien reinstated pursuant to this paragraph (c) or the attorney for the holder notifies the officer in writing of the entry of an order dismissing the bankruptcy case, abandoning the property being foreclosed, closing the bankruptcy case, or granting relief from the automatic stay provided by the federal bankruptcy code of 1978, title 11 of the United States Code, as amended, within sixty calendar days of the date on which the foreclosed property is no longer subject to the automatic stay, the officer shall set a new date of sale at least twenty-four calendar days but not more than forty-nine calendar days after the date on which the official receives such notice. No later than ten business days after receiving such notice, the officer shall mail an amended combined notice containing the date of the rescheduled sale to each person appearing on the most recent mailing list. No later than twenty calendar days after receiving such notice, but no less than ten calendar days prior to the new date of sale, the officer shall publish the amended combined notice, omitting the copies of the statutes, one time only in a newspaper of general circulation in the county where the property is located.

(III) All fees and costs of providing and publishing the amended combined notice and publication shall be part of the foreclosure costs.

(d) If a sale is enjoined or set aside by court order, the same procedures as set forth in paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this subsection (2) shall apply unless the court order specifies otherwise. The fees prescribed in section 38-37-104 (1) (b) (VII) and (1) (b) (VIII) shall apply to the procedures described in this subsection (2).

(e) The periods for which a sale may be continued under this subsection (2) shall be in addition to the twelve-month period of continuance provided by subsection (1) of this section.

(3) Withdrawal. (a) If the holder of the evidence of debt or the attorney for the holder files with the public trustee, prior to sale, a written withdrawal of the notice of election and demand, the foreclosure proceedings shall terminate. The public trustee shall record the withdrawal and collect all fees and costs owed and incurred, including a withdrawal fee in the amount authorized by section 38-37-104 (1) (b) (V).

(b) If there is no sale and if a withdrawal is not filed within forty-five calendar days after the last date of sale permitted by law, the public trustee may transmit by mail or electronic transmission to the attorney for the holder of the evidence of debt, or if no attorney then to the holder, a notice that a withdrawal of the notice of election and demand may be recorded by the public trustee unless a response requesting that such withdrawal be delayed for ninety calendar days is received by the public trustee within thirty calendar days after the date the public trustee's notice is transmitted. If such response is received by the public trustee and there is no sale nor is a withdrawal filed within the ninety-day delay, the public trustee may record a withdrawal of the notice of election and demand. If no such response is received by the public trustee within thirty calendar days after the notice is transmitted, the public trustee may record a withdrawal of the notice of election and demand at any time after the expiration of such thirty-day notice period. If a withdrawal is recorded during the pendency of an automatic stay imposed on the sale based on any proceeding filed under the federal bankruptcy code of 1978, title 11 of the United States Code, as amended, the withdrawal shall be void and of no force and effect, and the public trustee shall mail to all persons on the mailing list a notice that the withdrawal of the notice of election and demand occurred during the pendency of an injunction or bankruptcy stay and is void and of no force and effect. The public trustee shall cause the notice to be recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county where the property described in the notice is located. All unpaid fees and costs owed and incurred by the public trustee, as well as a withdrawal fee in the amount authorized by section 38-37-104 (1) (b) (VI), shall be paid by the holder. The amount due shall accrue interest at the rate provided by law. Until all amounts due and owing are paid, the public trustee shall be entitled to hold all documentation in the public trustee's possession and to withhold all other services requested by the holder or the attorney for the holder with respect to the deed of trust or other lien being foreclosed.

38-38-111. Treatment of an overbid - definition. (1) An overbid shall be first applied to any deficiency as indicated in the holder's bid, and then paid to the officer to be held in escrow until the end of all redemption periods as provided in section 38-38-302.

(2) Upon the expiration of all redemption periods provided in section 38-38-302, any remaining overbid shall be paid in order of recording priority to junior lienors, determined as of the recording date of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens according to the records, who have duly filed a notice of intent to redeem and whose liens have not been redeemed pursuant to section 38-38-302, in each case up to the unpaid amount of each such lienor's lien plus fees and costs. A lienor holding a lien that is not entitled to redeem by virtue of being recorded after the notice of election and demand, a lienor that has not timely filed a notice of intent to redeem pursuant to section 38-38-302, or a lienor who accepts less than a full redemption pursuant to section 38-38-302 (4) (c) shall not have any claim to any portion of the overbid. After payment to all lienors and the holder entitled to receive a portion of the overbid pursuant to this section, any remaining overbid shall be paid to the owner.

(2.5) (a) If a public trustee maintains a web site for his or her office, the public trustee shall include the following statement on such web site:

NOTICE TO AN OWNER IN FORECLOSURE: If your property goes to foreclosure auction sale and is purchased for more than the total owed to the lender and to all other lien holders, please contact the public trustee's office after the sale because you may have funds due to you.

(b) In order to pay the owner of the property as required pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, a public trustee shall send a notice to the owner. If the amount of remaining overbid is equal to or greater than twenty-five dollars, the public trustee shall make reasonable efforts to identify the owner's current address. The public trustee shall mail the owner a notice regarding the remaining overbid to the best available address no later than thirty days after the expiration of all redemption periods as provided in section 38-38-302.

(3) (a) Unless the property is sold by the sheriff and all the proceeds of the sale are deposited into the registry of the court, any unclaimed remaining overbid from a foreclosure sale held prior to September 1, 2012, shall be transferred by the officer to the county treasurer within ninety calendar days after the expiration of all redemption periods as provided in section 38-38-302 and held in escrow, and any unclaimed remaining overbid from a foreclosure sale held on or after September 1, 2012, shall be held by the officer in escrow. In either case, the remaining overbid shall be held for five years from the date of the sale. The county treasurer or officer, whomever holds the remaining overbid in escrow, shall be answerable for the funds without interest at any time within the five-year period to such persons as shall be legally entitled to the funds. Any interest earned on the escrowed funds shall be paid to the county at least annually. Unclaimed remaining overbids that are less than twenty-five dollars and that are not claimed within five years from the date of sale shall be paid to the general fund of the county, and such moneys paid to the general fund of the county shall become the property of the county. Unclaimed remaining overbids that are equal to or greater than twenty-five dollars and that are not claimed within five years from the date of the sale shall be presumed to be unclaimed property for purposes of the "Unclaimed Property Act" and transferred to the administrator in accordance with such act. After the unclaimed remaining overbids are transferred to the administrator or to the general fund of the county, the county treasurer and officer shall be discharged from any further liability or responsibility for the moneys.

(b) If the unclaimed remaining overbids exceed five hundred dollars and have not been claimed by any person entitled thereto within sixty calendar days from the expiration of all redemption periods as provided by section 38-38-302, the county treasurer or officer shall, within ninety calendar days from the expiration of all redemption periods, commence publication of a notice for four weeks, which means publication once each week for five successive weeks in some newspaper of general circulation in the county where the subject property is located. The county treasurer is responsible for the notice of an overbid from a foreclosure sale held prior to September 1, 2012, and the officer is responsible for the notice of an overbid from a foreclosure sale held on or after September 1, 2012. The notice shall contain the name of the owner, the owner's address as given in the recorded instrument evidencing the owner's interest, and the legal description and street address, if any, of the property sold at the sale and shall state that an overbid was realized from the sale and that, unless the funds are claimed by the owner or other person entitled thereto within five years from the date of sale, the funds shall be transferred to the state treasurer as part of the "Unclaimed Property Act". The county treasurer or officer, whomever holds the remaining overbid in escrow, shall also mail a copy of the notice to the owner at the best available address.

(c) The fees and costs of publication and mailing required pursuant to this subsection (3) shall be paid from the moneys escrowed by the county treasurer or officer, whomever holds the remaining overbid in escrow.

(4) A lienor who accepts a redemption amount less than the full amount of a lien or a holder of an evidence of debt who accepts a redemption amount less than the amount bid at a sale prior to the expiration of all applicable redemption periods under this article shall not be entitled to receive a portion of any excess proceeds pursuant to this section.

(5) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, "owner" means the record owner of the property as of the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens.

The public trustee shall set a new date of sale at least thirty calendar days but not more than forty-five calendar days after the date on which the public trustee receives notice to schedule a new date of sale, subject to the requirements of section 38-38-109 (2).

FORECLOSURE BY INSTALLMENTS

38-38-201. Foreclosure of installments without acceleration. (1) Any mortgage or deed of trust securing an evidence of debt payable by installments giving the right to declare the whole indebtedness due and payable on default of the payment of any part thereof may, at the election of the holder of the evidence of debt, be foreclosed as to any one or more past due installments of principal or interest as if the mortgage or deed of trust separately secured each of the past due installments, and, in the event of such election, the officer conducting the foreclosure shall apply the following provisions:

(a) Attorney fees allowed for the attorney for the holder of the evidence of debt shall not exceed ten percent of the amount of principal, interest, and late charges included in the bid prepared in accordance with section 38-38-106.

(b) Fees and costs allowable under section 38-38-107 may be included in the bid.

(c) The amount for which the property is foreclosed shall include past due installments and all sums advanced for fees and costs by the holder of the evidence of debt pursuant to the terms of the mortgage or deed of trust securing the debt.

(d) Not more than one foreclosure proceeding may be commenced pursuant to this section in a period of twelve months.

(e) The notice of election and demand or complaint filed to commence the foreclosure shall contain the following statement: “This is a foreclosure on one or more installments, without acceleration, as authorized by section 38-38-201, Colorado Revised Statutes.”

(f) No deficiency bid shall be made by the holder of the evidence of debt or accepted by the officer conducting the foreclosure sale. Upon the sale and the expiration of all redemption periods, the maker of the secured indebtedness and all parties who may be personally liable thereon shall be released from personal liability on the indebtedness, unless the property is redeemed under section 38-38-302.

(g) The foreclosure shall not affect the continuance of the lien of the mortgage or deed of trust as to any remaining obligation secured by it but not covered by the foreclosure, whether the remaining obligation is due before or after the foreclosure, and the title acquired as a result of the foreclosure shall be subject to the lien securing the remaining obligation.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the holder of an evidence of debt secured by any mortgage or deed of trust from exercising any option contained therein to declare the whole indebtedness due and payable, nor shall any of the provisions of this section be applicable to a foreclosure in which the whole indebtedness has been declared due and payable.

Deed issued prematurely by public trustee not void. A deed issued prematurely by the public trustee following a foreclosure sale is not void, but carries the naked title held by the trustee and does not divest the mortgagor of his redemption rights. Graham v. Alcoves, Inc., 148 Colo. 379, 366 P.2d 375 (1961).

Expenses not incurred in connection with foreclosure are not allowable upon redemption. Rowe v. Tucker, 38 Colo. App. 532, 560 P.2d 843 (1977).

There is no provision for payment of the purchaser's attorney's fees or any other expenses not incident to protecting the property. Davis Mfg. & Supply Co. v. Coonskin Props., Inc., 646 P.2d 940 (Colo. App. 1982).

Applied in Alexander Dawson, Inc. v. Sage Creek Canyon Co., 37 Colo. App. 339, 546 P.2d 969 (1976).

38-38-302. Redemption by lienor - procedure. (1) Requirements for redemption.

A lienor or assignee of a lien is entitled to redeem if the following requirements are met to the satisfaction of the officer:

(a) The lienor's lien is a deed of trust or other lien that is created or recognized by state or federal statute or by judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction;

(b) The lien is a junior lien as defined in section 38-38-100.3 (11);

(c) The lienor's lien appears by instruments that were duly recorded in the office of the clerk and recorder of the county prior to the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens and the lienor is one of the persons who would be entitled to cure pursuant to section 38-38-104 (1), regardless of whether such lienor filed a notice of intent to cure. If, prior to the date and time of the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens, a lien was recorded in an incorrect county, the holder's rights under this section shall be valid only if the lien is rerecorded in the correct county at least fifteen calendar days prior to the actual date of sale.

(d) The lienor has, within eight business days after the sale, filed a notice with the officer of the lienor's intent to redeem. A lienor may file a notice of intent to redeem more than eight business days after sale if:

(I) No lienor junior to the lienor seeking to file the late intent to redeem has redeemed;

(II) The redemption period for the lienor seeking to file the late intent to redeem has not expired;

(III) A redemption period has been created by the timely filing of a notice of intent to redeem; and

(IV) The notice of intent to redeem is accompanied by a written authorization from the attorney for the holder of the certificate of purchase according to the records of the officer conducting the sale, or, if no attorney is shown, then the holder of the certificate of purchase, or, if a redemption has occurred, from the immediately prior redeeming lienor, or the attorney for the immediately prior redeeming lienor, authorizing the officer to accept such notice of intent to redeem.

(e) The lienor has attached to the notice of intent to redeem the original instrument and any assignment of the lien to the person attempting to redeem, or certified copies thereof, or in the case of a qualified holder, a copy of the instrument evidencing the lien and any assignment of the lien to the person attempting to redeem. If the original instrument is delivered to the officer, the officer shall return the instrument to the lienor and retain a copy.

(f) The lienor has attached to the notice of intent to redeem a signed and properly acknowledged statement of the lienor, or a signed statement by the lienor's attorney, setting forth the amount required to redeem the lienor's lien, including per diem interest, through the end of the nineteenth business day after the sale with the same specificity and itemization as required in section 38-38-106. If the amount required to redeem the lienor's lien shown on the statement is zero, the lienor has no right to redeem unless section 38-38-305 applies.

(2) Request for redemption amount. Upon receipt by the officer of the notice of intent to redeem filed by a person entitled to redeem under this section, the officer shall within one business day transmit by mail, facsimile, or other electronic means to the attorney for the holder of the certificate of purchase, or if no attorney, then to the holder, a written request for a written or electronic statement of all sums necessary to redeem the sale. The statement shall include the amounts required to redeem in accordance with this section.

(3) Statement of redemption. (a) Upon receipt of notice that an intent to redeem was filed, the holder of a certificate of purchase shall submit a signed and acknowledged statement, or the attorney for the holder shall submit a signed statement, to the officer, no later than thirteen business days following the sale, specifying all sums necessary to redeem as of the date of the statement, the amount of per diem interest accruing thereafter, and the interest rate on which the amount is based. A holder of the certificate of purchase that is not a qualified holder, or the attorney for the holder, shall also submit to the officer receipts, invoices, evidence of electronic account-to-account transfers, or copies of loan servicing computer screens evidencing the fees and costs and verifying that the fees and costs were actually incurred as of the date of the statement, along with the per diem amounts that accrue after the date of sale. The holder or the attorney for the holder may amend the statement from time to time to reflect additional sums advanced as allowed by law, but the statement shall not be amended later than two business days prior to the commencement of the redemption period pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of this section or each subsequent redemption period pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (4) of this section.

(b) If the holder of the certificate of purchase or the attorney for the holder fails to submit the initial written statement to the officer within thirteen business days after the sale, the officer may calculate the amount necessary to redeem by adding to the successful bid the accrued interest from the sale through the redemption date. The accrued interest shall be calculated by multiplying the amount of the bid by the regular rate of annual interest specified in the evidence of debt, deed of trust, or other lien being foreclosed, divided by three hundred sixty-five and then multiplied by the number of days from the date of sale through the redemption date. The officer shall transmit by mail, facsimile, or other electronic means to the party filing the notice of intent to redeem, promptly upon receipt, the statement filed by the holder, or if no such statement is filed, the officer's estimate of the redemption figure, which shall be transmitted no later than the commencement of the redemption period pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of this section or each subsequent redemption period pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (4) of this section.

(4) Redemption period. (a) No sooner than fifteen business days nor later than nineteen business days after a sale under this article, the junior lienor having the most senior recorded lien on the sold property or any portion thereof, according to the records, having first complied with the requirements of subsection (1) of this section, may redeem the property sold by paying to the officer, no later than 12 noon on the last day of the lienor's redemption period, in the form specified in section 38-37-108, the amount for which the property was sold with interest from the date of sale, together with all sums allowed under section 38-38-301. Interest on the amount for which the property was sold shall be charged at the default rate specified in the evidence of debt, deed of trust, or other lien being foreclosed or, if not so specified, at the regular rate specified in the evidence of debt, deed of trust, or other lien being foreclosed. If different interest rates are specified in the evidence of debt, deed of trust, or other lien being foreclosed, the interest rate specified in the evidence of debt shall prevail. If the evidence of debt does not specify an interest rate, including a default interest rate, applicable interest rate as specified in the deed of trust or other lien being foreclosed shall apply.

(b) (I) Each subsequent lienor entitled to redeem shall, in succession, have an additional period of five business days to redeem. The right to redeem shall be in priority of such liens according to the records. The redeeming lienor shall redeem by paying to the officer, on or before 12 noon of the last day of the lienor's redemption period:

(A) The redemption amount paid by the prior redeeming lienor, with interest at the rate specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (4), plus the amount claimed in the statement delivered by the immediately prior redeeming lienor pursuant to subsection (6) of this section, including the per diem amounts through the date on which the payment is made; or

(B) If no prior lienor has redeemed, the redemption amount determined pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (4).

(II) If the redeeming lienor is the same person as the holder of the certificate of purchase or the prior redeeming lienor as evidenced by the instruments referred to in subsection (1) of this section, regardless of the number of consecutive liens held by the redeeming lienor, the redeeming lienor shall not pay to the officer the redemption amount indicated in the certificate of purchase or certificate of redemption held by such person, but shall only pay to the officer the unpaid fees and costs required by the redemption and provide the statement described in paragraph (f) of subsection (1) of this section.

(c) If the statement described in paragraph (f) of subsection (1) of this section so states, or upon other written authorization from the holder of the certificate of purchase or the then-current holder of the certificate of redemption or the attorney for either such holder, the officer may accept as a full redemption an amount less than the amount specified in paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section. Notwithstanding the first sentence of this paragraph (c), the amount bid at sale shall determine the amount and extent of any deficiency remaining on the debt represented by the evidence of debt that is the subject of the foreclosure as stated in the bid pursuant to section 38-38-106 (2). Any redemption under this section shall constitute a full redemption and shall be deemed to be payment of all sums to which the holder of the certificate of purchase is entitled.

(d) On the ninth business day after the date of sale, the officer shall set the dates of the redemption period of each lienor in accordance with this subsection (4). The redemption period of a lienor shall not be shortened or altered by the fact that a prior lienor redeemed before the expiration of his or her redemption period.

(5) Certificate of redemption. Upon receipt of the redemption payment pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, the officer shall execute and record a certificate of redemption pursuant to section 38-38-402. Upon the expiration of each redemption period under this section, the officer shall disburse all redemption proceeds to the persons entitled to receive them.

(6) Certificate of lienor. A redeeming lienor shall pay to the officer the amount required to redeem and shall deliver to the officer a signed and properly acknowledged statement by the lienor or a signed statement by the lienor's attorney showing the amount owing on such lien, including per diem interest and fees and costs actually incurred that are permitted by subsection (7) of this section and for which the lienor has submitted to the officer receipts, invoices, evidence of electronic account-to-account transfers, or copies of loan servicing computer screens evidencing the fees and costs and verifying that the fees and costs were actually incurred as of the date of the statement of redemption with the per diem amounts that accrue thereafter. At any time before the expiration of a redeeming lienor's redemption period, the redeeming lienor may submit a revised or corrected certificate, or the attorney for the lienor may submit a revised or corrected statement.

(7) Payment of fees and costs. A redeeming lienor may, during such lienor's redemption period described in subsection (4) of this section, pay the fees and costs that the holder of the evidence of debt may pay pursuant to section 38-38-107.

(8) Misstatement of redemption amount. If an aggrieved person contests the amount set forth in the statement filed by a redeeming lienor pursuant to paragraph (f) of subsection (1) of this section or by a holder of a certificate of purchase pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section and a court determines that the redeeming lienor or holder of the certificate of purchase has made a material misstatement on the statement with respect to the amount due and owing to the redeeming lienor or the holder of the certificate of purchase, the court shall, in addition to other relief, award to the aggrieved person the aggrieved person's court costs and reasonable attorney fees and costs.

(9) No partial redemption. A lienor holding a lien on less than all of, or a partial interest in, the property sold at sale shall redeem the entire property. No partial redemption shall be permitted under this part 3. The priority of liens for purposes of this section shall be determined without consideration of the fact that the lien relates to only a portion of the property or to a partial interest therein.

(10) Federal redemption rights. Any redemption rights granted under federal law are separate and distinct from the redemption rights granted under this part 3. All liens that are junior to the deed of trust or other lien being foreclosed pursuant to this article shall be divested by the sale under this article, subject to the redemption rights provided in this part 3. The officer conducting a foreclosure under this article is not designated to receive redemptions under federal law.

In determining whether foreclosure sale and issuance of certificate of purchase was an avoidable transfer under 11 U.S.C. § 548, full amount of junior liens must be subtracted from fair market value of property sold before determining whether reasonably equivalent value was paid for certificate of purchase. ## II. RIGHT OF REDEMPTION.

A. In General.

Right to redeem from execution sale is statutory. The right to redeem from an execution sale is a purely statutory one. Paddock v. Staley, 13 Colo. App. 363, 58 P. 363 (1899); Davis Mfg. amp; Supply Co. v. Coonskin Props., Inc., 646 P.2d 940 (Colo. App. 1982).

Without the statutes of redemption, neither judgment debtors nor judgment creditors, nor grantees of the judgment debtor, taking his title, could redeem from an execution sale. Jenkins v. Gold Dollar Mining & Milling Co., 27 Colo. App. 247, 149 P. 269 (1915); Paddock v. Staley, 13 Colo. App. 363, 58 P. 363 (1899).

Redemption period tolled by federal statute. The automatic stay provision of 11 U.S.C. § 362(a) tolls the redemption period provided for in this section. Eaton Land & Cattle Co. v. Rocky Mt. Invs., 28 Bankr. 890 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1983).

Redemption period not tolled by federal statute. 11 U.S.C. § 362 does not "toll" or "suspend" the running of the redemption period in Colorado as provided for in this section. In re Murphy, 22 Bankr. 663 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1982).

Or sale set aside. A court is not justified in invoking its equity powers to set aside a sale or extend the redemption period unless there have been circumstances such as fraud, deceit, or collusion by the purchaser, or unless a holder of a right of redemption has been misled by erroneous information as to the applicable redemption period. Davis Mfg. & Supply Co. v. Coonskin Props., Inc., 646 P.2d 940 (Colo. App. 1982).

Extension of redemption period. Where, on the date the redemption period expires, the debtor files a chapter 11 bankruptcy petition, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 108(b), the period of redemption is extended only for an additional 60 days, the federal automatic stay provision being inapplicable. Westergaard v. Cucumber Creek Dev., Inc., 33 Bankr. 820 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1983).

Debtor's right to redeem generally provides adequate remedy to safeguard him against an inadequate sale price. Gale v. Rice, 636 P.2d 1280 (Colo. App. 1981).

Redemption annuls sale. White v. Crow, 110 U.S. 183, 4 S. Ct. 71, 28 L. Ed. 113 (1884).

Upon a redemption from a sale of real estate under execution, the certificate of sale becomes void, and a sheriff's deed issued thereon is a nullity. Floyd v. Sellers, 7 Colo. App. 491, 44 P. 371 (1896).

The payment of the money by defendant, with the purpose of redemption, to the sheriff who sold the land on execution, and its receipt by the latter without objection, nullifies and abrogates the sale as between defendant and the purchaser, though the sheriff has not formally canceled the certificate of purchase, nor directed the execution of a certificate of redemption and though he has subsequently executed a deed of the land to the purchaser. Colo. Mfg. Co. v. McDonald, 15 Colo. 516, 25 P. 712 (1890).

General rule as to payment. The general rule is that redemption requires payment of the full purchase price received at the foreclosure sale together with incidental expenses. Rowe v. Tucker, 38 Colo. App. 532, 560 P.2d 843 (1977).

Test of right of redemption. Actual ownership was not intended to be the test of the right of redemption. Floyd v. Sellers, 7 Colo. App. 491, 44 P. 371 (1896).

Character of property material factor in ascertaining redemption period. The character of the property rather than its use is the material factor in ascertaining the period for redemption.

Rowe v. Tucker, 38 Colo. App. 532, 560 P.2d 843 (1977).

Period of redemption begins to run from the date a judgment of foreclosure is entered. Oman v. Morris, 28 Colo. App. 124, 471 P.2d 430 (1970).

Where equitable extension of redemption period appropriate. Where holders of right of redemption relied on the public trustee's mistake as to whether the six-month period of redemption for agricultural property or the 75-day period for nonagricultural property applied and where there was an inadequate sales price at foreclosure sale, equitable extension of the period of redemption was an appropriate remedy. Arnold v. Gebhardt, 43 Colo. App. 387, 604 P.2d 1192 (1979); Johnson v. Smith, 651 P.2d 422 (Colo. App. 1982).

Redemption period may not be extended, absent wrongdoing. The bankruptcy court cannot exercise its equity power to extend the redemption period established by subsection (2), absent guilt of wrongdoing by the party seeking the foreclosure, which adversely affects the debtor's right of redemption. In re Headley, 13 B.R. 295 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1981).

Inadequacy of sale price not enough to set aside sale. Inadequacy of sales price at foreclosure sale, standing alone, does not warrant setting aside the sale but it may be considered as one of the factors which requires the court to employ an equitable remedy for the holders of the right of redemption. Arnold v. Gebhardt, 43 Colo. App. 387, 604 P.2d 1192 (1979).

A disparity between the market value and the price paid at sale is not controlling and, standing alone, is not sufficient cause for setting aside a sale or extending a redemption period. Davis Mfg. & Supply Co. v. Coonskin Props., Inc., 646 P.2d 940 (Colo. App. 1982).

Effect of sheriff's deed executed after six months. As to a judgment debtor or his grantee, a sheriff's deed was valid if executed and delivered after six months and before nine months from the date of sale, providing there had been no redemption. Finch v. Turner, 21 Colo. 287, 40 P. 565 (1895); McLaughlin v. Wilson, 23 Colo. App. 59, 127 P. 242 (1912).

"Months". There is no dispute that the word "months", in the context of subsection (2), means calendar months, rather than some arbitrarily established number of days. Rowe v. Tucker, 38 Colo. App. 532, 560 P.2d 843 (1977).

B. Rights and Liabilities of Parties.

Owner of premises and lienholders of record may redeem. The owner of the premises and the lienholders of record have a right to redeem from the sale on foreclosure by the sheriff. Lane v. Morris, 77 Colo. 343, 237 P. 154 (1925); Baber v. Baber, 28 Colo. App. 530, 474

P.2d 630 (1970); Jenkins v. Peet, 13 B.R. 721 (D. Colo. 1981).

A redemption may be made by a judgment debtor where the judgment was against him and another, and the land sold under an execution issued thereon as the land of both defendants, notwithstanding that he may have had no interest in the property at the time of the levy or sale. Floyd v. Sellers, 7 Colo. App. 491, 44 P. 371 (1896).

Owner has possessory rights until expiration of redemption period. On sale under foreclosure of a trust deed, the owner thereafter has merely the statutory right to redeem and the right to possession of the premises until the expiration of the redemption period. Lane v. Morris, 77 Colo. 343, 237 P. 154 (1925); Bankers Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Fleming Bros. Lumber Co., 83 Colo. 335, 264 P. 1087 (1928); Union Mut. Protective Ass'n v. San Luis State Bank, 86 Colo. 293, 281 P. 366 (1929).

Owner retain equitable title after giving trust deed on property. When the owner of property gives a trust deed thereon, his legal title is vested in the trustee and the equitable title or equity of redemption remains in the owner. Bankers Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Fleming Bros. Lumber Co., 83 Colo. 335, 264 P. 1087 (1928).

Redemption of interest of one joint tenant. A judgment creditor with a lien against the property interest of one joint tenant may redeem that interest without redeeming the interest of the other joint tenant. First Nat'l Bank v. Energy Fuels Corp., 200 Colo. 540, 618 P.2d 1115 (1980).

Right to rents and reversion of leased premises. Where premises are leased, the landlord is entitled to both the rents and the reversion, and when the reversion of the landlord is transferred, the rights to rents accruing after the transfer of the reversion pass to the transferee; therefore, when the landlord's interest in the demised premises are transferred to a purchaser on a sheriff's sale on foreclosure, the rights to the rents reserved in the lease pass to the purchaser and, after the sheriff's sale and the failure to redeem by either the owner or the mortgagee, the purchasers acquired the rights to the rents, profits accruing after the right of redemption expired. Baber v. Baber, 28 Colo. App. 530, 474 P.2d 630 (1970).

When owner's right of redemption expires, all of his right, title, and interest in and to the land is extinguished; this same rule applies to the interest of lienholders who have a right to redeem. Lane v. Morris, 77 Colo. 343, 237 P. 154 (1925); Baber v. Baber, 28 Colo. App. 530, 474 P.2d 630 (1970); Jenkins v. Peet, 13 B.R. 721 (D. Colo. 1981).

Plaintiff liable on note for entire indebtedness. Where plaintiff purchased property consisting of three parcels, secured by deed of trust, assuming to pay note secured by deed of trust, and where he then sold two of the parcels, but there was no evidence that the purchasers agreed to pay any part of the indebtedness, and where plaintiff thereafter defaulted making payments leading to loss of all the parcels by foreclosure and public trustee's sale, plaintiff is still liable on the note for the entire indebtedness. Ellickson v. Dull, 34 Colo. App. 25, 521 P.2d 1282 (1974).

Proper parties to maintain action to set aside foreclosure. Where the grantor in a deed of trust conveyed his equity of redemption before foreclosure and, at the foreclosure sale, the property did not sell for enough to pay off his note, both he and his grantee of the equity of redemption have sufficient interest and are proper parties to maintain an action to set aside the foreclosure sale on the ground that it was illegal and void. Brewer v. Harrison, 27 Colo. 349, 62 P. 224 (1900).

Right to redemption notice. To be entitled to notice that a deed of trust is being foreclosed, party who has right to redeem and who claims the right to a redemption notice must make his interest in the property known by recording that interest after the deed of trust has been recorded. S.L.K. Testamentary Trust v. Davids, 692 P.2d 1147 (Colo. App. 1984), aff'd, 728 P.2d 1259 (Colo. 1987).

Right of redemption is based on surety's potential liability for a deficiency. Therefore, if an inchoate right of redemption is extinguished by a foreclosure sale resulting in the satisfaction of the deficiency, surety is no longer potentially liable and has no right to notice. S.L.K. Testamentary Trust v. Davids, 728 P.2d 1259 (Colo. 1987).

Junior lien creditor may redeem from a public trustee's sale without complying with the homestead exemption statute. Howell v. Farrish, 725 P.2d 9 (Colo. App. 1986).

Right to redeem of junior lienor with partial interest in property. A junior lienor, who is the beneficiary of a deed of trust upon only part of the property that has been foreclosed upon by a senior lienor, may not redeem only that part of the property that is subject to his deed of trust. Pheney v. W. Nat. Bank, 762 P.2d 693 (Colo. App. 1988); Indep. Trust v. Stan Miller, Inc., 796 P.2d 483 (Colo. 1990).

A right of redemption may not be severed from the property interest it serves. Backhart v. HTS Props., LLC, 981 P.2d 208 (Colo. App. 1998).

III. AGRICULTURAL REAL ESTATE.

Application of agricultural real estate exception. The "agricultural real estate" exception to the otherwise applicable 75-day period, provided for in subsection (1), applies only to foreclosures under mortgages and deeds of trust, and is not applicable to sales upon foreclosure of mechanics' liens or upon sale under execution. Kimtruss Corp. v. Westland Manor Nursing Home N., Inc., 39 Colo. App. 542, 568 P.2d 105 (1977).

Mining property is "agricultural real estate" for the purposes of this section. Rowe v. Tucker, 38 Colo. App. 532, 560 P.2d 843 (1977).

Mining property is not ordinarily considered to be agricultural. However, since it is apparent that for redemption purposes the general assembly sought only to distinguish undeveloped rural lands from developed urbanized property, the statutory definition here places both agricultural and mining property in the same category. Rowe v. Tucker, 38 Colo. App. 532, 560 P.2d 843 (1977).

Lienor cannot be divested of the rights that flow from redemption once payment of the redemption amount has been lawfully made to the public trustee or sheriff in accordance with the statute. Accordingly, the redemption rights of the assignee of a judgment creditor could not be extinguished by a subsequent satisfaction of the judgment. *WYSE Fin. Servs., Inc. v. 38-38-305. Lessee, easement holder, and installment land contract vendor considered as lienors - installment land contract vendee considered as an owner. (1) For the purposes of this article, a lessee of, or the holder of an easement encumbering, property shall be considered as a lienor, but without any lien amount, and shall be subject to all requirements in this article with respect to lienors. If a subsequent lienor redeems from the redemption of a lessee or easement holder, such subsequent lienor in acquiring said property takes the same subject to such lease or easement.

(1.5) (a) The notice to the lessee or lessees who have unrecorded possessory interests in the property being foreclosed as provided for by this article and article 37 of this title by virtue of any foreclosure of a mortgage, trust deed, or other lien or by virtue of an execution and levy shall be mailed to the lessee or lessees of a single-family residence or a multiple-unit residential dwelling. Such notice shall be in writing and shall be sent by regular mail. Notice is complete upon mailing to the lessee at the address of the premises or by addressing such notice to "Occupant" followed by the address.

(b) Nothing in this section shall affect any rights under this article of a lessee whose residential lease is recorded.

(2) For the purposes of this article, an installment land contract vendor of property shall be considered as a lienor for the unpaid portion of the purchase price, interest, and other amounts provided under the installment land contract and shall be subject to all requirements in this article with respect to lienors; but such installment land contract vendor shall not be considered as an owner as to any portion of such property.

(3) For the purposes of this article, an installment land contract vendee of property shall be considered as an owner except as to any portion of such property that such vendee may thereafter have transferred, as evidenced by a recorded instrument, and such vendee shall be subject to all requirements in this article with respect to owners.

Annotator's note. Since § 38-38-305 is similar to § 38-39-106 as it existed prior to the 1990 repeal and reenactment of this article and article 39, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

An implied lease based on the terms of an earlier pre-foreclosure lease was created since the property owner/landlord accepted monthly payments from the tenant and did not renounce the prior agreement. Tanktech, Inc. v. First Interstate Bank, 851 P.2d 174 (Colo. App. 1992).

Because a property lessee is considered a lienor under this section, upon foreclosure of a senior security interest, any subordinate leases, liens, or encumbrances are extinguished once the applicable redemption period has expired. First Interstate Bank v. Tanktech, Inc., 864 P.2d 116 (Colo. 1993).

A right of redemption may not be severed from the property interest it serves. Backhart v. HTS Props., LLC, 981 P.2d 208 (Colo. App. 1998).

This section does not require an installment land contract vendor to foreclose upon default as a matter of law. Instead, the section describes when certain redemption rights and rights to cure a default exist. The section simply codifies previously existing equitable rights of redemption that were recognized by courts of equity. Paraguay Place-View Trust v. Gray, 981 P.2d 681 (Colo. App. 1999).

However, this does not mean that the provisions of this section have no application when there is a default in an installment land contract. When a default occurs in such a contract and the vendor seeks to obtain possession, the vendor may initiate a forcible entry and detainer (FED) action. Thereafter, a court may determine whether the vendor can proceed by way of FED action or, instead, must proceed by way of foreclosure. If the court requires foreclosure, the vendor must foreclose under the terms of article 38 and, under this section, the vendee has a right to cure and a right of redemption. Paraguay Place-View Trust v. Gray, 981 P.2d 681 (Colo. App. 1999).

38-38-306. Rights of other lienors to redeem. (1) A judgment creditor whose judgment has been made a lien of record and who has complied with the other conditions of a lienor required by this article may redeem as a lienor.

(2) A mechanic's lien claimant or any other person claiming the right to a statutory lien on real property shall have the right to redeem as a lienor despite the fact that the claim has not been reduced to judgment, if the lien or lien claim has been recorded as required or permitted by statute and the holder thereof has complied with the other conditions required of a lienor by this article. If another lienor redeems after such lien claimant, that portion of the redemption amount attributable to the claim of such lien claimant, as evidenced by such claimant's recorded lien, shall be held in escrow by the officer until a final judgment has been entered in favor of such claimant confirming the claimant's right to a lien and all periods for appeal have expired, whereupon there shall be paid to such claimant from the escrow the amount of the lien claim as established by the judgment, with any interest earned thereon, and the balance, if any, shall be refunded to the owner of the property as of the date of the sale, so long as the last redeeming lienor has otherwise been satisfied. If the claimant releases the lien or fails to establish a right to the lien, the entire escrow shall be paid to the owner of the property as of the date of the sale, so long as the last redeeming lienor has otherwise been satisfied. Lien claimants of equal priority, for the purposes of this subsection (2), may act in concert and be deemed to represent one claim in which they share pro rata. The right of the owner of the property as of the date of the sale to excess sale proceeds pursuant to a homestead exemption under section 38-41-201 is subordinate to the right of a subsequent deed of trust beneficiary for whose benefit the owner waived the homestead exemption.

Redemption is purely statutory remedy for lienholders, which orders rights separate and apart from those already obtained by judgment creditors. Chatfield Bank v. Energy Fuels Corp., 42 Colo. App. 233, 599 P.2d 923 (1979), rev'd on other grounds, 200 Colo. 540, 618 P.2d 1115 (1980).

ISSUANCE OF PUBLIC TRUSTEE'S DEED, SHERIFF'S DEED, AND THE NATURE OF TITLE

38-38-501. Title vests upon expiration of redemption periods - confirmation deed.

(1) Upon the expiration of all redemption periods allowed to all lienors entitled to redeem under part 3 of this article or, if there are no redemption periods, upon the close of the officer's business day eight business days after the sale, title to the property sold shall vest in the holder of the certificate of purchase or in the holder of the last certificate of redemption in the case of redemption. Subject to the right to cure and the right to redeem provisions of section 38-38-506 and subject to the provisions of section 38-41-212 (2), such title shall be free and clear of all liens and encumbrances junior to the lien foreclosed. No earlier than ten business days nor later than fifteen business days after both the title vests and the officer has received all statutory fees and costs, the officer shall execute and record a confirmation deed pursuant to section 38-38-502 or 38-38-503 to the holder of the certificate of purchase or, in the case of redemption, to the holder of the last certificate of redemption confirming the transfer of title to the property; except that the officer shall execute and record a confirmation deed prior to the tenth business day after title vests, if the officer has received all statutory fees and costs and notice from the appropriate holder that the certificate will not be assigned. But under no circumstances shall the officer be required to issue a confirmation deed unless the officer has received an order authorizing the sale that meets the requirements of section 38-38-105 (2) (a). Failure of the officer to execute and record such deed or to record the deed within the time specified shall not affect the validity of the deed or the vesting of title.

(2) Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, an officer may not include an assignee as a grantee in a confirmation deed, unless:

(a) The officer has received a copy of the assignment executed in accordance with section 38-38-403 within ten business days after title vests; and

(b) The assignment was dated, signed, and notarized or recorded prior to the time title vests.

Annotator's note. Since § 38-38-501 is similar to § 38-39-110 as it existed prior to the 1990 repeal and reenactment of this article and article 39, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

The purpose of this section is to render titles to real property absolute and free of technical defects so that a subsequent purchaser of a public trustee's deed may rely on the record title, but a purchaser is bound to investigate when the record indicates the existence of an outside interest by which the title may be affected and is charged with knowledge of the facts to which the investigation would have led. Ragsdale Bros. Roofing v. United Bank, 744 P.2d 750 (Colo. App. 1987).

Rights acquired by certificate holder. The holder of a certificate of purchase on an execution sale acquires only the alternative rights to receive the redemption money, in case of a redemption, or a deed for the land after the time for redemption has expired. Davis Mfg. & Supply Co. v. Coonskin Props., Inc., 646 P.2d 940 (Colo. App. 1982).

Accordingly, plaintiff who holds certificate of purchase cannot challenge validity of lien after plaintiff accepts redemption funds. Kellum v. RE Serv., LLC, 30 P.3d 875 (Colo. App. 2001).

Plaintiff held no redemption right upon expiration of the redemption period because title vested at that time and the judgment was then satisfied. Craft v. Storey, 942 P.2d 1211 (Colo. App. 1996).

Effect of federal statute. Title remains in the mortgagors unless and until the holder of the certificate of purchase takes the affirmative act of applying for a deed, and the public trustee issues a deed. These affirmative acts are what 11 U.S.C. § 362 stays. In re Murphy, 22 Bankr. 663 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1982).

11 U.S.C. § 362(a)(4) stays the public trustee from issuing a public trustee's deed under this section. In re Murphy, 22 Bankr. 663 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1982).

Mechanics' liens which are filed after a deed of trust, but superior to the deed of trust, cause the title acquired pursuant to this section to be subject to the superior lien. Ragsdale Bros. Roofing v. United Bank, 744 P.2d 750 (Colo. App. 1987).

The language "liens or encumbrances recorded or filed subsequent" means liens or encumbrances junior in fact to the lien on which the sale is based. Ragsdale Bros. Roofing v. United Bank, 744 P.2d 750 (Colo. App. 1987).

An implied lease based on the terms of an earlier pre-foreclosure lease was created since the property owner/landlord accepted monthly payments from the tenant and did not renounce the prior agreement. Tanktech, Inc. v. First Interstate Bank, 851 P.2d 174 (Colo. App. 1992).

"Free and clear" voids prior agreements respecting use of property. Where former owner had executed a parking agreement with the city, agreement did not survive the foreclosure and was not binding on new owner despite new owner's actual knowledge of the agreement. Town of Grand Lake v. Lanzi, 937 P.2d 785 (Colo. App. 1996).

The language "free and clear" means free of any subordinate leases as well as of other types of liens or encumbrances. First Interstate Bank v. Tanktech, Inc., 864 P.2d 116 (Colo. 1993).

Court of appeals' opinion, which was unclear as to whether the court regarded a subordinate, pre-foreclosure lease as having been extinguished under this section, reversed to the extent the opinion held the lease was extended. First Interstate Bank v. Tanktech, Inc., 864 P.2d 116 (Colo. 1993).

Holdover doctrine does not bind a foreclosure-sale purchaser to the terms of a pre-foreclosure lease to which it was not a party, although nothing would preclude the purchaser from entering into a new lease with the tenant on identical terms. First Interstate Bank v. Tanktech, Inc., 864 P.2d 116 (Colo. 1993).

Subordination agreements enforceable. This section does not govern or affect the priority of liens established by subordination agreements. Such agreements are enforceable. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. v. Rocky Mt. Dist. Council, 620 P.2d 58 (Colo. App. 1980).

Effect of bankruptcy of debtor. Where a debtor commences a bankruptcy action before a deed is executed to the holder of a certificate of purchase, the debtor retains title to the property and the bankruptcy court has jurisdiction over it. Benford-Whiting Co. v. Robertson, 4 B.R. 213 (D. Colo. 1980).

With the exception of defective notice to municipality, under version of section in effect at the time of subject foreclosure, foreclosure was proper. Therefore, title vested in partnership as grantee of the public trustee's deed, free and clear of the other plaintiffs' judgment liens. Based on this conclusion, trial court's order attaching other plaintiffs' original judgment liens to the ranch must be reversed except as to the municipality. Park County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Park County Sportsmen's

Ranch, LLP, 271 P.3d 562 (Colo. App. 2011) (decided under law in effect prior to 2006 amendment).

Because municipality did not receive notice of foreclosure, partnership took title to ranch subject to municipality's judgment lien. That conclusion is supported by former version of this section. Park County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Park County Sportsmen's Ranch, LLP, 271 P.3d 562 (Colo. App. 2011) (decided under law in effect prior to 2006 amendment).

Applied in Fish v. East, 114 F.2d 177 (10th Cir. 1940); Mount Carbon Metro. Dist. v. Lake George Co., 847 P.2d 254 (Colo. App. 1993); Nationsbank of Georgia v. Conifer Asset Management Ltd., 928 P.2d 760 (Colo. App. 1996).

In determining whether purchaser had notice of outstanding equities or unrecorded interests so as to preclude him from being entitled to protection as a bona fide purchaser, if he has knowledge of circumstances which, in the exercise of common reason and prudence, ought to put a man upon particular inquiry, he will be presumed to have made that inquiry, and he will be charged with notice of every fact which would in all probability have been revealed had such investigation been undertaken. *Jaramillo v. 38-38-505. Effect of foreclosures as to certain classes of persons. (1) All deeds of trust executed to a public trustee may be foreclosed by such public trustee in the manner provided by section 38-38-101, notwithstanding the fact that the indebtedness secured may constitute a claim against the estate of a deceased person, a mental incompetent, or an incapacitated person and notwithstanding the death, mental incompetency, or incapacity of one or more of the owners of the property covered by the deed of trust.

(2) Any such foreclosure shall be good against a mental incompetent or incapacitated person and against the heirs-at-law, legatees, devisees, creditors, conservators, guardians, personal representatives, executors, and administrators of any decedent or mental incompetent or incapacitated person and all persons claiming by, through, or under such decedent or mental incompetent or incapacitated person. The public trustee shall give notice of such foreclosure proceedings, as provided by law, to the grantor in the deed of trust foreclosed at the address stated therein, as though living and mentally competent, to all persons having interests then of record, and to the lessee or lessees of the premises as provided in section 38-38-305 (1.5). The public trustee shall not be required to give notice of such foreclosure proceedings to any heir-at-law, legatee, devisee, creditor, conservator, guardian, personal representative, executor, or administrator of any decedent or mental incompetent or incapacitated person or to any person claiming by, through, or under any decedent or mental incompetent or incapacitated person unless the claim or interest of such person then appears of record.

(3) The interest and claim in and to such real estate of all mental incompetents or incapacitated persons and of all persons claiming by, through, or under any mental incompetent, incapacitated person, or decedent, including minors and incapacitated persons, shall be terminated and concluded by such foreclosure unless they redeem from the foreclosure sale within the time prescribed by law.

38-38-506. Omitted parties - definitions. (1) As used in this section, "omitted party" means any person who:

(a) Prior to the recording of the notice of election and demand or lis pendens, has either acquired a record interest in the property or has obtained a valid possessory interest and is in actual possession of the property, which interest is junior to the deed of trust or other lien being foreclosed and would otherwise be extinguished by the foreclosure; and

(b) Is not included as a party defendant in a judicial foreclosure action or, if included, is not served with process, or is not served with notice of levy or seizure pursuant to section 13-55-102, C.R.S., or is not notified pursuant to section 38-38-103 of a sale, or is not notified in connection with the legal proceedings contemplated by section 38-38-105.

(2) (a) The interest of an omitted party in the property that is the subject of a sale may be terminated if the omitted party, or anyone claiming by, through, or under an omitted party, in a civil action commenced at any time by any interested person as defined in paragraph (c) of this subsection (2), by an omitted party, or by anyone claiming by, through, or under an omitted party, is afforded rights of cure if the omitted party would have been entitled to cure pursuant to section 38-38-104, or is afforded redemption rights if the omitted party would have been entitled to redeem pursuant to section 38-38-302, upon such terms as the court may deem equitable under the circumstances, which terms shall not, however, be more favorable than the person's statutory rights. The court shall give full consideration to whether the omitted party or anyone claiming by, through, or under an omitted party was given or had actual notice or knowledge of the foreclosure and was given an opportunity to exercise statutory rights to cure or redeem.

(b) For purposes of this section, the lien that is the subject of the sale shall not be extinguished by merger with the title to the property acquired pursuant to section 38-38-501 until the interest of any omitted party has been affirmed pursuant to subsection (3) of this section or has been terminated as provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), or by operation of law. The omitted party, or anyone claiming by, through, or under an omitted party, cannot extinguish the lien that is subject to the sale by enforcement of the lien of the omitted party.

(c) As used in this section, "interested person" means the holder of the evidence of debt being foreclosed, a holder of a certificate of purchase or certificate of redemption issued pursuant to section 38-38-401 or 38-38-402, or an owner of the property pursuant to section 38-38-501 or a person claiming by, through, or under such holder or owner.

(d) An omitted party, or anyone claiming by, through, or under an omitted party, shall not have a remedy to cure or redeem, except as set forth in this subsection (2). An interested party shall not be able to extinguish an omitted party's interest except as set forth in this subsection (2) or by written waiver or agreement signed by the omitted party or anyone claiming by, through, or under an omitted party.

(3) If an interested person files with the officer at any time a document affirming an omitted party's interest in the property, subject to the terms, conditions, and provisions of the recorded instrument from which such omitted party's interest is derived, or in the case of an omitted party that is a lessee, subject to the terms and conditions of the lease, whether written or oral, the interest of such omitted party in the property shall not be affected by the foreclosure, and such omitted party shall have no right to cure or redeem.

RECEIVERS

38-38-601. Receiver appointed upon application. (1) When an action or proceeding has been commenced to foreclose a mortgage, trust deed, or other instrument securing an indebtedness, a receiver of the property affected shall be appointed upon application at any time prior to the sale, if it appears that the security is clearly inadequate or that the premises are in danger of being materially injured or reduced in value as security by removal, destruction, deterioration, accumulation of prior liens, or otherwise so as to render the security inadequate.

(2) If the facts would justify the appointment of a receiver under this section but one is not applied for and if the premises are abandoned by the owner thereof, the holder of the lien may take possession until the sale and shall be subject to the same duties and liabilities for the care of the premises and for the application of the rents and profits as would a receiver.

Mortgagee may take possession of mortgaged property only after a foreclosure proceeding has been commenced. Martinez v. Cont'l Enters., 730 P.2d 308 (Colo. 1986).

Mortgagees entitled to appointment of receiver. Where the owner not only defaulted in an installment payment but also in the performance of many of the obligations assumed by her in the deed of trust, the mortgagees were clearly entitled to the appointment of a receiver under the terms of the instrument. Phillips v. Webster, 162 Colo. 315, 426 P.2d 774 (1967).

Mortgagee not entitled to rents from the mortgaged property during period of possession because inchoate right granted by deed of trust to collect rents incident to rightful possession of property never became a vested right because mortgagee did not initiate a foreclosure action prior to taking possession of the mortgaged property. Martinez v. Cont'l Enters., 730 P.2d 308 (Colo. 1986).

Court may appoint a receiver in the event of default without regard to the adequacy or value of collateral property or the solvency of any party liable on the debt where the parties have agreed by contract for such appointment. Bank of Am. Nat'l Trust & Sav. Ass'n v. Denver Hotel Ass'n Ltd. P'ship, 830 P.2d 1138 (Colo. App. 1992).

38-38-602. Appointment of receiver to prevent waste. (1) During the period of redemption, the owner of the premises or the person in possession shall not commit waste, and the purchaser shall have such action or remedy for waste, including injunction, as he would have as owner of the premises. During such period, the owner of the premises shall keep the premises in repair, shall use reasonable diligence to continue to keep the premises yielding an adequate income, and shall pay current taxes before a penalty accrues and interest becomes due on any prior encumbrance, keep the premises insured for the protection of the holder of the certificate of purchase, and, in case of a leasehold, pay the rent and other sums due under the lease, and failure to do so shall constitute waste. In case of waste committed or danger of waste or an actual probability of the security being rendered inadequate, a receiver may be appointed to take possession and preserve the property at any time after the sale under such foreclosure. A receiver appointed before the sale shall continue after sale unless otherwise directed by the court.

(2) If the facts would justify the appointment of a receiver under this section but one is not applied for and if the premises are abandoned by the owner thereof, the purchaser may take possession and shall be subject to the same duties and liabilities for the care of the premises and for the application of the rents and profits as would a receiver.

(3) Nothing in this article shall restrict the power of the court in the appointment of a receiver pursuant to existing law or pursuant to agreement between the parties.

Annotator's note. Since § 38-38-602 is similar to § 38-39-113 as it existed prior to the 1990 repeal and reenactment of this article and article 39, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Applicability of section. The section applies primarily to the obligation of the owner of the premises while in possession and the rights of the holder of the certificate of purchase, where the owner abandons possession. Ginsberg v. Bennett, 101 Colo. 121, 71 P.2d 419 (1937).

Martin*, 165 Colo. 547, 441 P.2d 17 (1968).

Although the owners had a right to remain on the property during the redemption period, they also had a duty to prevent waste, including paying the taxes, insurance, and interest on prior encumbrances on the property. However, because the purchasers did not pay any insurance premiums on the property and because the owners' obligations to pay interest under the first and second deeds of trust were extinguished in bankruptcy, the purchasers are not entitled to recover for these items. Elrick v. Merrill, 10 P.3d 689 (Colo. App. 2000).

Purchasers entitled to appointment of receiver. The purchasers who had surrendered their notes and deeds of trust to the public trustee were entitled to appointment of a receiver after sale, both under the terms of their deeds of trust and under this section which specifically authorizes appointment of a receiver after sale where there is danger of waste. Schwab v. Martin, 165 Colo. 547, 441 P.2d 17 (1968).

Receivership for property's protection inures to owner's benefit. Where the receivership was necessary for the protection of the real property, the subject matter of the receivership inures to the benefit of the record owner and not for the benefit of the purchasers. Phillips v. Webster, 162 Colo. 315, 426 P.2d 774 (1967).

Sections permit holder's possession without applying for appointment of receiver. This section and § 38-39-112 permit the holder of a certificate of purchase to take possession of the property sold without applying for the appointment of a receiver by the court where the property was abandoned by the owner. Graham v. Alcoves, Inc., 148 Colo. 379, 366 P.2d 375 (1961).

Mortgagee has but inchoate lien on rentals. Under this section and the general law as announced both prior, and subsequent, to the enactment of this section, a mortgagee, even though the rents are pledged as security, until he takes some effectual step to subject them to the payment of his debt, has but an inchoate or passive lien on such rentals. Moncreiff v. Hare, 38 Colo. 221, 87 P. 1082 (1906); Fisher v. Norman Apts., Inc., 101 Colo. 173, 72 P.2d 1092 (1937); Meggins v. Hall, 111 Colo. 104, 137 P.2d 411 (1943).

Mortgagor entitled to rentals absent pledge of rentals in trust deed. Where a trust deed does not expressly pledge rents and profits of the mortgaged premises in payment of the debt, and where the mortgagor is in possession, no receiver appointed, and no foreclosure decree entered, the mortgagor is entitled to the rentals. Erwin v. West, 105 Colo. 71, 99 P.2d 201 (1939).

38-38-803. Procedures for foreclosure deferment - notification - process. (1) An eligible borrower shall be granted the opportunity for a foreclosure deferment if the borrower meets the requirements of this part 8.

(2) To qualify for a foreclosure deferment, an eligible borrower shall contact a foreclosure counselor within twenty days after the posting of the notice required by section 38-38-802 for the purpose of obtaining a qualification decision as set forth in subsection (5) of this section. The initial contact may take place by telephone, electronically, or in person.

(3) The foreclosure counselor shall notify the holder promptly that he or she has been contacted by an eligible borrower and specify the date of the contact. Upon initial contact from an eligible borrower, the foreclosure counselor shall provide information to the eligible borrower regarding the federal government's "Making Home Affordable" program and advise the eligible borrower whether he or she would benefit from the federal program.

(4) Within ten calendar days after receiving notice that the eligible borrower has contacted a foreclosure counselor, the holder shall notify the counselor and the eligible borrower in writing of the address to which payments required by section 38-38-805 (2) shall be sent if the borrower qualifies for a foreclosure deferment and information on how payments can be made electronically.

(5) No later than thirty calendar days after an eligible borrower's initial contact with the foreclosure counselor, the counselor shall:

(a) Determine whether the borrower is qualified for a foreclosure deferment; and

(b) Certify the determination to the eligible borrower and the holder. If the foreclosure counselor determines that the eligible borrower qualifies for a foreclosure deferment, the counselor shall also notify the public trustee within the same thirty-day period.

(5.5) The foreclosure counselor shall notify the holder or the attorney for the holder if an eligible borrower who has qualified for a foreclosure deferment opts not to take part in the foreclosure deferment process.

(6) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if the public trustee receives certification from the foreclosure counselor that the eligible borrower qualifies for a foreclosure deferment, the public trustee shall cancel any remaining publications of the combined notice, shall not mail the notice required by section 38-38-103 (1) (a), and shall continue the sale of the property in accordance with section 38-38-109 (1) (a). The sale shall be continued from week to week until receipt of certification pursuant to section 38-38-805 (4) that the deferment has been terminated or, if no certification is received, for ninety calendar days or until the next scheduled sale date after the end of the ninety-day period. When the deferment has been terminated or has ended, the public trustee shall collect a fee of seventy-five dollars and thereafter shall begin publication of the combined notice as required in section 38-38-103 (5) (a), as to the deferred sale, and send the notice required by section 38-38-103 (1) (a), as soon as possible and no more than twenty calendar days after the completion of the deferment.

38-38-804. Foreclosure deferment assessment standards - ineligible borrowers.

(1) A foreclosure counselor shall determine whether an eligible borrower qualifies for a foreclosure deferment by calculating whether, considering the eligible borrower's household expenses and gross monthly income, the nature of the loan, any written loan modification agreement between the eligible borrower and the holder entered into during the preceding twelve months, and any other relevant factors, there is a reasonable likelihood that the holder and eligible borrower can achieve a mutually acceptable agreement to avoid foreclosure. In making his or her determination, the counselor shall use analytical tools designed to indicate both:

(a) What the eligible borrower is able to pay in monthly housing expenses, including principal, interest, taxes, insurance, and any applicable homeowners association dues on a sustainable basis; and

(b) Whether the holder would be likely to receive greater revenue from the modification necessary to achieve such a monthly payment than the holder would be likely to receive from a completed foreclosure.

(2) The analytical tools used in subsection (1) of this section shall be consistent with the net present value test set out in the federal deposit insurance corporation loan modification program guidelines, effective October 2008, or any successor program.

(3) An eligible borrower shall not qualify for a foreclosure deferment if:

(a) The eligible borrower has abandoned the property;

(b) The borrower provided materially false information to obtain credit. The fact that the debt obligation reflects a stated-income loan is not sufficient to establish that the eligible borrower submitted materially false information.

(c) The eligible borrower has engaged in gross waste of the property, has been cited for major code violations, or has used the property for illegal purposes;

(d) The borrower is currently in a bankruptcy proceeding in which the property subject to the notice of election and demand is property of the bankruptcy estate or within the preceding twenty-four months has been discharged from a chapter seven bankruptcy in which the property subject to the notice of election and demand was property of the bankruptcy estate;

(e) Within the immediately preceding twenty-four months, the eligible borrower has been discharged from a chapter thirteen bankruptcy with a modified loan agreement for which the property subject to the notice of election and demand is the security; or

(f) The eligible borrower has transferred title to the property to another party.

(4) If the eligible borrower has received a foreclosure deferment, the eligible borrower shall not qualify for a subsequent foreclosure deferment in connection with the same debt obligation, including any modification of the debt.

38-38-805. Foreclosure deferment. (1) If a holder has received notice from an eligible borrower's foreclosure counselor that the eligible borrower qualifies for a foreclosure deferment, the holder and the eligible borrower shall negotiate the terms of the debt obligation secured by the deed of trust, subject to the terms of any agreement applicable to the debt obligation or any applicable government-supported enterprise servicing guidelines.

(2) (a) During the foreclosure deferment, the eligible borrower shall make monthly loan payments to the holder or the holder's designated representative that equal sixty-six and two-thirds percent of the monthly payment due prior to delinquency, less any portion of the monthly payment that represents taxes and insurance. If the eligible borrower has an obligation to make monthly payments for taxes and insurance to the holder, the eligible borrower shall pay the holder, on the same schedule, one-twelfth of the annual amount due for taxes and insurance prior to delinquency.

(b) The first payment shall be due to the address provided by the holder pursuant to section 38-38-803 (4) by the fifth day following the foreclosure counselor's certificate of qualification for the foreclosure deferment. Subsequent payments shall be due every thirty calendar days thereafter until the conclusion of the foreclosure deferment.

(c) In order to preserve evidence of the date of the payment, the eligible borrower may make the payments electronically or by certified funds delivered by a method that provides evidence of the date of payment.

(3) Acceptance of payments made during the foreclosure deferment period shall not constitute a waiver of default or modification of any amounts due on the original debt or any other rights of the holder. The payments shall be applied by the holder pursuant to the applicable provisions of the note and deed of trust or, if there are no such applicable provisions, in the following order: Payment of the holder's costs and expenses incurred in the foreclosure, payment for preservation of the property, escrow advances or shortages, late charges and interest, and principal.

(4) The foreclosure deferment shall terminate early upon certification by the foreclosure counselor to the public trustee. If the holder seeks early termination, the holder shall demonstrate to the foreclosure counselor that adequate grounds for early termination exist. The foreclosure counselor shall make a determination within ten calendar days after a holder's request and issue a certification of early termination if he or she determines:

- (a) That the eligible borrower has abandoned the property;
- (b) That the eligible borrower has failed to comply with the conditions of foreclosure deferment, including failure to make payments on time and in accordance with this section;
- (c) That the eligible borrower has conveyed, transferred, or further encumbered the property in violation of the deed of trust;
- (d) That a foreclosure has been initiated by a different party on another lien encumbering the property; or
- (e) That the eligible borrower has filed bankruptcy during the foreclosure deferment.

38-38-807. Remedies. If the holder fails to post the notice required by section 38-38-802 within the time specified, the eligible borrower shall have twenty calendar days after the date of actual posting to contact a foreclosure counselor. The holder is responsible for all fees incurred between the deadline for posting and twenty calendar days after the date of the actual posting. Interest for the period between the deadline for posting and the date of actual posting shall be allowed only at the regular rate and not at the default rate as may be specified in the deed of trust.

38-38-807.5. Uniform standards - division of housing. (1) The division of housing in the department of local affairs created in section 24-32-704, C.R.S., shall establish and may update uniform standards as necessary for the implementation of this part 8. The uniform standards shall include:

- (a) Standard forms and notices as determined necessary by the division;
- (b) Acceptable forms of payment for foreclosure deferment payments; and

When deed of trust shall be released - definitions. (1) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section, a deed of trust to the public trustee, upon compliance with the provisions of the deed of trust, shall be released by the public trustee upon the:

(I) Receipt of a written request from the holder of the evidence of debt secured by the deed of trust, the holder's agent or attorney, or a title insurance company providing an indemnification agreement and affidavit described in paragraph (c) of subsection (3) of this section, which request shall be duly executed and acknowledged; production may be omitted in the circumstances contemplated in subsection (3) of this section;

(III) Receipt by the public trustee of the fee prescribed by section 38-37-104 (1) (a) and the fee for recording the release;

(IV) Receipt by the public trustee of a current address for the original grantor, assuming party, or current owner or either a notation on the request for release of the deed of trust or a written statement from the holder of the evidence of debt secured by the deed of trust, the title insurance company licensed and qualified in Colorado, or the holder of the original evidence of debt that is a qualified holder, as defined in section 38-38-100.3 (20), that they have no record of a current address that is different from the address of the property encumbered by the deed of trust being released; except that it shall be within the public trustee's discretion to release a deed of trust, upon compliance with the provisions of the deed of trust, if the public trustee has not received the information required pursuant to this subparagraph (IV); and

(V) Production of the original recorded deed of trust securing the evidence of debt or a legible copy thereof.

(b) Immediately upon execution of the release of the deed of trust by the public trustee, the public trustee shall cause the release to be recorded in the records of the county clerk and recorder.

(2) If the purpose of the deed of trust has been fully or partially satisfied and the indebtedness secured by such deed of trust has not been paid, the public trustee shall release the deed of trust as to all or portions of the property encumbered by the deed of trust pursuant to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section if the request to release certifies that the purpose of the deed of trust has been fully or partially satisfied and if either the original evidence of debt is exhibited or the holder of the evidence of debt is a qualified holder.

(3) (a) (I) Subject to the provisions of subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), with respect to either subsection (1) or (2) of this section, a holder of the original evidence of debt that is a qualified holder, as defined in section 38-38-100.3 (20), may request the release of a deed of trust without producing or exhibiting the original evidence of debt. A holder that requests the release of a deed of trust pursuant to this paragraph (a) shall be deemed to have agreed to indemnify and defend the public trustee against any claim made within the period described in subsection (7) of this section for damages resulting from the action of the public trustee taken in accordance with the request. The indemnity granted by this paragraph (a) is limited to actual economic loss suffered and any court costs and reasonable attorney fees and costs incurred in defending a claim brought as a direct and proximate result of the failure to produce the original evidence of debt, but the indemnity does not include and no claimant is entitled to any special, incidental, consequential, reliance, expectation, or punitive damages. No separate indemnification agreement shall be necessary for the agreement to indemnify to be effective.

(II) A holder of the original evidence of debt that is a qualified holder, as defined in section 38-38-100.3 (20), shall provide the public trustee with a current address for the original grantor, assuming party, or current owner when requesting a release of a deed of trust pursuant to this paragraph (a).

(b) (I) Subject to the provisions of subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b), with respect to either subsection (1) or (2) of this section, the holder of the evidence of debt may request the release of a deed of trust without producing or exhibiting the original evidence of debt. A holder that requests the release of a deed of trust pursuant to this paragraph (b) shall deliver to the public trustee a corporate surety bond in an amount equal to one and one-half times the original principal amount recited in the deed of trust, which corporate surety bond shall remain in full force and effect for the period described in subsection (7) of this section.

(II) A holder of the evidence of debt shall provide the public trustee with a current address for the original grantor, assuming party, or current owner when requesting a release of a deed of trust pursuant to this paragraph (b).

(c) (I) Subject to the provisions of subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (c), with respect to either subsection (1) or (2) of this section, a title insurance company licensed and qualified in Colorado may request the release of a deed of trust without producing or exhibiting the original evidence of debt. A company that requests the release of a deed of trust pursuant to this paragraph (c) shall be deemed to have agreed to indemnify and defend the public trustee against any claim made within the period described in subsection (7) of this section for damages resulting from the action taken by the public trustee in accordance with the request. The indemnity granted by this paragraph (c) is limited to actual economic loss suffered and any court costs and reasonable attorney fees and costs incurred in defending a claim brought as a direct and proximate result of the failure to produce the original evidence of debt, but the indemnity does not include and no claimant is entitled to any special, incidental, consequential, reliance, expectation, or punitive damages. No separate indemnification agreement shall be necessary for the agreement to indemnify to be effective; however, the company shall provide to the public trustee an affidavit executed by an officer of the company stating that the company has caused the indebtedness secured by the deed of trust to be satisfied in full or, in the case of a partial release, to the extent required by the holder of the indebtedness.

(II) A title insurance company licensed and qualified in Colorado shall provide the public trustee with a current address for the original grantor, assuming party, or current owner when requesting a release of a deed of trust pursuant to this paragraph (c).

(4) A public trustee shall have no duty to retain the original cancelled evidence of debt or deed of trust upon a release granted pursuant to this section.

(5) The lien represented by a deed of trust to the public trustee that secures an obligation other than an evidence of debt shall be released by the public trustee pursuant to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section as to all or portions of the property encumbered by the deed of trust upon the:

(a) Receipt of a written request of the beneficiary or assignee of such deed of trust, which request shall be duly executed and acknowledged;

(c) Receipt by the public trustee of the fee prescribed by section 38-37-104 (1) (a) and the fee for recording the release.

(6) The public trustee shall have no liability to any person, and no action may be commenced against the public trustee, as a result of issuing a release or partial release of a deed of trust under subsection (3) of this section, unless such action is commenced within six years from the date of the recording of such release or partial release or within the period of time prescribed by any statute of limitation of this state in which a suit to enforce payment of the indebtedness or performance of the obligation secured by said deed of trust may be commenced, whichever is less. Nothing in this article shall be construed to waive immunity of a public trustee that is provided in sections 24-10-101 to 24-10-120, C.R.S.

(7) The indemnification agreements or the corporate surety bond described in this section shall, in each case, remain effective for the time period described in subsection (6) of this section or until such time as any claim made against the public trustee within such time period has been finally resolved, whichever is longer.

(8) If the written request to release the lien of any deed of trust is a fraudulent request, the release by the public trustee based upon such request shall be void.

(8.5) If a deed of trust is improperly recorded in the office of the clerk and recorder of a county other than the county in which the real property is located, the deed of trust must be recorded in the correct county before the public trustee may release the deed of trust. 38-38-100.3 (20). If a holder of the evidence of debt, a title insurance company licensed and qualified in Colorado, or a holder of the original evidence of debt that is a qualified holder, as defined in section 38-38-100.3 (20), has no record of a current address, any requirement that a current address be provided shall be deemed satisfied by indicating that fact.

(c) "Current owner" means a person other than the original grantor who currently owns the property and has either paid off or taken over the indebtedness on behalf of the original grantor.

Law reviews. For article, "Discharge of Security Transactions", see 26 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 115 (1954).

Annotator's note. Since § 38-39-102 is similar to § 38-37-123 as it existed prior to the 1990 repeal and reenactment of article 37 and this article, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Compliance with this section is necessary to effect a release or partial release of a deed of trust. Himes v. Schiro, 711 P.2d 1281 (Colo. App. 1985).

And thus the attempt by a manager of a title company to amend the legal description in a recorded deed of trust to exclude a particular parcel of land by adding a statement that the trust deed was being re-recorded "to correct" the legal description did not remove encumbrance created by deed nor effect a partial release of such land. Release of lien of deed of trust was void under subsection (8). Release of deed was fraudulent and therefore void, notwithstanding lack of actual intent to deceive, where an attorney made material misrepresentations in a request for release of the deed that he was the attorney for the lender and that the purpose of the deed had been satisfied. The legislative intent of subsection (8) requires the term fraudulent to be interpreted in a manner that includes a material misrepresentation as to statutory requirements in a request for release of a deed. 17 W. Mill St., LLC v. Smith, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

Unauthorized release deed ineffectual to discharge encumbrance. A release deed made by a trustee in a deed of trust without authority from the holder of the notes secured thereby is ineffectual to discharge the encumbrance. Harker v. Scudder, 15 Colo. App. 69, 61 P. 197 (1900).

When trustee may reconvey title discharged of encumbrance. It is only after the trust is carried out and the power to sell is extinguished by payment that it is possible for a trustee in a deed of trust to reconvey the title discharged of the encumbrance. Harker v. Scudder, 15 Colo. App. 69, 61 P. 197 (1900).

Subsequent encumbrancer has duty to inquire of the holder of the notes secured whether the release made by the trustee is authorized. Harker v. Scudder, 15 Colo. App. 69, 61 P. 197 (1900).

Parties to a note secured by a mortgage may substitute a new note for the original without impairing the security, although the terms of the two notes are not identical, so long as the original secured debt remains unpaid and there is no increase in the debt. A lien established by a mortgage secures an indebtedness, and a mere change in the form of the evidence of indebtedness as in the mode or time of payment does not in itself operate to discharge the mortgage. United Bank of Lakewood v. Jefferson Ind. Bk., 791 P.2d 1250 (Colo. App. 1990).

The lien on the deed of trust was extended to secure the same obligation by an amended promissory note, which is distinguishable from situation where a promissory note secured by a deed of trust was fully satisfied and discharged, thus extinguishing the lien on the property. United Bk. of Lakewood v. Jefferson Ind. Bk., 791 P.2d 1250 (Colo. App. 1990).

38-39-103. Effect of release or partial release before maturity of evidence of debt - release is good as to recitals. (1) In any executed and recorded release or partial release of any deed of trust affecting the title to real estate in this state, whether or not such release is executed before the maturity of the indebtedness so secured, the recital of the following shall constitute evidence thereof, so as to give full effect to such release:

(a) That the indebtedness secured by such deed of trust has been fully or partially paid; or

(b) That the purpose of the deed of trust has been fully or partially satisfied.

(2) Any release of deed of trust shall be good and valid as to the recitals therein, whether made to the original grantor of said deed of trust or to a subsequent purchaser of the property described in such release of deed of trust.

For article, "Standard Pleading Samples to Be Used in Quiet Title Litigation", see 30 Dicta 39 (1953).

Annotator's note. Since § 38-39-103 is similar to § 38-37-124 as it existed prior to the 1990 repeal and reenactment of article 37 and this article, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Section has no retroactive effect. Harker v. Scudder, 15 Colo. App. 69, 61 P. 197 (1900).

Compliance with this section is necessary to effect a release or partial release of a deed of trust. Himes v. Schiro, 711 P.2d 1281 (Colo. App. 1985); In re Hampden Center, Ltd., 123 Bankr. 892 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1991).

And thus the attempt by a manager of a title company to amend the legal description on a recorded deed of trust to exclude a particular parcel of land by adding a statement that the trust deed was being re-recorded "to correct" the legal description did not remove encumbrance created by deed nor effect a partial release of such land. Himes v. Schiro, 711 P.2d 1281 (Colo. App. 1985); In re Hampden Center, Ltd., 123 Bankr. 892 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1991).

38-39-104. Satisfaction of mortgage. The lien of any mortgage encumbering property within the state of Colorado can be released only by the mortgagee executing a separate instrument of release executed under the formalities prescribed by the law regulating conveyances. All releases made prior to July 1, 1973, either on the mortgage or on the record of the mortgage, and signed by the mortgagee, shall have the same effect as a separate instrument of release legally executed by the mortgagee.

Presumption of satisfaction overcome by showing of late interest payment. The production of a note by the plaintiff at the trial, showing payment of interest months after the date of alleged payment, is sufficient to overcome any presumption arising from the record of a satisfaction of a mortgage securing a note of like description. Smith v. Stark, 3 Colo. App. 453, 34 P. 258 (1893).

Applied in Barth v. Deuel, 11 Colo. 494, 19 P. 471 (1888).

38-39-105. Removal of improvements from encumbered property. (1) An owner of real property shall not remove any improvement therefrom without first obtaining the written consent of the holder of any lien recorded prior to October 1, 1990, and the holder of the indebtedness secured by the deed of trust or mortgage having the most senior lien which encumbers such real property. This section shall not apply where any such improvement is expressly excepted from such lien.

(2) Any person who violates the provisions of subsection (1) of this section commits a class 2 misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-501, C.R.S.

38-39-106. Future advances. (1) Any mortgage may, by its terms, secure future advances up to a total maximum principal amount expressly set forth in such mortgage. Such mortgage shall be effective to secure payment of all advances, both obligatory and optional, up to the stated maximum principal amount to the same extent and with the same effect and priority as if such total maximum principal amount had been fully disbursed on or before the date such mortgage was recorded.

(2) Such mortgage shall also secure, to the same extent and with the same effect and priority, the following additional amounts regardless of whether such additional amounts, when added to the principal amount of the indebtedness, exceed the maximum principal amount stated in the mortgage:

(a) All increases in the principal amount that result from negative amortization or the addition of deferred interest;

(b) All disbursements made for the payment of taxes, levies, or insurance with respect to the property subject to the mortgage or made to protect such property from waste, damage, or abuse;

(c) If the mortgage or evidence of debt secured by the mortgage so provides, all reasonable expenses associated with collection of the indebtedness or foreclosure of the mortgage; and

- (d) Interest on any of the items specified in paragraphs (a) to (c) of this subsection (2) in accordance with the terms of the mortgage or the evidence of debt secured by the mortgage.
- (3) Subsection (1) of this section shall not apply to any subsequent advance against a mortgage instrument after a mortgagee has initially advanced principal up to the maximum amount stated in the mortgage, unless the mortgage instrument clearly states that it was made pursuant to a revolving credit arrangement.
- (4) This section shall have no application to the priority of general mechanics' liens arising pursuant to article 22 of this title, and the priority of such general mechanics' liens with respect to a mortgage which secures future advances shall be determined without reference to this section.
- (5) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, "mortgage" means a mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument creating a lien on real property to secure the payment of an indebtedness.

LIMITATIONS

38-39-201. Liens not to run over fifteen years. (1) Except as provided in sections 38-39-202 and 38-39-204, any lien upon property created by a mortgage or deed of trust shall cease to be a lien fifteen years after the date on which the final payment or performance of the obligation secured thereby is due as shown by such mortgage or deed of trust recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein the property is located.

(2) If the date on which the final payment or performance is due cannot be determined from the information contained in the recorded mortgage or deed of trust, such date shall, for the purpose of this article, be considered to be the date of the recorded instrument or, if the instrument is undated, the date the instrument was first recorded, notwithstanding anything in any other instrument or any unrecorded instrument to the contrary.

38-39-202. Lien extended - method. (1) The lien of a recorded mortgage or deed of trust may be extended without the written agreement of the owner of the property encumbered by such lien by an instrument in writing, signed by the owner of the obligation secured by such lien or by the person, firm, or corporation designated in such mortgage or deed of trust as the trustee for the owner of the obligation, such as a note or bond secured by such lien or by the successor in office of such named trustee. Such instrument shall clearly describe the mortgage or deed of trust, shall state the date to which the lien has been extended, and shall be recorded before the expiration of the fifteen-year period described in section 38-39-201 (1) in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein the property is located. The date to which such lien is extended by such instrument shall in no event be later than fifteen years after the recording date of such instrument.

(2) Additional and further extensions may be recorded from time to time in accordance with the provisions of this section in order to extend the lien of such mortgage or deed of trust. The original extension and all additional and further extensions shall, in no event, extend the lien of the original mortgage or trust deed beyond a total of thirty years without the written agreement of the owner of the property encumbered by such lien. Each successive extension must be recorded during the time that such mortgage or deed of trust constitutes a lien under the terms of this article and before the expiration of the respective period for which the lien of such mortgage or deed of trust may have been extended in accordance with the terms of this article.

(3) The lien of a recorded mortgage or deed of trust may be extended for so long as agreed, by an instrument in writing, signed by the owner of the obligation secured by such lien and the owner of the property encumbered by such lien and recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county in which such property is located.

(4) The term "thirty years", as used in this section, means thirty years after the original maturity date of such mortgage or deed of trust.

This section provides for a statute of limitations not a statute of repose. Unlike a statute of repose, which bars a claim after a certain period of time regardless of whether an actual injury has occurred or a claim has arisen, this section takes effect when a claim arises and determines how soon thereafter an action on the claim must commence. Mortgage Invs. Corp. v. Battle Mountain Corp., 70 P.3d 1176 (Colo. 2003).

This section governs an action to foreclose on a deed of trust when a party has commenced suit for default on an original promissory note within the applicable six-year statute of limitations and thereafter has reduced the note to judgment. *Mortgage Invs. Corp. v. Such account may be any type of checking, demand, passbook, or statement account insured by an agency of the United States government.

(3) The withdrawal, transfer, or other use or conversion of any funds held in escrow or a trustee account pursuant to subsection (1) of this section prior to the time a loan secured or to be secured by mortgage or other transfer of or encumbrance on real estate is consummated shall be prima facie evidence of intent to violate subsection (2) of this section.

(4) Any mortgage broker violating any of the provisions of subsection (2) of this section commits theft as defined in section 18-4-401, C.R.S.

(5) Any mortgage broker violating any of the provisions of subsection (1) or (2) of this section shall be liable to the person from whom any funds were received for the sum of one thousand dollars plus actual damages caused thereby, together with costs and reasonable attorney fees. 38-40-102. Disclosure of costs - statement of terms of indebtedness. (1) Any person regularly engaged in the making of loans secured by a mortgage or deed of trust on a one-to-four-family dwelling shall provide to any applicant for a loan to be secured by such a mortgage or deed of trust a good faith estimate, as a dollar amount or range, of each charge for a settlement service to be charged by the lender and paid by the applicant or a third party at the time of the making of the loan for which the application is made. Such disclosure shall be delivered to the applicant, and to any third party who will be liable on the loan and to the seller if the name and address of the third party and seller is known to the lender at the time of the application, in the same manner and at the same time as the good faith estimate required by the federal "Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act of 1974", 12 U.S.C. sec. 2601 et seq. If the lender conditionally guarantees any of the terms of the loan for which the application is made, there shall be delivered to the applicant a written statement of the conditions of such guaranty, including the period of time within which the consummation of the loan must occur in order for the guaranty to be honored.

(2) A person shall not state terms of an indebtedness to an applicant which are in conflict with the good faith estimate and which he knows to be false or unavailable at the time of the statement or at the time of closing of the agreement creating the indebtedness.

(3) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, the terms "good faith estimate", "person", and "settlement service" shall have the same meanings as given to such terms in the federal "Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act of 1974", 12 U.S.C. sec. 2601 et seq., and in regulation X, 24 CFR part 3500, issued by the United States secretary of housing and urban development pursuant to such act.

(4) The provisions of this section shall not apply to a loan to be made by a bank, trust company, savings and loan association, credit union, federal housing administration approved mortgagee, or supervised lender as defined in section 5-1-301 (46), C.R.S., that will be secured by a mortgage or deed of trust other than a first mortgage or deed of trust having priority as a lien on the real property over any other mortgage or deed of trust.

(b) The debtor may continue to make payments to the transferor of the servicing of his or her loan until a notice of the transfer is received from the transferee containing the name, address, and telephone number of the new servicer of the loan to whom future payments should be made. Such notice may be combined with the notice required in subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). It shall be the responsibility of the transferor to forward to the transferee any payments received and due after the date of transfer of the loan.

(2) The servicer of a loan shall respond in writing within twenty days from the receipt of a written request from the debtor or from an agent of the debtor acting pursuant to written authority from the debtor for information concerning the debtor's loan, which is readily available to the servicer from its books and records and which would not constitute the rendering of legal advice. Any such response must include the telephone number of the servicer. The servicer shall not be liable for any damage or harm that might arise from the release of any information pursuant to this section.

(3) The servicer of a loan shall annually provide to the debtor a summary of activity related to the loan. Such a summary shall contain, but need not be limited to, the total amount of principal and interest paid on the loan in that calendar year.

(4) The servicer of a loan shall be liable for any interest or late fees charged by any taxing entity if funds for the full payment of taxes on the real estate have been held in an escrow account by such servicer and not remitted to the taxing entity when due.

(2) No transferee from a lender shall be liable for any act or omission of the lender under section 38-40-102. No transferee of servicing or collection rights shall be liable for any act or omission of the transferor of those rights under section 38-40-103.

38-40-105. Prohibited acts by participants in certain mortgage loan transactions - unconscionable acts and practices - definitions. (1) The following acts by any mortgage broker, mortgage originator, mortgage lender, mortgage loan applicant, real estate appraiser, or closing agent, other than a person who provides closing or settlement services subject to regulation by the division of insurance, with respect to any loan that is secured by a first or subordinate mortgage or deed or trust lien against a dwelling are prohibited:

(a) To knowingly advertise, display, distribute, broadcast, televise, or cause or permit to be advertised, displayed, distributed, broadcast, or televised, in any manner, any false, misleading, or deceptive statement with regard to rates, terms, or conditions for a mortgage loan;

(b) To make a false promise or misrepresentation or conceal an essential or material fact to entice either a borrower or a creditor to enter into a mortgage agreement when, under the terms and circumstances of the transaction, he or she knew or reasonably should have known of such falsity, misrepresentation, or concealment;

(c) To knowingly and with intent to defraud present, cause to be presented, or prepare with knowledge or belief that it will be presented to or by a lender or an agent thereof any written statement or information in support of an application for a mortgage loan that he or she knows to contain false information concerning any fact material thereto or if he or she knowingly and with intent to defraud or mislead conceals information concerning any fact material thereto;

(d) To facilitate the consummation of a mortgage loan agreement that is unconscionable given the terms and circumstances of the transaction;

(e) To knowingly facilitate the consummation of a mortgage loan transaction that violates, or that is connected with a violation of, section 12-61-911, C.R.S.

(1.5) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2009, (HB 09-1085), ch. 303, p. 1638, § 4, effective August 5, 2009.)

(1.7) (a) A mortgage broker or mortgage originator shall not commit, or assist or facilitate the commission of, the following acts or practices, which are hereby deemed unconscionable:

(I) Engaging in a pattern or practice of providing residential mortgage loans to consumers based predominantly on acquisition of the foreclosure or liquidation value of the consumer's collateral without regard to the consumer's ability to repay a loan in accordance with its terms; except that any reasonable method may be used to determine a borrower's ability to repay. This subparagraph (I) shall not apply to a reverse mortgage that complies with article 38 of title 11, C.R.S.

(II) Knowingly or intentionally flipping a residential mortgage loan. As used in this subparagraph (II), "flipping" means making a residential mortgage loan that refinances an existing residential mortgage loan when the new loan does not have reasonable, tangible net benefit to the consumer considering all of the circumstances, including the terms of both the new and refinanced loans, the cost of the new loan, and the consumer's circumstances. This subparagraph (II) applies regardless of whether the interest rate, points, fees, and charges paid or payable by the consumer in connection with the refinancing exceed any thresholds specified by law.

(III) Entering into a residential mortgage loan transaction knowing there was no reasonable probability of payment of the obligation by the consumer.

(b) Except as this subsection (1.7) may be enforced by the attorney general or a district attorney, only the original parties to a transaction shall have a right of action under this subsection (1.7), and no action or claim under this subsection (1.7) may be brought against a purchaser from, or assignee of, a party to the transaction.

(2) (a) Except as provided in subsection (5) of this section, if a court, as a matter of law, finds a mortgage contract or any clause of the contract to have been unconscionable at the time it was made, the court may refuse to enforce the contract, or it may enforce the remainder of the contract without the unconscionable clause, or it may so limit the application of any unconscionable clause as to avoid any unconscionable result.

(b) When it is claimed or appears to the court that the contract or any clause thereof may be unconscionable, the parties shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to present evidence as to its commercial setting, purpose, and effect, to aid the court in making the determination.

(c) (I) In order to support a finding of unconscionability, there must be evidence of some bad faith overreaching on the part of the mortgage broker or mortgage originator such as that which results from an unreasonable inequality of bargaining power or under other circumstances in which there is an absence of meaningful choice on the part of one of the parties, together with contract terms that are, under standard industry practices, unreasonably favorable to the mortgage broker, mortgage originator, or lender.

(II) This paragraph (c) shall not apply to an unconscionable act or practice under subsection (1.7) of this section.

(3) A violation of this section shall be deemed a deceptive trade practice as provided in section 6-1-105 (1) (uu), C.R.S.

(4) The provisions of this section are in addition to and are not intended to supersede the deceptive trade practices actionable at common law or under other statutes of this state.

(5) No right or claim arising under this section may be raised or asserted in any proceeding against a bona fide purchaser of such mortgage contract or in any proceeding to obtain an order authorizing sale of property by a public trustee as required by section 38-38-105.

(6) The following acts by any real estate agent or real estate broker, as defined in section 12-61-101, C.R.S., in connection with any residential mortgage loan transaction, are prohibited:

(a) If directly engaged in negotiating, originating, or offering or attempting to negotiate or originate for a borrower a residential mortgage loan transaction, the real estate agent or real estate broker shall not make a false promise or misrepresentation or conceal an essential or material fact to entice either a borrower or lender to enter into a mortgage loan agreement when the real estate agent or real estate broker actually knew or, under the terms and circumstances of the transaction, reasonably should have known of such falsity, misrepresentation, or concealment.

(b) If not directly engaged in negotiating, originating, or offering or attempting to negotiate or originate for a borrower a residential mortgage loan transaction, the real estate agent or real estate broker shall not make a false promise or misrepresentation or conceal an essential or material fact to entice either a borrower or lender to enter into a mortgage loan agreement when the real estate agent or real estate broker had actual knowledge of such falsity, misrepresentation, or concealment.

(7) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Consumer" has the meaning set forth in section 5-1-301, C.R.S.

(b) "Dwelling" has the meaning set forth in section 5-1-301, C.R.S.

(b) In addition to any other requirements specified in this part 1, in any action for a claim for fee simple title to real property by adverse possession for which fee simple title vests on or after July 1, 2008, in favor of the adverse possessor and against the owner of record of the real property under subsection (1) of this section, a person may acquire fee simple title to real property by adverse possession only upon satisfaction of each of the following conditions:

(I) The person presents evidence to satisfy all of the elements of a claim for adverse possession required under common law in Colorado; and

(II) Either the person claiming by adverse possession or a predecessor in interest of such person had a good faith belief that the person in possession of the property of the owner of record was the actual owner of the property and the belief was reasonable under the particular circumstances.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the provisions of subsections (3) and (5) of this section shall be limited to claims of adverse possession for the purpose of establishing fee simple title to real property and shall not apply to the creation, establishment, proof, or judicial confirmation or delineation of easements by prescription, implication, prior use, estoppel, or otherwise, nor shall the provisions of subsections (3) or (5) of this section apply to claims or defenses for equitable relief under the common-law doctrine of relative hardships, or claims or defenses governed by any other statute of limitations specified in this article. Nothing in this section shall be construed to mean that any elements of a claim for adverse possession that are not otherwise applicable to the creation, establishment, proof, or judicial confirmation or delineation of easements by prescription, implication, prior use, estoppel, or otherwise are made applicable pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(5) (a) Where the person asserting a claim of fee simple title to real property by adverse possession prevails on such claim, and if the court determines in its discretion that an award of compensation is fair and equitable under the circumstances, the court may, after an evidentiary hearing separately conducted after entry of the order awarding title to the adverse possessor, award to the party losing title to the adverse possessor:

(I) Damages to compensate the party losing title to the adverse possessor for the loss of the property measured by the actual value of the property as determined by the county assessor as of the most recent valuation for property tax purposes. If the property lost has not been separately taxed or assessed from the remainder of the property of the party losing title to the adverse possessor, the court shall equitably apportion the actual value of the property to the portion of the owner's property lost by adverse possession including, as appropriate, taking into account the nature and character of the property lost and of the remainder.

(II) An amount to reimburse the party losing title to the adverse possessor for all or a part of the property taxes and other assessments levied against and paid by the party losing title to the adverse possessor for the period commencing eighteen years prior to the commencement of the adverse possession action and expiring on the date of the award or entry of final nonappealable judgment, whichever is later. If the property lost has not been separately taxed or assessed from the remainder of the property of the party losing title to the adverse possessor, such reimbursement shall equitably apportion the amount of the reimbursement to the portion of the owner's property lost by adverse possession, including, as appropriate, taking into account the nature and character of the property lost and of the remainder. The amount of the award shall bear interest at the statutory rate from the dates on which the party losing title to the adverse possessor made payment of the reimburseable taxes and assessments.

(b) At any hearing conducted under this subsection (5), or in the event that adverse possession is claimed solely as a defense to an action for damages based upon a claim for trespass, forcible entry, forcible detainer, or similar affirmative claims by another against the adverse possessor, and not to seek an award of legal title against the claimant, the burden of proof shall be by a preponderance of the evidence. If the defendant is claiming adverse possession solely as a defense to an action and not to seek an award of legal title, the defendant shall so state in a pleading filed by the defendant within ninety days after filing an answer or within such longer period as granted by the court in the court's discretion, and any such statement shall bind the defendant in the action.

Section should be construed as acting prospectively only, and does not apply to causes of action existing at the time of its adoption. Edelstein v. Carlile, 33 Colo. 54, 78 P. 680 (1904).

Not retrospectively. This section cannot be applied where to do so would be giving to this part a retrospective effect. Connell v. Clifford, 39 Colo. 121, 88 P. 850 (1907); Bonfils v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 67 Colo. 563, 189 P. 775 (1920).

The objection to retrospective statutes does not apply to remedial statutes such as the statute of limitations, and these statutes may be retrospective in nature, provided they do not impair contracts or disturb vested rights. Edelstein v. Carlile, 33 Colo. 54, 78 P. 680 (1904). See also Fisher v. Hervey, 6 Colo. 16 (1881).

Owner's disability no bar to statute. The fact that an owner is under disability until her death does not prevent the running of the statute of limitations. Nesbitt v. Jones, 140 Colo. 412, 344 P.2d 949 (1959).

For purposes of the exception to adverse possession in subsection (2), a "quasi-municipal corporation" is a public agency endowed with such attributes of a municipality as may be necessary in the performance of its limited objective. Goodwin v. Thieman, 74 P.3d 526 (Colo. App. 2003).

During the 18-year limitation period, the disputed property was owned by a corporation that was not a public entity or governmental agency; therefore, the corporation was not a "quasi-municipal corporation" for purposes of the exception to adverse possession. Goodwin v. Thieman, 74 P.3d 526 (Colo. App. 2003).

II. ADVERSE POSSESSION.

A. In General.

Possession for 18 years becomes conclusive evidence of absolute ownership of the property, as provided by this section. Concord Corp. v. Huff, 144 Colo. 72, 355 P.2d 73 (1960).

Adverse possession cannot result in the possessor having a greater property interest than the dispossessed owner enjoyed. Consequently, the right of ownership to a condominium parking space obtained through adverse possession was not fee simple ownership but was limited by the alienability restrictions included in the condominium's declaration. B.B. & C. P'ship v. Edelweiss Condo. Ass'n, 218 P.3d 310 (Colo. 2009).

Where plaintiffs and their predecessors in title have been in possession of easement for more than 18 years, a presumption arises that their possession was adverse and defendant has the burden to overcome such presumption by sufficient evidence of permissive use. Irvin v. Brand, 690 P.2d 1283 (Colo. App. 1984); Durbin v. Bonanza Corp., 716 P.2d 1124 (Colo. App. 1986).

Initial presumption in adverse possession case is in favor of the record title holder. Whinnery v. Thompson, 868 P.2d 1095 (Colo. App. 1993).

The doctrine of adverse possession recognizes the record owner's right to exercise dominion over the property, but holds that the right is lost if a claimant adversely possesses the property for the required time. Ocmulgee Prop. Inc. v. Jeffery, 53 P.3d 665 (Colo. App. 2001).

Record owner's application to subdivide property and for an exemption from county subdivision regulations did not constitute an exercise of control over the property sufficient to disrupt the period of adverse possession by the claimant in actual possession of the property. The proceedings on the application, standing alone, did not dispossess the claimant, did not constitute an entry on the land sufficient to reinstate the record owner in possession, did not constitute legal action to regain possession of the land or the equivalent of such an action, and did not result in the ejection of plaintiff or its predecessors in interest. Ocmulgee Prop. Inc. v. Jeffery, 53 P.3d 665 (Colo. App. 2001).

Any act, other than abandonment, that is inconsistent with ownership and occurs after title by adverse possession is vested does not defeat that title. Welsch v. Smith, 113 P.3d 1284 (Colo. App. 2005).

The law of prescriptive easements permits acquisition of enforceable property rights through unlawful action, namely, trespass for the prescriptive period of time. Clinger v. Hartshorn, 89 P.3d 462 (Colo. App. 2003).

A party who claims a prescriptive easement must prove by a preponderance of the evidence continuous, open, and adverse use of the easement for the statutory period of 18 years. Proper v. Greager, 827 P.2d 591 (Colo. App. 1992).

A prescriptive easement is acquired when the use is open or notorious, continuous without effective interruption for an 18-year period, and either adverse or pursuant to an attempted but ineffective grant. Intermittent use on a long-term basis is sufficient to satisfy the open, notorious, and continuous use requirement, and using an easement for 18 years entitles the holder to the presumption that the use was adverse. Clinger v. Hartshorn, 89 P.3d 462 (Colo. App. 2003).

Undisputed evidence showed that use of easement was sufficiently adverse and that the claim of right to use need not be made by a hostile or antagonistic act. Proper v. Greager, 827 P.2d 591 (Colo. App. 1992).

This section applies to an action seeking to terminate an easement by adverse possession because the statute plainly states that it applies to any real property interest and because the statute does not distinguish between possessory interests such as title to land and non-possessory interests such as title to an easement. Matoush v. Lovingood, 177 P.3d 1262 (Colo. 2008).

An easement will be terminated by adverse possession upon a showing that use of the easement area was: (1) adverse to the easement holder's right to use the easement; (2) open or notorious; and (3) continuous without effective interruption for the statutorily mandated period of time. Matoush v. Lovingood, 177 P.3d 1262 (Colo. 2008).

Abandonment is not an element of a claim to terminate an easement by adverse possession, but rather is a separate and distinct method for terminating an easement. Matoush v. Lovingood, 177 P.3d 1262 (Colo. 2008).

A claim to terminate an easement by adverse possession requires a stronger showing of adverse use than a claim to create an easement by adverse possession does. A party claiming to have terminated an easement by adverse possession must prove that the use interferes significantly enough with the easement owner's enjoyment of the easement to give notice that the easement is under threat. Matoush v. Lovingood, 177 P.3d 1262 (Colo. 2008).

Determining whether use of the easement area is an incompatible or irreconcilable use sufficiently adverse to trigger the statutorily mandated period of time for adverse possession of an easement depends upon whether the easement was expressly created and whether the easement has ever been used by the easement holder. Matoush v. Lovingood, 177 P.3d 1262 (Colo. 2008).

When an easement is expressly created but never used, use of the easement area is not adverse and will not trigger the statutorily mandated period of time for adverse possession until the easement holder needs to use the easement, demands to use it, and is denied the right to use it. Matoush v. Lovingood, 177 P.3d 1262 (Colo. 2008).

Adverse possessor's interest enforceable against everyone except owner. From the beginning of his possession period, an adverse possessor has an interest in a given piece of property enforceable against everyone except the owner or one claiming through the owner. Spring Valley Estates, Inc. v. Cunningham, 181 Colo. 435, 510 P.2d 336 (1973).

Grant of permission to use disputed property followed by subsequent inaction to disclaim permission would be sufficient to interrupt the running of the statutory period of adverse possession. McKenzie v. Pope, 33 P.3d 1277 (Colo. App. 2001).

A barrier established for the purpose of, and in fact, interrupting an adverse claimant's use is sufficient to interrupt the running of the statutory period, even if the barrier is removed by the adverse claimant. Trask v. Nozisko, 134 P.3d 544 (Colo. App. 2006).

Interest matures into absolute fee after statutory duration. It is not until the adverse possessor has possessed the land for the duration of the statutory period that his interest matures into an absolute fee and his possessory rights become enforceable against the former owner as well as third parties. Spring Valley Estates, Inc. v. Cunningham, 181 Colo. 435, 510 P.2d 336 (1973).

Title to property acquired by adverse possession matures into an absolute fee interest after the statutory prescriptive period has expired. Doty v. Chalk, 632 P.2d 644 (Colo. App. 1981).

Conveyance to adverse use begins statute's running. Conveyance of a water right, serving to transform a previous permissive use of water by a canal company to a use which is adverse and inconsistent with the previous relationship of the parties, begins the running of the statute of limitations against a suit for possession or to determine ownership of the water right. Nesbitt v. Jones, 140 Colo. 412, 344 P.2d 949 (1959).

Acquiescence in adverse use may divest prior right of use. Individuals in whom a prior right to the use of water is vested may lose such right by acquiescence in an adverse use thereof by another continued uninterruptedly for the statutory period. Lomas v. Webster, 109 Colo. 107, 122 P.2d 248 (1942).

Establishment of division line by parol agreement conclusive against owners. Where there is a doubt or uncertainty, or a dispute has arisen, as to the true location of a boundary line, the adjoining owners may, by parol agreement, establish a division line and, where the agreement is executed and actual possession is held under such agreement, it is conclusive against the owners and those claiming under them. Schleining v. White, 163 Colo. 481, 431 P.2d 458 (1967).

Settlement of readjustments of boundary line. If one of two innocent parties must suffer a loss of land due to boundary line readjustments called for by later official surveys, it must fall upon the party who is later in time and who has never been in actual possession of the land in question. Marr v. Shrader, 142 Colo. 106, 349 P.2d 706 (1960).

Tacking possessions of area not described in deed. The tacking of successive adverse possessions of vendor and purchaser of an area not within the premises described in a deed, but contiguous thereto, requires that the grantor intend to transfer possession of such area to the purchaser. Doty v. Chalk, 632 P.2d 644 (Colo. App. 1981).

When title by adverse possession vanishes. Title by adverse possession vanishes when the treasurer issues his valid deed for unpaid taxes. Linville v. Russell, 168 Colo. 459, 452 P.2d 18 (1969).

Issuance of treasurer's deed creates virgin title. The issuance of a valid treasurer's deed creates a virgin title erasing all former interests in the land. Whiteman v. Mattson, 167 Colo. 183, 446 P.2d 904 (1968).

Title to lands derived from federal government. Statutory limitations affecting title to lands derived from the federal government begin to run in favor of an adverse claimant in possession when the entryman is legally entitled to a patent, and not from the date of filing a homestead or desert entry. Denver & R.G.R.R. v. Wilson, 28 Colo. 6, 62 P. 843 (1900); Priesthof v. Baum, 94 Colo. 324, 29 P.2d 1032 (1934).

Failure to institute action within limitation period constitutes bar. Where the pilasters of a building more than 50 years old encroached on plaintiffs' land, and had so encroached on the time the building was constructed, and no action had been instituted by plaintiffs or their predecessors in title within 18 years after the original encroachment, plaintiffs were barred from asserting any claim or right by reason of such encroachment. Williams v. Wills, 149 Colo. 213, 368 P.2d 558 (1962).

Ownership of water right may be deemed ownership of real property for purposes of adverse possession claims. Matter of Water Rights of V-Heart Ranch, 690 P.2d 1271 (Colo. 1984).

B. Actual, Adverse, Hostile, Exclusive, and Uninterrupted Possession.

"Possession" defined. "Possession", referred to in subsection (1), means a general holding and occupancy with complete dominion over the property involved to the exclusion of others. Concord Corp. v. Huff, 144 Colo. 72, 355 P.2d 73 (1960).

Possession of one cotenant is possession of all. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. v. North Colo. Springs Land & Imp. Co., 659 P.2d 702 (Colo. App. 1982).

Proof required of adverse possessor. To prove adverse possession, the one claiming it must clearly show, not only that his possession was actual, adverse, hostile, and under claim of right, but that it has also been exclusive and uninterrupted for the statutory period. Segelke v. Atkins, 144 Colo. 558, 357 P.2d 636 (1960); Hayden v. Morrison, 152 Colo. 435, 382 P.2d 1003 (1963); Sanchez v. Taylor, 377 F.2d 733 (10th Cir. 1967); Dzuris v. Kucharik, 164 Colo. 278, 434 P.2d 414 (1967); Raftopoulos v. Monger, 656 P.2d 1308 (Colo. 1983); Matter of Estate of Qualteri, 757 P.2d 1093 (Colo. App. 1988); Schutten v. Beck, 757 P.2d 1139 (Colo. App. 1988); Smith v. Hayden, 772 P.2d 47 (Colo. 1989); Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Ritchey, 888 P.2d 298 (Colo. App. 1994); Goodwin v. Thieman, 74 P.3d 526 (Colo. App. 2003); Schuler v. Oldervik, 143 P.3d 1197 (Colo. App. 2006).

Actual occupancy means the ordinary use to which the land is capable and such occupancy as an owner would make of it. Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969).

Actual possession is established where the claimant shows that the property was used in a manner commensurate with its particular attributes. Doty v. Chalk, 632 P.2d 644 (Colo. App. 1981); Kroulik v. Knuppel, 634 P.2d 1027 (Colo. App. 1981).

Actual occupation required absent barriers or deed. Where the boundaries of the land claimed have not been established by fences or barriers and there is no deed describing the extent of their holding, the parties claiming title by adverse possession may not claim any property not actually occupied by them for the statutory period because the extent of actual occupancy must be determined by the court when ascertaining the extent of the adverse intent. Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969); Smith v. Hayden, 772 P.2d 47 (Colo. 1989).

Actual occupancy is not limited to structural encroachment which is common but is not the only physical characteristic of possession. Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969).

To show actual possession, a party claiming adverse possession of a water right must show actual beneficial use of a specific quantity of water; merely intercepting the water or preventing the owner from using it does not suffice. Archuleta v. Gomez, 200 P.3d 333 (Colo. 2009).

Adverse possession without enclosure need not be characterized by a physical, constant, visible occupancy or improved by improvements of every square foot of the land. Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969).

Mere occupancy insufficient notice of adverse possession. Mere occupancy is not sufficient to put any of the true owners on notice that the adverse claimant claimed the land, and the burden of proof, as to open, notorious, and hostile claim, is upon the adverse claimant when it claims title by adverse possession without color of title, and every reasonable presumption is made in favor of the true owner as against adverse possession. Lovejoy v. Sch. Dist. No. 46, 129 Colo. 306, 269 P.2d 1067 (1954).

Use of land for pasturage not hostile to owner. The use of land for pasturage, natural products, and timber does not ordinarily constitute adverse possession because the pasturage of cattle on unfenced lands cannot be regarded as hostile and adverse to the owner of such land. Smith v. Town of Fowler, 138 Colo. 359, 333 P.2d 1034 (1959); Sanchez v. Taylor, 377 F.2d 733 (10th Cir. 1967).

The practice of grazing cattle on unfenced land is not of itself sufficient to show adverse possession. Thomson v. Clarks, Inc., 162 Colo. 506, 427 P.2d 314 (1967); First Nat'l Bank v. Fitzpatrick, 624 P.2d 927 (Colo. App. 1981).

Claim sufficient upon erection of fence. A fencing in of the disputed tracts and an uninterrupted use by predecessors in interest for pasturage and haying, showed exclusive, open, notorious, continuous, and adverse possession for the requisite period. McKelvy v. Cooper, 165 Colo. 102, 437 P.2d 346 (1968).

Where, in addition to pasturing livestock, a fence is erected, the statutory period begins to run and the adverse possession claim will not be defeated because use for this purpose is seasonal. First Nat'l Bank v. Fitzpatrick, 624 P.2d 927 (Colo. App. 1981).

Although the mere existence of a fence does not establish adverse possession of land beyond the fence line, when both property owners believe that the fence has marked the true boundary between the property for 18 years, there is a presumption that the holding is adverse. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Ritchey, 888 P.2d 298 (Colo. App. 1994); Welsch v. Smith, 113 P.3d 1284 (Colo. App. 2005).

Where landowners' predecessors in interest acquiesced in placement of fenceline set back from property line, strip of land between fence and property line became a public highway pursuant to § 43-2-201(1)(c) as a result of its adverse use by the public for over 20 uninterrupted years. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Ritchey, 888 P.2d 298 (Colo. App. 1994).

Mere existence of fence erected south of true boundary of claimants' property did not establish adverse possession when neither the claimants nor their predecessor in interest had erected the fence or adversely claimed or occupied area of land between the boundary and the fence. Schutten v. Beck, 757 P.2d 1139 (Colo. App. 1988).

Removal of a fence after the land has been adversely possessed for more than the statutory period would not necessarily rebut the presumption of adversity. Welsch v. Smith, 113 P.3d 1284 (Colo. App. 2005).

Adjoining owner not clothed with possession by destruction of fence. The mere erasure of a common boundary fence in a flood disaster does not clothe an adjoining owner with possession of lands adversely to his neighbors. Smith v. Town of Fowler, 138 Colo. 359, 333 P.2d 1034 (1959).

A claim to terminate an easement by adverse possession requires a stronger showing of adverse use than a claim to create an easement by adverse possession does. A party claiming to have terminated an easement by adverse possession must prove that the use interferes significantly enough with the easement owner's enjoyment of the easement to give notice that the easement is under threat. Matoush v. Lovingood, 177 P.3d 1262 (Colo. 2008).

Determining whether use of the easement area is an incompatible or irreconcilable use sufficiently adverse to trigger the statutory mandated period of time for adverse possession of an easement depends upon whether the easement was expressly created and whether the easement has ever been used by the easement holder. Matoush v. Lovingood, 177 P.3d 1262 (Colo. 2008).

When an easement is expressly created but never used, use of the easement area is not adverse and will not trigger the statutorily mandated period of time for adverse possession until the easement holder needs to use the easement, demands to use it, and is denied the right to use it. Matoush v. Lovingood, 177 P.3d 1262 (Colo. 2008).

Any actual visible means establishing dominion is sufficient. Any actual visible means, which gives notice of exclusion from the property to the true owner or to the public and of the defendant's dominion over it, is sufficient. Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969); Matter of Estate of Qualteri, 757 P.2d 1093 (Colo. App. 1988).

Possession must be hostile. The very essence of adverse possession is that the possession must be hostile, not only against the true owner, but against the world as well. Lovejoy v. Sch. Dist. No. 46, 129 Colo. 306, 269 P.2d 1067 (1954); Smith v. Town of Fowler, 138 Colo. 359, 333 P.2d 1034 (1959); Sanchez v. Taylor, 377 F.2d 733 (10th Cir. 1967).

Adverse claim must be hostile at its inception, because, if the original entry is not openly hostile or adverse, it does not become so, and this section does not begin to run as against a rightful owner until an adverse claimant disavows the idea of holding for, or in subservience to another, it actually sets up an exclusive right in himself by some clear, positive and unequivocal act. Lovejoy v. Sch. Dist. No. 46, 129 Colo.306, 269 P.2d 1067 (1954); Smith v. Town of Fowler, 138 Colo. 359, 333 P.2d 1034 (1959).

The character of the possession must become hostile in order that it may be deemed to be adverse, and this hostility must continue for the full statutory period because this section begins to run at the time the possession of the claimant becomes adverse to that of the owner, and this occurs when the claimant sets up title in himself by some clear, positive, and unequivocal act. Lovejoy v. Sch. Dist. No. 46, 129 Colo. 306, 269 P.2d 1067 (1954).

To maintain adversity, use cannot be with permission during the prescriptive period. Hunter v. Mansell, 240 P.3d 469 (Colo. App. 2010).

Hostile and adverse requirement does not mean violence. The requirement that adverse possession be both hostile and adverse does not mean that there need be any violence connected with the entry onto the property or that there be any actual dispute as to ownership between the adverse possessor and the owner of the property. Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969).

Actual dispute with neighbor not necessary to show intent. A deliberate attempt to steal a neighbor's property, or an actual dispute at some previous time is not necessary in order to show an intention to hold adversely in Colorado. Moss v. O'Brien, 165 Colo. 93, 437 P.2d 348 (1968).

Hostility arises from intention of adverse possessor to claim exclusive ownership of the property occupied, and no specific intent directed toward the property owner is required. Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969); Niles v. Churchill, 29 Colo. App. 283, 482 P.2d 994 (1971); Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Ritchey, 888 P.2d 298 (Colo. App. 1994).

The court has found hostile and adverse possession even though the adverse possessor had stated that he was claiming only to what he believed to be the true boundary of his land and had no intention of claiming the land of another; all that is required to establish hostility is that the person claiming adverse possession occupy the property with belief that the property is his and not another's. Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969); Niles v. Churchill, 29 Colo. App. 283, 482 P.2d 994 (1971).

Hostility not determined only from parties' declarations. Hostile intent is to be determined not only from the declarations of the parties but from reasonable deductions from the facts as well. Moss v. O'Brien, 165 Colo. 93, 437 P.2d 348 (1968); Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969); Matter of Estate of Qualteri, 757 P.2d 1093 (Colo. App. 1988); Miller v. Bell, 764 P.2d 389 (Colo. App. 1988).

In cases of claimed adverse possession between close family members, the applicable rule is that "strong proof" of hostility is required if the claimant takes possession of property belonging to a relative and there exists no presumption that the possession of land of one family member by another family member is permissive and not adverse. Matter of Estate of Qualteri, 757 P.2d 1093 (Colo. App. 1988).

Actual visible possession may create adverse intent. Actual visible possession to a given line is a circumstance from which a court may find adverse intent, even though the intention was to claim only to the true line. Moss v. O'Brien, 165 Colo. 93, 437 P.2d 348 (1968).

Possession of successive disseizors may be joined for continuous possession. Where there is privity of title or estate, the possession of successive disseizors may be joined or tacked together so as to be regarded as continuous possession. Hodge v. Terrill, 123 Colo. 196, 228 P.2d 984 (1951).

Recognition of title in another is inconsistent with adverse possession. Where an occupant of land acknowledges or recognizes the title of the owner during the period of his claimed adverse possession, he fatally interrupts the continuity of his adverse possession because recognition of title in another is inconsistent with the theory of adverse possession, and the statute of limitations does not begin to run in his favor until he repudiates the owner's title. Segelke v. Atkins, 144 Colo. 558, 357 P.2d 636 (1960).

Disclaimer of intent to adversely possess property terminates adverse possession only if made before statutory period for adverse possession has expired. Once the statutory period has expired, ownership vests in the adverse possessor and can be transferred only by deed. Hunter v. Mansell, 240 P.3d 469 (Colo. App. 2010).

Public use of part of property does not disprove exclusive possession. The public use of part of the property in question for picnicking does not disprove exclusive possession because, for possession to be exclusive, it is not necessary that all use of that property by the public be prevented. Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969).

Property used in common with public negatives exclusive possession. Proof that ever since 1917, the defendants and their predecessors, as well as other members of the general public similarly situated have used the property described in plaintiff's complaint for a public right-of-way negatives defendants' contentions that they were in the open, notorious, exclusive possession of the property, adverse to any and all other claimants. Nelson v. Van Cleve, 143 Colo. 117, 352 P.2d 269 (1960).

Casual intrusion does not defeat adverse claim. A mere casual intrusion by a fisherman, or even by several, did not deprive the plaintiff's adverse possession of its exclusive character or defeat their claim. McKelvy v. Cooper, 165 Colo. 102, 437 P.2d 346 (1968); Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969).

Legal titleholder prevails over common possession. In case of a mixed or common possession of land by both parties to a suit, the law adjudges the rightful possession to him who holds legal title, and no length of time of possession can give title by adverse possession as against the legal title. Dzuris v. Kucharik, 164 Colo. 278, 434 P.2d 414 (1967).

Statute does not run until ouster established. Until an actual ouster of the cotenant is established by conduct apart from mere use and occupation of the land by claimant, the statute giving rise to a claim of adverse possession does not begin to run. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. v. North Colo. Springs Land & Imp. Co., 659 P.2d 702 (Colo. App. 1982).

Permissive possession. The statute of limitations does not start to run where the possession is from inception permissive because a possession which is permissive or is otherwise consistent with a record owner's title is merely that of an owner at whose pleasure it continues. Nesbitt v. Jones, 140 Colo. 412, 344 P.2d 949 (1959); Miller v. Bell, 764 P.2d 389 (Colo. App. 1988).

For permissive entry on land to become adverse notice or an explicit disclaimer must be given to the owner. Segelke v. Atkins, 144 Colo. 558, 357 P.2d 636 (1960); Matter of Estate of Qualteri, 757 P. 2d 1093 (Colo. App. 1988); Miller v. Bell, 764 P.2d 389 (Colo. App. 1988).

County's initial entry on strip of land was not permissive, but rather by the assertion of ownership through county dedication of section and township lines as public highways. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Ritchey, 888 P.2d 298 (Colo. App. 1994).

To assert a claim of adverse possession against a vendor, a vendee is required to unequivocally renounce the contract relationship between them and his rights thereunder prior to assertion of a right antagonistic to that of his vendor. White v. Widger, 144 Colo. 566, 358 P.2d 592 (1960).

Trespassers do not acquire possession. Trespassers who go upon lands for a special purpose, hunting, fishing, camping, surveying, etc., do not thereby acquire possession. Concord Corp. v. Huff, 144 Colo. 72, 355 P.2d 73 (1960).

Placing improvements on property not disseisin. The placing of a few improvements or structures on the property is not a taking possession thereof or a disseisin. Concord Corp. v. Huff, 144 Colo. 72, 355 P.2d 73 (1960).

Transfer of property acquired through adverse possession may only be effected by a validly executed deed, by adverse possession, or by other legal means. Doty v. Chalk, 632 P.2d 644 (Colo. App. 1981).

Void tax deeds. Void tax deeds do not convey title, and are wholly ineffective to interrupt another's right to possession of the property they purport to convey. Concord Corp. v. Huff, 144 Colo. 72, 355 P.2d 73 (1960).

Effect of disclaimer. Where title to disputed property vested in a party by adverse possession long before a disclaimer was executed, such disclaimer has no legal effect. Doty v. Chalk, 632 P.2d 644 (Colo. App. 1981).

Payment of taxes does not indicate sole ownership. Payment of all of the taxes on the subject property for many years does not indicate a claim of sole ownership, especially in view of the paying party's use and possession of the property rent-free. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. v. North Colo. Springs Land & Imp. Co., 659 P.2d 702 (Colo. App. 1982).

Adverse possession not found. Plaintiff's testimony that water was used from sump since 1949, that she and her husband worked side-by-side, that in 1966 they were irrigating 300 acres and now 800 acres, and that water has been used continuously on the farm for irrigation, along with all the other evidence presented, was not sufficient evidence to show adverse possession. Farmer v. Farmer, 720 P.2d 174 (Colo. App. 1986).

Adverse possession found where plaintiffs' possession of property for 24 years was: (1) Hostile, because plaintiffs used the property as their own; (2) exclusive and actual, because they acted as an average landowner would in utilizing the property for its ordinary use; and (3) adverse, because their use of the property was sufficiently open and obvious to apprise the defendant that they intended to claim the property adversely. Schuler v. Oldervik, 143 P.3d 1197 (Colo. App. 2006).

A concession by the adverse possessor of the record ownership of a parcel by another need not demonstrate the lack of intent to possess adversely. Smith v. Hayden, 772 P.2d 47 (Colo. 1989).

Common ownership of two tracts of land extinguishes any acquiescence in boundary lines attributable to the prior landowners of the tracts unless the deed adopts the boundary lines as previously acquiesced upon. Salazar v. Terry, 911 P.2d 1086 (Colo. 1996).

III. PLEADING AND PRACTICE.

All remedies may be utilized against record title holder after statutory period. Once the 18-year period has passed, all remedies, including those for quiet title, ejectment, and trespass, may be utilized even against the record title holder. Spring Valley Estates, Inc. v. Cunningham, 181 Colo. 435, 510 P.2d 336 (1973).

Mandatory injunction preferred remedy for continuing trespass. When an improvement encroaches on another's real property, a mandatory injunction requiring its removal is the traditional and preferred remedy. Hunter v. Mansell, 240 P.3d 469 (Colo. App. 2010).

Damages recoverable when statutory period completed. In an action for trespass by an adverse possessor against a former title holder, damages are recoverable only from the time the 18-year statutory period has been completed. Spring Valley Estates, Inc. v. Cunningham, 181 Colo. 435, 510 P.2d 336 (1973).

Statute of limitations must be specially pleaded. The defense of the statute of limitations is in the nature of a special privilege, and it must be pleaded specially. Chivington v. Colo. Springs Co., 9 Colo. 597, 14 P. 212 (1886); Connell v. Clifford, 39 Colo. 121, 88 P. 850 (1907).

If not specially pleaded, the defense of the statute of limitations will be waived. Chivington v. Colo. Springs Co., 9 Colo. 597, 14 P. 212 (1886); Connell v. Clifford, 39 Colo. 121, 88 P. 850 (1907).

Because the bar of the statute of limitations is a personal privilege, to be relied upon, or not, as a defendant may choose; being a strict defense, it should be interposed in apt time, and if not, it will be deemed waived. Walters v. Webster, 52 Colo. 549, 123 P. 952 (1912).

Plaintiff's success depends upon strength of his title. A plaintiff, claiming title to a disputed piece of land and being out of possession thereof, can succeed only on the strength of his own title and not on the weakness of defendants' title. Reinhardt v. Meyer, 153 Colo. 296, 385 P.2d 597 (1963).

A person not in possession, asserting title to real property and seeking to enjoin others from claiming an interest therein, has the burden of furnishing evidence of title in himself upon which the court can rest its decision, rather than upon the supposed weakness of others claiming an interest. Nelson v. Van Cleve, 143 Colo. 117, 352 P.2d 269 (1960).

Burden of proof is on owner following 18 years of exclusive possession in an adverse claimant. Nesbitt v. Jones, 140 Colo. 412, 344 P.2d 949 (1959).

Failure of required proof prevents statute as bar to plaintiff's action. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Blanning, 29 Colo. App. 61, 479 P.2d 404 (1970).

To establish abandonment, the relying party must show affirmative acts constituting an intention by the party claiming adverse pos- session to abandon. Rivera v. Queree, 145 Colo. 146, 358 P.2d 40 (1960).

Abandonment must be established by clear, unequivocal, and decisive evidence of affirmative acts on the part of the owner of the dominant estate that manifest an intention to abandon the easement. Clinger v. Hartshorn, 89 P.3d 462 (Colo. App. 2003).

Mere nonuse not abandonment. Mere nonuse of water rights acquired by deed, though for a period less than that fixed by this section, does not work an abandonment. Fruit Growers' Ditch & Reservoir Co. v. Donald, 96 Colo. 264, 41 P.2d 516, 98 A.L.R. 1288 (1935).

Defense of laches is not available in a quiet title action because courts will not invoke equitable defenses to destroy legal rights where statutes of limitations are applicable. Jacobs v. Perry, 135 Colo. 550, 313 P.2d 1008 (1957).

Whether possession is hostile or adverse is ordinarily a question of fact. Moss v. O'Brien, 165 Colo. 93, 437 P.2d 348 (1968); Anderson v. Cold Spring Tungsten, Inc., 170 Colo. 7, 458 P.2d 756 (1969); Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Ritchey, 888 P.2d 298 (Colo. App. 1994).

Trial court must make determination where evidence conflicting. Where evidence is conflicting on the issue of whether use of land was continuously adverse for the statutory period, the trial court is required to make a specific finding as to each of the prerequisites of adverse possession. Hayden v. Morrison, 152 Colo. 435, 382 P.2d 1003 (1963).

To acquire a prescriptive easement, a party must confine his or her use to a single, definite, and certain path. Minor deviations do not defeat the claimed easement. Whether the route remained substantially the same is a factual determination for the court. The development of a new subdivision, rather than a circumstance over which plaintiffs had any control, required plaintiffs to change their point of entrance to defendants' property. Accordingly, the record supports trial court's determination that plaintiffs adequately proved their use of a definite path across defendants' property for more than the prescriptive period of 18 years specified under this section. Weisiger v. Harbour, 62 P.3d 1069 (Colo. App. 2002).

Using an easement for more than 18 years entitles the holder to the presumption that use was adverse; however this presumption can be rebutted by showing the use was permissive. Trial court's conclusion that defendants' evidence of permissive use, based upon an arrangement of two locks on a gate separating defendants' property, one for each party, was insufficient to overcome the presumption of adverse use. Weisiger v. Harbour, 62 P.3d 1069 (Colo. App. 2002).

To satisfy the open and notorious element for establishment of a prescriptive easement, the use must be sufficiently obvious to apprise the owner of the servient estate; however, actual knowledge by the owner need not be proved. Unlike a party claiming title to land by adverse possession, a party claiming a prescriptive easement need not be in continuous physical possession of the land because a prescriptive easement is only a right to use the route whenever the holder desires passage. The record supports trial court's determination that plaintiffs' use was open and notorious because defendants knew plaintiffs were entering their property and using the mining road. In addition, the record also supports trial court's determination that plaintiffs crossed defendants' property whenever they wanted to reach their property. Inter-mittent use on a long-term basis satisfies the requirement for open, notorious, and continuous use. Weisiger v. Harbour, 62 P.3d 1069 (Colo. App. 2002).

Reviewing court may reject trial court's finding where conclusions unsupported. Although it is true that whether possession is hostile or adverse is ordinarily a question of fact, and a finding on this issue made by the trial court would normally not be set aside on review, this restraint does not limit the power of the reviewing court to reject a trial court's findings and conclusions where they are not supported by evidence or where the law has not been correctly applied. Niles v. Churchill, 29 Colo. App. 283, 482 P.2d 994 (1971).

Trial court's finding that possession was hostile was supported by declarations in the record, actual use of the parcel by the claimants, and the marking of the supposed boundary line by iron pipes. Smith v. Hayden, 772 P.2d 47 (Colo. 1989).

There is no requirement in this section that a person be the exclusive payer of taxes on the property in order to comply with the taxpaying provisions of this section. Barnes v. Winford, 833 P.2d 756 (Colo. App. 1991).

38-41-102. How computed. If such right or title first accrued to an ancestor, predecessor, or grantor of the person who brings the action or to any person from, by, or under whom he claims, the eighteen years shall be computed from the time when the right or title so accrued.

38-41-103. Evidence of adverse possession. If the records in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county wherein the real property is situate show by conveyance or other instrument that the party in possession or his predecessors or grantors, through descent, conveyance, or otherwise, have asserted a continuous claim of ownership to the real property adverse to the record owner thereof for a period of eighteen years, then the record shall be deemed prima facie evidence of adverse possession during said period and compliance with the requirements of sections 38-41-101 and 38-41-102.

ANNOTATION

Whether or not possession is adverse is generally a question of fact to be determined by the fact finder. Schoenherr v. Campbell, 172 Colo. 306, 472 P.2d 139 (1970).

Requirement of continuous possession construed. The requirement of continuous possession in order to establish a right-of-way by prescription does not mean that the claimant must physically possess it every moment of the day, because the nature of the right claimed is the right to passage whenever passage is desired. Gleason v. Phillips, 172 Colo. 66, 470 P.2d 46 (1970); Agric. Ditch & Reservoir Co. v. Gleason, 686 P.2d 802 (Colo. App. 1984), rev'd on other grounds, 723 P.2d 736 (Colo. 1986).

"Mere occupancy" not adverse possession. Where there is insufficient evidence that any of the defendants ever asserted that they owned the subject property until the commencement of this action, the "mere occupancy" of a part of the subject property from time to time does not add up to adverse possession. DeCola v. Bochatay, 161 Colo. 95, 420 P.2d 395 (1966).

The practice of grazing cattle on unfenced land is not of itself sufficient to show adverse possession. Thompson v. Clarks, Inc., 162 Colo. 506, 427 P.2d 314 (1967).

Presumption of adverse possession. Where the evidence is sufficient to establish that the defendants have been in open, notorious, and continuous possession of the easement since 1940, it must be presumed that the possession was adverse. Gleason v. Phillips, 172 Colo. 66, 470 P.2d 46 (1970); Raftopoulos v. Monger, 656

P.2d 1308 (Colo. 1983); Agric. Ditch & Reservoir Co. v. Gleason, 686 P.2d 802 (Colo. App. 1984), rev'd on other grounds, 723 P.2d 736 (Colo. 1986); Smith v. Hayden, 772 P.2d 47 (Colo. 1989).

Every reasonable presumption is made in true owner's favor as against one who claims to have acquired title through adverse possession. DeCola v. Bochaty, 161 Colo. 95, 420 P.2d 395 (1966).

Recognition of record title strengthens adverse possessor's claim. A recognition of record title does not demonstrate an intent not to possess adversely where there is no dispute in the evidence of adverse possession of the disputed property; the very fact that the plaintiffs recognized that the record title of a portion of the property was not in their names, enforced and strengthened the claim of adverse possession. Schoenherr v. Campbell, 172 Colo. 306, 472 P.2d 139 (1970).

Adverse possessor has burden of proof when trying to divest the record owner of his lawful title to real property. DeCola v. Bochaty, 161 Colo. 95, 420 P.2d 395 (1966).

Party claiming title by adverse possession has the burden of proving his claim by clear and convincing evidence. Schutten v. Beck, 757 P.2d 1139 (Colo. App. 1988).

Where the extent of the adverse possession is not defined by deed or by physical barriers, the claim is limited to the property actually occupied by the claimant and such occupancy is a question of fact for the trial court to determine. Such occupancy does not require constant, visible occupancy or physical improvement on all parts of the parcel, but rather the ordinary use for which the land is suitable and which an owner of the land would make of it. Similarly, possession need not be absolutely exclusive in order to attain the degree of exclusivity required for adverse possession. Smith v. Hayden, 772 P.2d 47 (Colo. 1989).

38-41-104. Time to make an entry or bring an action to recover land. (1) The right to make an entry or bring an action to recover land shall be deemed to have first accrued at the following times:

(a) When any person is disseised, his right of entry or of action shall be deemed to have accrued at the time of disseisin.

(b) When he claims as heir or devisee of one who died seized or possessed, his right shall be deemed to have accrued at the time of such death, unless there is a tenancy or other estate intervening after the death of such ancestor or devisor, except as provided in section 38-41-112, in which case his right shall be deemed to accrue when such intermediate estate expires or when it would have expired by its own limitations.

(c) (I) When there is such an intermediate estate, and in all cases when the party claims by force of any remainder or reversion, his right, insofar as it is affected by the limitation prescribed in this section, shall be deemed to accrue when the intermediate or precedent estate would have expired by its own limitation, notwithstanding any forfeiture thereof for which he might have entered at an earlier time.

(II) Subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) shall not prevent a person from entering when entitled to do so by reason of any forfeiture or breach of condition, but if he claims under such a title, his rights shall be deemed to have accrued when the forfeiture was incurred or the condition was broken.

(d) In all cases not otherwise specifically provided for, the right shall be deemed to have accrued when the claimant or the person under whom he claims first became entitled to the possession of the premises under the title upon which the entry or the action is founded.

ANNOTATION

Section could be raised as an affirmative defense in an answer to a petition to set aside a decree of determination of heirship on the ground of fraud, but it could not be properly considered on motion to dismiss such petition. Cisneros v. Cisneros, 163 Colo. 245, 430 P.2d 86 (1967).

38-41-105. Abstract of title prima facie evidence. An abstract of title certified by any reputable Colorado abstractor or abstract company incorporated under the laws of the state of Colorado may be used to establish prima facie evidence that the chain of title is as shown by the abstract, except as to any of the instruments of conveyance or record thereof or certified copy thereof which may be offered in evidence, and the court may take judicial notice of the repute of the abstractor. The absence of tax sale certificates from such abstract for any period of time covered by the abstract shall be prima facie evidence of the payment of taxes during such period by the party relying upon any chain of title shown by such abstract.

Document tendered not objectionable as proof of lesser status. A document, tendered as proof of title itself and so admitted, is not objectionable as proof of the lesser status of color of title since an abstract of title may serve both as color of title and as evidence of title itself. Marr v. Shrader, 142 Colo. 106, 349 P.2d 706 (1960).

Document offered as evidence solely as proof of color of title may not also be invoked as proof of title. Marr v. Shrader, 142 Colo. 106, 349 P.2d 706 (1960).

Introduction of judgment roll as additional proof deemed error. Where defendants offered the abstract of title to show their chain of title, it was error to rule that the defendants must go further and introduce into evidence the judgment roll of the cause in which the decree was rendered because the abstract of title was prima facie proof of the chain of title shown thereby. Lamberson v. Thomas, 146 Colo. 539, 362 P.2d 180 (1961).

38-41-106. Limitation seven years - possession under official and judicial conveyance or orders. Actions brought for the recovery of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments which any person may claim by virtue of actual residence, occupancy, or possession for seven successive years having a connected title in law or equity, deducible of record, from this state or the United States, or from any public officer or other person authorized by the laws of this state to sell such land for the nonpayment of taxes, or from any sheriff, marshal, or other person authorized to sell such land on execution, or under any order, judgment, or decree of any court of record shall be brought within seven years next after possession has been taken as provided in this section; but when the possessor acquires such title after taking such possession, the limitation shall begin to run from the time of acquiring title.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "Adverse Possession in Colorado", see 27 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 88 (1954). For article, "One Year Review of Property", see 35 Dicta 48 (1958).

Limitation begins when deed placed in record. The seven-year statute of limitations does not begin to run until a deed upon which a party in possession relies as being sufficient to give him color of title has been placed of record. Poage v. Rollins & Son, 24 Colo. App. 537, 135 P. 990 (1913); Fallon v. Davidson, 137 Colo. 48, 320 P.2d 976 (1958).

When actual ouster of cotenants established. Until an actual ouster of any cotenants has been established by conduct, apart from mere use and occupation of the land by a party, this section giving rise to a claim of adverse possession does not begin to run. Fallon v. Davidson, 137 Colo. 48, 320 P.2d 976 (1958).

Void deed sufficient to set limitation into motion. A deed void upon its face is sufficient color of title to set in motion the seven-year limitation. Silford v. Stratton, 54 Colo. 248, 130 P. 327 (1913).

Void deed is not conclusive of good faith of the party claiming thereunder. Silford v. Stratton, 54 Colo. 248, 130 P. 327 (1913).

Defenses involve questions of law and fact. The defenses of the statute of limitations and the statute of frauds both involve questions of fact as well as law. Bushner v. Bushner, 134 Colo. 509, 307 P.2d 204 (1957).

Equitable defenses not invoked where statute of limitations applicable. The defense of laches is not available in a quiet title action because courts will not invoke equitable defenses to destroy legal rights where statutes of limitations are applicable. Jacobs v. Perry, 135 Colo. 550, 313 P.2d 1008 (1957).

When mineral estate is severed from the surface estate, actual adverse possession of mineral estate must be established separate from any possession of the surface estate. Kriss v. Mineral Rights, Inc., 911 P.2d 711 (Colo. App. 1996).

Applied in Callbreath v. Hug, 50 Colo. 95, 114 P. 298 (1911); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Weldon, 26 Colo. App. 111, 141 P. 138 (1914).

38-41-107. Rights of heirs. The heirs, devisees, and assigns of the person having such title and possession shall have the same benefit of sections 38-41-101 to 38-41-106 as the person from whom the possession is derived.

38-41-108. Rights in possession seven years - color of title and payment of taxes. Every person in the actual possession of lands or tenements, under claim and color of title, made in good faith, who for seven successive years continues in such possession and also during said time pays all taxes legally assessed on such lands or tenements shall be held and adjudged to be the legal owner of said lands or tenements to the extent and according to the purport of his paper title. All persons holding under such possession by purchase, devise, or descent, before said seven years have expired, who continue such possession and continue to pay the taxes as provided in this section, so as to complete the possession and payment of taxes for the term, provided in this section, shall be entitled to the benefit of this section.

Adverse possession deemed creature of statute. The doctrine of adverse possession was not recognized by the common law, but is the creation of statute. Laughlin v. City of Denver, 24 Colo. 255, 50 P. 917 (1897).

Section provides an affirmative defense which defendants are required to set up and establish. Jewell v. Trilby Mines Co., 229 F. 98 (8th Cir. 1915).

And the statute of limitations must be specially pleaded, or the defense will be considered waived. Chivington v. Colo. Springs Co., 9 Colo. 597, 14 P. 212 (1886); Webber v. Wannemaker, 39 Colo. 425, 89 P. 780 (1907); Sedgwick v. Culp, 24 Colo. App. 566, 136 P. 88 (1913).

No waiver where issue of limitations tried by implied consent. Where it is apparent from the testimony, the exhibits, and the finding of the court that the issue of the statute of limitations was tried by implied consent, plaintiff will not be held to have waived his right to claim title under the provisions of this section because he did not specially plead the statute either by complaint, answer to interveners' petition or by motion. Rose v. Roso, 119 Colo. 473, 204 P.2d 1075 (1949).

Section 38-41-109 is a parallel provision to this section. Winslett v. Rozan, 279 F.2d 654 (10th Cir. 1960). See also Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Howell, 22 Colo. App. 584, 126 P. 1096 (1912), rev'd on other grounds, 60 Colo. 192, 152 P. 1177 (1915).

Section 38-41-109 must be considered in relation to this section. Webermeier v. Pace, 37 Colo. App. 546, 552 P.2d 1021 (1976), aff'd, 193 Colo. 157, 563 P.2d 950 (1977).

To constitute a bar, a party must show a complete performance under either this section or § 38-41-109, and he cannot show part performance under one section and part under the other and, thus, blend the provisions of both sections; the bar must be complete and distinct under the one or the other section. A party cannot avail himself of the provisions of both sections at the same time. Vider v. Zavislan, 146 Colo. 519, 362 P.2d 163 (1961).

Nonresident chargeable with notice of public records. A nonresident is chargeable with notice of what appears by the public records, and of the actual possession of lands by another, within the limits of this state. Mulford v. Rowland, 45 Colo. 172, 100 P. 603 (1909).

One who relies upon this section must plead and prove with exactness all of the facts upon which it is based. Gibson v. Huff, 26 Colo. App. 144, 141 P. 510 (1914); Bowers v. McFadzean, 82 Colo. 138, 257 P. 361 (1927).

Adverse possession not found. Plaintiff's testimony that water was used from sump since 1949, that she and her husband worked side-by-side, that in 1966 they were irrigating 300 acres and now 800 acres, and that water has been used continuously on the farm for irrigation, along with all the other evidence presented, was not sufficient evidence to show adverse possession. Farmer v. Farmer, 720 P.2d 174 (Colo. App. 1986).

To obtain title pursuant to this section, a person must demonstrate color of title, possession, and payment of taxes for the full seven-year period. The statute of limitations does not begin to run until all three elements are met. Peters v. Smuggler-Durant Mining Corp., 930 P.2d 575 (Colo. 1997).

Applied in Barker v. Hawley, 4 Colo. 316 (1878); Kannaugh v. Quartette Mining Co., 16 Colo. 341, 27 P. 245 (1891); Lougee v. Beeney, 22 Colo. App. 603, 126 P. 1102 (1912); Poage v.

II. PROCEEDINGS TO WHICH STATUTE APPLIES AND PERSONS ENTITLED TO BENEFIT.

Section applies as defense to recovery of possession and ousters. This section is meant to apply as a defense only to actions for the recovery of possession, and the ouster from the land of someone in possession. Munson v. Marks, 52 Colo. 553, 124 P. 187 (1912); Morris v. St. Louis Nat'l Bank, 17 Colo. 231, 29 P. 802 (1892).

Section applies to all "lands or tenements" possessed. Webermeier v. Pace, 37 Colo. App. 546, 552 P.2d 1021 (1976), aff'd, 193 Colo. 157, 563 P.2d 950 (1977).

Section applies to disputes concerning title to severed mineral interests. This section has been applied as the pertinent statute in situations where title to severed mineral interests is sought to be quieted on the basis of adverse possession. Webermeier v. Pace, 37 Colo. App. 546, 552 P.2d 1021 (1976), aff'd, 193 Colo. 157, 563 P.2d 950 (1977).

Section applicable for protection of right-of-way. A railroad company is entitled to the benefit of this section for the protection of its right-of-way. Keener v. Union Pac. Ry. 31 F. 126 (D. Colo. 1887); Denver & R.G.R.R. v. Doelz, 49 Colo. 48, 111 P. 595 (1910).

Section is apparently not limited to cases where a fee is claimed, and whoever is in possession of lands claiming a title, full or not, a title supported by some written document or under some legal color and claim of title who pays the taxes assessed upon that property, is, to the extent of that claim, protected. Keener v. Union Pac. Ry., 31 F. 126 (D. Colo. 1887).

Leasehold interest. If one who claims to have the leasehold interest of a tract of land for a period of 99 years, making no claim to the fee, and possessing that land for five years (now seven years), should pay the taxes assessed upon it, this section protects that title to the extent of that claim, that is, to the extent of his claim of a leasehold interest for 99 years. Keener v. Union Pac. Ry., 31 F. 126 (D. Colo. 1887).

At least seven full years to the day must elapse between the first payment of taxes and the date the initial complaint is filed in an action brought pursuant to this section. Payment of taxes on September 27, 1983, and filing of the action on February 22, 1990, was not sufficient to meet the requirements under this section. Peters v. Smuggler-Durant Mining Corp., 930 P.2d 575 (Colo. 1997).

Section inapplicable to part of vein apexing without claim's boundary lines. This section does not extend to that part of a vein apexing without the boundary lines of the claim under which the limitation is asserted. Davis v. Shepherd, 31 Colo. 141, 72 P. 57 (1903).

Applicability of section to patented ground doubtful. It is extremely doubtful if this section was intended to apply in cases where the disputed territory was patented ground. Lebanon Mining Co. v. Rogers, 8 Colo. 34, 5 P. 661 (1885); Arnold v. Woodward, 14 Colo. 164, 23 P. 444 (1890); Silford v. Stratton, 54 Colo. 248, 130 P. 327 (1913).

Proof not required in actions to quiet title to irrigation ditches. One who pleads the seven-year statute of limitations, in an action to quiet title to irrigation ditches, is not required in the first instance either to prove payment of taxes or nonassessment. Frey v. Paul, 69 Colo. 244, 193 P. 560 (1920).

The statute of limitations does not apply to a claim for quiet title when the property was sold after the complaint was filed. The seven-year statute of limitations may have been applicable, but the quiet title claim became moot. Tafoya v. Perkins, 932 P.2d 836 (Colo. App. 1996).

III. PARTICULAR REQUISITES CONSIDERED.

A. Possession.

Section requires actual, exclusive, and continuous possession of the property in question for seven years as one of the conditions to quieting title. Ginsberg v. Stanley Aviation Corp., 193 Colo. 157, 568 P.2d 35 (1977).

Continuous, actual, adverse possession of a water right for seven successive years under color of title accompanied by payment of all taxes legally assessed thereon during that period, fixes title in the possessor, and as real property it may be passed by deed. Kountz v. Olson, 94 Colo. 186, 29 P.2d 627 (1934).

Exclusive possession of land under color of title and payment of taxes for seven consecutive years constitutes a good title. Whitehead v. Desserich, 71 Colo. 327, 206 P. 384 (1922).

Where the plaintiff in an action to quiet title was in actual possession of the land in controversy in good faith, under color of title under a tax deed and through divers mesne conveyances from the common source, and had paid taxes on the land for more than seven successive years, she acquired a valid title under the limitation law then in force. Laws v. Newkirk, 39 Colo. 78, 88 P. 861 (1907).

Where a right-of-way deed contained language which created a possibility of reverter, upon termination of the use, the estate of the grantees and those claiming through them would ordinarily be terminated; however, the right of the land board to reacquire the property was subject to statutory conditions which were not complied with by the state, thus the plaintiffs, who have established prima facie color of title by successive grants which are free of condition, who have been in possession adverse to the state for over 20 years and who have been in possession and paid taxes under color of title for over seven years, were entitled to a decree against the state. State v. Franc, 165 Colo. 69, 437 P.2d 48, cert. denied, 392 U.S. 928, 88 S. Ct. 2284, 20 L. Ed.2d 1385 (1968).

Section inapplicable where all requirements not met. This section cannot apply to create a fee under color of title and payment of taxes for the statutory period in one out of possession. Radke v. Union P.R.R., 138 Colo. 189, 334 P.2d 1077 (1958).

Mixed or common possession of land by parties to suit. In case of a mixed or common possession of land by both parties to a suit, the law adjudges the rightful possession to him who holds legal title, and no length of time of possession can give title by adverse possession as against the legal title. Vider v. Zavislan, 146 Colo. 519, 362 P.2d 163 (1961).

Possession in conjunction with other land-owners falls far short of adverse possession which deprives the true owner of his title. Webber v. Wannemaker, 39 Colo. 425, 89 P. 780 (1907).

Maintenance of lawn, bush, and fences were sufficient acts and evidence of possession as to fulfill the requirements of this section. Koch v. Ilgen, 154 Colo. 59, 388 P.2d 254 (1964).

Actual possession of contiguous property. When plaintiff took possession of the premises upon which the home, barn, and corral were located, he took actual possession of the contiguous property because, where one owns several tracts of land adjoining each other, and all of which he holds under deeds, patents, or other writings, and claims to the extent of his boundaries, he is in the actual possession of the adjoining tract, as well as the one upon which he lives, if there is no actual adverse occupancy of either one of the tracts. Vider v. Zavislan, 146 Colo. 519, 362 P.2d 163 (1961).

Land used to graze flocks thereon is sufficient continuous possession. Munro v. Eshe, 113 Colo. 19, 156 P.2d 700 (1944).

Possession of surface not possession of severed mineral estate. After title to oil and gas had been severed from the title to the surface by reservation in deed conveying the surface, possession of the surface did not constitute possession of the severed mineral estate. Calvat v. Juhan, 119 Colo. 561, 206 P.2d 600 (1949).

Actual adverse possession cannot be established by inference or implication, and the admission that plaintiff was in possession at, and for, some time prior to the time when suit was commenced, was not sufficient because the nature of the defense relied upon requires strict proof. Fleming v. Howell, 22 Colo. App. 382, 125 P. 551 (1912).

Constructive possession sufficient to maintain action to quiet title. Where one not in actual occupation claims the right of exclusive occupation and no person is in occupation opposing his claim, his possession is constructive and sufficient to enable him to maintain an action to quiet title. O'Reilly v. Balkwill, 133 Colo. 474, 297 P.2d 263 (1956).

Burden of proof. A person not in possession asserting title to real property and seeking to enjoin others from claiming an interest therein or possessing the same has the burden of furnishing evidence which would enable the court to rest its decision on the strength of his title, rather than on the supposed weakness of the title of others claiming interests in the property. Nelson v. Van Cleve, 143 Colo. 117, 352 P.2d 269 (1960).

Proof required where plaintiff not in possession of property. Where plaintiff is not in possession of the property, a defendant in an action to quiet title may effectually resist a decree against himself by showing simply that the plaintiff is without title since, if the plaintiff has no title, he cannot complain that someone else, also without title, asserts an interest in the land. Nelson v. Van Cleve, 143 Colo. 117, 352 P.2d 269 (1960).

B. Color of Title.

Section protects person under colorable title. This section, when its conditions are complied with, is intended as a protection to a person holding in good faith under a mere colorable title, that is, under a title which is really no title. Bennet v. North Colo. Springs Land & Imp. Co., 23 Colo. 470, 48 P. 812 (1897). See also Knight v. Lawrence, 19 Colo. 425, 36 P. 242 (1894); De Foresta v. Gast, 20 Colo. 307, 38 P. 244 (1894); Sullivan v. Scott, 73 Colo. 451, 216 P. 515 (1923).

Color of title is mere pretense of title, but not a valid title; it purports to be a good title, but is not so in fact. Jackson v. Larson, 24 Colo. App. 548, 136 P. 81 (1913).

Paper title must be shown. Gibson v. Huff, 26 Colo. App. 144, 141 P. 510 (1914).

The phrase, "color of title" refers to a paper writing purporting to convey title, or to some writing whereby title is sought to be acquired. Knight v. Lawrence, 19 Colo. 425, 36 P. 242 (1894).

Color of title created by conveyance in fee simple with a possibility of reverter. Barnes v. Winford, 833 P.2d 756 (Colo. App. 1992).

Color of title can only arise out of conveyance purporting to convey title to real estate. Omaha & Grant Smelting & Ref. Co. v. Tabor, 13 Colo. 41, 21 P. 925 (1889); Warren v. Adams, 19 Colo. 515, 36 P. 604 (1894); Minter v. King, 27 Colo. App. 233, 148 P. 275 (1915).

Color of title must arise out of some conveyance purporting to vest in the grantee an interest in his own right adverse to the true owner, and not from one that constitutes him a trustee of the title for the use and benefit of such owner; and, furthermore, such claim or color of title must be made in good faith. Warren v. Adams, 19 Colo. 515, 36 P. 604 (1894); Silford v. Stratton, 54 Colo. 248, 130 P. 327 (1913).

Deed is color of title only to the premises described therein. Denver Trackage & Imp. Co. v. Colo. & S. Ry., 58 Colo. 313, 145 P. 707 (1914).

Color of title placed of record required to invoke limitation. The seven-year statute of limitations does not begin to run until a deed upon which a party in possession relies as being sufficient to give him color of title has been placed of record. Fallon v. Davidson, 137 Colo. 48, 320 P.2d 976 (1958).

Successor of grantee established color of title by general warranty deed from grantor who retained a reversionary interest in property. Grantor had conveyed right-of-way to railroad with a provision that if the railroad abandoned use of the right-of-way, the property would revert to the grantor. The grantor's warranty deed conveyed all the estate, right, title and interest to the property, including reversions and remainders to the grantee, with the exception of the right-of-way conveyed to the railroad. When the railroad abandoned use of the right-of-way, the interest reverted to the grantee. Barnes v. Winford, 833 P.2d 756 (Colo. App. 1991).

Tax deed does not, until recorded, constitute color of title, so as to set in motion the seven-year statute of limitations. Morris v. St. Louis Nat'l Bank, 17 Colo. 231, 29 P. 802 (1892); Wason v. Major, 10 Colo. App. 181, 50 P. 741 (1897); Sayre v. Sage, 47 Colo. 559, 108 P. 160 (1910); Hughes v. Webster, 52 Colo. 475, 122 P. 789 (1912); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Gibson, 22 Colo. App. 617, 126 P. 1103 (1912); Upham v. Weisshaar, 23 Colo. App. 277, 128 P. 1129 (1913); Parks v. Roth, 25 Colo. App. 296, 137 P. 76 (1914); Minter v. King, 27 Colo. App. 233, 148 P. 275 (1915).

Void deed is, color of title. Parker v. Betts, 47 Colo. 428, 107 P. 816 (1910); Munro v. Eshe, 113 Colo. 19, 156 P.2d 700 (1944); Bennet v. North Colo. Springs Land & Imp. Co., 23 Colo. 470, 48 P. 812 (1897); Silford v. Stratton, 54 Colo. 248, 130 P. 327 (1913).

Deed, purporting to convey title, may be defective and thereby convey no title, yet give color of title. Whitehead v. Desserich, 71 Colo. 327, 206 P. 384 (1922).

Deed even though void on its face will make color of title as fully and as effectually as though the deed had been regular on its face. De Foresta v. Gast, 20 Colo. 307, 38 P. 244 (1894); Brinker v. Union Pac. D. & G. Ry., 11 Colo. App. 166, 55 P. 207 (1898).

Deed disclosing unauthorized sale gives color title. A deed, notwithstanding the fact that it discloses a sale unauthorized by this section, gives color of title. Hoge v. Magnes, 85 F. 355 (8th Cir. 1898).

Void deed admissible to show color of title. A treasurer's deed, upon sale of land for taxes, void upon its face, is admissible to show color of title. Jackson v. Larson, 24 Colo. App. 548, 136 P. 81 (1913).

Thus, attack of invalidity unimportant. No importance is attached to the ground of invalidity of an apparent or colorable title. Richards v. Beggs, 31 Colo. 186, 72 P. 1077 (1903); Jackson v. Larson, 24 Colo. App. 548, 136 P. 81 (1913).

Where void deed fails to describe land no color of title. A treasurer's deed which fails to describe the lands sold, is void and does not give the color of title necessary under this section. Riley v. Lemieux, 24 Colo. App. 184, 132 P. 699 (1913).

And quit claim deed failing to convey land not color of title. A quitclaim deed does not constitute color of title, if it does not purport to convey the land in controversy, but designates a lot whose metes and bounds are specifically described in the map then on file, which description entirely excludes it. Lebanon Mining Co. v. Rogers, 8 Colo. 34, 5 P. 661 (1884); Laughlin v. City of Denver, 24 Colo. 255, 50 P. 917. (1897);

Actual possession and tax payments without color of title insufficient. Actual possession and payment of taxes for seven years, without color of title acquired in good faith, prior to the commencement of the seven-year period, is not sufficient to sustain a plea under this section. King v. Foster, 26 Colo. App. 120, 140 P. 930 (1914).

Color of title invoked as evidence of title impermissible. One offering a deed as color of title merely cannot afterwards invoke it as evidence of title in fact. Parks v. Roth, 25 Colo. App. 296, 137 P. 76 (1914).

But abstracts of title admitted for the purpose of proving title may also be used as evidence of color of title, since the same instrument may serve both as color of title and as evidence of title itself. Marr v. Shrader, 142 Colo. 106, 349 P.2d 706 (1960).

Title acquired after the institution of the action does not avail. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. McPherin, 26 Colo. App. 225, 142 P. 419 (1914).

Document tendered not objectionable as proof of lesser status. A document tendered as proof of title itself and so admitted is not objectionable as proof of the lesser status of color of title. Marr v. Shrader, 142 Colo. 106, 349 P.2d 706 (1960).

But a document offered as evidence solely as proof of color of title may not also be invoked as proof of title. Marr v. Shrader, 142 Colo. 106, 349 P.2d 706 (1960).

Record entry of judgment without judgment roll inadmissible. The mere record entry of a judgment, without the judgment roll is not admissible as evidence of title. King v. Foster, 26 Colo. App. 120, 140 P. 930 (1914).

C. Payment of Taxes.

Pleading which fails to comply with section's requirements is insufficient. Where there is no allegation that plaintiff paid for seven successive years all taxes legally assessed on the lands, nor does the plaintiff set up any paper title as a basis for color of title, nor is there any allegation of possession under claim and color of title made in good faith, the pleading falls far short of the requirements of this section and is insufficient. United States Security & Bond Co. v. Wolfe, 27 Colo. 218, 60 P. 637 (1900); Eberville v. Leadville Tunneling, Mining & Drainage Co., 28 Colo. 241, 64 P. 200 (1901); Webber v. Wannemaker, 39 Colo. 425, 89 P. 780 (1907).

Proof of tax payment required to invoke section. To invoke successfully the provisions of this section, one must prove payment of taxes for the full period next prior to the commencement of a suit to quiet title claimed thereunder. Whitehead v. Bennett, 92 Colo. 549, 22 P.2d 168 (1933).

Seven full years must elapse between date of first payment of taxes that has become due and payable after color of title is taken and the date of the institution of the suit to recover the land. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Howell, 22 Colo. App. 584, 126 P. 1096 (1912), rev'd on other grounds, 60 Colo. 192, 152 P. 1177 (1915); DeFord v. Smith, 23 Colo. App. 78, 127 P. 453 (1912); Cristler v. Beardsley, 25 Colo. App. 369, 138 P. 68 (1914); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. McPherin, 26 Colo. App. 225, 142 P. 419 (1914).

A tax deed which has not been of record for seven years preceding an action by the original owner for the recovery of the lands does not support a plea of the seven-year statute of limitations. Stephens-Wilmot Co. v. Howell, 23 Colo. App. 396, 128 P. 476 (1913).

Taxes paid after an action is brought are of no avail to support a plea of the seven-year statute of limitations. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Gibson, 22 Colo. App. 617, 126 P. 1103 (1912). See also Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v.

Howell, 22 Colo. App. 389, 125 P. 592 (1912), rev'd on other grounds, 60 Colo. 192, 152 P. 1177 (1915).

Only taxes falling due subsequent to issue of tax deed counted. Only taxes, falling due subsequent to the issue of a tax deed which is relied upon as color of title, are to be counted. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Weldon, 26 Colo. App. 111, 141 P. 138 (1914).

Tax receipts dated after the institution of an action are inadmissible. Upham v. Weisshaar, 23 Colo. App. 277, 128 P. 1129 (1913).

Payment of taxes on severed minerals. Once the validity of a mineral deed is established, creating a separate mineral estate in the grantor, possession of the surface did not constitute possession of the minerals, and, payment of assessed taxes on the surface does not constitute payment of taxes on severed minerals, unless a specific reference to the contrary is made of record. Winslett v. Rozan, 279 F.2d 654 (10th Cir. 1960).

Fact that a person in possession was not the exclusive taxpayer on the property is not of significance. The requirement is that a person in possession must pay all taxes legally assessed on the land. The prior owner of a right-of way who abandoned the property and failed to inform county government can not be used to defeat title by adverse possession when the person in possession paid all taxes legally assessed on the land. Barnes v. Winford, 833 P.2d 756 (Colo. App. 1992).

Proof must be clear and satisfactory. Where payment of taxes under color of title is relied upon to defeat the original title the proof must be clear and satisfactory. Brinker v. Union Pac. D. & G. Ry., 11 Colo. App. 166, 55 P. 207 (1898); Eberville v. Leadville Tunneling, Mining & Drainage Co., 28 Colo. 241, 64 P. 200 (1901); Upham v. Weisshaar, 23 Colo. App. 277, 128 P. 1129 (1913); Sullivan v. Scott, 73 Colo. 451, 216 P. 515 (1923); Huffman v. Smith, 87 Colo. 265, 286 P. 861 (1930).

Title should not be overcome by loose and uncertain testimony, or upon any conjecture or violent presumption. Upham v. Weisshaar, 23 Colo. App. 277, 128 P. 1129 (1913).

Payment of taxes by nonclaimant insufficient. It is not sufficient if the taxes were paid any one of the years by a person who at the time made no claim to the property under color of title. Ballard v. Golob, 34 Colo. 417, 83 P. 376 (1905); Webber v. Wannemaker, 39 Colo. 425, 89 P. 780 (1907).

Payment of interest on taxes. If a party pays to the collector all taxes assessed and extended against him on the tax book, he has complied with this requisite of the law; although he may not have paid interest on the taxes due because of nonpayment of the same at the time they were due, if such interest has not been ascertained and charged to him by the collector, he has not been required by such collector to pay the same. Latta v. Clifford, 47 F. 614 (D. Colo. 1891).

D. Good Faith.

Good faith is essential. Silford v. Stratton, 54 Colo. 248, 130 P. 327 (1913).

In order to justify a decree quieting his title, it is incumbent upon defendant to produce clear and convincing evidence that he, in good faith, acquired color of title to the property in question; that for a period of seven years he paid the taxes legally assessed against the same; and that the property claimed by plaintiff was included in his color of title. Kelly v. Sinclair, 129 Colo. 226, 268 P.2d 1035 (1954).

Therefore, party must act bona fide. A party, who sets up an adverse possession under color of title, must act bona fide, or, in other words he must be honest; he must believe his deed to be valid in law and he must believe that it conveys to him a good title to the land, although it may turn out that another person has a better title. Sullivan v. Scott, 73 Colo. 451, 216 P. 515 (1923).

Color of title made in good faith is shown by any deed or instrument which purports on its face to convey title which a party is willing to, and does, pay his money for, apart from any fraud; the deed itself purports good faith, unless facts and circumstances attending its execution show the party accepting it had no faith or confidence in it. Lebanon Mining Co. v. Rogers, 8 Colo. 34, 5 P. 661 (1884); Knight v. Lawrence, 19 Colo. 425, 36 P. 242 (1894).

Good faith of the claimant is a question of fact. Jackson v. Larson, 24 Colo. App. 548, 136 P. 81 (1913).

Party aware of fraud cannot render claim availing. A party receiving color of title, knowing it to be worthless or in fraud of the owner's rights, although he holds the color and asserts the claim, cannot render the claim availing because of the want of good faith. Knight v. Lawrence, 19 Colo. 425, 36 P. 242 (1894); Sullivan v. Scott, 73 Colo. 451, 216 P. 515 (1923).

Grantee's knowledge of grantor's insanity not conclusive of bad faith. The insanity of the grantor, even although known to the grantee at the time of accepting the conveyance, is not conclusive of bad faith on the part of the grantee. Parker v. Betts, 47 Colo. 428, 107 P. 816 (1910).

Test of claim of title in good faith. If good faith will be presumed by the taking of the deed itself, unless the facts and circumstances attending its execution showed that the party accepting it had no faith or confidence in the deed, it is plain that confidence in the title and purpose in acquiring it constitute the test of claim of title in good faith. Sedgwick v. Culp, 24 Colo. App. 566, 136 P. 88 (1913).

Faith depends upon purpose with which deed is obtained, and the reliance placed upon the claim and the color, and a party receiving color of title, knowing it to be worthless, or in fraud of the owner's rights, although he holds the color and asserts the claim, cannot render it availing, because of the want of good faith. Silford v. Stratton, 54 Colo. 248, 130 P. 327 (1913).

Deeds unaffected by insertion of treasurer's name following recording. Where the treasurer's name was omitted from the acknowledgment of tax deeds and, after they were recorded, he inserted his name with a rubber stamp and the county clerk's record was changed accordingly; while such procedure is condemned, it does not affect the validity of the deeds, nor to show claim of title made in bad faith on the part of the person causing the alterations to be made. Langley v. Young, 75 Colo. 44, 224 P. 231 (1924).

Possession and payment of taxes must be affirmatively shown. Knight v. Lawrence, 19 Colo. 425, 36 P. 242 (1894).

38-41-109. When in possession under color of title - unoccupied lands. Whenever a person having color of title, made in good faith, to vacant and unoccupied land pays all taxes legally assessed thereon for seven successive years, he shall be deemed and adjudged to be the legal owner of said vacant and unoccupied land to the extent and according to the purport of his paper title. All persons holding under such taxpayer, by purchase, devise, or descent, before said seven years have expired, who continue to pay the taxes as provided in this section, so as to complete the payment of taxes for the period of time provided in this section, shall be entitled to the benefit of this section. If any person, having a better paper title to said vacant and unoccupied land, shall during the said term of seven years pay the taxes assessed on said land for any one or more years during the said term of seven years, then such person seeking title under claim of taxes paid, his heirs and assigns, shall not be entitled to the benefit of this section. For the purposes of this part 1 a redemption from a sale for taxes by the party claiming under any of the limitations set forth in this section shall be considered as the equivalent of a payment of taxes.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "Curative Statutes of Colorado Respecting Titles to Real Estate", see 26 Dicta 281 (1949). For note, "Color of Title" in the Colorado Short Statutes of Limitation", see 21 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 226 (1949). For note, "Adverse Possession in Colorado", see 27 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 88 (1954).

This section is constitutional. Towner v. Schaffnit, 59 Colo. 242, 149 P. 625 (1915).

This section is intended as a protection to a person holding in good faith under a mere colorable title, that is, under a title which is really no title. De Foresta v. Gast, 20 Colo. 307, 38 P. 244 (1894).

This section is clearly designed to operate as a limitation upon actions involving conflicting titles to vacant and unoccupied lands. Morris v. St. Louis Nat'l Bank, 17 Colo. 231, 29 P. 802 (1892).

Section focuses only on surface occupancy. Webermeier v. Pace, 37 Colo. App. 546, 552 P.2d 1021 (1976), aff'd, 193 Colo. 157, 563 P.2d 950 (1977).

Section does not pertain to severed mineral interests, i.e., its applicability is dependent upon there being no one in possession of the surface which would give notice of a potential adverse claim to the surface or fee estate. Webermeier v. Pace, 37 Colo. App. 546, 552 P.2d 1021 (1976), aff'd, 193 Colo. 157, 563 P.2d 950 (1977).

Section is parallel provision to § 38-41-108. Winslett v. Rozan, 279 F.2d 654 (10th Cir. 1960).

Section must be considered in relation to § 38-41-108. Webermeier v. Pace, 37 Colo. App. 546, 552 P.2d 1021 (1976), aff'd, 193 Colo. 157, 563 P.2d 950 (1977).

To constitute a bar, a party must show complete performance under either this section or § 38-41-108. He cannot show part performance under one section and part under the other and, thus, blend the provisions of both sections. The bar must be complete and distinct under the one or the other section, and a party cannot avail of the provisions of both sections at the same time. Vider v. Zavislan, 146 Colo. 519, 362 P.2d 163 (1961).

Bar to be raised by pleadings. The benefit of this section cannot be allowed, where its bar was neither raised by the pleadings nor sustained by the facts developed at the trial. Fleming v. Howell, 22 Colo. App. 382, 125 P. 551 (1912).

Failure to plead limitations constitutes waiver. A defendant who, with full knowledge of all the facts, goes to trial without pleading this statute of limitations waives the defense, and he may not present the defense by a supplemental answer tendered months after the trial. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Chapin, 22 Colo. App. 538, 126 P. 1107 (1912).

Applied in Sullivan v. Collins, 20 Colo. 528, 39 P. 334 (1895); Gibson v. Staghorn Cattle Co., 26 Colo. App. 148, 141 P. 507 (1914); Heini v. Bank of Kremmling, 93 Colo. 350, 25 P.2d 1113, 89 A.L.R. 1442 (1933); Wright v. Yust, 118 Colo. 449, 195 P.2d 951 (1948); Hand v. Rhodes, 125 Colo. 508, 245 P.2d 292 (1952).

II. PARTICULAR REQUIREMENTS.

A. In General.

Additional requirements for title. Under this section, in addition to the fact that the land must have been vacant and taxes paid for seven successive years, three things are essential: (1) There must be color of title; (2) the party must claim under it; and (3) that claim must be made in good faith. If any one of these elements is lacking, the title will be defeated. Silford v. Stratton, 54 Colo. 248, 130 P. 327 (1913). See Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Howell, 22 Colo. App. 584, 126 P. 1096 (1912), rev'd on other grounds, 60 Colo. 192, 152 P. 1177 (1915).

No possession whatever is necessary under this section and a court has no power to read such a condition of possession into the section. Thatcher v. Gottlieb, 59 F. 872 (8th Cir. 1894).

Void deed does not confer constructive possession of land, and the paramount owner is, in law, deemed to continue in possession until actual entry and possession taken by another, or until payment of taxes for the requisite period, concurrent with color of title made in good faith, as provided by this section shall, in the case of vacant lands, have become equivalent in law to an actual ouster. Fleming v. Howell, 22 Colo. App. 382, 125 P. 551 (1912).

B. Color of Title.

Judgment record may be color of title. Marvin v. Witherbee, 63 Colo. 469, 168 P. 651 (1917).

Treasurer's deed must describe the land in order to be color of title. Riley v. Lemieux, 24 Colo. App. 184, 132 P. 699 (1913).

A tax deed not recorded is not color of title to vacant lands under this section. Carnahan v. Hughes, 53 Colo. 318, 125 P. 116 (1912); Marks v. Morris, 54 Colo. 186, 129 P. 828 (1913); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Howell, 23 Colo. App. 348, 129 P. 521 (1913).

The mere record entry of a decree quieting title, not accompanied by the judgment roll, is not admissible as evidence of title. Miller v. Weldon, 26 Colo. App. 108, 140 P. 930 (1914).

C. Payment of Taxes.

One who holds under color of title must himself pay the taxes during the period he is in possession. Ballard v. Golob, 34 Colo. 417, 83 P. 376 (1905); Webber v. Wannemaker, 39 Colo. 425, 89 P. 780 (1907); Bowers v. McFadzean, 82 Colo. 138, 257 P. 361 (1927).

Payment of taxes alone ineffective to perfect title. The payment of taxes on land and improvements is ineffective to perfect title where the party claiming fails to show color of title. Tilbury v. Osmundson, 143 Colo. 12, 352 P.2d 102 (1960).

Proof of tax payment required. One claiming unoccupied lands under a treasurer's deed must, to avail himself of this section, show seven years' payment of taxes subsequent to the record of his deed and before the commencement of an action by the owner of the paramount title. Johnson v. Gibson, 24 Colo. App. 392, 133 P. 1052 (1913). See Bloomer v. Cristler, 22 Colo. App. 238, 123 P. 966 (1912).

When section available as defense to recovery action. This section is not available as a defense to an action to recover vacant land unless seven full years elapse between the first payment of taxes under color of title and the institution of the action. Evans v. Howell, 23 Colo. App. 219, 128 P. 879 (1912).

This section is not available to one claiming under a tax deed not of record for the full term of seven years, at a time when an action for the recovery of lands is instituted. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Howell, 22 Colo. App. 584, 126 P. 1096 (1912), rev'd on other grounds, 60 Colo. 192, 152 P. 1177 (1915); Terry v. Gibson, 23 Colo. App. 273, 128 P. 1127 (1913).

Where one holding color of title pays all taxes upon the land for seven successive years, the payment of subsequent taxes by the holder of paramount title is of no avail. Newsom v. DeFord, 25 Colo. App. 582, 140 P. 207 (1914).

When section not available as defense. If the paramount owner brings his action to recover the land before the lapse of seven years succeeding the recording of a tax deed, the limitation of this section has no place. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Howell, 23 Colo. App. 348, 129 P. 521 (1913), rev'd on other grounds, 60 Colo. 192, 152 P. 1177 (1915); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Brownson, 26 Colo. App. 228, 142 P. 421 (1914).

Tax past due when deed issued not counted. A tax past due when a treasurer's deed is issued is not to be counted to sustain a plea of the seven-year statute of limitations. Miller v. Weldon, 26 Colo. App. 108, 140 P. 930 (1914).

Effect of payment of part of total tax. One who assumes to pay taxes solely on improvements on land, or solely on the land, is merely paying a part of the total tax on the realty. French v. Golston, 105 Colo. 578, 100 P.2d 581 (1940).

D. Good Faith.

Good faith must be affirmatively shown. To entitle one claiming lands by virtue of this section under color of title, good faith must be affirmatively shown. Marvin v. Witherbee, 63 Colo. 469, 168 P. 651 (1917).

Sufficient evidence of good faith. In the absence of proof to the contrary, the fact that a person has acquired, and for a period of 11 years has held, a tax deed to land, and has during said period paid all the taxes on the land, is sufficient evidence of his good faith in the transaction. De Foresta v. Gast, 20 Colo. 307, 38 P. 244 (1894).

III. COMMENCEMENT AND INTERRUPTION OF STATUTE.

Claimant must show lapse of statutory period. One who, claiming under a void tax deed, would avail himself of the seven-year limitation prescribed by this section, must show the lapse of the statutory period, not only between the first payment of taxes and the institution of the action of the paramount owner, but between the record of his deed and the institution of this action. Marks v. Morris, 54 Colo. 186, 129 P. 828 (1913).

Only way this section can be arrested, after color of title has been acquired and payment of taxes for a term of seven years thereunder has been made, is by the commencement of suit within seven years from the time the first payment under said color was made. Newsom v. DeFord, 25 Colo. App. 582, 140 P. 207 (1914).

38-41-110. Payment of delinquent taxes by owner of less than whole property. The owner of not less than one-tenth undivided interest in real property which he has owned not less than one year may pay and the county treasurer shall receive from him all delinquent taxes due upon the entire or any other fractional interests therein by redemption from prior or subsequent tax sales or by payment of any taxes which are delinquent, or otherwise, and if at the time of such payment he records with the county clerk and recorder a statement describing the property and showing the payment of such taxes under this article, he shall be subrogated to the first and prior lien of the state of Colorado for such taxes and may foreclose such lien at any time after four years from the date when any part of the taxes so paid first became delinquent, in the same manner and with like remedies as a first mortgage; or he shall be entitled to have any such payment allowed as a setoff in any accounting with any other person interested in such property, whether under the provisions of article 44 of title 34, C.R.S., or otherwise. The owner of any other fractional interest may at any time prior to foreclosure pay to the treasurer his pro rata share of such payments, with interest and recording fees which shall be repaid to the lien claimant and for which a redemption certificate shall issue, which, when recorded, shall release such interest from such lien.

ANNOTATION

Rights of co-owners under this section distinguished from right of redemption. Unlike the right of an interest holder to redeem under § 39-12-103, the right granted to certain co-owners to pay delinquent taxes under this section does not result in issuance of a redemption certificate or acquisition of an interest in the delinquent co-owner's estate. Rather, the paying co-owner is granted the right to foreclose the lien for unpaid taxes. Notch Mountain Corp. v. Elliott, 898 P.2d 550 (Colo. 1995).

Applied in Sine v. Stout, 119 Colo. 254, 203 P.2d 495 (1949); Latta v. Stout, 119 Colo. 257, 203 P.2d 496 (1949).

38-41-111. When action will not lie against person in possession. (1) No action shall be commenced or maintained against a person in possession of real property to question or attack the validity of or to set aside, upon any ground or for any reason whatsoever any final decree or final order of any court of record in this state or any instrument of conveyance, deed, certificate of sale, or release executed by any private trustee, successor in trust, public trustee, sheriff, marshal, county treasurer, or any public official whatsoever, whether named in this section or not, or officer or any appointee of any court when such document is the source of or in aid of or in explanation of the title or chain of title or right of the party in possession or any of his predecessors or grantors insofar as the same may affect the title or explain any matter connected with the title in reference to said real property if such document has been recorded and has remained of record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county where said real property is situated for a period of seven years. All defects, irregularities, want of service, defective service, lack of jurisdiction, or other grounds of invalidity, nullity, or causes or reasons whereby or wherefore any such document might be set aside or rendered inoperative must be raised in a suit commenced within said seven-year period and not thereafter.

(2) This section shall not apply to any of the following cases:

(a) Forged documents;

(b) During the pendency of an action, commenced prior to the expiration of said seven-year period, to set aside, modify, or annul or otherwise affect such document, and notice of such action has been filed as provided by law;

(c) When such document has been, by proper order or decree of competent court, avoided, annulled, or rendered inoperative;

(d) Where the party, or his predecessor, who brings the action to question, to attack, or to set aside the validity of such documents, has been deprived of possession within two years of the commencement of said action.

For article, "Marketable Title: What Certifiable Copies of Court Papers Should Appear of Record", see 34 Dicta 7 (1957).

Purpose of sections. The purpose of this section through § 38-41-114 is to make real estate titles more safe, secure, and marketable. Federal Farm Mtg. Corp. v. Schmidt, 109 Colo. 467, 126 P.2d 1036 (1942).

Sections to be construed harmoniously. In interpreting this section through § 38-41-114, it was necessary to construe them harmoniously. Federal Farm Mtg. Corp. v. Schmidt, 109 Colo. 467, 126 P.2d 1036 (1942).

Actual possession is prerequisite. Actual possession, at least at the time of the commencement of the action, is a prerequisite to the benefits of the section. Ginsberg v. Stanley Aviation Corp., 193 Colo. 454, 568 P.2d 35 (1977).

When mineral estate is severed from the surface estate, actual adverse possession of mineral estate must be established separate from any possession of the surface estate. Kriss v. Mineral Rights, Inc., 911 P.2d 711 (Colo. App. 1996).

Lack of actual possession is fatal to any claim under this section. Calvat v. Juhan, 119 Colo. 561, 206 P.2d 600 (1949).

Tax deed virtually invulnerable to attack. This section makes a title acquired by tax deed virtually invulnerable to attack after it has been of record seven years. Smith v. Town of Fowler, 138 Colo. 359, 333 P.2d 1034 (1959); Bald Eagle Mining & Ref. Co. v. Brunton, 165 Colo. 28, 437 P.2d 59 (1968).

Irregularities prior to expiration of limitation period. Although the statute of limitations provides sufficient protection for the purchasers of property under tax deeds without further limitations being imposed by the courts, until the applicable periods of limitation have expired, tax deeds, even though valid on their face, are subject to attack for irregularities in the proceedings; otherwise, there would be no need for statute of limitations. Bald Eagle Mining & Ref. Co. v. Brunton, 165 Colo. 28, 437 P.2d 59 (1968).

The statute of limitations does not apply to a claim for quiet title when the property was sold after the complaint was filed. The seven-year statute of limitations may have been applicable, but the quiet title claim became moot. Tafoya v. Perkins, 932 P.2d 836 (Colo. App. 1996).

Subsection (2)(d) exempts from operation of section persons who have been deprived of their possession within two years of the commencement of the action. Concord Corp. v. Huff, 144 Colo. 72, 355 P.2d 73 (1960).

Party must plead subsection (2)(d) exception. It is necessary for a party, if he wishes to take advantage of subsection (2)(d), to assert this exception in his pleading. Federal Farm Mtg. Corp. v. Schmidt, 109 Colo. 467, 126 P.2d 1036 (1942).

Applied in Cisneros v. Cisneros, 163 Colo. 245, 430 P.2d 86 (1967); Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Blanning, 29 Colo. App. 61, 479 P.2d 404 (1970); Joseph v. Joseph, 43 Colo. App. 533, 608 P.2d 839 (1980); LeSatz v. Deshotels, 757 P.2d 1090 (Colo. App. 1988); Dynasty, Inc. v. Winter Park Assocs., Inc., 5 P.3d 392 (Colo. App. 2000).

38-41-112. Legal disability - extension of two years. Persons under legal disability at the time the right of action first accrued who, at the time of the expiration of the limitation applicable, are still under such disability shall have two years from the expiration of a limitation to commence action, and no action shall be maintained by such persons thereafter.

Effect of section where owner under disability until death. The fact that an owner is under disability until her death does not prevent the running of the statute. This section and § 38-41-101 merely add two years to the period of limitations, it does not suspend the running of the statute. Nesbitt v. Jones, 140 Colo. 412, 344 P.2d 949 (1959).

38-41-113. Limitations may be asserted affirmatively or by way of defense. The limitations provided for in this part 1 may be asserted either affirmatively or by way of defense and may be used in any action as a source of or as a means to establish title or the right of possession or as an aid or explanation of title. Actions may be maintained affirmatively to establish such limitations provided for in this part 1.

Section is exception to general rule. The general rule that statutes of limitations are held to be available only as a matter of defense or bar to the bringing of an action has no application to the limitations contained in this part of article 41, since this section expressly provides that the limitations therein contained “may be asserted affirmatively or by way of defense”. *Federal Farm Mtg. 38-41-114. When limitations apply. The limitations established in this part 1 shall apply to causes of action that have accrued prior to March 28, 1927, as well as to all causes of action accruing thereafter. 38-41-116. If no day is appointed in such contract for the delivery of such conveyance, then such action or proceeding shall be commenced within ten years of the day on which the last and final installment of the purchase price would have been paid but not thereafter.

ANNOTATION

Application of section's bar precluded. Since the owner of a mineral estate does not lose possession or title by mere nonuse and since ownership and occupancy of the surface does not constitute possession of the mineral estate, absent evidence that the fee simple owner of the surface actually dispossessed plaintiffs of the mineral estate by drilling or exploration for minerals, plaintiffs retained the requisite possession of a mineral interest so as to preclude application of the bar of this section. Brian v. Valley View Cattle Ranch, Inc., 35 Colo. App. 428, 535 P.2d 237 (1975).

Where person, as a purchaser not in possession, was attempting to enforce his right or equitable title pursuant to the contract of sale, this section was the most specific and the most applicable, and not § 38-41-101 or former § 13-80-114. Bent v. Ferguson, 791 P.2d 1241 (Colo. App. 1990).

A question of fact remained on claim to quiet title where this section allowed purchaser to bring an action to enforce any right or title he may have under a contract within ten years from the date of delivery of general warranty deed and parties intent concerning when delivery of the deed was to take place required determination. Bent v. Ferguson, 791 P.2d 1241 (Colo. App. 1990).

38-41-117. Actions to enforce bonds for deeds. No action or proceeding whatsoever shall be brought or maintained by any person who is or may become entitled to have conveyed to him any real property under the terms of any bond for a deed to real property or under the terms of any agreement in the nature of a bond for a deed to real property and who is not in possession of the real property which is the subject of such bond or agreement, to enforce or procure any right or interest granted or assured under the terms thereof or any law or custom relating thereto unless such action or proceeding is commenced within ten years of the day limited therein for the performance of the acts and things upon which the conveyance of such real property is conditioned.

Section applies to actions pertaining to public land. While this section does not bar an action brought by the state, there is no exception to its applicability to private citizens who bring actions pertaining to public land. Styers v. Mara, 631 P.2d 1138 (Colo. App. 1981).

The one-year statute of limitations embodied in this section applies to actions which accrued respecting estates in airspace after 1972, the year in which that statute was amended. Ass'n of Owners, Satellite Apt., Inc. v. Otte, 38 Colo. App. 12, 550 P.2d 894 (1976).

This section, rather than general statute of limitations, controls. Since this section of specifically drafted to relate to actions to enforce restrictions concerning real property, it controls an action to enforce a restriction on the use of an estate and to compel removal of the improvement erected in violation of the terms of that restriction to the exclusion of the general statute of limitations relating to actions on a contract. Ass'n of Owners, Satellite Apt., Inc. v. Otte, 38 Colo. App. 12, 550 P.2d 894 (1976).

Administrative hearing is not the commencement of an action for purposes of this section. Styers v. Mara, 631 P.2d 1138 (Colo. App. 1981).

Action to enforce restriction commenced 21 months after expiration date barred. A covenant in a warranty deed, requiring grantee to construct a house of a stated value within a prescribed time upon the land conveyed, and providing that upon grantee's default the property was to revert to the grantor, is a "restriction concerning real property" within the meaning of this section; thus, an action to enforce the restriction, commenced 21 months after the expiration date stated in the covenant, was barred by this section. Wolf v. Hallenbeck, 109 Colo. 70, 123 P.2d 412 (1942).

But where each day of noncompliance with an ordinance constitutes a separate violation, enforcement of the ordinance is not barred. Town of Grand Lake v. Lanzi, 937 P.2d 785 (Colo. App. 1996).

Zoning ordinance is not a "building restriction" within the meaning of this section. Town of Grand Lake v. Lanzi, 937 P.2d 785 (Colo. App. 1996).

Section held to provide no defense. Seeger's Estate v. Puckett, 115 Colo. 185, 171 P.2d 415 (1946).

Statute of limitations defense was not preserved on appeal where defendants raised the defense in their answer to plaintiffs' second amended complaint and in the trial management order, but failed to bring the defense to the court's attention in opening or closing statements, in an oral motion for a directed verdict, or in a motion for a new trial. Highland Meadows Estates v. Buick, 994 P.2d 459 (Colo. App. 1999), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 21 P.3d 860 (Colo. 2001).

A setback requirement contained within a duly adopted planned unit development plat is a building restriction concerning real property as contemplated by § 38-41-119. McDowell v. U.S., 870 P.2d 656 (Colo. App. 1994).

Equitable relief and money damages barred. The word "enforce", as used in § 38-41-119 in relation to contractual obligations, embraces a remedy of money damages as well as equitable relief. Section 38-41-119 was meant to apply to any action to enforce a building restriction, regardless of the nature of the relief requested. The nature of the right that plaintiff seeks to exercise controls the applicability of the statute of limitations. Therefore, plaintiff's tardy claim for equitable relief, in the form of removal of encroaching improvements that violate the PUD setback area requirement, and money damages is barred by the statute of limitations of § 38-41-119. McDowell v. U.S., 870 P.2d 656 (Colo. App. 1994).

Applied in Nicol v. Nelson, 776 P.2d 1144 (Colo. App. 1989), cert. denied, 785 P.2d 917 (Colo. 1989).

PART 2

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTIONS

Law reviews: For article, "Homestead Marshalling", see 14 Colo. Law. 1612 (1985).

38-41-201. Homestead exemption - definitions. (1) Every homestead in the state of Colorado shall be exempt from execution and attachment arising from any debt, contract, or civil obligation not exceeding in actual cash value in excess of any liens or encumbrances on the homesteaded property in existence at the time of any levy of execution thereon:

(a) The sum of sixty thousand dollars if the homestead is occupied as a home by an owner thereof or an owner's family; or

(b) The sum of ninety thousand dollars if the homestead is occupied as a home by an elderly or disabled owner, an elderly or disabled spouse of an owner, or an elderly or disabled dependent of an owner.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Disabled owner", "disabled spouse", or "disabled dependent" means an owner, spouse, or dependent who has a physical or mental impairment that is disabling and that, because of other factors such as age, training, experience, or social setting, substantially precludes the owner, spouse, or dependent from engaging in a useful occupation, as a homemaker, a wage earner, or a self-employed person in any employment that exists in the community and for which he or she has competence.

(b) "Elderly owner", "elderly spouse", or "elderly dependent" means an owner, spouse, or dependent who is sixty years of age or older.

Law. 793 (1984). For article, "Colorado Homestead Statutes: Exemption or Allowance?", see 17 Colo. Law. 827 (1988).

Constitutionality. This section does not violate the uniformity clause of § 8 of art. VIII, U.S. Const. or supremacy clause, art. VI, cl. 2, U.S. Const. In re Parrish, 19 Bankr. 331 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1982); In re Robinson, 44 Bankr. 292 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1984).

Primary purpose of article is to place the property designated as a homestead out of the reach of creditors while occupied as a home, and this is so even though the designation of the property as a homestead occurred after the debt was contracted and immediately before the creditor had attached or levied upon the property, and though the debtor had no other property liable for his debt. Haas v. De Laney, 165 F. Supp. 488 (D. Colo. 1958). See Barnett v. Knight, 7 Colo. 365, 3 P. 747 (1884).

The design of this section is to secure to the householder a home for himself and family, regardless of his financial condition, whether solvent or insolvent. Woodward v. People's Nat'l Bank, 2 Colo. App. 369, 31 P. 184 (1892); In re Nye, 133 F. 33 (8th Cir. 1904).

The policy of the state is to preserve the home to the family, even at the sacrifice of just demands, for the reason that the preservation of the home is deemed of paramount importance. McPhee v. O'Rourke, 10 Colo. 301, 15 P. 420 (1887); Univ. Nat. Bank v. Harsh, 833 P.2d 846 (Colo. App. 1992).

Spirit of homestead laws preserves right of occupancy. The spirit and the letter of our homestead laws preserve a right of occupancy for those who stand in the relation of head of the family. In re Wallace's Estate, 125 Colo. 584, 246 P.2d 894 (1952).

Two governing principles underlie all homestead legislation: First, the beneficial design of protecting the citizen householder and his family from the dangers and miseries of destitution consequent upon business reverses or upon calamities from other causes; and, second, the sound public policy of securing the permanent habitation of the family, and cultivating the local interest, pride, and affection of the individual, so essential to the stability and prosperity of a government. Barnett v. Knight, 7 Colo. 365, 3 P. 747 (1884); Weare v. Johnson, 20 Colo. 363, 38 P. 374 (1894).

Benefits of this section are extended to every householder, without qualification, except as to the value and occupancy. Dallemand v. Mannon, 4 Colo. App. 262, 35 P. 679 (1894).

This section does not create an interest in land. The Colorado homestead has been referred to as an "exemption," and nothing more. United States v. Morgan, 554 F. Supp. 582 (D. Colo. 1982).

Federal tax lien foreclosure not barred. This section does not operate to bar foreclosure of the federal government's tax lien. United States v. Morgan, 554 F. Supp. 582 (D. Colo. 1982).

Scope of protection. This section extends certain protection to the premises set apart by the owner as a homestead for his or her family so long as he or she desires to occupy the same as a home for the family, and it protects the same against proceedings by execution and attachment, but it does not appear that further exemption or protection was intended. Wright v. Whittick, 18 Colo. 54, 31 P. 490 (1892).

The words "arising from any debt, contract, or civil obligation" are sufficiently broad and comprehensive to embrace any and all forms of indebtedness, including judgments. Woodward v. People's Nat'l Bank, 2 Colo. App. 369, 31 P. 184 (1892).

Section does not rest upon equitable principles. In no way does this section rest upon the principles of equity, nor in any way yield thereto. McPhee v. O'Rourke, 10 Colo. 301, 15 P. 420 (1887); Helkey v. Ashley, 113 Colo. 175, 155 P.2d 143 (1945).

Exemption statutes are to be liberally construed, so as to promote the humane policy of such legislation, but the courts cannot by construction annex to such statutes consequences not fairly within their purview or intent. Barnett v. Knight, 7 Colo. 365, 3 P. 747 (1884); McPhee v. O'Rourke, 10 Colo. 301, 15 P. 420 (1887); Martin v. Bond, 14 Colo. 466, 24 P. 326 (1890); Weil v. Nevitt, 18 Colo. 10, 31 P. 487 (1892); Wright v. Whittick, 18 Colo. 54, 31 P. 490 (1892); Brooks v. Black, 22 Colo. App. 49, 123 P. 131 (1912); Haas v. De Laney, 165 F. Supp. 488 (D. Colo. 1958).

The right to homestead exemption is not given by the bankruptcy law, but exists, if at all, by virtue of state laws, and the bankruptcy court will allow whatever exemption the state law allows. Edgington v. Taylor, 270 F. 48 (8th Cir. 1920).

There is only one homestead exemption per a specific piece of real property. In re Lambert, 34 Bankr. 41 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1983); In re Pruitt, 829 F.2d 1002 (10th Cir. 1987); In re Bryant, 221 Bankr. 262 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1998).

And it attaches to the property. In re Bryant, 221 Bankr. 262 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1998).

The homestead exemption may not be claimed by one joint owner to the exclusion of the other joint owners. In re Pruitt, 829 F.2d 1002 (10th Cir. 1987); In re Bryant, 221 Bankr. 262 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1998).

Exemption under this section attaches automatically upon occupancy of real property as a home by the owner or the owner's family. Univ. Nat. Bank v. Harsh, 833 P.2d 846 (Colo. App. 1992).

Full homestead exemption is applied before any determination is made with respect to any specific joint owner's equity that may be subject to the claims of creditors in a bankruptcy case. In re Dickinson, 185 Bankr. 76 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1995).

Homestead exemption policy applies to leased and owned homes. The public policy of a homestead exemption, to secure to the householder a home for himself and family regardless of financial conditions, whether solvent or insolvent, applies with equal force whether the home is occupied under a lease for a term of years or under a fee ownership. In re Hellman, 474 F. Supp. 348 (D. Colo. 1979).

The homestead exemption is available to homeowners and to nonhomeowners alike. In re Parrish, 19 Bankr. 331 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1982).

Who may claim exemption. One who does not have title or any claim to real property does not have a right to claim a homestead exemption on such real property. In re Hambric v. Centennial Glass, Inc., 32 Bankr. 49 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1983).

Debtor cannot claim a homestead exemption because he did not own real property. What he received upon the death of his mother was an undivided one-third interest in her probate estate, which happened to include a piece of real property. His rights in the probate estate became the property of the bankruptcy estate and at that time he was not an owner of real property. In addition, neither on the date of the filing of his bankruptcy nor on the date he became entitled to his share of the probate estate did the debtor occupy the real property as his primary residence or home. In re Meachen, 217 Bankr. 877 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1998).

Although debtor was part owner of home and persons occupying the home were his family, he was not entitled to claim a homestead exemption since he at no time contributed toward the payment of the mortgage, taxes, insurance, maintenance, or utilities nor did he give any pecuniary consideration for his interest nor did he contribute to living expenses of his family who lived in the home. In re Rodriguez, 38 Bankr. 297 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1984).

Bankruptcy debtor was not entitled to claim the exemption where he had only an undivided one-half interest in the property, and his joint tenant was not a bankruptcy debtor. In re Robinson, 44 Bankr. 292 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1984).

Co-defendant entitled to full homestead exemption because the other defendant, a trust, was legally incapable of occupying the residence and claiming the exemption. Univ. Nat. Bank v. Harsh, 833 P.2d 846 (Colo. App. 1992).

Former husband, as a co-owner of the property, entitled to half of homestead exemption even though he no longer resided in the property. In re Dickinson, 185 Bankr. 76 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1995).

Married individuals living apart in jointly owned properties are each entitled to claim a homestead as exempt. The filing of a joint petition in bankruptcy, however, effected a severance in the joint tenancy of the debtors in each of the properties, with the result that an undivided one-half interest in the husband's estate became the property of the wife, which property became property of the wife's bankruptcy estate, and vice versa. Thus the trustee is entitled to one-half of the homestead exemption and one-half of the remaining equity in each property. In re Pastrana, 216 Bankr. 948 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1998).

Exemption need not be prorated among two or more cotenants where there is no danger that full protection will be claimed by one joint owner-occupant to the exclusion of other owner-occupants. Univ. Nat. Bank v. Harsh, 833 P.2d 846 (Colo. App. 1992).

Pre-paid rents and security deposits. The homestead exemption applies to pre-paid rents and to security deposits which can be applied to rent. In re Quintana, 28 Bankr. 269 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1983).

Liens used to calculate exemption. In determining which liens will be used to calculate a homestead exemption, the court uses only those liens or encumbrances which existed prior to the placement of the homestead right on the property, which exemption is established automatically from the date of the property owner's occupancy (except with respect to liens which arose prior to July 1, 1975), and liens with respect to which the debtor has expressly waived the homestead exemption. Lincoln v. Cherry Creek Homeowners Ass'n, 30 Bankr. 905 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1983).

Attorney's liens. Homestead exemption statute includes attorney's liens within its ambit and the attorney's lien does not attach to the homestead. If the debtor has any net equity remaining after the sale of the property in question, the creditor's attorney's lien attaches to that net equity and his claim is unsecured for any amount over that sum. In re Dickinson, 185 Bankr. 840 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1995).

Full exemption attached to residence of widow who owned an undivided one-half interest in property where remainder of property was owned by her deceased husband's trust, and trust was legally incapable of occupying the residence and claiming the exemption. Univ. Nat. Bank v. Harsh, 833 P.2d 846 (Colo. App. 1992).

Homeowner exemption applies to debtor who owned and occupied the residence at time of filing bankruptcy, despite her simultaneous plans to move from residence. In re Raymond, 132 Bankr. 53 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1991).

Equity in duplex. The rental part of a duplex does not impair the owner's right to exempt the equity in the entire structure, and the debtor is entitled to claim any equity in the property considered as a whole. Wells v. West Greeley Nat. Bank, 29 Bankr. 688 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1983).

Waiver in deed of trust not waiver to all creditors. The waiver of the homestead right contained in a deed of trust does not constitute a waiver to all creditors. Frank v. First Nat. Bank, 653 P.2d 748 (Colo. App. 1982).

Condominium owner waived right to assert homestead exemption prior to a condominium association's assessment lien due to a condominium declaration which was in existence before owner took title. Whispering Pines W. Condo. v. Treantos, 780 P.2d 26 (Colo. App. 1989).

Junior lien creditor may redeem from a public trustee's sale without complying with the homestead exemption statute. Howell v. Farrish, 725 P.2d 9 (Colo. App. 1986).

Applied in Drake v. Root, 2 Colo. 685 (1875); In re Youngstrom, 153 F. 98 (8th Cir. 1907); Jasper v. Bicknell, 68 Colo. 308, 191 P. 115 (1920); Whitlock v. Alliance Coal Co., 73 Colo. 205, 214 P. 546 (1923); Vassek v. Moffat County Mercantile Co., 87 Colo. 153, 285 P. 939 (1930); Craig Lumber Co. v. Ramey, 108 Colo. 516, 119 P.2d 608 (1941); Wise v. Thomas, 117 Colo. 376, 188 P.2d 444 (1947); Michels v. Clemens, 140 Colo. 82, 342 P.2d 693 (1959); Thomas v. Hysom, 167 Colo. 218, 446 P.2d 911 (1968).

II. EFFECT OF EXEMPTION.

When property exempted from levy of execution. If the property in question has not been subjected specifically to the judgment lien by the levy of an execution before it was withdrawn as a homestead, it was exempted from the levy of the execution. To construe the statute otherwise would defeat its obvious intention. Woodward v. People's Nat'l Bank, 2 Colo. App. 369, 31 P. 184 (1892); Patterson v. Serafini, 187 Colo. 209, 532 P.2d 965 (1974).

Homestead exempt from judgment lien.

This section provides that the homestead shall be exempt from "execution and attachment", and if it is exempt from execution, it must of necessity be exempt from the lien of the judgment, as a judgment lien that cannot be enforced is of no avail. Weare v. Johnson, 20 Colo. 363, 38 P. 374 (1884); Woodward v. People's Nat'l Bank, 2 Colo. App. 369, 31 P. 184 (1892); Jones v. Olson, 17 Colo. App. 144, 67 P. 349 (1902); White v. Hartman, 26 Colo. App. 475, 145 P. 716 (1915); Sterling Nat'l Bank v. Francis, 78 Colo. 204, 240 P. 945 (1925); City Center Nat. Bank v. Barone, 807 P.2d 1251 (Colo. App. 1991).

Section operable against creditor for material used to improve property. There is no proviso in this section against its operating against a creditor for material used in improvements upon the property before it was designated as a homestead. McPhee v. O'Rourke, 10 Colo. 301, 15 P. 420, 3 Am. St. R. 579 (1887).

Void deed will not invalidate homestead entry as exemption. That the deed from husband to wife, upon the record of which she makes a homestead entry, was, as to creditors, fraudulent and void, is no defense to, and will not avoid the validity or efficiency of, such homestead entry as an exemption, is forever settled in this state. McPhee v. O'Rourke, 10 Colo. 301, 15 P. 420 (1887); Tibbetts v. Terrill, 44 Colo. 94, 96 P. 978, 104 P. 605 (1908); Brooks v. Black, 22 Colo. App. 49, 123 P. 131 (1912).

Trustee in bankruptcy in same position as creditor. As regards the sale of real property belonging to a bankrupt, the trustee in bankruptcy is in the same position as a creditor, and must comply with state law so far as is necessary to preserve the state exemption which is guaranteed the bankrupt. Baker v. Allen, 34 Colo. App. 363, 528 P.2d 922 (1974).

If bank could not assert a lien against the property while party retained title, it cannot assert the same lien against party's grantees, provided the transaction was bona fide. City Center Nat. Bank v. Barone, 807 P.2d 1251 (Colo. App. 1991).

38-41-201.5. Legislative declaration of homestead exemption for mobile homes.

The general assembly hereby finds and declares that, as the cost of conventional housing continues to escalate, mobile homes will become an ever larger percentage of the total housing supply, particularly for the elderly and the low-to-moderate income groups; that the purchase of a mobile home is a major investment; that most mobile homes are permanently or semipermanently located; that great improvements have been made in the quality and variety of such homes; and that mobile homes are dwellings which should be accorded a status equivalent to conventional homes. The general assembly recognizes, however, that mobile homes are more readily moved than conventional homes; that they are presently bought and sold as personal property and that there are advantages to both the industry and consumers to continue this practice; and that they presently have a dual nature in the area of taxation and tax collection; therefore mobile homes should be entitled to a homestead exemption.

38-41-201.6. Mobile home, manufactured home, trailer, and trailer coach homestead exemption. (1) A manufactured home as defined in section 38-29-102 (6), which includes a mobile home or manufactured home as defined in section 38-12-201.5 (2), 5-1-301 (29), or 42-1-102 (106) (b), C.R.S., that has been purchased by an initial user or subsequent user and for which a certificate of title or registration has been issued in accordance with section 38-29-110 or pursuant to section 38-29-108, is a homestead and is entitled to the same exemption as enumerated in section 38-41-201, except for any loans, debts, or obligations incurred prior to January 1, 1983. For purposes of this homestead exemption, the term "house" as used in section 38-41-205 shall be deemed to include mobile homes or manufactured homes.

(2) A trailer as defined in section 42-1-102 (105), C.R.S., or a trailer coach as defined in section 42-1-102 (106) (a), C.R.S., that has been purchased by an initial user or subsequent user and for which a certificate of title or registration has been issued pursuant to section 42-3-103, C.R.S., is a homestead and is entitled to the same exemption as enumerated in section 38-41-201, except for any loans, debts, or obligations incurred prior to July 1, 2000. For purposes of this homestead exemption, the term "house" as used in section 38-41-205 shall be deemed to include trailers or trailer coaches.

38-41-202. Homestead to be created automatically in certain cases - filing of statement required in other cases. (1) The homestead exemptions described in section 38-41-201 shall be deemed created and may be claimed if the occupancy requirement of section 38-41-203 and the requirement of section 38-41-205 relating to the type of property which may be homesteaded are met.

(2) (a) A homestead exemption granted under the provisions of this part 2 shall not be deemed created and may not be claimed if the debt, contract, or civil obligation which is the basis for the execution and attachment was entered into or incurred prior to July 1, 1975, unless the owner of the property (householder) records in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county where the property is situate an instrument in writing describing such property, setting forth the nature and source of the owner's interest therein, and stating that the owner is homesteading such property, which instrument may be acknowledged as provided by law.

(b) The spouse of the owner of the property may homestead such property in the manner provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) with the same effect as if the owner had done so.

(3) Subject to the provisions of subsection (4) of this section, property homesteaded solely by operation of the automatic provisions of subsection (1) of this section may be conveyed or encumbered by the owner of the property free and clear of all homestead rights, and no signature other than that of the owner shall be required. The owner of the property shall be determined without regard to the ownership of any homestead rights.

(4) If the owner of the property (householder) or the spouse of such owner records in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county where the property is situate an instrument in writing describing such property, setting forth the nature and source of the owner's interest therein, and stating that the owner or the owner's spouse is homesteading such property (which instrument may be acknowledged as provided by law), then the signature of both spouses to convey or encumber such property shall be required.

Valid exemption can be created only by the method provided by this section. Johnson v. Mountain Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 162 Colo. 474, 426 P.2d 962 (1967).

Effect of noncompliance with section. A complaint is fatally defective if it does not show a compliance with this section. Goodwin v. Colo. Mtg. Inv. Co., 110 U.S. 1, 3 S. Ct. 473, 28 L. Ed. 47 (1884); Crawford v. Felkey, 73 Colo. 444, 216 P. 520 (1923).

Right to occupy the homestead for homestead purposes is an inseparable part of the exemption, because its purpose is to protect such occupancy and because when the occupancy is voluntarily discontinued the exemption ceases. In re Nye, 133 F. 33 (8th Cir. 1904).

Property remains exempt until, by a judicial sale had at the instance of a creditor, more than the prescribed amount with costs is realized therefrom; then the excess is to be applied to the demand of the creditor and the prescribed amount is to be paid to the debtor, free of charge or expense, to enable him to acquire another homestead. In re Nye, 133 F. 33 (8th Cir. 1904).

Creditor is charged with knowledge of homestead claims through recording statute, and his lack of knowledge through inadvertence would be immaterial. Am. Heritage Bank & Trust Co. v. Trees, 35 Colo. App. 147, 532 P.2d 380 (1974).

Homestead entry on deed technically void is valid. The uniform holding that a homestead entry made upon a deed confessedly void (because executed in fraud of creditors) is sufficient to secure the exemption, would seem to justify the conclusion that an entry upon some other instrument, in form evidence of title, legal or equitable, is also sufficient, although for reasons not appearing upon the face of the instrument, the court might, when properly raised upon trial, hold that said instrument was, in law, something different than it appeared to be, or, for some reasons, was defective or void. Brooks v. Black, 22 Colo. App. 49, 123 P. 131 (1912).

Homestead entry adjudged void cannot be collaterally assailed. Where a homestead entry has been canceled and adjudged null and void by a decree of the district court, that decree cannot be collaterally assailed. Smith v. Smith, 76 Colo. 119, 230 P. 597 (1924).

Effect of void deed executed by one joint tenant. Because a deed affecting homesteaded property executed by one of two joint tenants is void, that deed may not be utilized to defeat the homestead act's policy of protecting both owners of homesteaded property from disenfranchisement by the unilateral conduct of one joint tenant. Knoche v. Morgan, 664 P.2d 258 (Colo. App. 1983).

Formerly, this section allowed creation of exemption by marginal entry on the recorded deed of the word "homestead". Johnson v. Mountain Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 162 Colo. 474, 426 P.2d 962 (1967).

For cases dealing with marginal entry method of creating homestead exemption. See Drake v. Root, 2 Colo. 685 (1875); Wells v.

Caywood, 3 Colo. 487 (1877); Goodwin v. Colo. Mtg. Inv. Co., 110 U.S. 1, 3 S. Ct. 473, 28 L. Ed. 47 (1884); Barnett v. Knight, 7 Colo. 365, 3 P. 747 (1884); Jones v. Olson, 17 Colo. App. 144, 67 P. 349 (1891); Leppel v. Kus, 38 Colo. 292, 88 P. 448 (1907); Runyan v. Snyder, 45 Colo. 156, 100 P. 420 (1909); White v. Hartman, 26 Colo. App. 475, 145 P. 716 (1914); Jasper v. Bicknell, 68 Colo. 308, 191 P. 115 (1920); Bean v. Eves, 92 Colo. 339, 20 P.2d 544 (1933); Farley v. Harvey, 93 Colo. 105, 25 P.2d 185 (1933); Howell v. Burch Whse. & Transf. Co., 100 Colo. 247, 67 P.2d 73 (1937).

Liens used to calculate exemption. In determining which liens will be used to calculate a homestead exemption, the court uses only those liens or encumbrances which existed prior to the placement of the homestead right on the property, which exemption is established automatically from the date of the property owner's occupancy (except with respect to liens which arose prior to July 1, 1975), and liens with respect to which the debtor has expressly waived the homestead exemption. Lincoln v. Cherry Creek Homeowners Ass'n, 30 Bankr. 905 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1983).

Signatures of both joint tenants were not needed to encumber property that was homesteaded solely by operation of automatic provisions of statute, and either of two joint tenants could encumber or convey the interest that he owned upon his signature unless a written declaration of homestead rights was recorded. Comm. Factors of Denver v. Clarke & Waggener, 684 P.2d 261 (Colo. App. 1984).

Filing a homestead claim was not a responsive pleading under C.R.C.P. 8(c). In the matter of Lombard, 739 F.2d 499 (10th Cir. 1984).

Applied in Barnett v. Knight, 7 Colo. 365, 3 P. 747 (1884); Copeland v. Colo. State Bank, 13 Colo. App. 489, 59 P. 70 (1899); Lock v. Berkins, 95 Colo. 135, 33 P.2d 393 (1934); Craig Lumber Co. v. Ramey, 108 Colo. 516, 119 P.2d 608 (1941); Wise v. Thomas, 117 Colo. 376, 188 P.2d 444 (1947); Baker v. Allen, 34 Colo. App. 363, 528 P.2d 922 (1974).

II. TITLE OR INTEREST IN PROPERTY.

Limitation is on value, not quantity of land. The homestead statutes do not fix the quantity of land which may be held as a homestead; it is the value and not the amount which is limited. Dallemand v. Mannon, 4 Colo. App. 262, 35 P. 679 (1894).

Ownership in fee is not essential. An equitable title, a lease for a term of years, or any title which may be the subject of levy and sale, may also be the subject of a homestead claim. Dallemand v. Mannon, 4 Colo. App. 262, 35 P. 679 (1894).

Any interest with possession is sufficient to support the homestead right. Brooks v. Black, 22 Colo. App. 49, 123 P. 131 (1912).

Possession under executory contract of purchase. One who holds possession of land under an executory contract of purchase may declare a valid homestead therein. Brooks v. Black, 22 Colo. App. 49, 123 P. 131 (1912); Dallemand v. Mannon, 4 Colo. App. 262, 35 P. 679 (1894).

38-41-203. Exemption only while occupied. Said property, when so homesteaded, shall only be exempt as provided in this part 2 while occupied as a home by the owner thereof or his family.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Executions and Levies on Tangible Property", see 27 Dicta 143 (1950). For note, "Colorado Homestead Now Assertable Against Heirs", see 25 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 84 (1952). For note, "The Homestead Rights of Minor Children in Solvent Estates", see 25 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 370 (1953).

Occupancy of premises required. Occupancy of the premises by one claiming a homestead exemption is a necessary requirement to enforce such a claim. Helkey v. Ashley, 113 Colo. 175, 155 P.2d 143 (1945).

Actual personal occupation at all times not required. This section cannot be construed as requiring an actual personal occupation at all times and under all circumstances, and it is intended that the place shall be the only home of the family, and shall not be abandoned and another occupied with the intention of making such change permanent. Pierson v. Truax, 15 Colo. 223, 25 P. 183 (1890).

Presumption of abandonment. The cessation of occupancy of a homestead may raise a presumption of abandonment. Monte Vista Bank & Trust Co. v. Savage, 75 Colo. 180, 225 P. 219 (1924).

Claimant has burden of overcoming a presumption of abandonment. Monte Vista Bank & Trust Co. v. Savage, 75 Colo. 180, 225 P. 219 (1924).

Vague intention to return insufficient to overcome presumption. A vague intention to return perhaps at some future time and reside there again will not preserve the claimant's home, because the intention which is sufficient to rebut the presumption of abandonment must be positive and certain, not conditional or indefinite. Monte Vista Bank & Trust Co. v. Savage, 75 Colo. 180, 225 P. 219 (1924).

Removal of family from homestead makes prima facie case of abandonment. To rebut this presumption, it must appear that the removal was temporary in its nature, made for a specific purpose, with the intention of reoccupying the premises. Monte Vista Bank & Trust Co. v. Savage, 75 Colo. 180, 225 P. 219 (1924); Reed v. State Sav. Bank, 93 Colo. 325, 25 P.2d 739 (1933).

Fact that debtors were not residing in the home on the bankruptcy petition date created a presumption of abandonment; however, debtors rebutted the presumption through testimony that their absence was temporary and made for the specific purposes of renovating the home and avoiding the proximity of debtor husband's former spouse. In re Patterson, 275 B.R. 578 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2002).

Lease of portion of estate not abandonment. The lease of a portion of the estate, or even of the whole of it, does not of itself work an abandonment of the homestead, because the question of abandonment is very largely one of intention. Dallemand v. Mannon, 4 Colo. App. 262, 35 P. 679 (1894).

When homestead terminates. The right to homestead terminates when the debtor ceases to be the head of a family, by death or permanent removal from the premises of all the dependent members, or by their reaching the age of majority. Monte Vista Bank & Trust Co. v. Savage, 75 Colo. 180, 225 P. 219 (1924).

38-41-204. Surviving spouse and minor children entitled. When any person dies seized of a homestead leaving a surviving spouse or minor children, such surviving spouse or minor children are entitled to the homestead exemption. In cases where there is neither surviving spouse nor minor children, the homestead shall be liable for the debts of the deceased.

This section should be given a liberal construction, to the end that its purposes will be fulfilled. Chapin Lumber Co. v. Day, 106 Colo. 194, 103 P.2d 14 (1940).

Construction of section. The proper construction of this section is that where a husband and wife occupy a homestead, the death of either does not destroy the homestead right so long as the survivor shall reside upon the property. Chapin Lumber Co. v. Day, 106 Colo. 194, 103 P.2d 14 (1940).

"Seized" construed. "Seized", as used in this section, must be taken to mean simply the right of possession which inheres in both husband and wife in a homestead. It has no reference to which spouse has the title to the land. Chapin Lumber Co. v. Day, 106 Colo. 194, 103 P.2d 14 (1940).

"Or" construed. Where the General Assembly used the word "or" immediately preceding both occurrences of the phrase "minor children", the intent was to be inclusive. In re Estate of Dodge, 685 P.2d 260 (Colo. App. 1984).

Homestead right not governed by descent and distribution. A homestead right is not governed by the law of descent and distribution, and it is not a part of an estate, but insofar as it may appear in the administration of an estate, it is more in the nature of a lien that has attached to the home property, and the heir or devisee who succeeds to the title of the home property takes it subject to that limitation or qualification. In re Wallace's Estate, 125 Colo. 584, 246 P.2d 894 (1952).

Estate has no interest in exemption of surviving spouse. The estate of a deceased person has no interest in the homestead exemption of a surviving husband or wife. Union Nat'l Bank v. Wright, 78 Colo. 346, 242 P. 54 (1925); In re Wallace's Estate, 125 Colo. 584, 246 P.2d 894 (1952).

Rights of survivors unaffected. The rights of a surviving widow or husband or minor children of a person, who dies seized of a homestead, are not enlarged or diminished merely by the fact of such death. Union Nat'l Bank v. Wright, 78 Colo. 346, 242 P. 54 (1925).

Payment of surviving spouse in lieu of homestead right. Where it became necessary to sell real property of an estate, covered by a homestead, to pay debts, an order of court directing the sale and requiring that $2,000 be retained out of the proceeds to be paid the surviving husband in lieu of his homestead right in the property, was approved. Union Nat'l Bank v. Wright, 78 Colo. 346, 242 P. 54 (1925).

Pickup camper shell qualifies as homestead exemption. Although not a traditional house, a camper shell was the home and dwelling of the debtor and qualified for the homestead exemption allowed in § 38-41-201. In re Lepka, 105 Bankr. 638 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1989).

38-41-206. Levy on homestead - excess - costs. (1) Before any creditor of the owner of the homesteaded property may proceed against said property, such creditor shall file with the county clerk and recorder of the proper county and the sheriff or other proper officer authorized to levy on said property:

- (a) His affidavit showing:
  - (I) A description of the homesteaded property and the name of the claimant of the homestead exemption;
  - (II) The fair market value of said property;
  - (III) That the fair market value of said property less any prior liens or encumbrances thereon exceeds the amount of the homestead exemption fixed in section 38-41-201 for which the claimant qualifies; and
  - (IV) That no previous execution arising out of the same judgment has been levied upon said property;
- (b) The affidavit of a professionally qualified independent appraiser showing the same information required by subparagraphs (I) to (III) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1).
- (2) If the amount offered at the sale of the homesteaded property does not exceed seventy percent of the fair market value shown in the affidavit of the independent appraiser filed pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section, all proceedings to sell said property shall terminate. The sheriff or the proper officer shall then file for record in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the proper county an instrument releasing all levies on said property in connection with such sale, and the person instituting the proceedings shall pay the costs of such proceedings, and the title of the owner to said property shall not be impaired or affected.
- (3) If the successful bidder at such sale is a judgment creditor, he shall be required to pay in cash to the sheriff or other proper officer making the sale an amount sufficient to pay the exemption plus the proper costs and expenses and shall not have the right to have such exempt amount applied toward the satisfaction of his judgment.
- (4) If a sale is made, the proceeds thereof shall be applied in the following order:
  - (a) First, to the discharge of all prior liens and encumbrances, if any, on said property;
  - (b) Second, to the homestead claimant in the amount of the homestead exemption for which he qualifies;
  - (c) Third, to the sheriff or other proper officer making the sale in an amount sufficient to pay the proper costs and expenses of the sale;
  - (d) Fourth, to the satisfaction of the judgment; and
  - (e) Fifth, the balance, if any, to the homestead claimant.

Levy cannot be made without filing of affidavit. No levy can lawfully be made without the previous filing of the affidavit required by subsection (1). Copeland v. Colo. State Bank, 13 Colo. App. 489, 59 P. 70 (1899); Whitlock v. Alliance Coal Co., 73 Colo. 205, 214 P. 546 (1923).

Sale may be enjoined. If a levy is made without such affidavit, the debtor is entitled to an injunction restraining the sale. Whitlock v. Alliance Coal Co., 73 Colo. 205, 214 P. 546 (1923).

Even though the legislature changed the law from a declared exemption practice to an automatic exemption practice, an affidavit must still be filed prior to the levy of homestead property and any levy made prior to the filing of the required affidavit is void. Estes Park Bank v. Shanks, 794 P.2d 1108 (Colo. App. 1990).

Homestead exceeding value of exemption may be subjected to payment of debt. To the extent that an indivisible homestead exceeds the value of the exemption, it may be subjected to the payment of the debts of the deceased where there are no other available assets. Union Nat'l Bank v. Wright, 78 Colo. 346, 242 P. 54 (1925).

Wife's valid exemption does not defeat creditor's right. The fact that the wife has a valid exemption by a proper entry does not defeat the right of the creditor to subject such property to his claim where the property was worth more than the homestead, since a property may be sold and the excess charged with the creditor's claim. Tibbetts v. Terrill, 44 Colo. 94, 96 P. 978 (1908).

Amount of homestead exemption set aside to bankrupt when sale held. If a bankrupt's interest in the real estate involved exceeds the amount of valid liens plus the homestead exemption, then the trustee in bankruptcy may sell the property for the purpose of obtaining the excess value to satisfy claims of creditors, and if such a sale is held, the amount of the homestead exemption must be set aside to the bankrupt and he shall receive the amount in cash. Baker v. Allen, 34 Colo. App. 363, 528 P.2d 922 (1974).

Public trustee's sale of homesteaded property. When a public trustee conducts a sale of homesteaded property upon a deed of trust with a waiver therein, the public trustee must limit the sale to the extent of the waiver or else require that the sale of the homestead conform to the safeguards in a forced sale of homestead by execution as set forth in this section. Frank v. First Nat'l Bank, 653 P.2d 748 (Colo. App. 1982).

Creditor not creditor as to exemption. While a creditor may be interested when the value of the property exceeds the exemption allowance, nevertheless, as to the exemption, he is, in fact, not a creditor at all. Barnett v. Knight, 7 Colo. 365, 3 P. 747 (1884); Union Nat'l Bank v. Wright, 78 Colo. 346, 242 P. 54 (1925).

Creditor may not refuse to pay its bid price. A judgment creditor cannot bid the property in the sale for the full amount of the homestead exemption and then refuse to pay its bid price. Am. Heritage Bank & Trust Co. v. Trees, 35 Colo. App. 147, 532 P.2d 380 (1974).

38-41-207. Proceeds exempt - bona fide purchaser. The proceeds from the exempt amount under this part 2, in the event the property is sold by the owner, or the proceeds from such sale under section 38-41-206 paid to the owner of the property or person entitled to the homestead shall be exempt from execution or attachment for a period of two years after such sale if the person entitled to such exemption keeps the exempted proceeds separate and apart from other moneys so that the same may be always identified. If the person receiving such proceeds uses said proceeds in the acquisition of other property for a home, there shall be carried over to the new property the same homestead exemption to which the owner was entitled on the property sold. Such homestead exemption shall not be valid as against one entitled to a vendor's lien or the holder of a purchase money mortgage against said new property.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Executions and Levies on Tangible Property", see 27 Dicta 143 (1950).

Section protects rights of creditors and homestead owner. This section makes provision for the protection of the rights of both the creditors and the owner of the homestead. Union Nat'l Bank v. Wright, 78 Colo. 346, 242 P. 54 (1925).

Debtor's right to dispose of homestead. This section does away with every doubt as to the debtor's right to dispose of his homestead; the last clause puts at rest all uncertainty as to the effect of a judgment lien upon the homestead. Barnett v. Knight, 7 Colo. 365, 3 P. 747 (1884).

Exemption for debtor conveying to ex-wife. A debtor, who conveyed his interest in the family home to his ex-wife for a promissory note and deed of trust, was allowed to exempt the note and deed of trust for one year as "proceeds" under this section, even though he was not allowed to claim an exemption under § 38-41-201. In re Hoover, 35 Bankr. 709 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1984).

Sale of homestead property prior to bankruptcy did not preclude debtor from claiming exemption in the proceeds where the debtor had specifically reserved his homestead rights at time funds were disbursed. In re Swartzendruber, 72 Bankr. 463 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1987).

Debtors were allowed to claim homestead exemption on proceeds from sale of Oregon home, even though Colorado statutes specify that the exemption applies to real properties located in Colorado. In re Bloedon, 137 Bankr. 824 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1992).

Debtor entitled to homestead exemption even though she had listed her house for sale, only resided there for ten days after filing petition for bankruptcy, and her family had already relocated to another state. In re Raymond, 987 F.2d 675 (10th Cir. 1993).

The homestead proceeds exemption covers surplus proceeds paid to a debtor following a nonjudicial public trustee sale. In re Elliot, 448 B.R. 843 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2011).

Refinancing of a home mortgage does not qualify as a sale of the home. Refinancing does not convey an ownership interest in real estate and is not the equivalent of a sale of the home. Proceeds from the refinancing are not, therefore, entitled to an exemption. Polimino v. Peters, 345 B.R. 708 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2006).

In order to give the debtor full benefit of the homestead exemption, the withdrawal of some funds from the segregated homestead account for non-exempt purposes does not terminate the exempt status of the balance. Fleet v. Zwick, 994 P.2d 480 (Colo. App. 1999).

38-41-208. Survival of exemption. (1) If the property qualifies as a homestead for a joint tenant who is the husband or wife of the other joint tenant or one of the other joint tenants, then, upon the death of either spouse, the homestead shall continue in effect on the interest in such property of the surviving spouse. If the property qualifies as a homestead for a joint tenant who is the parent of one or more of the other joint tenants who are minors, then, upon the death of such parent leaving no spouse surviving, the homestead shall continue in effect on the interest in such property of the surviving minor children.

(2) If the property qualifies as a homestead for a joint tenant who is not related to any other joint tenant as husband or wife or parent and minor child, then, upon the death of such joint tenant, his homestead shall cease and terminate, and the property shall be held by the surviving tenants free of any homestead interest of such decedent, his spouse, or his minor children.

38-41-212. Waiver. (1) Any purchase by an encumbrancer, lienholder, or any other person or any redemption by a junior lienholder pursuant to a foreclosure sale conducted by any court, sheriff, public trustee, or other public official pursuant to a mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien which contains a waiver of homestead rights in the encumbered property shall be subject to such waiver of homestead rights, and the purchaser of or person redeeming the property shall be entitled to acquire said property free of any homestead rights and without compliance with the requirements of section 38-41-206.

(2) Any purchase by an encumbrancer, lienholder, or any other person or any redemption by a junior lienholder pursuant to a foreclosure sale conducted by any court, sheriff, public trustee, or other public official pursuant to a mortgage, deed of trust, or other lien, except a tax sale pursuant to article 11 of title 39, C.R.S., which does not contain a waiver of homestead rights in the encumbered property shall be subject to such homestead rights.

38-43-101. Appointment of trustee to make oil, gas, or other mineral lease where contingent future interests are involved. (1) Where lands in this state, or any estate or interest therein, are subject to contingent future interests, legal or equitable, whether arising by way of remainder, reversion, possibility of reverter, executory devise, upon the happening of a condition subsequent, or otherwise, created by deed, will, or other instrument, and whether a trust is involved or not, and it is made to appear that it will be advantageous to the present and ultimate owners of said lands or any estate or interest therein that such lands, estate, or interest be leased for the production of minerals, including oil, gas, and other natural resources, or any of them, upon the filing of a complaint by any person having a vested, contingent, or possible interest in said lands, or any estate or interest therein, or by any trustee holding title to any such property in trust, the district or probate court which is administering such lands or any estate or interest therein under a testamentary trust shall have the concurrent power and jurisdiction, pending the happening of any contingency and the vesting of such future interest, to appoint a trustee for such lands, or any estate or interest therein, and to authorize and direct such trustee to sell, execute, and deliver a valid lease covering the minerals, oil, gas, and other natural resources, or any of them, in, on, or under said lands, or any estate or interest therein.

(2) Where the instrument appointing any executor, trustee, or other fiduciary confers the power on such fiduciary to execute leases for the production of minerals, oil, gas, and other natural resources from the lands, or interest therein, which is subject to any such contingent future interest, then no other person except such executor, trustee, or other fiduciary shall have the right to file a complaint as provided in this article.

(3) Any lease executed under this article shall not affect or cover any undivided interest in any such lands, title to which is then vested in fee simple and is not subject to any contingent future interest, but shall cover only such undivided interest therein or the entire interest therein which is subject to some contingent future interest.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Highlights of the 1955 Colorado Legislative Session—Oil and Gas", see 28 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 53 (1955).

38-43-102. Parties - representation of minors, persons of unsound mind, and persons not in being. All persons in being having a vested, contingent, or possible interest in the lands or estate or interest sought to be leased shall be made parties to such proceedings, and all persons unknown and all persons not in being, who may have or become entitled to a vested, contingent, or possible interest in such lands, may also be made parties to such proceedings by the general description of unknown persons. Such proceedings shall be in the nature of an action in rem, and the process, practice, and procedure shall be in compliance with the Colorado rules of civil procedure then in effect. The court shall appoint a guardian ad litem to represent any such parties who may be minors or persons of unsound mind, unless they are represented by their statutory guardians or conservators. If the court specifically finds that the welfare or interest of any person not in being requires special representation, the court may appoint a guardian ad litem to represent such unknown party not in being, and such guardian ad litem shall file such pleadings or answer and take such steps as he deems proper, and such unknown person not in being will be fully bound by the proceedings under this article, and same shall be conclusive on any such person. Otherwise, and in the absence of such findings by the court, it shall not be necessary to make parties any persons not in being, but the persons in being who are parties shall stand for and represent the full title and whole interest in said lands, or estate or interest therein, and all parties not in being who might have some contingent or future interest therein, and all persons, whether in being or not in being, having any interest, present, future, or contingent, in the property sought to be leased will be fully bound by the proceedings under this article, and same shall be conclusive on all such persons.

38-43-103. Contents of complaint. The complaint shall describe the property sought to be leased with reasonable certainty and, insofar as it is known to the plaintiff or as can be ascertained with reasonable diligence, shall set forth the names of all persons interested in such property together with their respective estates or interests, either vested, contingent, or executory; whether said land is proven or unproven as to its oil, gas, or other mineral content; its distance from producing or drilling wells or producing mines; and the reasons why it is necessary, desirable, or beneficial that the property be leased for the production of minerals, including oil, gas, and other natural resources, or any of them. If a bona fide offer to lease has been obtained, the complaint shall also set forth the name of the proposed lessee, the true consideration for said lease, and a general statement as to the provisions of said proposed lease, or a copy of the proposed form of such lease setting forth the terms and conditions thereof may be attached to the complaint.

38-43-104. Private or public sale of lease. The court, after a hearing, may thereupon by order approve the leasing of said property by private contract with the proposed lessee and shall appoint a trustee, as provided in this article, and direct such trustee to execute such lease on the form proposed or such form as is satisfactory to the court, and such lease so executed shall be valid and binding and conclusive on all parties. The court, in its discretion, may order the leasing of said property to be conducted at public sale upon such notice and in such manner as the court shall direct. In the event of a public sale, such sale shall be reported back to the court and no lease shall be executed and delivered by the trustee until and unless the sale of said lease is approved by the court.

38-43-105. Terms of lease: Pooling and unitization. Any lease which covers minerals or natural resources other than oil or gas or related hydrocarbons shall be for such term and contain such provisions as may be approved by the court. A lease which specifically covers oil and gas and which may also cover other minerals may be for a primary term not exceeding ten years and as long thereafter as oil, or gas, or other minerals may be produced from the premises embraced in such lease or as long as drilling operations are diligently continued. Such oil and gas lease may provide for pooling, unitization, or consolidation of the leased premises, or any part thereof, with other lands in the same general area to establish a cooperative or unit plan of development or operation and for the apportionment of royalties on production from any such unitized area on an acreage basis. The trustee appointed under this article, or any successor trustee, shall have the power at any time while such trust continues, with the approval of the court, to enter into any agreement providing for such pooling or unitization of all or any part of the leased premises and to bind thereby the said property and all owners thereof having any interest therein whether present, future, or contingent.

38-43-106. Trustees - control of court, removal or resignation, successor, bond, compensation. Any suitable person, bank, or trust company may be appointed trustee under this article, and if a trust is in existence and there is a trustee serving under the trust, the trustee appointed by the court under this section may, in the court's discretion, be the same trustee as is serving under the existing trust, even though he is not a resident of this state, and may be acting under the control of any other court in the United States. The trustee shall be under the continuing control of the court and may be removed by the court at will. Upon such removal or upon the death or resignation of the trustee or any of them, the court may appoint a successor. The court may in its sole discretion, at any time it may be deemed advisable, require such trustee to give a bond in favor of the owners of the property which is to be or has been leased, and shall fix the amount of such bond and may from time to time require a bond in additional amounts. Said trustee shall be allowed as compensation for his services such sums as the court from time to time may fix, to be paid from moneys collected by him.

38-43-107. Title of purchaser. Where any lease has been executed under the provisions of this article, the title of the lessee under such lease shall be indefeasible by any party to the suit, or by any person who was virtually represented therein by any party to the suit, or by any person who was not in being at the time the suit was commenced. If the decree or order under which such lease was executed is afterwards reversed or set aside for any reason, except for fraud, collusion, or other misconduct of the purchaser or lessee, the title of such purchaser or lessee shall not be affected thereby; but all subsequent orders and decrees shall affect only the proceeds of sale or the reversion subject to such lease, together with the proceeds, rentals, and royalties payable under the terms of the lease.

38-43-108. Disposition of proceeds. The proceeds of sale, and the reversion subject to any such lease for the development of minerals, including oil, gas, and other natural resources, or any of them, together with the proceeds, rentals, and royalties accruing from any such lease, shall, in all respects, be substituted for and stand in place of the property so leased, as regards the ownership and enjoyment thereof, and all persons shall have the same estates or interests, vested, contingent, or executory in such proceeds of sale, or in the reversion subject to any such lease, together with the proceeds, rentals, and royalties accruing from any such lease as they had or would have had in the property so leased. The proceeds of sale or bonus and rentals payable under the terms of such lease coming into the hands of the trustee may be paid, under proper order of court, to the life tenant or other person entitled thereto. Under proper order of court, the trustee shall be authorized to invest and reinvest funds and income from royalties coming into his hands in such securities as fiduciaries are authorized to invest the moneys in their custody, which investments shall remain intact until the ultimate taker is determined and shall then be paid over to such ultimate taker as ordered by the court and the trust closed. Income from investments shall be paid to the life tenant or other person entitled thereto under proper order of court. The court shall make all proper orders and decrees for the faithful application of the funds and for the management and preservation of any property or securities in which the same may be invested for the protection of the rights of all persons having any estate or interest in the leased property, whether vested, contingent, or executory.

38-43-109. Remedies herein provided cumulative, contracts and options. The rights, powers, authorities, and remedies provided for in this article shall be cumulative and in addition to other existing rights, powers, authorities, and remedies. Any executor, trustee, or other fiduciary or attorney-in-fact having express or implied powers to execute leases for the production of oil, gas, or other minerals may freely do so under the provisions of the instrument appointing them without the necessity of proceeding as provided in this article. The powers of trustees appointed under this article to execute leases includes the power, under proper order of court, to enter into, execute, and deliver valid contracts and option agreements relating to the future execution or delivery of such leases and contracts granting exclusive rights to enter such lands to make geophysical and geological surveys, explorations, and tests including core drilling.

ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Priority of Evidence in Boundary Disputes.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "One Year Review of Property", see 35 Dicta 48 (1958).

Whether fence is boundary is question of fact. The question of what function a fence has performed over a period of years and whether it has been acquiesced in as a boundary is peculiarly a question of fact. Kelly v. Mullin, 159 Colo. 573, 413 P.2d 186 (1966).
Who suffers loss due to boundary line readjustments. Where one of two innocent parties must suffer a loss of land due to boundary line readjustments called for by later official surveys, it must fall upon the party later in time who has never been in actual possession of the land in question. Marr v. Shrader, 142 Colo. 106, 349 P.2d 706 (1960).

When refusal to appoint commission not error. In an action to establish an alleged disputed boundary to land, where such boundaries can be determined with accuracy, it is not error to refuse the appointment of a commission. Archuleta v. Rose, 136 Colo. 211, 315 P.2d 201 (1957).

Equitable relief granted where improvements mistakenly built upon land. Where the powers of the court were invoked to settle a boundary dispute and the rights of the parties with respect to improvements mistakenly built upon the land, there being no bad faith on the part of any of the parties, it was the duty of the court to grant such equitable relief as the situation required. Pull v. Barnes, 142 Colo. 272, 350 P.2d 828 (1960).

Where an adjoining owner had in good faith erected improvements on adjoining land, believing it to be his own, he should be granted the right to remove the same if feasible, and if not, then given an equitable lien on the property for the value thereof. Pull v. Barnes, 142 Colo. 272, 350 P.2d 828 (1960).

A boundary dispute may be resolved under appropriate statutory or common law proceedings. Durbin v. Bonanza Corp., 716 P.2d 1124 (Colo. App. 1986).

An unexplained use of an easement for the statutory period is presumed to be under a claim of right and is, therefore, adverse. Durbin v. Bonanza Corp., 716 P.2d 1124 (Colo. App. 1986).

Applied in Fisher v. Peterson, 152 Colo. 221, 381 P.2d 29 (1963); Hartley v. Ruybal, 160 Colo. 80, 414 P.2d 114 (1966).

II. PRIORITY OF EVIDENCE IN BOUNDARY DISPUTES.

Intention of parties controls. In construing a deed, the object is to discover and effectuate the intention of the parties to it, but while that intention is to be gathered from the language and words of the deed, it should be read in the light of the surrounding circumstances at least when it is ambiguous. Wallace v. Hirsch, 142 Colo. 264, 350 P.2d 560 (1960).

Where there are two repugnant descriptions in a deed, the court will look into the surrounding facts and will adopt the description which is most definite and certain, and which in the light of the surrounding circumstances can be said to effectuate most clearly the intention of the parties. Wallace v. Hirsch, 142 Colo. 264, 350 P.2d 560 (1960).

Monuments control courses and distances. In a conveyance of interest in land, whether by ordinary deed or by dedication, if the description of the land is fixed by ascertainable monuments and by courses and distances, the well-settled general rule is that the monuments will control the courses and distances if they are inconsistent with the monument calls. Wallace v. Hirsch, 142 Colo. 264, 350 P.2d 560 (1960).

Courses and distances least reliable of calls. A general rule of construction invoked in the case of repugnant calls in a deed is that courses and distances are the least reliable of all calls, and that a call which designates a point capable of precise and exact location takes precedence over a call for a course and distance if there is a repugnancy between the two. Wallace v. Hirsch, 142 Colo. 264, 350 P.2d 560 (1960).

Successor to party to boundary agreement estopped. A successor in title to one who has entered into an executed agreement as to location of the boundary line fence is not in a position to attack that agreement collaterally or to invoke the provisions of this section, merely by creating a dispute. Schleining v. White, 163 Colo. 481, 431 P.2d 458 (1967).

38-44-102. Notice. Notice of such action shall be given as in other cases and if the defendants or any of them are nonresidents of the state, or unknown, they may be served by publication as provided by law.

38-44-103. Pleadings - trial of issues. The action shall be a civil action, and the only necessary pleadings therein shall be the petition of plaintiff describing the land involved and, insofar as may be, the interest of the respective party and asking that certain corners and boundaries therein described, as accurately as may be, be established. Either the plaintiff or the defendant, by proper plea, may put in issue the fact that certain alleged boundaries or corners are true ones or that such have been recognized and acquiesced in by the parties or their grantors for a period of twenty consecutive years, which issue may be tried before a commission appointed in the discretion of the court.

38-44-104. Commissioners - county surveyor. The court in which said action is brought may appoint the county surveyor or, if there is no county surveyor or if the court deems it in the best interest of the parties, shall appoint a commission of one or more disinterested surveyors who, at a date and place fixed by the court in the order of appointment, shall proceed to locate the lost, destroyed, or disputed corners and boundaries.

Applied in Davis v. Dilley, 147 Colo. 395, 363 P.2d 658 (1961).

38-44-105. Oath - assistants. The commissioners so appointed shall subscribe and file with the clerk, within ten days from the date of their appointment, an oath for the faithful and impartial discharge of their duties and shall have power to appoint all necessary assistants.

38-44-106. Hearing. At the time and in the manner specified in the order of court, the commission shall proceed to locate said boundaries and corners and for that purpose may take the testimony of witnesses as to where the true boundaries and corners are located; and, when so ascertained, the commission shall mark the same by erecting or putting down permanent and fixed monuments at all corners so located. In its report to the court, the commission shall file a map or plat showing all monuments, lines, and any other evidences or witness marks that will more nearly identify the corners and, if that issue is presented, shall also take testimony as to whether the boundaries or corners alleged to have been recognized and acquiesced in for twenty years or more have in fact been recognized and acquiesced in. If it finds affirmatively on such issue, it shall incorporate the same into the report to the court.

ANNOTATION

Monuments of original survey control, and it is a general rule that the original corners as established by the government surveyors, if they can be found, or the places where they were originally established, if that can be definitely determined, are conclusive on all persons owning or claiming to hold with reference to such survey and the monuments placed by the original surveyor without regard to whether they were correctly located or not. Brackett v. Cleveland, 147 Colo. 328, 363 P.2d 1050 (1961).

Relocation of obliterated corners is first step in settling boundary dispute. Where section corners have been obliterated, and there is a dispute as to boundaries, the correct rule in determining these boundaries is first to relocate the corners. Brackett v. Cleveland, 147 Colo. 328, 363 P.2d 1050 (1961).

Applied in Smith v. Dorsey, 29 Colo. App. 369, 483 P.2d 1359 (1971).

38-44-107. Adjournments and report. The proceedings may be adjourned by the commission from time to time as may be necessary, but the survey and location of the corners and boundaries must be complete and the report thereof filed with the clerk of the court at least ten days before the first day of the term next following that of its appointment, unless the court appointing it makes an order for an earlier report.

38-44-108. Exceptions - hearing. At the term of court after such report is filed, any party interested may file exceptions thereto within ten days from the date the report is filed with the clerk, but if in term time, then within three days after the same is filed, and the court shall hear and determine them, hearing evidence in addition to that reported by the commission if necessary, and may approve or modify such report or again refer the matter to the same or another commission for further report.

ANNOTATION

Even though use of "master" pursuant to C.R.C.P. 53 conflicts with this section for resolving a disputed boundary, because the parties stipulated for the entry of judgment upon final approval of the surveyor's report by the trial court, the parties waived their rights to object to the trial court's determination of the disputed boundary. Durbin v. Bonanza Corp., 716 P.2d 1124 (Colo. App. 1986).

Applied in Hildebrand v. Olinger, 689 P.2d 695 (Colo. App. 1984).

38-44-109. Corners and boundaries established. The corners and boundaries finally established by the court in proceedings under this article, or an appeal therefrom, shall be binding upon all the parties, their heirs and assigns, as the corners and boundaries that have been lost, destroyed, or in dispute; but if it is found that the boundaries and corners alleged to have been recognized and acquiesced in for twenty years have been so recognized and acquiesced in, such recognized boundaries and corners shall be permanently established. The court order or decree shall be recorded in the grantor-grantee index of the real property records of the county or counties in which the land lies.

the court in these proceedings becomes the true boundary line of the property. Smith v. Dorsey, 29 Colo. App. 369, 483 P.2d 1359 (1971).

Common ownership of two tracts of land extinguishes any acquiescence in boundary lines attributable to the prior landowners of the tracts unless the deed adopts the boundary lines as previously acquiesced upon. Salazar v. Terry, 911 P.2d 1086 (Colo. 1996).

Applied in Forristall v. Ansley, 170 Colo. 391, 462 P.2d 116 (1969).

38-44-110. Appeal. There shall be no appeal in such proceedings, except from final judgment of the court taken in the manner that other appeals are taken, and no appeal shall be taken after three months from the final order of the court.

ANNOTATION

Assessment of costs and expenses to losing party. In an action involving boundary dispute, judgment assessing costs of survey and expenses of commissioners to losing party is in accord with this section. Kelly v. Mullin, 159 Colo. 573, 413 P.2d 186 (1966).

Assessment of all costs not abuse of discretion. But the trial court's assessment of all costs of the action against the defendants was not an abuse of discretion. Brackett v. Cleveland, 147 Colo. 328, 363 P.2d 1050 (1961).

Costs allocated only between original plaintiff and defendant since the issue of allocating costs to the third-party defendants was not raised in plaintiff's motion for a new trial and thus the court of appeals had no jurisdiction to decide the issue. Brewster v. Nandrea, 705 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1985).

38-44-112. Agreements. Any uncertain line, uncertain corner, or uncertain boundary of an existing parcel of land that is recorded in the real estate records in the office of the clerk and recorder for the county where the land is located and that is in dispute may be determined and permanently established by written agreement of all parties thereby affected, signed and acknowledged by each as required for conveyances of real estate, clearly designating the same, and accompanied by a map or plat thereof that shall be recorded as an instrument affecting real estate, and shall be binding upon their heirs, successors, and assigns. If the map or plat is prepared by a licensed professional land surveyor, monuments shall be set for any line, corner, or boundary included in the agreement.

38-44-113. Establishment of boundary corner. The establishment of a boundary corner through acquiescence confirmed by a court of competent jurisdiction, or by written agreement pursuant to section 38-44-112, shall not alter the location or validity of any existing or properly restored public land survey monument in the vicinity. Such existing or properly restored public land survey monument may be used to control future land surveys in the region when such surveys are not related to the boundary corner established by acquiescence or agreement.

38-51-103. Procedure for subdividing section. (1) Whenever a professional land surveyor conducts a survey for the purpose of locating a parcel of land which is described in terms of the nomenclature of the public land survey system, such professional land surveyor shall proceed according to the applicable rules contained in the current "Manual of Instructions for the Survey of the Public Lands of the United States" published by the United States government printing office; except that all monumentation shall conform to section 38-51-104.

(2) (a) A section may be subdivided by:

(I) Surveying all necessary aliquot lines in the field; or

(II) Computing the location of the required aliquot corners after making a field survey which includes all required control corners of the section.

(b) Any section subdivided pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) shall include all control corners that were originally monumented by the United States government, which must either be found or restored in the field according to the standards set forth in section 38-51-104.

(c) Monument records shall be filed pursuant to section 38-53-104, describing each such corner.

(d) For any section subdivided pursuant to this subsection (2) the location of original aliquot corners of, and procedures used in, the governing official United States government survey, where applicable, shall take precedence.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "A Survey of the Colorado Torrens Act", see 5 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 149 (1933).

Annotator's note. Since § 38-51-103 is similar to § 38-50-101 as it existed prior to the 1994 repeal and reenactment of articles 50 to 53, a relevant case construing that provision has been included in the annotations to this section.

Excess or deficiency in land divided among grantees. Where a tract of land is subdivided into parts or lots, title to which becomes vested in different persons, none of the grantees are entitled to a preference over the others upon the discovery of an excess of deficiency in the quantity of land contained in the original tract, and the excess or deficiency is then divided among all the lots or parcels in proportion to their areas.

Gaines v. City of Sterling, 140 Colo. 63, 342 P.2d 651 (1959).

This section applies the principle of the single apportionment rule. It has the sanction of the statute, most case law and the bureau of public lands regulations, and it is to be applied without regard to the order of the conveyances by a common grantor. Gaines v. City of Sterling, 140 Colo. 63, 342 P.2d 651 (1959).

Limitations on application of apportionment rule. Some limitations and exceptions have inevitably grown up to invade the pure application of the apportionment rule, and it is to be applied when the original surveys are made at the same time and so are held to have equal standing. Gaines v. City of Sterling, 140 Colo. 63, 342 P.2d 651 (1959).

38-51-104. Monumentation of land surveys. (1) (a) The corners of lots, tracts, other parcels of land, aliquot corners not described in subsection (4) of this section, and any line points or reference points which are set to perpetuate the location of any land boundary or easement shall, when established on the ground by a land survey, be marked by reasonably permanent markers solidly embedded in the ground.

(b) A durable cap bearing the registration number of the professional land surveyor responsible for the establishment of the monument shall be affixed securely to the top of each such monument embedded pursuant to this subsection (1).

(2) If the points designated in subsection (1) of this section fall on solid bedrock, concrete, stone curbs, gutters, or walks, a durable metal disk or cap shall be securely anchored in the rock or concrete and stamped with the survey point and the registration number of the professional land surveyor responsible for the establishment of the monument or marker.

(3) (a) If the monuments or markers required by subsection (1) of this section cannot practicably be set because of steep terrain, water, marsh, or existing structures, or if they would be lost as a result of proposed street, road, or other construction, one or more reference monuments shall be set.

(b) (I) The letters "RM" or "WC" and the surveyor's registration number shall be affixed to the monument.

(II) For purposes of this paragraph (b), "RM" means reference monument and "WC" means witness corner.

(c) Reference monuments shall be set as close as practicable to the true corner and shall meet the same physical standards required to set the true corner.

(d) If only one reference monument is used, such reference monument shall be set on the actual boundary line or a prolongation thereof, otherwise at least two reference monuments shall be set.

(4) For any monument required by this section that marks the location of a section corner, quarter section corner, or sixteenth section corner, such monument shall meet the physical standards specified by rule and regulation promulgated by the board pursuant to section 24-4-103, C.R.S.

(5) (a) The top of the monument for any corner required by this section which is within the traffic area of a publicly named dedicated or deeded street, road, or highway shall be placed one-half foot below the roadway surface.

(b) If the roadway surface is pavement two inches thick or greater, the monument shall include a monument box the top of which shall be set flush with the surface of the pavement.

(6) No marker required by this section shall bear the registration number of more than one professional land surveyor but may bear the name of an individual surveyor or surveying firm in addition to the required registration number.

38-51-105. Monumentation of subdivisions. (1) (a) Prior to recording a plat, the external boundaries of any platted subdivisions shall be monumented on the ground by reasonably permanent monuments solidly embedded in the ground.

(b) A durable cap bearing the license number of the professional land surveyor responsible for the establishment of the monument shall be affixed securely to the top of each such monument embedded pursuant to this subsection (1).

(c) Monuments shall be set no more than fourteen hundred feet apart along any straight boundary line, at all angle points, at the beginning, end, and points of change of direction or change of radius of any curved boundaries defined by circular arcs, and at the beginning and end of any spiral curve.

(2) The professional land surveyor who prepares the original subdivision plat, exemption plat, or subdivision exemption plat shall provide external boundary monuments as required in subsection (1) of this section.

(3) (a) Before a sales contract for any lot, tract, or parcel within a subdivision is executed, all boundaries of the block within which such lot, tract, or parcel is located shall be marked with monuments in accordance with subsection (1) of this section.

(b) The seller of the lot, section, or parcel shall provide for the services of a professional land surveyor to establish block monumentation and lot markers as required pursuant to subsection (4) of this section.

(4) (a) Block monumentation may be set on the center lines of streets or on offset lines from such streets as designated on the recorded plat.

(b) The corners of any lot, tract, or parcel sold separately shall be marked within one year of the effective date of the sales contract.

(c) For any structure to be built on a lot, tract, or parcel before the corners have been marked pursuant to this section, the seller of such lot, tract, or parcel shall retain a professional land surveyor to establish control lines on the ground as necessary to assure the proper location of the structure.

(5) For any complete block sold as a unit, it shall become the responsibility of the subsequent seller of any separate lot, tract, or parcel within such block to retain a professional land surveyor to establish lot markers as required pursuant to subsection (4) of this section.

(6) For any points designated in subsection (1), (2), or (3) of this section that fall on solid bedrock, concrete, stone curbs, gutters, or walks, a durable metal disk or cap shall be securely anchored in the rock or concrete and stamped with the survey point and the license number of the professional land surveyor responsible for the establishment of the monument or marker.

(7) (a) If any monuments or markers required by subsection (1), (2), or (3) of this section cannot practicably be set because of steep terrain, water, marsh, or existing structures, or if they would be lost as a result of proposed street, road, or other construction, one or more reference monuments shall be set.

(b) (I) The letters "RM" or "WC" shall be affixed to the monument in addition to the surveyor's license number.

(II) For purposes of this paragraph (b), "RM" means reference monument and "WC" means witness corner.

(c) Reference monuments shall be set as close as practicable to the true corner and shall meet the same physical standards required to set the true corner.

(d) If only one reference monument is used, such reference monument shall be set on the actual boundary line or a prolongation thereof, otherwise at least two reference monuments shall be set.

(8) For any monument required by this section which marks the location of a section corner, quarter section corner, or sixteenth section corner, such monument shall meet the physical standards specified by rule and regulation promulgated by the board pursuant to section 24-4-103, C.R.S.

(9) (a) The top of the monument for any corner required by this section which is within the traffic area of a publicly named dedicated or deeded street, road, or highway shall be placed one-half foot below the roadway surface.

(b) If the roadway surface is pavement two inches thick or greater, the monument shall include a monument box the top of which shall be set flush with the surface of the pavement.

(10) No marker required by this section shall bear the license number of more than one professional land surveyor but may bear the name of an individual surveyor or surveying firm in addition to the required license number.

ANNOTATION

District court correctly determined location of disputed boundary line. Here, the parties do not dispute that the pertinent monuments are located consistently with each other. Hence, there is no need to decide whether the rule of the precedence of the monuments has any exception under Colorado law because the only conflict here is between the location of the monuments on the ground and the distance call and the boundary line depiction on the plat. Trial court correctly determined that the monuments controlled the location of the boundary line and they superseded any inconsistent distance call or boundary line, referred to or depicted in the subdivision plat. Morales v. CAMB, 160 P.3d 373 (Colo. App. 2007).

38-51-106. Land survey plats. (1) All land survey plats shall include but shall not be limited to the following:

- (a) A scale drawing of the boundaries of the land parcel;
- (b) (I) All recorded and apparent rights-of-way and easements, and, if research for recorded rights-of-way and easements is done by someone other than the professional land surveyor who prepares the plat, the source from which such recorded rights-of-way and easements were obtained; or
- (II) If the client wishes not to show rights-of-way and easements on the land survey plat, a statement that such client did not want rights-of-way and easements shown;
- (c) All field-measured dimensions necessary to establish the boundaries on the ground and all dimensions for newly created parcels necessary to establish the boundaries on the ground;
- (d) A statement by the professional land surveyor that the survey was performed by such surveyor or under such surveyor's responsible charge;
- (e) A statement by the professional land surveyor explaining how bearings, if used, were determined;
- (f) A description of all monuments, both found and set, that mark the boundaries of the property and of all control monuments used in conducting the survey. If any such boundary monument or control monument marks the location of a lost or obliterated public land survey monument that was restored as a part of the survey on which the plat is based, the professional land surveyor shall briefly describe the evidence and the procedure used for such restoration. If any such boundary monument or control monument marks the location of a quarter section corner or sixteenth section corner that was established as a part of the survey, the professional land surveyor shall briefly describe the evidence and procedure used for such establishment, unless the corner location was established by the mathematical procedure as outlined in section 38-51-103.
- (g) A statement of the scale or representative fraction of the drawing, and a bar-type or graphical scale;
- (h) A north arrow;
- (i) A written property description, which shall include but shall not be limited to a reference to the county and state together with the section, township, range, and principal meridian or established subdivision, block and lot number, or any other method of describing the land as established by the general land office or bureau of land management;
- (j) The signature and seal of the professional land surveyor;
- (k) Any conflicting boundary evidence; and
- (l) A statement defining the lineal units used including but not limited to meters, chains, feet, and U.S. survey feet. If it is necessary to define conversion factors, the factors shall be a function of the meter as defined by the United States department of commerce, national institute of standards and technology.

(2) No plat shall be required to be prepared or deposited if the monuments accepted or set are within a platted subdivision that was filed in the clerk and recorder's office within the previous twenty years.

(3) Plats required pursuant to this section shall comply with section 38-50-101.

Improvement location certificate. (1) A professional land surveyor may prepare an improvement location certificate for the use of a specific client based upon such professional land surveyor's general knowledge of land boundaries and monuments in a given area if such client is not the owner or buyer; except that a copy of such certificate shall be provided to such owner or buyer.

(2) (a) (I) A certificate prepared pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall not be designated as or construed as being a land survey plat or improvement survey plat.

(II) Such certificate shall be prominently labeled "improvement location certificate" and contain a statement in the following form:

IMPROVEMENT LOCATION CERTIFICATE

I hereby certify that this improvement location certificate was prepared for .... (individual or firm) ....., that it is not a land survey plat or improvement survey plat, and that it is not to be relied upon for the establishment of fence, building, or other future improvement lines.

I further certify that the improvements on the above described parcel on this date, .... (insert date) ....., except utility connections, are entirely within the boundaries of the parcel, except as shown, that there are no encroachments upon the described premises by improvements on any adjoining premises, except as indicated, and that there is no apparent evidence or sign of any easement crossing or burdening any part of said parcel, except as noted.

(a) It does not meet the requirements of a land survey as defined in section 38-51-102 (11).

(b) It shall not establish the location of any aliquot or control corner as they are defined in subsections (2) and (6) of section 38-51-102 until complete research and corner evaluation are performed to meet the requirements as provided in this article.

(4) The area now included in the following counties shall constitute the central zone: Garfield, Eagle, Summit, Clear Creek, Jefferson, Denver, Arapahoe, Lincoln, Kit Carson, Mesa, Delta, Pitkin, Gunnison, Lake, Chaffee, Park, Fremont, Teller, Douglas, El Paso, Elbert, and Cheyenne.

(5) The area now included in the following counties shall constitute the south zone: Montrose, Ouray, Hinsdale, Saguache, Custer, Pueblo, Crowley, Kiowa, San Miguel, San Juan, Mineral, Rio Grande, Alamosa, Huerfano, Otero, Bent, Prowers, Dolores, Montezuma, La Plata, Archuleta, Conejos, Costilla, Las Animas, and Baca.

38-52-102. Colorado coordinate system names defined. (1) As established for use in the north zone, the Colorado coordinate system of 1927 or the Colorado coordinate system of 1983 shall be named; and, in any land description in which it is used, it shall be designated the Colorado coordinate system of 1927 north zone or the Colorado coordinate system of 1983 north zone.

(2) As established for use in the central zone, the Colorado coordinate system of 1927 or the Colorado coordinate system of 1983 shall be named; and, in any land description in which it is used, it shall be designated the Colorado coordinate system of 1927 central zone or the Colorado coordinate system of 1983 central zone.

(3) As established for use in the south zone, the Colorado coordinate system of 1927 or the Colorado coordinate system of 1983 shall be named; and, in any land description in which it is used, it shall be designated the Colorado coordinate system of 1927 south zone or the Colorado coordinate system of 1983 south zone.

38-52-103. Colorado coordinate system defined. (1) The plane coordinate values for a point on the earth's surface, used to express the geographic position or location of such point in the appropriate zone of this system, shall consist of two distances expressed in United States survey feet and decimals of a foot when using the Colorado coordinate system of 1927. One of these distances, to be known as the x-coordinate, shall give the position in an east-west direction; the other, to be known as the y-coordinate, shall give the position in a north-south direction. These coordinates shall be made to depend upon and conform to plane rectangular coordinate values for the monumented points of the North American horizontal geodetic control network as published by the national ocean survey/national geodetic survey (formerly the United States coast and geodetic survey), or its successors, and the plane coordinates of which have been computed on the systems defined in this article. Any such station may be used for establishing a survey connection to either Colorado coordinate system.

(2) For the purposes of converting coordinates of the Colorado coordinate system of 1983 from meters to feet, the U.S. Survey Foot shall be used. The conversion factor is: One meter equals 3937/1200 feet.

38-52-104. Federal and state coordinate description same tract - federal precedence. (1) Whenever coordinates based on the Colorado coordinate system are used to describe any tract of land which in the same document is also described by reference to any subdivision, line, or corner of the United States public land surveys, the description by coordinates shall be construed as supplemental to the basic description of such subdivision, line, or corner contained in the official plats and field notes filed of record, and, in the event of any conflict, the description by reference to the subdivision, line, or corner of the United States public land surveys shall prevail over the description by coordinates, unless said coordinates are upheld by adjudication, at which time the coordinate description will prevail.

(2) Nothing in this article shall require any purchaser or mortgagee to rely on a description, any part of which depends exclusively upon the Colorado coordinate system, unless such description has been adjudicated as provided in this section.

38-52-105. Colorado coordinate system origins defined. (1) For the purposes of more precisely defining the Colorado coordinate system of 1927, the following definitions by the United States coast and geodetic survey (now the national ocean survey/national geodetic survey) are adopted:

(a) The "Colorado coordinate system of 1927 north zone" is a Lambert conformal conic projection of the Clarke spheroid of 1866, having standard parallels at north latitudes 39 degrees 43 minutes and 40 degrees 47 minutes along which parallels the scale shall be exact. The origin of coordinates is at the intersection of the meridian 105 degrees 30 minutes west of Greenwich and the parallel 39 degrees 20 minutes north latitude. This origin is given the coordinates: x - 2,000,000 feet and y - 0 feet.

(b) The "Colorado coordinate system of 1927 central zone" is a Lambert conformal conic projection of the Clarke spheroid of 1866, having standard parallels at north latitudes 38 degrees 27 minutes and 39 degrees 45 minutes north latitude along which parallels the scale shall be exact. The origin of coordinates is at the intersection of the meridian 105 degrees 30 minutes west of Greenwich and the parallel 37 degrees 50 minutes north latitude. This origin is given the coordinates: x - 2,000,000 feet and y - 0 feet.

(c) The "Colorado coordinate system of 1927 south zone" is a Lambert conformal conic projection of the Clarke spheroid of 1866, having standard parallels at north latitudes 37 degrees 14 minutes and 38 degrees 26 minutes along which parallels the scale shall be exact. The origin of coordinates is at the intersection of the meridian 105 degrees 30 minutes west of Greenwich and the parallel 36 degrees 40 minutes north latitude. This origin is given the coordinates: x - 2,000,000 feet and y - 0 feet.

(2) For the purposes of more precisely defining the Colorado coordinate system of 1983, the following definition by the national ocean service/national geodetic survey is adopted:

(a) The "Colorado coordinate system of 1983 north zone" is a Lambert conformal conic projection of the North American datum of 1983, having standard parallels at north latitude of 39 degrees 43 minutes and 40 degrees 47 minutes along which parallels the scale shall be exact. The origin of coordinates is at the intersection of the meridian 105 degrees 30 minutes west of Greenwich and the parallel 39 degrees 20 minutes north latitude. This origin is given the coordinates: x - 914,401.8289 meters and y - 304,800.6096 meters.

(b) The "Colorado coordinate system of 1983 central zone" is a Lambert conformal conic projection of the North American datum of 1983, having standard parallels at north latitudes 38 degrees 27 minutes and 39 degrees 45 minutes along which parallels the scale shall be exact. The origin of coordinates is at the intersection of the meridian 105 degrees 30 minutes west of Greenwich and the parallel 37 degrees 50 minutes north latitude. This origin is given the coordinates: x - 914,401.8289 meters and y - 304,800.6096 meters.

(c) The "Colorado coordinate system of 1983 south zone" is a Lambert conformal conic projection of the North American datum of 1983, having standard parallels at north latitudes 37 degrees 14 minutes and 38 degrees 26 minutes along which parallels the scale shall be exact. The origin of coordinates is at the intersection of the meridian 105 degrees 30 minutes west of Greenwich and the parallel 36 degrees 40 minutes north latitude. This origin is given the coordinates: x - 914,401.8289 meters and y - 304,800.6096 meters.
